BB gun triggers teen's expulsion

The expulsion of a Stevenson Junior High School student is the latest in the case of a teen who brought a gun into school. No one was hurt when the BB gun discharged in the school cafeteria during lunch hour.

A Stevenson Junior High student has been expelled for bringing to school a loaded BB gun that was fired in the lunchroom, officials said. No injuries were reported.

The decision stirred little discussion and reinforced an earlier warning that district officials won't tolerate weapons being brought to school. Several guns have been confiscated from students in recent years.

In December, school officials said the boy who brought the gun to school gave it to another student who waved it around.

On Monday, Baracy confirmed that the gun was pointed at some students, but he said it didn't appear anyone was singled out for any threats.

"But the potential for bodily injury is there with any weapon," he told reporters after Monday's meeting.

The incident resulted in a due process hearing in December, after which a hearing officer recommended that Pearce be expelled from the district. The boy's parents appealed the decision, but the school board upheld it Monday.

Shots fired outside bar

By Darrell Clem

A Westland man has admitted firing six gunshots outside of the Ford Road Bar following a dispute early Sunday with two Garden City men, police said.

The 30-year-old suspect faces possible charges but had not been arraigned as of Tuesday, Detective Sgt. Marc Stobbe said.

CRIME

The suspect, who lives near the bar with his family, drove home in his truck and got a loaded .32-caliber semiautomatic following the 2 a.m. dispute that began inside the bar and spilled into the parking lot, Stobbe said.

The suspect has admitted firing shots outside of the bar, located on Ford just west of Wayne Road, Stobbe said. No one was injured, he said.

Two cars were hit by the bullets and received minor damages, the detective said.

The suspect had been drinking heavily when he got into a closingtime verbal dispute with the Garden City men inside the bar, Stobbe said. The other men, both 21, also had been drinking, and an investigation hasn't yet revealed what caused the initial argument, he said.

All three men left the bar, and the suspect has reported that the two Garden City men began pounding on his truck after he got inside, Stobbe

"One of them punched him in the face through an open window," the detective said.

The suspect drove about two blocks to his house and came back with the gun, firing six rounds, Stobbe said.

The incident was reported to police, and the suspect has since been arrested and released from custody, pending possible charges, Stobbe

"He gave a full confession," the sergeant said.

Thus far, no one appears to want to press charges, although a man who wasn't involved in the dispute would like to have the tab picked up for damages to his car, Stobbe said.

Even though the men have indicated they don't want to press charges, Stobbe said the suspect is still likely to be charged with an offense.

The fire came just one weekend after firefighters fought two other blazes in chilling temperatures, in addition to an attempted fire, Harder said.

In an 11:10 p.m. fire on Jan. 14, several pets died but no people were injured during a fire that destroyed a house at 29649 Joy, near Beatrice, Harder said. "It was a total loss," he said.

Bonnie Lucas escaped with her son and a friend of her son's, but three cats were killed along with a dog and a duck, Harder said. One other cat and one other dog also suffered burn injuries, he said.

The cause of the fire remains under investigation.

Doctors convicted in federal court

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Two Oakland County doctors have been convicted of criminal charges in connection with a now-closed Westland clinic where they were partners.

Keithly Johnson, 65, of Auburn Hills was found guilty by a U.S. District Court jury in Detroit of nine counts of unlawfully distributing pharmaceutical drugs "for no legitimate medical purpose," Assistant U.S. Attorney Jonathan Tukel said Monday.

Tejinder Uppal, 47, of Troy was convicted of 16 counts of Medicaid fraud. Both defendants were found guilty of four counts of defrauding Electronic Data Systems Corp. for medical

The charges stemmed from the doctors' partnership in Neighborhood Health Clinic ? P.C. of Westland, which was shut down following a January 1993 raid by the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration,

A jury deliberated for one week before returning the verdicts Monday, Tukel said. Jurors deadlocked on several other drug and fraud offenses, prompting U.S. District Judge Avern Cohn to declare a mistrial on those Eight of the nine counts against Johnson stemmed from unlawful distribution of the drug Vicodin, and one count involved the drug Fastin, Tukel said.

"The Medicaid and EDS fraud counts related to billings for services which the defendants had not rendered," Tukel said.

A sentencing date for the two doctors wasn't known on Tuesday, Tukel said.

Johnson could face up to 55 years in prison, he said. Uppal faces maximum penalties totaling 100 years in prison.

Johnson was released on a $100,000 surety bond, and Uppal remains free on a $10,000 unsecured bond, Tukel said. Authorities last : July suspended both doctors' licenses to practice medicine.

The DEA was assisted in the investigation by the state Attorney General's Office, Michigan State Police and Blue Cross and Blue Shield's corporate and financial investigations department.

Mother charged in scissors attack

By DARRELL CLEM

A Wayne woman has been charged with threatening another woman with scissors and trying to rob her outside of a Westland drugstore.

Sally Ruth Conciatore, 30, could face up to life in prison if convicted of trying to rob the woman of her purse outside of the Arbor Drugs on the northeast corner of Newburgh and Glenwood.

Conciatore was arraigned Monday in Westland 18th District Court a charge of assault with intent to commit armed robbery. The arraignment came nine days after she was accused of trying to rob a female shopper who was walking into the drugstore.

Police said a suspect drove up in a car, got out with a pair of scissors, lunged at the shopper and grabbed at her purse. But the victim fought off the 6:18 p.m. attack and managed to keep her purse, Westland Detective Sgt. Marc Stobbe said. The suspect, mother of a 3-year-old daughter, told police she attempted the Jan. 15 robbery because she needed money for food, Stobbe has said. The victim jotted down the license plate number of the getaway vehicle — a quick move that helped police to make an arrest.

A not guilty plea has been entered in 18th District Court for Concistore. She has been ordered to return to court Feb. 3 for a preliminary hearing to determine if she should stand trial on the charge.

She has been released on a $5,000 personal bond. But 18th District Judge Gail McKnight has ordered her to stay away from the victim and the site of the alleged incident. Although a male companion was with the suspect during the alleged incident, he was . sitting in the passenger seat and didn't know that she was going to attempt a robbery, Stobbe has said.

The two had just recently met, Stobbe said.

Board member chastises colleagues

By Darrell Clem

A Wayne-Westland school board member suggested Monday that some of her colleagues may have violated the confidentiality of closed-door discussions.

"There appears to be an assumption by certain members of the board that there are no secrets in this district and that closedsession confidentiality will be broken," board member Laurel Raisanen said in an open session Monday night.

"If closed-session confidentiality is broken, then the law is broken," she said.

Raisanen didn't single out specific board members or say what confidences may have have been breached. But, noting that some employee union contracts will be expiring soon, she hinted that her concerns stem from the negotiation process.

Raisanen said board members "shouldn't tolerate" the belief that their closed-door discussions will be leaked to the public.

She went even further to suggest that the board needs a special study session on the state Open Meetings Act so that members have a clear understanding of what is to be discussed in open and closed sessions.

"I believe on occasion we have not always been in compliance,' she said.

With recent elections, the board is newly revamped and will be negotiating contracts for the first time, she said.

"Confidentiality must be preserved, or we're breaking the law," she said later. Board vice president Mathew

McCusker indicated that an expert could be provided by the Michigan Association of School Boards to lead a study session on the Open Meetings Act.

Raisanen agreed and also suggested that a representative from the Westland Observer could be helpful during the session by providing a journalist's perspective.

During an informal poll Monday, most board members appeared willing to plan a session on the Open Meetings Act. Patricia Brown, a former Associated Newspapers news editor, was the only member who said she didn't believe she needed a session on the act.

"I don't think it's necessary,"

No date has been scheduled for the possible study session.

Expulsion from page 1A

Board member Laurel Raisanen indicated that expulsions are among the most regrettable decisions she makes, but she commended her colleagues for their "get-tough approach" toward weapons in schools.

Pupils each year are given copies of the Student Code of Conduct that outlines unacceptable behavior, Raisanen said.

"I hope that they read that thoroughly and that they understand it," she said Monday.

The potential for bodily injury is there with any weapon.'

Greg Baracy assistant superintendent

Before Monday's expulsion, the Stevenson student had been on suspension since the incident.

In other developments to combat weapons, officials used walkthrough metal detectors for patrons entering the Jan. 18 basketball game between John Glenn High School and Wayne Memorial High School. No guns were found, Baracy said.

The district also has received some of the hand-held detectors, or wands, that are to be used to detect possible weapons in secondary schools. Officials have said the wands will be used to search students only if there's a strong suspicion of weapons.

The latest measures come as officials continue to grapple with increasing incidents of weapons in schools. An armed police officer has been placed at Wayne Memorial, and officials also are moving to beef up security at John

Nonprofit boxing club on the ropes

By Brad Emons

The Livonia Boxing Club, long a staple in the area for amateur and professional fighters, is about to be left out in the cold.

Mounting financial burdens may put the LBC's newly renovated 5,000-square-foot gym, located off Middlebelt just north of Plymouth Road, down for the LBC director Paul Soucy is hoping local businesses or a "George Steinbrenner-type donor" can step into the ring and help erase nearly $11,000 owed in back rent and utility bills.

"Our back is to the ropes," Soucy said. "And I'm just sick over it because I've spent countless hours taking kids to shows and tournaments all over the country. We've been in existence 15 years and we've put so much work into the program that it would be a shame if this thing doesn't stay open."

According to Soucy, R.D. Management of New York, which leases the back side of the building (formerly Duff's Cafeteria) to the LBC, is threatening to proceed with an eviction notice by the end of the month.

"We're classified a 501(c) nonprofit organization, but it may be too far gone to renegotiate our lease," Soucy said. "Our lease runs about $2,300 per month. Then there are the utilities like electricity ($450 per month), gas ($500 per month), liability insurance ($500) and the phone bill from Michigan Bell ($56-60 per month)."

Bingo not enough

To keep the facility afloat, the LBC and Soucy derive expenses from a weekly bingo night, which runs 6:30-10:30 p.m. each Tuesday at the GLA Hall, at Merriman and Cherry Hill in Westland.

Other income to help defray costs comes from amateur boxing or kick-boxing shows Soucy stages periodically at the LBC. "Our take-in from the bingo is down from last year," Soucy said. "It was $31,000 last year, but now it's around $26,000.1

Soucy began the LBC program with the help of the city of Livo-

The LBC initially rooted at the Jackson and Jefferson community centers. The city of Livonia then offered Soucy the opportunity to relocate his gym in the basement of Fire Station House No. 5, on Middlebelt just south of Seven

Not purely local

"It was a city building, so it was rent-free and we had no liability," Soucy said. "The problem was that we had to have 60 percent residents to constitute it as a community program."

After a cool reception from firefighters, due to traffic by boxers in and out of Station House No. 5, Soucy decided to start his own

"We've moved four times and I was hoping this would be the last move," he said. "The program is open to anyone and anybody in the community. We take people from all over the metro area.

"I believe we took a lot of kids off the street. Boxing builds selfconfidence. We sent three kids to the Olympic Trials. And we've had one surgeon, two dentists and a couple of attorneys come through our program."

Schools find fewer grads than thought go to college

By Marie Chestney

In 1988, according to a survey done last summer, 55 percent of Livonia Public Schools graduates enrolled in a four-year college or university.

The same survey shows that, five years later, only 31 percent had received a four-year college degree.

The survey, done mostly over the phone by staff of the Livonia Career Center, discounts the myth that the vast majority of its students go on to — and graduate from — a traditional four-year

The district includes the northern section of Westland.

The survey fuels a controversy over just what role K-12 schools should play. Should they prepare students for two-year colleges? For four-year colleges? Or should they prepare students for the world of work and a dramatically changed job market?

"The majority of schools are set up to prepare students to get a bachelor's degree, but the survey shows that in the district only 31 percent got that degree from that year," said Mary Couillard, a career center coordinator.

An important message to parents emerges from the survey.

"Parents need to be aware of what's happened in the job market," said Stephen Smith, who heads the career center. "Just because you get a four-year degree, there's no guarantee you'll get a good job. In fact, in today's market, you can get a better job with a two-year degree than with a fouryear degree. There's really a need for the technically trained atudent.

It's a message that Willard Daggett is now taking to school districts in Michigan. Last year, the Legislature appropriated $500,000 so that 10 districts could hire Daggett's International Center for Leadership in Education and begin changing their curricula to meet the needs of the real world.

Repeated message

It's a message that Philip Gardner, Michigan State University professor, recently brought to district teachers and counselors in a special seminar put on by the career center.

"You've got to change, folks," Gardner told district educators. "The people being prepared worst for the world of work are those in more families.

college-prep courses." Ken Watson — director of secondary education, who becomes the district's superintendent July 1 — jokingly told of a phenomenon now occurring in more and

"When your child is 30 and still living at home and still doing graduate work, you want him to go out and get a job," Watson said. "Colleges should not turn out students who at the end can't find employment."

Couillard said college-bound students should consider other options besides the four-year school. "The message parents need to hear is that four-year colleges are wonderful for some kids, but two-year colleges are good,

The district won't change its curriculum based on one survey. But the district is piloting new "tech-prep" courses this September in the three high schools, Smith said. That includes courses in technical reading and technical writing at Franklin and Stevenson and an applied biochemistry course at Franklin and Churchill, he said.

"The biochem class is handson learning, as opposed to theory," Smith said.

Survey catches up on class of 1988

The Livonia Career Center survey set out to test the popular belief among residents that a majority of its students graduate from a four-year school and get a job in a career that requires at least a bachelor's degree.

The center serves the northern section of Westland.

They chose the class of '88 because many students now take five years to get through college.

From July to September last year, Tina Ferris, center vocational technician, did most of the legwork, calling every fourth graduate from the district's three highschools.

She asked these questions: In high school, in what program

Free fingerprinting offered

A free fingerprinting program is now available from the Independent Order of Foresters for the children and grandchildren of Livonia business people.

In the past, the IOF has brought its free "ChildPrint" service to local stores, schools, day-care centers, fairs and community events, and will continue to do so.

But the program has proved to be so popular, the nonprofit fraternal society is now offering it to any business that wants to protect the children of its employees.

Generally, the IOF will perform the fingerprinting and child identification service on a Saturday, during special hours set aside by the business.

"This year marks a new drive to organize with corporations." said IOF spokesman Henry DeVries. "Employees bring their children to work, usually on a weekend day, to be fingerprinted and photographed."

For more information, or to set up a fingerprinting day for your business, call the IOF at 1-800-245-6794 or 1-800-478-8230.

The ChildPrint program gives children an identification card. With this card, fingerprints and photographs, police get a head start on finding a missing child.

Skill training

One trend Daggett, Gardner and Smith all cite is the fact that skilled workers from foreign countries are now getting the technical jobs open in the U.S. because companies show they can't find American workers trained to do the job.

One big hurdle for district educators to get over is the fact that many colleges and universities still won't accept for credit "tech prep" courses taken by students.

"Michigan is behind in the 'tech-prep' movement," Smith said. "Colleges are hesitant to take anything that says 'applied' reading skills to be better pre-

Smith is particularly concerned with Livonia's graduates who don't get any type of higher education whatsoever.

In years past, these students could get "assembly-line" type jobs. But those days are now largely gone, with the jobs replaced by the "tech-prep" trained worker who sits behind a computer or robotics machine and works with both to get a manufacturing. job done. These workers must be able to read technical manuals and perform intricate math calculations.

"The question is, how do we train these 'general' students?" Smith asked.

Educators agree that parents should pay particular concern to the class schedules students are asked to fill out and return to school.

"A large percentage of students fill out their own schedules, without help from their parents," said Livonia Board of Education trustee Ken Timmons.

In a study session Monday, Smith presented the results of the survey to the trustees.

"We've not asked graduates often enough," Watson said. "We need to ask more questions. There's too much guessing and not enough asking about what our graduates are doing."

To get a truer picture, trustee Joe Laura suggested the survey should be done in different economic times.

Last summer, Soucy realized his personal dream by moving into the new facility at Middlebelt and Plymouth.

Nearly $20,000 in renovations were made through volunteer work and independent contracts paid out by Soucy.

"We painted, rewired and installed new lights. We did the cement work for the floor and put in new carpeting. We put in doors and windows. The place didn't have a bathroom. We'd also like to finish off the locker rooms some day."

Steve Bond, 24, of Westland is a regular at Soucy's gym.

"If this wasn't around, I'd have a lot more time on my hands." Bond said. "I'd rather be in the gym instead of being in front of a TV. It keeps you in shape and keeps you out of trouble.

"I've put a lot of time and hard work into this gym. We hit the streets for months getting money to start this place. I was here when we poured the concrete."

Open to public The LBC is open to the public 6:30-9:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, as well as 9 a.m. to noon on Saturdays. The gym is closed on Sundays. Membership dues for youngsters ages 10-16 are $10 (monthly), $50 (semi-annually) or $90 (annually). Adults pay $15 per month, $80 semi-annually or $150 per year. Non-member professional boxers can work out for $5 dai-

"It's a very reasonable fee for a gym," said Chuck Fecay, an exboxer and trainer, who now judges amateur and professional fights. "I've been to Kronk Gym in the city many times, and I've been to Jackie Kallen's gym in Redford. But those gyms have only a couple of heavy bags, but this place has several. The equipment they have here is outstanding."

His son, Donald Fecay, 33, drives in weekly with his three sons and twin brother all the way from New Boston to work out at the LBC. His twin brother, Randy, is also a regular.

"It's been a long time since I've been in the ring," said Fecay, who as a Marine once fought Pernell "Sweet Pea" Whitaker for the 1982 state amateur championship in Virginia. "I just started working out again, but I can tell you this place has a lot of equipment for boxing. It's better than any gym I've been around.

"I bring my three boys in because it's good for confidence. It keeps you in shape and hopefully it gives you the discipline to always work out. There are just too many 'couch potatoes' out there." Fecay, who works for a small door company in Southgate, believes it's time for local businesses to step up and be counted.

"Places like McDonald's, any small business in the area, could become a sponsor." Fecay said. "They could buy a spot on the wall and advertise their business.

"I think it would be smart. This program takes kids off the streets. If you don't want kids to break into your business, you need to support this."

Last Thursday, Soucy had more than 20 fighters sparring and training in the gym.

Ford's departure breaks open 13th District race

By Susan Rosiek Staff Writer

Candidates from both major parties are lining up to test the political waters in the wake of U.S. Rep. Bill Ford's announcement Tuesday that he will not seek re-election later this year.

Ford, a Democrat, whose district includes Garden City, Westland, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, part of Livonia and eastern Washtenaw County, has been in the U.S. House of Representatives for 30 years.

Democrats reportedly eyeing the seat include Wayne County Commissioner and former Ford staffer Bryan Amann and state Rep. Kirk Profit, D-Ypsilanti.

Northville resident Tom Watkins, special assistant to Wayne State University President David Adamany, has also been mentioned as a possible Democratic contender.

State Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor, has reportedly stated that she's staying in the race for U.S. Senate. However, several Democratic leaders contacted said Pollack would be the front runner if she jumped into this Former Livonian, John Schall, a Republican who now lives in Ann Arbor, announced his candidacy in September. Schall served on the White House staff for 21/2 years as deputy of the Domestic Policy Council under President George Bush. He was also chief of staff to the U.S. Department of Labor from 1991 to 1993.

"Representative Ford's retirement really doesn't change the race that much. I've been running as a new voice for the people of the 13th district. This campaign is about the future - about getting the economy moving and creating jobs. I'll be talking about the issues that matter for the future: crime, health care, education and jobs," Schall stated in a press release late Tuesday.

Cynthia Hudgins Wilbanks, former aide to Pursell who now heads Michigan's Children, a private non-profit multi-advocacy group, said she "is in the process of talking to people" close to her about running.

Wilbanks holds a degree in political science from the University of Michigan. She worked for Congressman Marvin Esch for four vears then ran U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell's three district offices for 16 years.

Wilbanks had considered a run in the district two years ago but backed away when State Sen. Robert Geake, a Northville Re■ Democrats eyeing the seat are county commissioner Bryan Amann, state Rep. "This will be a dynamic race on both sides," said Wilbanks.

Other Republicans mentioned as possible candidates are Schoolcraft College Board President Steve Ragan and Susie Heintz, former Wayne County commissioner and currently head of Gov. John Engler's southeast Michigan office.

Geake, who ran against Ford in 1992, said he decided "months ago that I would run for my seat." He said Schall has an excellent chance, but he is not supporting him at his time.

Geake said there are others who have helped him on past campaigns who may get into the race but he declined to elaborate.

Ragan, who works in fund-raising for Eastern Michigan University, didn't rule out the possibility but added that he's happy working for EMU and being president of the Schoolcraft board.

Amann, a graduate of John Glenn High School, the University of Michigan and the University of Detroit Law School, worked as an intern in Ford's Washington office in the summer of 1978. He's worked as a deputy county clerk and assistant county executive in the Ed McNamara Administration.

Amann praised Ford saying that "every educational institu; tion in this state has benefited from having Bill Ford in Congress."

Profit, Democratic chairman of the House Higher Education Committee and vice chair of the judiciary committee, said he'll make his decision with the state Democratic team.

"Absolutely. I'm very interested," said Profit, who is serving his third term in the state House. He grew up and now lives in Ypsilan ti. Before being elected to the state Hosue he worked as executive tive assistant to Democratic House Speaker Gary Owen.

Labor launches campaign to defeat Proposal A

Big Labor is opposing Proposal A, the March 15 ballot plan on school finance reform.

Both the General Board of the Michigan State AFL-CIO and the Executive committee of the United Auto Workers community action program called for votes against Proposal A, whose key'. feature is a 2-cent increase in the state sale tax.

"The statutory plan was best for the men and women we represent," said Michigan State AFL-CIO President Frank Garrison. The statutory plan, which features a 1.4 percent hike in the income tax rate, will go into effect if voters reject the sales tax plan.

"The board decided to oppose the ballot proposal because its impact on middle- and low-income families, senior citizens and renters would be worse than that of the statutory back-up plan." said Garrison.

While the statutory plan increases the state income rate from 4.6 to 6 percent, the plan also infrom $2,100 to $3,000 (and up to $3,900 for senior citizens), lessening the impact on low- and middle-income individuals and fami-

Employees get lowdown on Neon

■ Crestwood Dodge employees took part in a corporation-wide training to teach them of the new Dodge Neon and how it differs with its closest competitors.

Some 75 Crestwood Dodge employees went to "school" for six hours Saturday to learn more about compact cars.

But the learning program was more than just driving a four-mile route, checking under the hood, and seeing if the front and rear seats are comfortable.

It was all part of a nationwide move by Chrysler Corp. to educate all of its employees on how its new product, the 1995 Neon compact, compares with its closest competitors - a first for the auto industry, said Rob Robbins, Crestwood owner.

To Robbins, it's part of a team effort by all his 75 employees who work in the dealership on Ford and Venoy.

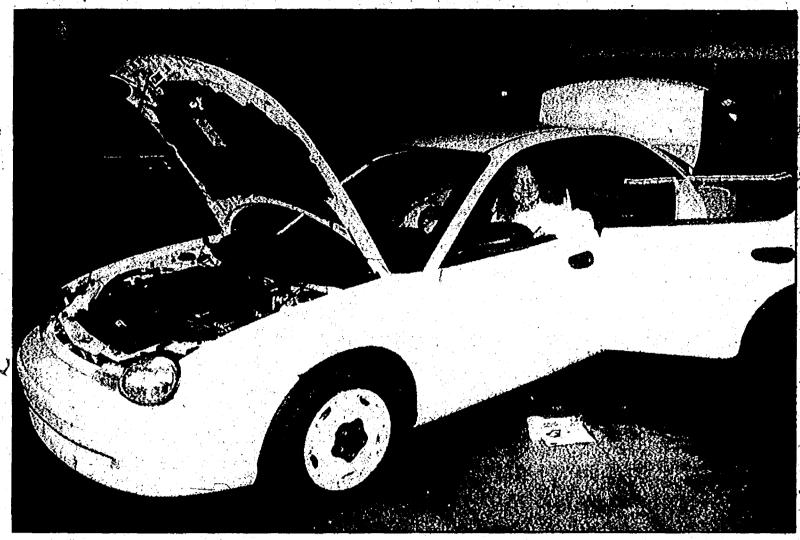

Robbins, who bought the dealership in 1981 when Chrysler was in the verge of bankruptcy, is no stranger to team efforts.

He was baseball team captain at Denison (Ohio) College and played football and basketball in high school. Later, Robbins coached youth teams.

Robbins said the Crestwood move to have all employees involved in the Neon educational program is similar to handling a sports team in which everyone contributes.

In a move to promote team spirit and encourage all employees to promote the cars sold by Crestwood, each worker last month received individual business cards to be distributed to neighbors, friends, relatives and others they meet outside the dealership.

"This is a learning festival," Robbins said in describing the Saturday session as fun.

"It will help us better serve our customers' needs and wants," he said.

Todd McCall, Chrysler customer satisfaction district manager, who handled several of the presentations at the Saturday "school," told the employees that the new Neon is mainly aimed at first-time car buyers.

"They want a lot of attention and answers," he said in urging that dealership employees provide quick, accurate information about the car.

McCall admitted that while the corporation is urging all dealerships to get involved in the "Discover Neon" program, not all are taking part.

One of the publications Crestwood employees received shows a comparison of the Neon with the Ford Escort, Honda Civic, General Motors Saturn and the Nissan Sentra.

In the comparison driving, employees drove the Neon, Escort and Saturn.

Honoring Ford

Praise pours in for retiring representative

By RALPH R. ECHTINAW STAFF WRITER

Area officials and residents are reminded of a lot of good things that U.S. Rep. William Ford, D-Ypsilanti Township, has done in the last 30 years.

Ford, who is chairman of the powerful Committee on Education and Labor, announced his retirement from Congress Tuesday on the House floor.

"To my colleagues, thank you for your friendship, your support and the opportunity to realize the goal of my freshman year: chairmanship of the committee I love."

Jim Plakas served on Ford's staff in 1966 and later worked with Ford as the Garden City mayor. "I say this real respectfully. He's a true liberal," Plakas said. "He has always fought hard for the working man. I disagreed with him on some issues, but overall he has done a good job. Whether you agreed with him or not, Bill always did his homework."

Ford has served in Congress since 1965, working his way up to the chairmanships of the Committee on Post Office and Civil Service (1981-91) and the Committee on Education and Labor (1991 to present).

"I began my congressional career with the presidency of Lyndon Johnson, and I am proud to have been here during the enactment of many ambitious Great Society programs. I will leave during the presidency of Bill Clinton, whose proposals renew the Johnson legacy. Truly, I have seen the pendulum swing," Ford said.

Ford's 13th Congressional District includes the Observer communities of Canton and Plymouth townships, Plymouth, Westland, Garden City and the southeast quadrant of Livonia.

In announcing his retirement, Ford said: "Time has snuck up on me. As I approach my 67th birthday, it is time for me to focus on my remaining years. I want to spend more time doing the things I enjoy and concentrating on my family, whose sacrifices, because of my career, have been immense and often painful.'

Always a friend of the United Auto Workers union, Ford drew praise from UAW President Owen Bieber, who issued a press release saying: "On all the tough issues over the years, ordinary working people could count on Bill Ford fighting on their side, no matter what the odds. His commitment. perseverance, and effective leadership will definitely be missed in the U.S. House next year."

Michigan State AFL-CIO President Frank Garrison said: "Billy Ford's retirement is sad news for Michigan workers. He is the best congressman that workers in this state have ever had."

Bill Joyner, director of the Canton Community Foundation, former county commissioner and Democratic party activist in Plymouth Township, said Ford has sacrificed a lot to serve his constituents and should be honored for the great job he's done.

"I'm going to miss Congressman Bill Ford, and I think we should take a look at the success of anyone who has been able to survive the political wars, and we should be grateful for the support (that Ford) has given this district. Whether you agreed or disagreed with him, you knew where he stood."

U.S. Sen. Carl Levin called Ford's retirement "a stunning loss for the state of Michigan. The people of Michigan and the nation have lost a great leader in the fight to give workers a fair shake in the labor market and improve education. He was a tough negotiator who wouldn't sacrifice principles for short-term gains."

Gary Corbin, Michigan chairman of the Democratic party, said Ford's retirement "is a loss that will be experienced in very real terms by every resident of Michigan's 13th Congressional District, the state of Michigan and, indeed, the entire country. Perhaps no one in the Congress better understands the challenges and hardships experienced by ordinary people. Press releases honoring Ford also came in from U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Secretary Donna Shalala and Department of Labor Secretary Robert Reich.

Said Shalala: "Billy Ford is a remarkable public servant and gifted legislator. This past year alone he has been instrumental in bringing to fruition many of President Bill Clinton's key accomplishments, from the new national service program to the Family and Medical Leave Act."

Said Reich: "(Ford) has dedicated his career to protecting the people who often get overlooked in our society. His never-ending advocacy on their behalf will not easily be replicated."

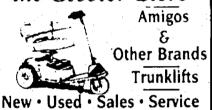

Before Ford entered the Congress in 1965, he was Taylor Township justice of the peace from 1955 to 1957, Melvindale city attorney from 1957 to 1959, Taylor Township attorney from 1957 to 1963, and state senator from 1963 to 1965. Ford was also a delegate to the 1960 Michigan constitutional convention.

In Congress, Ford is currently the chief House sponsor of the Comprehensive OSHA Reform

Colo-rectal cancer is the second leading cause of cancer death in the United States. It is believed that more than 95% of colo-rectal cancer arises from benign adenomatous polyps, and among patients with a positive fecal occult blood test, 38% have such a polyp in the colon. The prevalence of polyps increases with age and is generally higher in men In average risk people there is 24-40% chance of having a polyp present in the colon even without any complaints. First degree relatives of the patient with colon cancer are at 2 to 4 fold increased risk for development of polyps or cancer. The colo-rectal cancer risk is associated with high intake of animal fat, red meat and total calories, and a low intake of cereal, fruits and fresh vegetables. Detection and removal of precancerous polyps will drastically diminish the cancer attack rate.

The cold you feel right now is how thousands of families feel 24 hours a day.

This year, thousands of men, women and children will be cold due to a financial hardship. For them, the thought of snow only brings doubt and fear. Whether they are physically or mentally disabled, unexpectedly unemployed or the working poor, these people will endure the chill of winter without the protection of a warm home. That is until The Heat And Warmth (THAW) Fund.

THAW is a non-profit organization which helps struggling families in 11 Southeastern Michigan counties keep their heat on. It is the last resort for families who have exhausted all other possible resources. Since 1986, THAW has assisted over 11,000 families, more than half with children. Yet, THAW is not considered a handout, but a helping hand, for less than 10% of the recipients are repeat cases.

Once again, Detroit Edison is supporting THAW's efforts. Every dollar you donate will be matched by Detroit Edison and will go directly to those in need. So, as the nights grow longer, please remember the families who grow colder.

Youth Assistance a big bargain

he Westland City Council did itself, the police department, and hundreds of local parents and youngsters a big favor last week. In what is viewed as a bargain, the council renewed the Youth Assistance Program, which began just over a year ago to curb teen problems and help youths improve their behav-

The program provides free, confidential counseling for boys and girls ages 7-16 with the help of two professionals directing a crew of volunteer mentors who work with the youngsters every week to improve behavior.

At the same time, parents having problems with their teen sons and daughters can also be helped through a parenting skills program to be held Tuesday night, Feb. 1, at Grant Elementary School, on Hubbard north of Joy.

The Youth Assistance Program has received a "tremendous" response from the community, said city councilwoman Sandra Cicirelli, who was a major leader several years ago in getting the program under way.

Originally budgeted to handle 100 referrals, the program has already served 157 young people in its first year — youths who were referred by the Westland police, school counselors and administrators, and the Wayne County juvenile court.

While it's too early to conclude if the program will have any permanent impact, the initial indications are that it will cut down on juvenile contacts by the police department and court system.

On a day-to-day basis, the program helps youths and their parents to relate to each other on a positivé basis without the stress and strain usually associated with the teen years.

But the program isn't protected from the ongoing budget problems faced by the city council and city administration.

City Hall should continue to look at the program not as something which costs a small part of a $30 million budget, but as a cost-saver in reducing the hours spent by local police officers and school employees in dealing with problem youths.

To paraphrase the TV commercial which has an automotive engine repairman discussing the value of regular replacement of air filters: "You pay us now or you pay us later."

We hope that current and future city council members will realize not only the financial value of the program, but also the benefits seen by hundreds of local parents and youths who can see the improved family relationships.

While there shouldn't be any sacred cows in the city budget, the Youth Assistance Program obviously appears to a real bargain for everyone.

But money isn't the only problem facing the council and the program. Youth Assistance mentors are needed. Interested people who want to undergo the training may call Ronaele Bowman at 467-7904 during business hours.

School can alter attitudes everywhere — in the suburbs and

So why, at Cranbrook-Kingswood — a nationally renowned private school in Bloomfield Hills that prides itself on its college preparatory program in literature, science and the arts — were four black students subjected to snowballs and racial epithets?

hey say education is the answer.

Why? Because racism begins at home and the seeds of prejudice are sown long before children go off to school — Cranbrook-Kingswood or elsewhere.

Cranbrook prides itself on being multicultural and ethnically diverse. Racism isn't tolerated, officials say, and the black co-president of the senior class agrees: "(Racism) is probably less prevalent here than anywhere."

But Cranbrook is an insular, secluded community, despite including students from 20 countries, other states and many of our suburban communities, and despite the fact that it has an exemplary, longstanding minority scholarship program — Horizons Upward Bound.

And maybe that is where it is making its mistake. Racism can and does occur everywhere in the suburbs and in the city. Despite its excellent intentions, Cranbrook is no exception.

Why? Because racism begins at home. In a letter sent to parents Jan. 17, a school official talked of disappointment and "a strong desire to want to have everything return to nor-

Cranbrook officials, as well as parents and students, must ask what normal means to them. We hope it doesn't mean they are willing to tolerate underground hurtful, harmful attitudes for the sake of a false sense of peace.

Racism can and does occur in the city. Despite its excellent intentions, Cranbrook is no exception. Why? Because racism begins at home.

That's why the announced disciplining of students involved in the incident — a week's suspension, probation and counseling doesn't go far enough.

These students should also perform community service in a situation where they are able to put aside the myths and stereotypes they learned, yes, at home.

In addition, student leaders should now work with administrators to produce the fundamental, even if slow, changes needed in suburban attitudes.

Multicultural commissions have formed in Farmington, Birmingham, Livonia and South-

Cranbrook — unzip your cocoon. Let your students - perhaps led by their existing African-American Awareness Association — work with those commissions.

It is a privilege to attend a school like Cranbrook that has turned out graduates who have contributed to the leadership of this region, and in some cases the wider world.

Students who attend schools like this have a duty to contribute to the betterment of society. And schools like this have a duty to show them

Because education is the answer.

s there a reason the Observer continues to give Walter Warren of Westland so much space in the paper to whine and complain about taxes and education?

Having graduated from John Glenn High and Eastern Michigan University, I am now a teacher in the Farmington Public Schools but continue to live in Westland.

As a unionized teacher paying union dues ($600), I and my fellow teachers spend up to three or four hours a night planning lessons and grading papers. I guess this breaks down your perception of us "new, younger" teachers who aren't concerned about the youth of today. Don't lump all of us young teachers as well as the rest of teachers together, stereotyping us. Could this stereotyping you are doing be one of the problems in society today?

I take offense to Warren's continued attacks on teachers and unions. Why not focus on the positives in education? For example, why don't you take your band wagon and encourage legislators to turn over drug funds, seized by law enforcement, to the schools?

The Observer suggested this idea and it seems worthwhile. Use your time more constructively. Encourage community and business partnerships within the community to get behind the schools. Become more "proactive" in your approach to reaching exceptional schools for Wayne-Westland.

Currently, I am in the process of purchasing a new home in Westland and my son will attend. P.D. Graham Elementary in a few years. You can bet I will be involved in that school's parent organizations. Isn't education about parental and community involvement? Parents have the right to demand more and should.

Mr. Warren — try teaching 180 seventh and eighth graders a day with one 43-minute planning period. Let's see, calling two parents a day will take me 90 school days. When should I plan, grade papers, tutor students before or after school and attend countless meetings? The union has nothing to do with my abilities as a teacher. I'm tired of your comments about unionized teachers.

Wayne-Westland has many fine educators, as I am proof of their success. Mr. Warren, focus on community partnerships and encourage parents to get involved. Quit bashing teachers and unions!

I suggest you sit down with school administrators to find out about the excellent programs they have. Get behind your superintendent and show him his community is behind him. You're right — students are intelligent, they can tell when their community is not behind them. Mr. Warren, get behind your community and support your schools!

POINTS OF VIEW

Gangs all here

How parents can tell if a youth has joined up

he recruitment of new members into gangs is important for the gangs to continue to exist and to expand illegal drug activities into new and existing selling areas.

Research has shown that the youth, even as young as 10 years old, is most at risk for being recruited.

The most at-risk youths are those who have lower levels of self-esteem and self-concept.

They feel less overall control of their lives and they don't fit easily into existing social systems.

Gangs offer these youths a sense of identity, status, belonging, power and often economic gain.

Youths who become involved with a gang may do so by becoming members. They become fully initiated into the gang by identifying with the gang through all their activities, their hairstyle, use of symbols and their clothing.

A youth may be involved with a gang by being a gang associate: someone who has a very close relationship with a gang but does not completely identify with the gang, for example, by not being involved in all activities, or by not wearing gang colors.

Whether a youth is a gang member or an associate, his or her general behavior will change.

Although there is no totally positive way to predict who will join a gang, there are some general indications that a youth may be headed toward gang involvement. These indicators include:

- Poor progress or achievement in school.
- Truancy from school.
- Lack of hobbies or something to do with leisure time.
- Resentment of authority.

GUEST COLUMNIST

MICHELLE MUALEM

■ Youths who become involved with a gang may do so by becoming members. They become fully initiated into the gang by identifying with the gang through all their activities, their halrstyle, use of symbols and their clothing.

- Frequent negative contact with police.
- Drawing gang symbols.
- Problems at home.
- Putting tattoos on self.
- Feeling like an outcast from school, teachers, peers, society.
- Residing in a neighborhood where gangs exist.
- Wanting to dress in specific colors
- Preferring traditional gang attire.
- Having friends who are gang members seldom alone, often in groups.
- Using gang graffiti on book covers, folders.
- Using hand signals.
- Seeing signs of tobacco, alcohol or drug use.
- Sudden affluence (money, clothing, jewelry).
- Desiring too much privacy.

While the items on the list are characteristic of gang involvement, some youths who are involved with gangs don't exhibit such conspicuous behaviors.

It's important for parents to be aware of the behaviors, activities and friends of their children.

The female role in gangs has traditionally been supportive, such as lookouts, carriers of weapons, drivers, and/or providers of alibis, to name a few. Lately, however, females have been forming their own gangs and committing their own crimes, including violent ones. At present, there are five identified female gangs in lower Michigan.

This is the second in a series of three columns on gangs by Michelle Mualem, a social worker with Northwestern Community Services, a private, nonprofit counseling agency which serves local families.

Everything but the courts.

We're getting more judges this year can the Court of Appeals, allegedly the most overworked body of its type in the republic.

Consider three true stories:

Ray and Chris set fire one night to a neighbor's barn. There was evidence they intended to rescue the horses inside to look like heroes, but numerous horses were destroyed.

Ray's parents sued Auto-Owners and Chris' parents sued Pioneer State Mutual, their respective homeowners' insurers, for defense costs. You and I might laugh the case out of court, but not the lawyers.

The policies had similar language that excludes liability for injury or damage "expected or intended" by the insured. The lawyers hassled over whether the boys expected to hurt any livestock inside the barn.

Tuscola Circuit Judge Patrick Reed Joslyn and appellate Judges John Shepherd, Gary McDonald and Janet Neff all arrived at "the only reasonable conclusion. both also must have expected that whatever was inside of the barn would be burned."

The courts ruled in favor of the insurance companies.

The losers are the taxpayers who pay for the courts. (Mallak v. Auto-Owners, CA 141596 and 142824 decided in October 1993).

ing out of "ownership, operation, maintenance or use of a motor vehicle" (italics added).

Clare Circuit Judge Kurt Hansen and appellate Judges John Shepherd and Donald Holbrook Jr. agreed the term "maintenance" was to be liberally construed and that Inez was entitled to no-fault personal injury benefits because she was injured while attempting to wash her vehicle. (Gendron v. State Farm, CA 152060, decided October 1993)

Joe pleaded guilty to a drug delivery charge. For pleading guilty, he got a year in jail, five years on probation and an order to pay restitution of $20 which the undercover cop spent on Joe's drugs. Get that: The guy pleaded guilty.

So Joe appeals with the argument that "government does not qualify as a victim to whom restitution may be ordered to be paid" under the Crime Victims Rights Act.

Appellate Judges Janet Neff, Gary McDonald and William Murphy upheld Berrien Circuit Judge Casper Grathwohl's order of restitution, saying he "had broad discretion in imposing appropriate conditions (of probation) under the particular circumstances of this case." (People v. Thompson, CA 151815, decided October 1993)

Losers: state taxpayers who have to pay the appellate judges and Berrien County taxpayers, whose prosecutor had to research and submit a 35-page brief.

These cases drive home the otherwise humdrum press release of the Professional Insurance Agents of Michigan. "Legal expenses are driving up the cost of auto insurance" and, I would add, homeowners insurance and appellate costs for prosecutors.

Even with reforms (cuts) in the auto insurance law due to take effect in April, I doubt we'll see a dent in the taxpayers' court costs.

Or in our overall taxes.

Anxious legislators muddle state diploma requirements

his year's MEAP test scores are causing a big stir.
Why? This time around, they count for something.

Starting with the class of 1994, students must tional Assessment Program test in order to receive a state-endorsed diploma when they leave high school. Up to now, the only specific content that could be validated by a graduation tertificate was that a student was docile enough to have stuck it out in school for 12 years.

But beginning this year, employers can distinguish between ordinary (meaningless) diplomas and state-endorsed ones. Originally, to qualify for a state-endorsed diploma, students had to score at least 60 on the math test, at least 300 on one of two passages in the reading test, and at least reach 16 specific objectives on the 11th grade science test.

That seems tough, but fair enough, if one

That seems tough, but fair enough, if one takes into consideration that the law offers kids multiple chances to pass the test and requires their teachers to identify deficiencies and offer additional help.

But our legislative leaders, ever anxious not to offend, have watered down even those minimal standards in a little-noticed law signed by Gov. John Engler in September.

Graduates in 1994, 1995 and 1996 who are unable to meet state requirements on all three test subjects will receive, instead of a state sticker on the diploma, one ribbon for each area of achievement. So if a student fails the MEAP standard in math but passes in reading and science, the graduate gets two ribbons attached to the state medallion sticker. Under the previous rules, the same student would not have received any diploma endorsement from the state.

Of course, our masters in Lansing can't even water down education standards without causing bureausers is confusion.

pany selected by the state to supply such things.

And after 1997, the basis for the diploma endorsements will not be the MEAP (which has been around since 1970) but an entirely new test now being developed by the state Department of Education. Instead of all multiple-choice questions, the test will involve questions requiring written responses.

So the graduates of 1997 can look forward to showing prospective employers their diplomas, complete with one state endorsement medallion and up to four — count 'em, four — ribbons, one each for math, science, reading and writing.

I suppose now the big question being debated in Lansing is how to make the sticker and the ribbons so they can't be counterfeited. But these days, even that counts as progress.

Boosters eye ways to expand funding for state parks

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Politically, fans of the state parks have their team together.

Financially, they have yet to map out how to build a $700 million endowment fund that will free state parks from depending on the legislative budget process.

"I am heartened that our Legislature is providing the necessary leadership in this state parks initiative," Joey M. Spano, a member of the state Natural Resources Commission, said at a State Capitol news conference recently.

Spano, the West Bloomfield Township parks and recreation director, has been on the NRC for two years as an appointee of Gov. John Engler.

2 groups push it

Michigan United Conservation Clubs started the push in January 1993 for better financial underpinning for the 100 state parks.

MUCC's plan: a penny hike in the sales tax for one year to set up an endowment fund whose interest earnings would replace tax money from the general fund.

Spano said MUCC and Michigan Recreation and Parks Association, of which she is a member, "raised awareness of the fact that our state parks were deteriorating. But we were not going to be able to do this on our own.'

MUCC's plan would have produced $15 million a year in interest revenue, more than double the general fund support of state parks.

MUCC's idea was shoved aside. in Engler's and the Legislature's preoccupation with school funding and property taxes. With the Dec. 24 agreement on school taxes. lawmakers are free to take on - and take over - the parks ini-

It's a crucial year because 1994 is the 75th anniversary of the founding of the State Parks Commission. It is also an election year. MUCC has been harshly critical of Engler on parks funding and reorganization of the Natural Resources Commission.

Plan unveiled

Lawmakers unveiled a 12-part legislative package to improve state parks.

The key measure is taking $40 million from sale of the Accident Fund, a state-owned workers compensation insurance business for 80 years. Engler won a bruising battle last year to sell it. His 1995 budget message in December proposed that $40 million would be the first step toward the $700 million endowment fund. House Bill 5064, sponsored by Alley, would do that.

Next would be a constitutional amendment to stop a $20 million "diversion" of Michigan Land Trust revenues into the Michigan Strategic Fund. Voters approved the land trust in the 1980s, sending revenues from oil and gas leases on state land.

Former Gov. James Blanchard budgeted part of the land trust, money for water pollution projects under the strategic fund, his pet economic development plan. Senate Joint Resolution E, sponsored by Paul Wartner, R-Portage, would end that "diversion."

If approved by voters next November, SJR E would send $10 million back to the land trust, put $5 million into the endowment fund and send $5 million into the parks budget for repairs and infrastructure improvements.

Speakers at the news confera ence were unclear how the endow ment goal of $700 million would be reached after the first $45 million shot.

Other bills would:

■ Create a State Parks Foundation for parks projects (SB 952 -Ehlers). It would be similar to college foundations and the Oakland Parks Foundation.

■ Allow income taxpayers to use part of their refunds to buy annual state park vehicle entry permits (SB 951 — Ehlers).

■ Start an adopt a park program in which businesses and civic groups could volunteer to work on !projects at parks they select (no bill number yet). It would be similar to the Transportation Department's adopt a highway program.

■ Provide liability protection for volunteers (no number yet).

Deterioration

A handful of libertarians say state parks should be funded only by user fees or sold off.

Alley stated the prevailing view in Lansing — state parks have been financially and physically neglected.

Nevertheless, parks attendance has been on an up trend from 20. million to 25 million over the past 18 years, with some variation due to weather.

Examples of deterioration:

Park staffing is down from 700 in 1975 to a bit more than 500 currently. Some managers have been assigned two or more parks.

■ The Legislature has increased user fees faster than inflation. Daily vehicle permits have gone from $2 in 1980 to $3.50 last year and $4 this year. Annual permits have gone from $7 to $18. Camping permits have gone from $2 to $6 a night to $6 to $14.

■ Last year, DNR officially shut down 23 state forest (rustic) campgrounds, many of which had been unused because they were so weed grown. The campgrounds had contaminated wells or needed new outhouses, access roads, bridges or camper pads.

Goins propels Glenn, 66-56

Westland John Glenn survived a scare and remained tied for first place with Plymouth Salem in the Western Lakes Activities Association basketball race after downing stubborn Plymouth Canton, 66-56.

By NEAL ZIPSER

Tony Goins scored eight of Westland John Glenn's final 12 points Tuesday, lifting the host Rockets to a 66-56 boys basketball win.

Goins' outburst in the final three minutes broke open a close game and helped Glenn stay tied with Plymouth Salem atop the Western Lakes Activities Association with a 4-0 record.

The Rockets are 8-1 overall.

Goins, a 6-foot-4 senior forward, spent most of the night concentrating on shutting down Canton forward Matt Paupore. His offense suffered as a result, but came alive in the game's deciding moments.

"I knew my game would eventually come around," he said. "Coach (Mike Schuette) wanted me to keep Paupore down and that's what I planned to

He held Paupore to 12 points nine under his average — as Paupore made five of his 15 shots. Goins finished with a game-high 20 points, nine rebounds and five blocked shots.

The Chiefs (5-5 overall and 2-2 in the WLAA) weren't pushovers, however, as they rallied from an 11-point, second-quarter deficit to take the lead in the third quarter.

Trailing 32-25 entering the third, Canton opened the half on a 10-2 tear and took a 37-34 advantage behind consecutive baskets from Ron Hunter. The sophomore finished with a team-high 16 points off the bench.

MICHIGAN'S LARGEST SELECTION OF DOWNHILL

"We wanted to come out in the third and pick up our defense and take better shots," said senior guard Ted Docks, who finished with 15 points and had four steals in the

The key to the turn of events was Canton's swarming full-court pressure, which resulted in seven Glenn turnovers.

"I don't think there was much difference in the way we were playing in the third as much as Canton coming out and forcing us into mistakes, Glenn coach Mike Schuette said. "I knew they would be tough and scrappy and they were hustling everywhere. They also started doing a good job boxing out and doing a better job on the boards.'

Leading 40-37 with 42 seconds remaining in the third, the Chiefs got sloppy and committed three consecutive turnovers which allowed the Rockets to tie the game at 40.

But Glenn took control early in the fourth and went ahead 52-46 after tipins by Guy Rucker and Savon Hubbard. Two short jumpers, however, by Hunter closed the margin to 52-50.

The lead was extended to four after two Tarig Horne free throws. The Rockets converted eight of 10 free throws in the fourth and 15 of 24 for the game.

Warriors smash C'ville, 75-55

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

Lutheran High Westland's John Smolka came out smoking Tuesday, leaving host Livonia Clarenceville smoldering in ruins,

Smolka, a 6-foot-1 junior forward, provided the spark, scoring a team-high 24 points as the Warriors captured their third-straight Metro Conference boys basketball

It was also Lutheran High's first win ever over the Trojans.

Senior guard Jim Hoeft added 20 points for the victors, all in the second half, as the Warriors improved to 4-5 overall and 3-1 in the Metro.

Chris Tiernan chipped with 11 points.

"We hope this can continue," an elated Lutheran High coach Scott Wiemer said. "It's taken awhile, but maybe finally we're starting to reap some benefits of all the work we've put in."

Smolka, an effective stand-still jumper shooter, hit nine of 20 shots from the floor, including a pair of threes.

But his performance was even more remarkable because he was doubtful prior to the game. He suffered a contusion on his arm after taking a charge in Saturday's win over Detroit Lutheran ble bone chips, but he was OK,' Wiemer said. "His strong suit all year has been rebounding. He's been averaging about 10 rebounds a game. He's only 6-feet-2, but he's deceptive because he's got long arms. Tonight he just played a great all-around game."

Clarenceville's top two sharpshooters, cousins Mark and John Kalaj combined for 40 of the Trojans' 55 points.

Mark, who finished with a game-high 25, was nine of 21 from the floor. John added 15 on six of 18 shooting.

"We didn't want them to score off the fast-break," Wiemer said. "We wanted to make sure they put the ball on the floor before they shot the three. Our rotation defense worked pretty well. We changed up in the fourth quarter and used a triangle-and-two.'

The Trojans managed to stay close for almost three quarters before falling apart.

Thanks to five first-half blocks by 6-6 junior center Mark Berry, Clarenceville was only down 26-20 at intermission.

But 26 turnovers on the night led to the Trojans' undoing. "We don't really have a point-guard and ball-handling at guard has been a problem all year," Clarenceville coach Rob White said. "In the first half we played good man-to-man defense, but the second half we were just terrible. We didn't run our press very well. And we stopped forcing the ball to the corner and we stopped pushing them to the baseline. We let them go right down the middle of the floor."

Leading 42-34 after three quarters, Lutheran Westland went on a 19-4 run to open the fourth period. The Warriors held a commanding 61-38 advantage as Hoeft tallied 10 of his 20 during the outburst.

"Jimmy was on the JV last year, but he's grown about three inches," Wiemer said. "He's done a good job all year off the bench for us. He's been averaging in double figures. We really use all 10 guys because that's all we

The game's final three minutes dragged out, degenerating into a foul-shooting contest. The Warriors sewed up the victory by hitting 12 straight from the line to end the game.

'We moved the ball well, especially against their three-quarter court pressure," Wiemer said. "It bothered us the first couple of times down the floor, but then we adjusted.

"We moved the ball really well and executed our man-to-man offense. The kids played well."

Salem center beats Pats, 66-61

Livonia Franklin had its chances Tuesday, but host Plymouth Salem escaped with a 66-61 Western Lakes Activities Association boys basketball victory.

The victorious Rocks, 8-1 overall, remained deadlocked with Westland John Glenn for first place in the WLAA.

Both teams have 4-0 records. Pesky Franklin fell to 4-4 overall and 2-2 in the WLAA.

The Patriots led 22-20 after one quarter, but Salem pulled ahead 38-30 at halftime. The Rocks maintained their eight-point advantage heading into the fourth when Franklin made a late run.

Pulling within one with just under a minute left. Franklin fell short after missing an uncontested layup and turning the ball over on its next possession.

James Head, the 6-foot-7 senior headed for the University of Iowa, led Salem with 26 points, nine coming in the final quarter. Adam Hammons added 11.

"We didn't have anybody who could match up with Head, but the kids played hard," Franklin coach Larry Jackson said.

BASKETBALL

Jason Maschke, a 6-3 senior, led Franklin with 14 points and 10 rebounds. Mark Baluk also contributed 14 points, while Paul Kruschka and Greg Maple chipped in with 13 and 10 respectively. Freshman center Matt Bauman had a career-high 10 rebounds.

CHURCHILL 62, N. FARMINGTON 59: Bill Morris poured in 18 points Tuesday, propelling Livonia Churchill to its third-straight win Tuesday at North Farmington.

Both teams are 4-6 overall and 2-2 in the WLAA. Tim Wrublewski contributed 14 points for the victorious Chargers. Jeff Anderson added eight, while guard Ethan Jerome had eight points and eight rebounds. A 17-11 run in the third period clinched the win for Churchill.

"It's the best game we've played all year," Churchill coach Tom Lang said. "We shared the ball and everybody made nice offensive

The Chargers shot just under 50 percent from the floor (24 of 49) and won despite being out-rebounded 38-26. Four North players scored in double figures:

Borgess picks up key victory at Rice

By MIKE ROSENBAUM

Redford Bishop Borgess relied on 6-foot-6 Perry Robinson and 6-3 Charles Smith for much of its scoring in Tuesday's game against a smaller Birmingham Brother Rice squad.

But it was a pair of guards, Wendell Green and Jerome Ross, who made the key plays in the final two minutes to secure the Spartans' 60-57 victory.

After the host Warriors took their only lead of the game, 53-52, Green and Ross scored Borgess' final eight points.

'Green really took charge and did a good job" down the stretch, said Spartans' coach Glen Donahue. "And Ross, our sophomore guard, did a good job."

Rice was close all the way, never trailing by more than seven points, but couldn't get over the hump until Derek Canine drove the lane and scored with 2:12 left. But the game turned on the next four possessions.

After Canine's basket, Green came right back with a nearlyidentical layup to put Borgess back on top. After the Warriors lost the ball on a traveling call, Ross broke out of a four-corner spread for a driving layup and a 56-53 margin with 59 second remaining. Rice missed a threepointer, then Ross and Green closed the game by hitting four straight free throws.

"We could've won the game," said Rice coach Frank Carrico. "We just didn't make some plays down the stretch that would have enabled us to win the game."

The Spartans improved to 6-4 overall, 4-1 in the Catholic League's Central Division. The Warriors are 5-5, 1-4.

Both coaches complimented their opponents for playing hard. Although the phrase is often a coaches' cliche, it applied to this contest. The teams went toe-totoe from the opening tip. Both squads played physical games featuring aggressive, man-to-man defense.

Donahue said Rice "played better against us than they played against Flint Central. And they beat Flint Central. They had good ball movement. They didn't have a great shooting night tonight but they played very, very hard.'

Carrico similarly praised Borgess, adding "their athletic ability is certainly a factor."

The Spartans grabbed a 10-3 lead in the first five minutes as Rice's shooters were cold early. The Warriors warmed up and pulled within 16-12 after one quarter.

Robinson took charge in the second quarter, scoring nine ing to gel as a team," Donahue points to help the Spartans take a 31-28 lead into halftime.

One Warrior whose shooting wasn't cold was Brian Kalczynski, who scored 14 points in the first half. But Kalczynski got into foul trouble early in the third quarter and added just two points in the second half. Robinson also suffered from foul problems, but still managed six points in the third quarter as Borgess maintained its lead, 42-38.

Led by Canine's eight points,

Rice rallied in the fourth quarter, tying the score at 44, then taking the lead before Borgess' guards took charge. Rice has lost several close league games, a factor which Carrico called "extremely frustrating for the players and for me. In spite of the frustration (the players) have continued to be very positive. They come back every day at practice and try to be a little better." Borgess, meanwhile, is "start-

Franklin tourney run falls short in finale

The news over the weekend was good and bad for the Livonia Franklin High volleyball squad.

On Saturday, the Patriots reached the finals of the 12team Plymouth Salem Invitational before losing to the host Rocks in the championship, 15-8, 15-5,

Top setter Lenay Truchan, who had 72 assists in 160 attempts and only one error, to go along with nine ace serves and 35 digs on the day, was sorely missed Monday as Franklin lost to host Farmington Harrison in a Western Lakes Activities Association Imatch, 15-7, 15-11, 15-3.

The Hawks won the second game, overcoming a 9-1 deficit. Truchan sat out the match with the chicken pox.

"It's an indication how important she is to our team," Franklin coach Ann Hutchins said. "She's our workhorse and our backbone. We didn't play very well.'

Franklin is now 14-4-1 overall and 1-1 in the WLAA.

Sophomore Melissa Wolvin, filling in for Truchan, contributed six kills and two blocks. Jaclyn Deane added 11 kills. two aces and six block-assists.

On Saturday, Deane recorded 40 kills, seven solo blocks and five aces. Junior Sarah Wojtowicz had her best game of the season with 21 kills (3.56 hitting percentage) with only five errors. Andrea Greer added 26 kills and 11 aces.

Franklin finished 6-0 in pool play after defeating North Farmington (15-3, 15-3), Garden City (15-4, 15-11) and Romulus (15-12, 15-2).

The Patriots scored elimination-round wins over Garden City (15-5, 15-11) and Westland John Glenn (15-2, 12-15, 15-11). Salem won its semifinal with a convincing 15-2, 15-2 victory over Harrison.

Churchill wins in 5

Senior setter Aimee Cousino enjoyed her best offensive output of the year with seven kills Monday, leading host Livonia Churchill over Westland John Glenn, 15-12, 15-11, 8-15, 12-15, 15-8.

Churchill is 4-4-5 overall and 1-2 in the WLAA, while Glenn slips to 8-3 and 1-1.

Senior outside-hitter Kristin Sanders led with 12 kills and passed effectively. Junior middle blocker Sarah Fabirkiewicz added 11 kills and four blocks.

Junior outside-hitter Mary Daly served 11 points in the opening game and 22 for the match. She had four aces.

Ladywood whips Marian

On Monday, Livonia Ladywood used solid back-row hitting to move closer to clinching the Catholic League Central Division title after beating host Birmingham Marian, 15-8, 15-

In the win over Marian, 6foot-4 junior Anne Poglits led the way with seven kills and two solo blocks.

Other contributions came from Kristy Walker (20 digs), Renae Rozell (five aces and six digs) and Nicole Vondracek (nine service receptions).

On Saturday, Ladywood reached the semifinals of the 16-team East Kentwood Invitational before falling to stateranked Portage Central, 15-6, 4-15, 15-11.

The Blazers, behind the hitting of Poglits and Rozell, beat Fruitport (15-12) and Grand Rapids Forest Hills Central (16-14, 15-11) before splitting with Battle Creek Lakeview (13-15, 15-9).

In the quarterfinals, Ladywood ousted Tecumseh, 15-12, 15-10.

Coach Tom Teeters also singled out the serving of Deborah Sobczak and the serve reception of Walker and Vondracek.

Stevenson falls in 4

In a WLAA Monday, visiting Walled Lake Central defeated Livonia Stevenson, 8-15, 15-5, 15-9, 15-11.

Stevenson is 6.9-6 overall and 1.2 in the Western Lakes. Junior Anne Marie Aquino led the Spartans with six kills, while Michelle Hale and Jen Monaghan added five each.

Setter Angie Piippo recorded 15 assists, while Rachel Clark contributed four solo blocks.

Coach Kelly Graham also singled the defensive hustle of Shert Gromek and Jill Milling-

On Saturday, Stevenson fell to eventual champion Temperance Bedford in the semifinals of the six-team Wayne Memorial Invitational, 15.5, 15-10.

In pool play, Stevenson defeated the host Zebras, while splitting with Saline (15-9, 13-15) and Battle Creek Central (15-7, 12-15). The Spartans were beaten by Dearborn Edsel Ford (15-13, 15-10).

Trenton dumps Wayne

Toby Cain's seven kills and six digs were not enough Monday, as host Wayne Memorial fell to Trenton in a Mega Conference Red Division match. 15-13, 15-8.

Lady Crusader cagers lose guard Bannon

After a couple of weeks of good news, of wins and the ever-growing belief that more were on their way, the anvil fell on Madonna University's women's basketball team last week.

It started in Thursday's game at Concordia College. The Lady Crusaders were on their way to a 73-58 triumph, but en route they lost their best player and leading scorer --- point guard Shawn Bannon, who injured her knee late in the first half.

On Monday, Bannon underwent arthroscopic surgery to determine the severity of the injury. Madonna coach Bill Potter learned late Monday that Bannon would miss the remainder of the season.

Her loss will require some major adjustments by the Crusaders, adjustments they clearly were unable to make Saturday in a 54-44 loss to Grand Rapids Baptist at Madonna. Their defense in the first half was exceptional; they held the Comets to just 19 points.

Unfortunately, they failed to take advantage of it, scoring just 20 themselves. And while Baptist upgraded its offense in the second half — after shooting 28 percent (7-of-25) over the first 20 minutes, it improved to 40 percent (12-of-30) in the second half - Madonna did not. The Crusaders were 10-of-27 in the first half (37 percent) and 9of-24 in the second (37.5 percent). They also made just 6-of-12 free throws (50 percent) to Baptist's 15-of-24 (62.5 percent), were outrebounded 41-37, and committed 27 turnovers to 20 for the Comets.

"We really missed her leadership," said Potter.

Stephanie Crelley led Madonna with 26 points on 10-of-16 floor shooting. She also made three steals. No one else reached double figures in scoring for the Crusaders; next highest was Rachel Emery with six (she also had four steals).

Baptist got 22 points from Marcy Bell and 12 from Laura Donk-

The loss ended Madonna's three-game winning streak, which had evened its record at 8-8. The Crusaders are now 8-9.

M G.R. BAPTIST 144, MADONNA (MEN) 114: One needn't tell the Fighting Crusaders it's been a difficult year. Just getting in a position to win can be a chore.

Often, to reach such a position you must command respect. With Madonna laboring under a 2-20 record, respect is lacking. It showed Saturday at Grand Rapids Baptist.

What coach Bill Sharpe must now teach his young team (all but two are freshmen) is to play over such disrespect. They couldn't do it against Baptist - officials took control of the game, and Madonna could not adapt.

The result was 42 free throws by the Comets (they made 31, 74 percent) to 28 by Madonna (23 converted, 82 percent).

"I think our kids made (the officials) a part of the game," said Sharpe. "They called an extremely close game on the fouls, and that hurt us. It took us out of our and forward Kurt Carlos, both starters, fouled out, and two other starters, J. Dimes and Mike Slone, had four fouls apiece. In fact, all but two of the 10 Crusaders who played had at least three fouls.

"I think our kids got discouraged," said Sharpe.

Baptist didn't. The Comets roared out to a 64-46 halftime lead and kept pulling away. They dominated the boards (65-30), partially — according to Sharpe because the foul calls caused the Crusaders' rebounders to play tentatively.

Jared Crandell led Baptist (now 13-9) with 37 points; he also had 10 rebounds. Terry Durfee had 30 points, eight rebounds and four assists; Matt Jansen scored 17 and grabbed 13 boards: Ted Smith and Jason Pranger each netted 13 points; and Lance Roark totaled 12 points and 13

Madonna got 21 points, six rebounds and five assists from Doug Soper, 17 points from Mike Slone; 16 from Dimes; 12 from Carlos; and 10 from Brandon

Ocelots' modest hoop streak halted

The winning streak didn't last very long.

Two games, to be exact. Not that Schoolcraft College's men's basketball team didn't have the opportunity to extend it another game. But the Ocelots surrendered down the stretch, scoring just 10 points — while giving up 25 - in the final 71/2 minutes to lose 93-73 to St. Clair CC Saturday at SC.

The loss left SC at 7-12 overall, 1-8 in the Eastern Conference, St. Clair is 7-11 overall, 4-5 in the conference.

'We couldn't score, we couldn't rebound - I called time out to see if everyone had their shorts on right," said SC coach Dave Bogataj of the game-ending cold SC SPORTS streak. Intensity was lacking, he added. "We lost by 20 after being down by five? I don't like that."

The intensity deficit was evident in the rebounding. The Skippers had a 20-rebound edge overall and an 18-7 advantage on the offensive boards.

Still, the Ocelots did rally after falling behind 51-37 at the half. It didn't help that they were without sophomore forward Steve Whitlow, the team's second-leading scorer and rebounder, who missed his second-straight game due to illness.

His absence was noticeable in the scoring stats: Todd McNeil had 29 points (and 11 rebounds), but the only other Ocelot in double figures was Dan Perttula, with

In contrast, St. Clair had four in double figures: Kip Jones (25), Clair Volker (19), Chris Clark (18) and Jamie Schafer (12, on four three-pointers).

ST. CLAIR 87, SC (WOMEN) 57: The Lady Ocelots were faced with playing the Eastern Conference's best team on its home court Saturday. They knew to win they'd need their best performance. They didn't get it. What they turned in was "the worst half we've had this year," according to coach Jack Grenan.

"We couldn't do anything right, and they couldn't do anything wrong." The end result: a lopsided loss that left SC at 3-5 in the conference, 7-7 overall. St. Clair is 8-0 in conference play. Two Ocelots reached double figures in scoring: Tricia Kazyaka and Cindy Muha, each with 12 The game was really decided early: By halftime, the Lady Skippers had a 47-19 lead, thanks in great part to SC's 15 first-half turnovers.

After that, it came down to free throws. St. Clair converted 26-of-38 (68 percent) to SC's 7-of-11 (63 percent).

Concerts offer notable introduction to classics

his is a good weekend to introduce your children to the classics. Area symphonies - Livonia, Plymouth and Detroit - are hosting concerts with children in mind. The Farmington Area Philharmonic, also known as Group du Jour, and Rochester Symphony Orchestra are busy rehearsing for their family-oriented concerts on Feb. 6.

The Livonia Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of assistant conductor Karl Karoub begins its chamber concert series 8 p.m. Friday, Jan. 28, and the chlidren's concert series 2 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 29, at the Livonia Civic Center Library Auditorium, 32777 Five Mile Road, east of Farmington Road. Tickets are $12 adults, seniors 62 and older, $8; students 12 and older, $6; and children under 12, $3. Call 421-1111 or 464-2741.

"At the children's concert we introduce the different instruments, and explain how to listen to music," said Karoub. "We show children how to appreciate all kinds of music to broaden their horizons.'

Young Artist Competition winners will be featured in concerts to be presented by the Plymouth and Rochester symphonies.

Violinist Christian Hebel, 18 of Plymouth, the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's second place Youth Artist Competition winner, will perform at two concerts — 8 p.m. Friday, Jan. 28 at Novi Civic Center, 45175 10 Mile Road, west of Novi Road, and 8 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 29, at First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, 701 W. Church Street. Tickets are $6 adults, $5 seniors, and $3 students in K-12. Call 451-2112.

The Detroit Symphony will present a live production of the award-winning HBO special and Classic Kid's recording "Beethoven Lives Upstairs" 11:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 29 at Orchestra Hall in Detroit. The production is a combination of music, history and dramatic storytelling using two actors whose anecdotes and observations are based on true incidents from Beethoven's life. More than 25 examples of Beethoven's music will be featured. Tickets range from $7 to $21. Call 833-3700 or Ticketmaster, 645-6666. The next concert in the series "Cinderella" will be on April 30.

The Rochester Symphony Orchestra family concert 2 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 6 at Varner Hall on the campus of Oakland University in Rochester, has

Classic comedy has timeless appeal

"Our American Cousin" is unforgettable because of its hilarious script, and the fatal shooting that occurred at a performance in 1865.

British American customs clash with comic results in "Our American Cousin," the 19th century classic that opens Friday, Jan. 28, at at Henry Ford Museum Theatre in Dearborn.

A favorite among theatrical audiences for more than a century, this 1858 comedy by Tom Taylor was the first professional play performed at Henry Ford Museum Theatre in 1964. Its last revival by the Greenfield Village Theatre Company was in 1983.

The cast of the current production includes Dan C. Bar of Plymouth and Stephanie Nicols of Troy. Elaine Kaiser of Livonia is assistant producer, and costumer is Bernadine Vida of Redford Township.

In "Our American Cousin," the title "cousin" is Asa Trenchard, an American backwoodsman whose character and colorful speech were inspired by Davy Crockett. As heir to a family fortune, Asa travels to England to meet his very proper but eccentric relatives.

ON STAGE

"Our American Cousin"

- *Theater: Henry Ford Museum Theatre, inside Henry Ford Museum at Oakwood Boulevard and Village Road in Dearborn, west of the Southfield Freeway, south of Michigan Ave.
- ★Curtain time: 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, Jan. 28 through March 5; 4:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 13.
- ★Tickets: $9 for theater only, $27 for dinner/theater. Call (313) 271-1620 ask for the Reservation Center.

PREVIEW

The British Trenchards welcome their rustic relation with mixed emotions. They are overwhelmed by his manners, clothes and way with words, but eager to win his good will because of the inheritance.

Among the historic fans of Asa Trenchard was President Abraham Lincoln, who was watching the play at Ford's Theatre on April 14, 1865, when he was shot by John Wilkes Booth.

But long before its link with the assassination, "Our American Cousin" was significant for being the first major American play produced by a woman - actress and theatrical manager Laura Keene. She also starred in the production,

The Ford's Theatre production, which starred Keene, had opened on April 3. Lincoln and his wife had received invitations to attend two different plays that evening, but decided to accept theater owner John Ford's offer to view the actress' closing show.

Stagehands created a special box for the presidential party. The president had not arrived at the theater at curtain time, but the show proceeded. When Lincoln's party arrived at 8:30 p.m., the action on stage paused while the audience greeted the president and the orchestra played "Hail to the Chief." The play was nearly finished when Booth, a well-known actor, slipped into the presidential box and fired the fatal shot. The next offering at Henry Ford Museum Theatre will be "Purlie Victorious," a 1961 comedy by Ossie Davis. Performances are March 25 to April 30.

Families get into the act for 'Music Man'

Living in harmony is not just an Village Players of Birmingham's production of "The Music Man," which opens Jan. 28.

Patrick Lynch, who plays Prof. Harold Hill, is joined by his daughter Caitlin, 13, who plays Pick-a-Little Lady, and his son, Patrick Jr., 10, who plays a Boy's Band member.

Celia Keenan-Bolger, 16, is playing Zanceta, while her sister Maggie, 10, plays Amaryllis, and brother, Andrew, 8, plays Wintrop.

A veteran Village Player, Patrick Lynch is combining two of his great loves - family and music for a great personal experience.

"I was so thrilled when Village act for two local families who have Players decided to do this show," he provided six of the cast members in said. "I've had this role before, but neither of the children where the right age to play a part. This is something I'll treasure probably more than the children will.'

Celia Keenan-Bolger is "the leader" for her younger sister and brother. "It's fun acting together," Andrew said. "We get along well, but sometimes we argue about who gets the parts."

The three Keenan-Bolgers have performed together before in "Peter Pan," "The Wizard of Oz" and "Sunny Side Up." They are members of the Screen Actors Guild as a result of acting in commercials.

Another cast member. Diedrich Stelljes, 13, performed on Broadway for eight months in "The Secret Garden," as Collin. "It was a tough show to do because there were eight shows per week, and I had to go to school, too," Diedrich recalled. He is also a member of the Screen Actors Guild and is performing through the courtesy of the Actor's Equity Associa-

"The children in this show have been remarkably well behaved," Patrick Lynch said. "They know their lines and their music, and they've known for a long time. These are very bright kids. I'm sure they do very well

Tale of love weaves mystery, intrigue, revenge

As a young brash agent fresh out of law school in 1952, FBI agent Kevin Walker (Matt Dillon) along with his partner Ron Pirelli (Bruno Kirby), is assigned to Chinatown to ferret out suspected subversives during the height of America's communist witchhut. At Broadway Nathan's, a local hangout, Walker meets Cynthia (Teri Polo), a tall striking blond, who poses a simple question to the young agent does he believe in law or justice? This question resonates throughout the rest of his life in "Golden Gate," opening Friday at metro Detroit movie theaters.

The agents ensuare a local laundryman Chen Jung Song (Tzi Ma), who has organized an innocent campaign to forward money to the community's impoverished families in "Red" China. Walker frames Song, who is prosecuted and sentenced to 10 years in pris-

Upon his release from prison, Song is once again investigated, now with reservation, by Agent Walker, which forces the alredy broken man over the edge. Song invokes a curse on Walker — that he "become a Chinaman," and inherit all the pain and suffering his naive actions have inflicted.

Song's daughter Marilyn (Joan Chen), a child during her father's ordeal, now attends a local law school. She has no true memory of her father or the real circumstances that led to his misfortune.

Kevin, in an attempt to assuaage his guilt, befriends Marilyn. She has no notion of Kevin's complicity in destroying her father. Kevin introduces himself as a public defender who knew her father during his period of incarceration. In time, they fall in love. Kevin's moment of bliss ends abruptly when Marilyn discovers his true identity.

Promising revenge, she invokes the name of the goddess Fa Mu Lan, the Woman Warrior, "the one who takes her father's place in battle." Marilyn's avowed desire for revenge and Kevin's quest for redemption climax poignantly against the backdrop of the Bay Area's civil disobedience of 1968.

The Samuel Goldwyn Company presents "Golden Gate" in association with American Playhouse Theatrical Films. It is directed by John Madden from an original screenplay by David Henry Hwang. The film is produced by Michael Brandman.

David Henry Hwang came upon the inspiration for "Golden Gate" in a New York City bar in conversation with a friend from New York's Chinese community. The friend recounted the story of the false prosecution of Chinese-Americans in the early 1950s for sending money home to their impoverished families.

Hwang's penchant for taking historical footnotes and turning them into multi-layered dramas is not limited to "Golden Gate" and his smash Broadway hit "M. Butterfly." His first award-winning play, produced exclusively for the New York stage, "The Dance and the Railroad," is, according to Hwang, "a story about people who are shut out of the mainstream cultures and how they manage to create their own rites.'

"America," Hwang continues, "at least in principal, subscribes to the notion that whoever takes residence on these shores may call it home. This is a relatively new concept in the history of ideas, and I think people of color grapple with it in a particularly vital fashion. One of the particular burdens of my minority is that we are never completely accepted

Haunting tale: Joan Chen (left) stars as Marilyn Song and Matt Dillon stars as FBI Agent Kevin Walker in "Golden Gate."

Lolita Davidovich bright light in 'Intersection'

AP - Mark Rydell's last movie, "For the Boys," was a critical bomb that never really grabbed a significant audience. With "Intersection," now playing at metro Detroit movie theaters, it looks like Rydell - who distinguished himself with such movies as "On Golden Pond," "The River" and "The Rose" — is on a downward spiral.

Rydell can't take all the blame for "Intersection." The movie has an excellent concept — a successful but emotionally crippled man who's unable to make a commitment — but gets bogged down by a trite screenplay and inferior performances by Sharon Stone and Richard Gere.

Gere certainly was miscast as Vincent Eastman, an award-winning architect married to his business partner, Sally (Stone). The carefree, sexy spark that leaves some marriages early on has fizzled. Sally has become a worksholic whose ambitions and enthusiasm are more tied to the firm than to her marriage. Bored and confused, Vincent leaves Sally and their daughter, Meghan (Jenny Morrison), for a vivacious and sexy magazine writer Olivia (Lolita Davidovich).

But Vincent is incapable of making a commitment to Olivia. Part of him is still attached to Sally. Almost as a symbol of his indecision, he leaves his car parked at his wife's home and must go there in order to drive. It also doesn't help that Sally is in the office with him. And when it comes to company social events. he excludes Olivia.

Caught in the middle of course is the 13-year-old Meghan, who nevertheless manages to balance Daddy's girlfriend and Mommy's natural hostilities.

It all comes to a head for Vincent when Olivia, heady on too much wine, crashes the opening of a new museum that the firm has designed. Sally is there. The two women meet, and Vincent erupts in fury at Olivia. After dropping her off in the rain, he drives around for the rest of the night, winding up sleeping in his car outside a diner.

He's written Olivia a goodbye letter and is about to mail it when he meets a little girl who has the same flashing red hair as Olivia. He tucks the letter into his jacket (it would have been prudent to away) and leave the message on Olivia's answering machine to hotel. He gushes excitedly that he loves her and wants to marry her. Exhilarated by his decision and in a rush to meet Olivia, Vincent speeds along the mountainous two-lane road and breaks too late when he sees a stalled van. He does a 360 just as a tractor-trailer roars into view in the other lane.

This is how the movie opens — with the accident. Even if you fall asleep during this movie, which is pretty easy to do, you still know how it's going to end.

And little things, such as the letter and the telephone message, are indeed telescoped.

If "Intersection" has one bright simply rip it up and throw it hope, it's Davidovich. She's a joy and a natural; and when she's on screen, you realize just how thin meet him at a romantic country the acting abilities of Stone and Gere really are.

Gere comes across more so as a cad than a tortured man at a crossroads in his life. He offers little emotional confusion; the inner frustration is complicated but eludes Gere in his one-note performance.

Martin Landau doesn't have much to do, but manages to put in an able supporting performance as Neal, a close family friend and partner in the architectural firm. Morrison is fine as the daughter.

But Stone fans are in for a disappointment: She doesn't take off her clothes. There are no hot moments here. Instead, Stone is required to — emote.

The screenplay was written by David Rayfiel and Marshall Brickman, Bud Yorkin produced with Rydell, Frederic Golchan was executive producer. And Ray Hartwick co-producer.

The Paramount Pictures release is rated R (Restricted, Under 17 requires accompanying parent or adult guardian) for adult situations and partial nudi-

Emma Brody (Madeleine Stowe) was blinded as a child.

Now, a corneal transplant has returned the gift of sight to the musician, and once again, Emma can see. She can finally see her best friend Candice (Laurie Metcalf). She can see her fellow band members. She can see all the beautiful sights that her hometown of Chicago has to offer. And she can see the face of the man who murdered her neighbor in "Blink," a mystery-thriller now playing at metro Detroit movie theaters. Due to an unusual effect of her surgery, Emma suffers from a disorder known as "retroactive vision." As a result, when Emma looks at something, sometimes her mind doesn't register those images until a day later.

Did Emma really see the face of a killer, or was this a hallucination?

Detective John Hallstrom (Aidan Quinn) thinks she did see the killer. Despite the odd circumstances of Emma's condition. Hallstrom senses the woman is his best chance to crack this case. His partner, Thomas Ridgely (James Remar), is a bit more

For the character's musical prowess, Stowe came to the production with the benefit of having studied classical piano as an adolescent. To learn the fiddle for her place as a fictional member of the real-life group The Drovers, the actress first met with Los Angeles violin instructor Cait Reid, who is versed in Celtic violin. On location in Chicago, Stow got additional tips from The Drover's founder Sean Cleland. "Madeleine is much better than she gives herself credit for," said Cleland of Stowe's eight weeks of fiddle training. "In a few group rehearsals, she actually played the pieces. She mastered all the different things that go into playing the violin — the bowing, the fingering, the rhythm, trying to make it look natural while at the same time trying to make it look oddlers explore their environment with such vitality - touching, smelling and even tasting. Toddlers are probably the best "taste testers" you can find, if you're fortunate enough to have a playful toddler at home or in day care.

Great sums: Tots can do mathematics

Since toddlers are hands-on exploring type of folks, parents and caregivers can respond to their hands-on nature by offering activities which can help foster mathematical thinking.

Mathematical concepts should and can be introduced to toddlers - before numbers. Matching, sorting, patterning, classifying and estimating are all concepts parents and caregivers can introduce age-appropriately - interestingly enough to keep busy toddlers on their toes.

Adults can offer activities to toddlers informally, being sensitive to toddlers' limited attention spans and need to "keep it moving." The same and different concept is a beginning to teaching toddlers mathematics. Different words to compare, contrast and show similarities between objects help toddlers focus on characteristics of objects, label and develop an awareness of their environment.

You might say, "Let's feel the soil or dirt in the plant aquarium. It feels wet, sticky: But the plants really feel smooth and dry." Or you can say, "Rhonda has a big ball with stripes; Jean has a small one with circles."

Most toddlers are not quite ready to sort objects into categories, but they sure can generalize. For example, "Let's put away the toys in the toy box. Put all the dolls in this basket." These types of activities encourage children to think in terms of groups and sets of objects.

Toddlers can understand the basic concept of "twoness." To foster this concept, point out many things in pairs - two shoes, two feet, two arms or two eyes. Then informally you can say, "I see two cups the same color . . . two plates on the

Begin to mention when you see two of anything at home or while walking in the neighborhood or riding in the car to grandma and grandpa's house. Tots will soon pick up the concept and start pointing to and/or telling you about things they see in twos.

There's early estimating - "Andrea, do you think your hand can fit into your mittens? Do you think daddy's hand will? Walter, do you think I can fit in the baby crib? Do you think I can fit in the big bed?" Making comparisons and simple predictions helps toddlers make deductions about size and shape.

Through these and similar activities, adults can help toddlers build on nature and master their understanding of basic mathematical concepts.

Society holds 99-cent sale

It takes the sale of approximately 200 coats to send a child to summer camp or the sale of 10 coats to feed a family of four for a day. It may not be a full-course meal or a London Fog coat, but it still provides warmth and hope to meet the challenges of the coming day.

During the past year, people have donated more than 28,000 winter coats to the Society of St. Vincent de Paul. Those coats will go on sale Feb. 1-4 at 16 outlets and at the main warehouse on Gratiot in Detroit. Proceeds from the sale go to fund St. Vincent de Paul's summer camps on Lake Huron, the organization's Food Depot and employment placement program.

The sale is the first of five 99-cent sales the nonprofit agency has scheduled for 1994. Sweat shirts and sweaters will be sold two for 99 cents Feb. 8-12, shirts and blouses two for 99 cents Feb. 15-19 and pants and slacks two for 99 cents Feb. 22-26. Bicycles also will be sold, starting at 99 cents, March 1-5.-

There will also be three specialty sales. Its fur, leather and overcoat sale will be Feb. 5 at its main warehouse, 2950 Gratiot, and at 15725 Grand River, both in Detroit, 1337 24th, Port Huron, and 28417 Telegraph, Flat Rock. Golf

Gladiators talk fitness with fans

To fans they're known as Tower and Lazer, "American Gladiators" who use their strength to slow down competitors on the popular TV show. But in their spare time, they're teaching kids about the importance of physical fitness.

BY SUE BUCK STAFF WRITER

Some wanted to be just like them. Others wanted fitness information. Whatever their reasons, 12 kids got a treat recently - lunch with two American Gladiators, Jim Starr and Steve Henneberry.

The youngsters were the winners of a contest, sponsored by Livonia Mall, in which they were invited to write in with their reasons why they wanted to dine with the duo, known on the internationally syndicated television show as Lazer (Starr) and Tower (Henneberry). Members of the Livonia Mall Merchants Association selected the winners.

The chance to lunch with the two Gladiators was a thrill for Jeremy Conenwett, who with brother Dale, Redford resident wrote that he wanted to meet Lazer "because he is good at sports and so am I."

Livonia, wanted to use the get-together to find out "how much weight they work out with." He had a good reason for asking; he's working on his Cub Scout fitness badge.

Those of the female persuasion had different reasons for wanting to meet the Gladiators. Winner Sarah Davis of Livonia wanted "to learn" more about how to keep healthy," while Nicole McGahan, also of Livonia, was interested because she wants to "be like you guys," when

Also joining the Gladiators for lunch were Brian, Lisa and Andrea Waldo, Garrett and Brett Mette. Brett Wanamaker and Richard Stoddart.

Role models

Starr and Henneberry were a big hit with the kids and they both admit they value their celebrity status was among the lucky winners. The was well as their positions as role models for kids.

During the show's hiatus, the two men devote a lot of their spare time Matthew Norred, who lives in to teaching children and adolescents the importance of physical fitness. They have developed a program, "Ultimate Challenge," that offers a learning experience and physical activity for children.

Close friends, they take pride in their interaction with fans who range in age from five to 65 - "We don't do bars or nightclubs," Starr said.

The Gladiators also have "four affirmations" they stress to their fans: be a leader not a follower, just say no (to drugs); speak up and speak out (against sexual abuse), and respect yourself.

"American Gladiators" pits contestants against each other and a troupe of body-building men and women whose aim is to slow them down during a variety of timed physical challenges. In its fifth year, it's seen in more than 50 countries. 'We've been in the Detroit area two years," Henneberry said. Named Mr. America in 1989, Henneberry earned his nickname through his body-building career.

"Muscle magazines called me the Tower of Power,'" said Henneberry, who weighs 275 pounds and stands 6 feet, 4 inches tall.

With Arnold Schwarzenegger as his inspiration, the Wisconsin native set out in 1979 to become body building's Mr. America in 10 years' time. On the way there, he won Junior Mr. Milwaukee, Mr. Wisconsin, Mr. Mid-Eastern America and in 1989, Mr. America.

He also embarked on an acting. career and landed several national and international commercials and appearances on popular TV shows before being tapped as a Gladiator

Fast and strong

Starr's fans often misspelled his nickname so he ended up adopting the spelling which he considers more forceful, anyway.

"A lazer is fast, strong and extremely hard to beat, just like me," said Starr, who weighs 225 pounds and is 6 feet, 1 inch tall.

An all-American football player; from Montana State University, his professional career included playing. for NFL's Kansas City Chiefs and Los Angeles Rams and with the Canadian Football League's Toronto Argonauts.

His football career was cut short by a severe back injury and after a stint doing commercials, he was selected in 1989 to be a member of the "American Gladiators.'

The dynamic duo also is looking forward to starting a line of athletic line and a talk show for kids as well as publishing a drug awareness book for children ages 5-7 to cover life situations they will need to overcome.

BY SUE MASON STAFF WRITER

Think you're good at American history? Here's

Which president's young son, upset with the lack of snow in the nation's capital, used calling cards he found in the attic of the White House as snow on the stairs so he could try out his new sled? President Harry S. Truman's ancestors were among those who helped fire bricks for a church reconstructed on the site of the grave and cabin of the grandfather of this president.

Which president got cold feet on his wedding day, leaving his bride-to-be, the guests and minister waiting at the church, only to be reconciled with his true love and married a year later?

You'll find the answer - it's the same for all three questions - in books, but not quite history books . . . a biography, yes; a history book, nah. They're bits of the family history Dr. Weldon Petz has researched and collected about our 16th president, Abraham Lincoln. Petz highlighted the third installment of the 1993-94 Livonia Town Hall series that attracted a smaller than usual crowd because of the bonechilling winter weather. A fourth-generation Detroiter, Petz has been interested in Lincoln since he was a child, crediting a book his parents gave him and his great Uncle Will. His personal Lincoln collection includes 5,000 books and more than 40,000 artifacts, including his great uncle's

"Uncle Will was with the Fifth New York Battery Band; it was one of four that played for the Gettysburg address," Petz explained. "He always told me he stood right in front of Lincoln and the bell of his horn reflected his face. I've researched it and found out it was true."

Lincoln's life

Petz chose the Town Hall gathering to take a look at the Lincoln family tree and brought along a few of his artifacts as well as a wealth of information about a man once believed to have risen above poverty to become president of the United

"There was very little information on his background when he died, so the writers had to invent a background," Petz said. "It wasn't until the 1930s when the WPA (Work Projects Administration) was going through records that his real life came out."

For 11/2 hours, Petz entertained his audience with tidbits about Lincoln and his ancestors, but it was his artifacts that attracted a lot of attention.

20TH ANNIVERSARY

Bethel Baptist Temple of Livonia will celebrate its 20th anniversary with a special service at 11 a.m. Sunday, Feb. 6. Started on Jan. 23, 1964, in the Detroit home of the Rev. H.L. Petty, the church rented space from another church in Detroit and from a school in Redford before moving to its current site at 29475 W. Six Mile, Livonia, in September 1974.

The church bought from a catering company. Major improvements have been made to the building since then, including an addition in 1989 that provided much-needed space and a new facade. Petty has remained its pastor throughout its 20-year history.

Bethel Baptist has an active congregation and through the years has provided free transportation and youth club called AWANA and sponsored camps and picnics. The church also has supported worldwide mission efforts, giving more than $750,000.

The celebration will feature The Templetons, a quartet from Temple Baptist Church in Redford. For more information, call 525-3664.

M MARRIAGE ENCOUNTER

Marriage Encounter United Methodist will be held in the Detroit area Feb. 11-13. The encounter offers couples an opportunity to look deeply into their own relationship. It is open to couples regardless of faith, race, age, education or financial status. The book will feature pull tab selections - "Kids like apparatus things," Henneberry said.

Henneberry especially enjoys working with the Make-A-Wish Foundation, a group which strives to grant the wishes of terminally ill children.

His most touching memory is of a six-year-old North Carolina boy named Chase, who had liver cancer. His last wish was to meet an "American Gladiator."

"He died the afternoon I left," Henneberry said. The boy's mother dressed him in the T-shirt Henneberry gave him. Henneberry's photo was close by.

"There should be no quota on granting children wishes," Henneberry said.

In our time, we should worry about all of the Ten Commandments more than ever before. The contemporary moral attitude does not strongly support the observance of these time-hallowed precepts.

Up until modern times, there was little controversy about the validity of the Divine commands. True, there were those who rejected God's dictates, but they were prepared to accept the consequences. Because the Almighty was regarded as the Absolute Authority, He had the right to command that we abide by His moral code.

St. Vincent de Paul is the largest recycler of its kind in the metropolitan Detroit area. Detroitbased, the nonprofit organization employs more than 100 people. It has 16 retail outlets and 29 trucks that answer calls daily to pick up donated items, traveling from Monroe to Ann Arbor to Port Huron.

It prides itself on prompt service and recycling ability. It also is known as a "collector's paradise." It has one store devoted to books and records and another will soon be directed toward frames, oil paintings and prints.

St. Vincent de Paul contributes more than $1.5 million in goods through social service and parish organizations. It also gives away, at no charge, more than $3.5 million worth of food, appliances, furniture and clothing to families in need throughout southeastern Michigan.

In addition to the main warehouse and the stores on Grand River and in Port Huron and Flat Rock, St. Vincent de Paul stores can be found at 5200 E. McNichols, 5840 W. Fort, 14074 E. Then the mood of modern man changed this traditional concepnouncement that tion. Sophisticated and educated, people questioned whether God or anyone, for that matter, could issue commands without our veto. to 60 percent of They preferred to replace the Tenoriginal Commandments with 10 suggeslength, one wit tions. Let the individual decide said that he was for himself if he wants to follow eager to see the biblical code, or any code for that matter.

> These modernists brought up their children in the same atmosphere of relativism. They would not command them to do anything. They would only employ gentle persuasion at best. These elders remembered only too well that when they were told that God commanded, or when their parents imposed prescribed behavior, they resented the restrictions and promised themselves they would do nothing more than suggest without being authoritative. They would want their children to enjoy freedom and latitude in making up their own minds on moral issues. This, they believed, is how true respect is gained.

Unfortunately, the results have not been altogether encouraging. Those who grow up without clearly defined rules and respect for authority encounter great difficulty. Some become delinquent, others do not internalize standards of right and wrong. Many are goals and a sense of discipline.

Meanwhile, the statistics on crime and violence continue to mount in all the countries of the free world. The streets of our major cities are no longer considered safe as night falls. Fear has become a way of life for those who live in the deteriorating sections of America's urban centers.

In recent months, I have found myself nonplussed as I listen to friends and neighbors talk animatedly about the comparative merits of various alarm systems, particularly when the speaker climaxes his conversation by ruefully telling how he was raiding his refrigerator when the police raided his house. He had forgotten to turn off a motion detector device before he came downstairs.

To live in constant dread of authority and its demand can cripple the mind and stunt the spirit. By the same token, to live without fear of external authority, to ignore the consequences of disobedience and normlessness, to establish oneself and one's desires as the sole arbiter for right and wrong can be equally destructive.

I offer a parable of our times: It seems that in the year 2100, the world was still in a state of war, violence in the streets, increased crime and widespread social upheaval. The greatest scientists of the world met at the Unit-confused, lacking clearly defined ed Nations. They were enthralled with a new computer recently created that could answer any question submitted to it, even questions relating to complex human problems.

These scientists were summoned to request an answer from this giant computer on how to find a solution for peace, for a decrease of violence, for the elimination of corruption, stealing and murder.

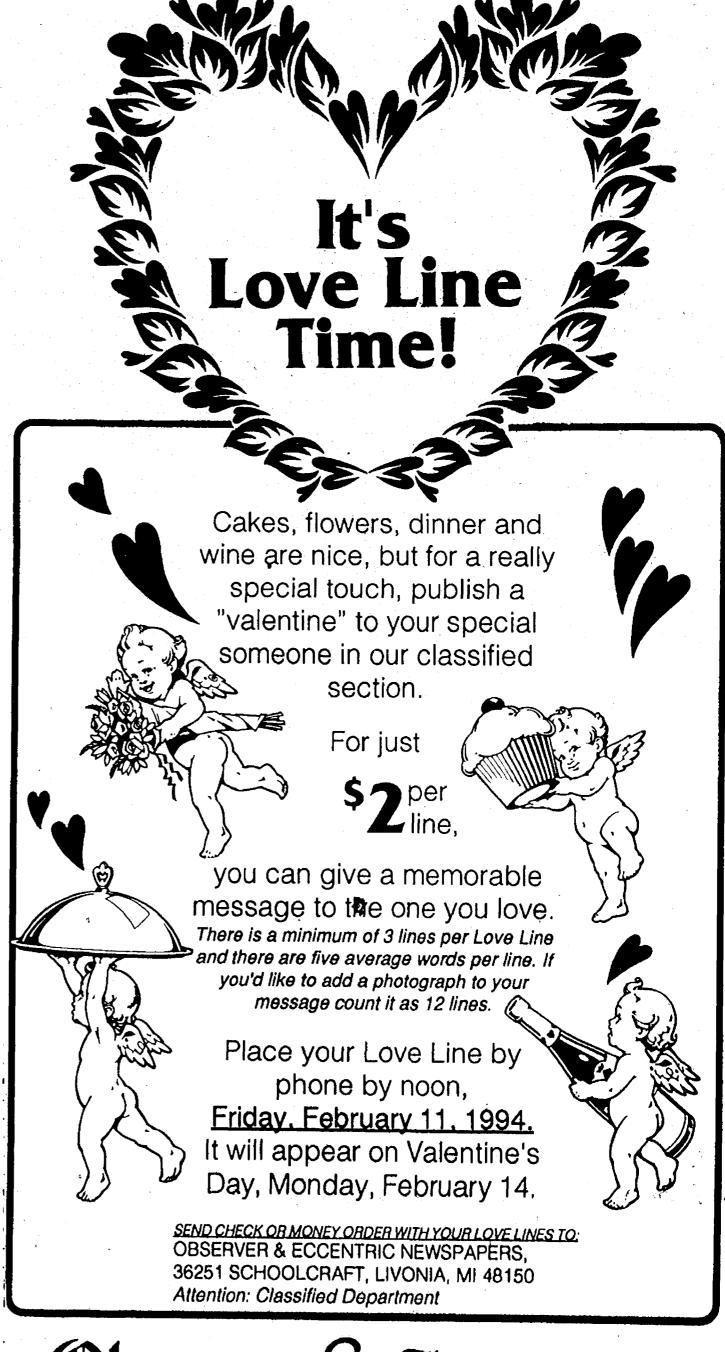

After days of assembling the proper material to feed the computer, the moment had come to receive an answer which would bring stability to the world. Scientists carefully programmed the information into the computer and waited for the answer. The vast machine began to gradually emerged. All the scientists gathered around and began to read the print-out message to the assembled world leaders: "I am the Lord your God who brought you out of the Land of Egypt . . . Thou shalt not murder . . . Thou shalt not steal . . . Thou shalt not bear false witness

Writer expresses her creativity through her handwriting

GREEN

Green,

I have recently become interested in graphology when I had to do a report on it. But it seems hard for me to analyze my own handwriting. I see your column in the Observer & Eccentric and am impressed by how much information you can give about someone with the little writing you receive. I'm 15, almost 16 years old and am right-handed. Thanks.

> Almost 16 in West Bloomfield

From my experience, I know it is indeed difficult to analyze one's own handwriting. I might also mention that I often have more handwriting to study than the amount I have space to show in . the paper.

When we first learn to write in school, we write as we are taught. However, those people who have a need to express their creativity soon develop a handwriting style of their own. Today's writer is one of these people.

Rarely do I select the handwriting of 15-year-olds for this column as their handwriting often makes many changes during the teen years before it settles into a set pattern. However, this is such a sophisticated 15-year-old that I felt I would like to share the handwriting with you.

Pervasive in her handwriting are signs of very high intelligence. She is not a stranger to culture and may also be quite a gifted young woman. Some indications. of this are (1) good spacing, (2) many I dots connected to the next letter, (3) elimination of beginning and ending strokes, (4) printed capital letters in cursive handwriting, and (5) fluent T bars that flow into the following

Her mind is resourceful and geared toward efficiency. She can discard the extraneous and get right down to the essentials.

She visualizes herself as an independent person who needs freedom and wants to do things in her own way. She also sees herself as a doer who brings about new changes. She is objective and lacks pretense.

In interpersonal relationships, she is often quite direct. Protocol may not be her first priority. Augmenting this is a tendency to have the last word in matters of importance to her. This might be difficult for her young friends to handle.

It seems quite possible that very early in life she had a need to break away from traditional norms and do her own thing. In her quest for independence, she probably became somewhat rebellious. She can also be impulsive at times.

When things do not happen as she might like them to, she engages in a little rationalizing. She impressed by how much informatione you can give about someone with the in writing you receive. I'm fifteen alm lixten years old and am right has in I want for you analization!

is probably talented at coming up ... If you would like to have your with all sorts of reasons why things did not work out.

With all the positives in her handwriting I am a little concerned that her goals are not always commensurate with her capabilities.

Seemingly, music provides enjoyment for her. The beauties of nature may also furnish pleasure.

Lincoln from page 1C

Prominent among them were were copies of casts made of the president's face and hands by sculptor Leonard Bolk in early 1860. The copies were one of 11 sets made of the original molds in 1929. The originals kept at the Smithsonian, were then broken, Petz said.

As the story goes, Bolk, at his wife's behest, did sketches of Stephen Douglas for a sculpture that now stands before the State Capitol in Springfield, Ill. He also did sketches of Lincoln, but had trouble with the president's angular features and asked if he could make a plaster cast of his face.

Lincoln agreed although later said it was "most disagreeable." Petz placed pieces of quills in Lincoln's nose so he could breath and placed cotton on his eyes before encasing his face back to his ears in plaster.

"He had to sit there for one hour and when the time was up Bolk asked the president to gently remove the mold," Petz said. "It was said the president had tears in his eyes when he took it off. It had taken the hair off his right temple." Bolk also got the president to agreed to casts of his large hands, asking that he would hold something in his one hand to show grip of the maul he used to split wood. The president used a portion of his wife Mary's broom. "The knuckles on his right hand were swollen," Petz said. "He had received representatives of the Republican Party Committee the day before who had come to tell him he was the Republican nomination for president. The townspeople were proud of that fact and that night 800 came to "The house wasn't big enough to receive them, so they filed through the front door and out the back and Lincoln shook hands with all of them."

Gifts to cherish

Petz acquired the copies from his mentor, Thomas Starr, who had worked on the telephone exhibit at Greenfield Village. He was given the set by Henry Ford in appreciation for his work. Ford had order two copies of the masks and had them shipped separately to avoid the risk of both sets being damaged. Both arrived in Detroit intact.

Petz also showed off two pictures of Lincoln taken within a five-year time span. The first was a copy of an original ambrotype, a form of photography in which a glass negative was backed by a dark surface to make it appear to be a positive.

The photo is a one of a kind, the original ambrotype, much small than the reproduction, is locked away in a bank vault. It was given to Petz by the son of Henry Leland of the Lincoln Car Co. fame. The older Leland had known Petz's great-grandfather.

The photo was taken when the then clean-shaven Lincoln was 51, prior to his becoming president. The second photograph was one of six copies of an original print taken four days before he was assassinated. The photo shows a bearded Lincoln with a slight smile. It was the last photo taken of him.

"He looked 30 years older when there only was 51/2 years difference between the photos," Petz said.

A close friend of Carl Sandberg, Petz also showed off one book of a six-volume work the author had done on Lincoln. Sandberg had given him the volume covering the war years and while he thought it odd, he discovered leafing through it that only the first 28 pages contained type. The remainder of the pages were blank.

"I couldn't figure out why he gave an unfinished book; what he gave me was the original printer's dummy for the work," Petz explained. "And I cherish it."

Another of his treasures is a biography of Lincoln that is less than an inch in size. The book is fully bound, with gilt edges. The letters are one-sixty-fourth of an inch high and each page contains 90 words. Only 25 copies of the book were made.

"The printer cast all the letters in metal, cut them apart and put them in a frame and printed the book page by page," Petz explained.

The book isn't the smallest in the world. One even smaller was done and sold for $6,000. Petz didn't get it for his collection "because my wife likes things like washers and dryers.'

At 72, Petz has begun deciding what will be done with his massive collection. He told the Town Hall crowd he is working on the sale of his collection. Some of his treasures will stay with the family, but the rest "should be used by young people.' "Kids today don't even know when Lincoln or Washington's birthdays are," Petz lamented, "because now we have President's Day so stores can have sales.'

A few Lincoln facts To say Abraham Lincoln was Lincoln's stepmother. Sarah

the 16th president of the United States doesn't quite say enough about the family. Here are a few things you might not have known about "honest Abe" and his rela-

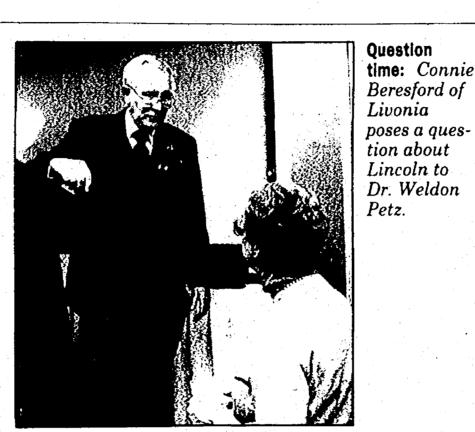

■ Lincoln's genealogy has been traced back 10 generations to Hingham, England, a small town northeast of London. It was Samuel Lincoln who brought the name to the United States, arriving as an indentured servant in Hingham, Mass. Abraham Lincoln's side of the family was prosperous by pioneer standards with doctors, lawyers, inventors, statesmen and generals. Lincoln's grandmother, named Bethsheba, was "an old pioneer woman when Washington became president"-who lived almost long enough to see her grandson become the 16th president. She was 109 when she died.

Bush Johnson, whom he called his other mother, saw him for the last time when he was on his way to Washington for his inauguration. She predicted that that would be their last visit because & "he would die in office."

■ It was during his campaign for the presidency that he grew his beard because of the the suggestion of 111/2-year-old Grace Bedell. The youngster wrote Lincoln, suggesting he grow whiskers after seeing a campaign photograph. He wrote back, saying the people might think it a "silly affectation" if he grew a beard, but when his train to Washington stopped in her hometown, he had a chance to ask her how she liked the whiskers.

Lincoln was asked to speak at Gettysburg just three weeks before the the consecretion of the battlefield.

County parks officials, friends group win honors

The Wayne County Park System, headed by Hurley J. Coleman Jr., has been singled out for three special awards at the Michigan Recreation and Parks Association statewide meeting next month.

Wayne County Park System director Coleman and the Friends of Wayne County Parks are the recipients of top state awards, while recreation manager Anastasia "Tessie" Pitses has been named to the MRPA board.

Coleman will be honored with a fellowship award from the Michigan Recreation and Park Association.

The award is presented to an active member of MRPA for significant, longstanding contributions toward the betterment of parks, forestry and recreation.

It is considered the highest honor for recreation and parks professionals in Michigan.

The Friends of Wayne County Parks will receive the MRPA's community service award.

The honor is given to organizations that have made outstanding contributions to the community.

Pitses will serve on the board for the 1994-1995 term. She served as a deputy director of MRPA before joining the Wayne County Park System.

Coleman will receive his award at the group's banquet Monday,

Feb. 7 in Traverse City.

"Hurley has done a remarkable job with our parks system and deserves this level of recognition," said Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara.

"When we hired him in 1988, families used to be afraid to come to places like Hines Park. This year we had more than 200,000 people use that park just to see the Festival of Lights display.

"He has brought a new professionalism to Wayne County's parks and given them back to the families," McNamara said.

Coleman was named Wayne County parks director in 1989.

The friends group will be honored at a celebrity luncheon on Tuesday, Feb. 8.

Accepting the award on behalf of the organization will be the group's executive director, Kathleen Lewand.

Winner: Wayne County Parks director Hurley J. Coleman Jr. won a fellowship award from the Michigan Recreation and Park Association.

Area representatives of Nacel Cultural Exchanges are offering a $50 discount to teens who sign up for a European vacation before Jan. 31.

The four-week "homestays" are available in France, the Ivory Coast, Spain, Mexico and Germany during the summer. Participants will live with families in their chosen countries.

"I feel I learned more during those weeks abroad about France's language and culture than (in) all of my school classes combined," said Rebecca Vol-lenweider. "I had a lot of fun and am looking forward to going back."

The cost for these homestays range from $1,125 for Mexico to $2,110 for the Ivory Coast, which includes airline tickets and insurance. Spending money is the only additional expense. Meals will be provided by host families.

Hit the heights with our sunflower contest

unflowers! They make tall exclamation points in gardens and add a ray of sunshine even on cloudy days. There are many varieties of these flowers, some with the traditional yellow rays, while others have been bred for color - banded gold, orange, burgundy, bronze and white.

Many varieties of annual sunflowers are suitable for our gardens. This year, the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers are having a contest to see who can grow the tallest sunflower plant from seed. So get out your catalogs and peruse the seed packets in the stores so that you can join in the fun.

Background

Sunflowers originated in South America and the American Southwest. The Incas used them extensively and put their likeness on their art. They were used by American Indians as food, as dye plants and in poultices. Colonists learned from the Indians and also found other uses for this plant - food for cattle, a coffee substitute and "tobacco." The oil was used in cooking, soap and candlemaking.

Today, sunflower oil is used as a cooking oil and in industry. The seeds are eaten raw or roasted by humans, and used in birdseed and poultry mixtures. Some cultures still use them as our forefathers did.

As Europeans came to America, they took the seeds back to their countries where they were cultivated with much success. As a result, many new cultivars were developed. Plants originally from America were hybridized so well in the Soviet Union that even today, these same cultivars are grown here for commercial purposes.

There was a sort of one-upmanship about growing sunflowers in Europe. Gerard reported growing one 14 feet tall. It was reported that one in the Royal Garden in Madrid reached 24 feet. The Italians boasted that one in Padua topped out at 40 feet. So our contest can be a little continuation of something that happened long ago. Sunflowers are in the Compositae family (includes daisy, chamomile, dandelion), and the best-known genus is Helianthus (from the Greek helios for sun, and anthos for flower), which contains 150 species. Some of the annual species that can range from five to 15 feet in height are Mammoth Russian, Full Sun, Giant Grey Stripe, Sunbeam, Mammoth, Russian Giant, Inca Jewels, Evening Star and Evening Sun. Although the rays provide the beauty to these flowers, the achenes (the parts in the center) contain the little seeds that are so loved. The entire flower is called the head.

See GARDEN, 2D

MARTY FIGLEY

Headstrong: The grower of the sunflower with the largest verified head will earn an honorable mention in the High Hopes contest.

Westland artist to teach pastel portraiture

By Linda Ann Chomin Special Writer

Learn the finer points of rendering a portrait of your favorite aports celebrity in a series of workshops on dry media at The Art Gallery, 30116 Ford Road, Garden City.

Known for her drawings of star athletes, award-winning artist Laurel Raisanen of Westland will teach the pastel portraiture sessions for six weeks beginning Feb. 3. Cost is $8 per week. Classes are scheduled Thursdays 10 a.m. to noon, 2-4 p.m. and 6-8

"I would encourage people to give it a try because they could create some. thing very beautiful. It's very relaxing, drawing and painting, and you learn to take a look and see things, to study them," said Norma McQueen, gallery director.

During the pastel classes, Raisanen will cover construction of the face, how to apply pastel to the basic sketch and add detail to the eyes, nose and mouth. "The goal is to help them develop their eye to break the face down with space relationships and to get a good likeness to learn how to draw faces,"

Raisanen said. Students should bring any pastels and paper they may already have to the first class. At that time, Raisanen will talk about paper and supplies, offering them at cost to any who wish to

'We'll start with five or six basic colors to keep costs down because pastels can run $50 to $60 a set," she buy them.

Steve Yzerman, Cecil Fielder, Secretariat, Seattle Slew- Raisanen sees all these star athletes as challenges; that's why she spends hundreds of hours drawing them. "They're all winners because of all the years they put in practicing and striving to be the best they can be,"

Raisanen's love of horses shows in her portraits of the thoroughbred racing dynamos. The time she spent working as a groom at the Detroit Race Course in Livonia, coupled with intense studies, gave Raisanen the knowledge to portray the beautiful animals' muscle and bone structure. It's not getting the musculature right so much as getting down the correct proportions, she says.

Following Raisanen's pastel portraiture classes at The Art Gallery, six weeks of oil and watercolor painting will be taught by well-known area art instructor Sharon Dillenbeck of Canton Township. The wet media workshops take place March 17 to April 21. Cost is $10 a session. They run Thursdays 1-3 p.m. and 7-9 p.m.

To register for classes, call McQueen at 261-0379 or stop by The Art Gallery during buginess hours noon to 5 p.m. Thursday to Saturday.

Scoring point: Laurel Raisanen will lead a series of pastel painting workshops in Garden City.

Bonsai Club sets meeting

The Four Seasons Bonsai Club of Michigan presents a free public lecture on growing indoor bonsai trees by Jack Wikle, noted regional bonsai master of Tecumseh, 2-4:30 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 30, at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, 814 N. Campbell, Royal Oak.

Light refreshments will be served. The church is one mile west of I-75. Enter on the porch facing Campbell. For more information, call Marge Clayton at 810-667-0185 or Rosalind Evanoff at 810-354-6119.

New officers elected for 1994 are Rick Mikulak of Dearborn, president; Mark Makahon of Sterling Heights, vice president; Marge Clayton of Lapeer, secretary/newsletter; Olga Mirakiou of Oakland, treasurer; and Elves Malfonte of Farmington Hills, Audrey Donner of Farmington Hills and Vance Hanna of Bloomfield Hills, directors. Appointled were Nina Michalik of West Bloomfield, library, and Rosalind Evanoff of Southfield, pubplants last year. Both had tall sunflowers after the second year of sowing seed.

B.F. Landuyt of Beverly Hills found three volunteer sunflowers where some had grown the year before. One had reached the lofty height of 61/4 feet, another was catching up, while the third was cut down, probably by a squirrel. Landuyt had planted "just the common one" and fertilized them with water-soluble Rapid Gro (23-19:17) when he fed his other Alexandra Ravitsky of West Bloomfield also had sown seeds two years ago that produced "just regular-sized plants." Last spring, two seedlings came up and when they were about two inches tall, she transplanted them to another area of the garden, where they developed huge leaves and grew more than 10 feet tall. She planted the seedlings where she had applied topsoil but used no fertilizer.

Both Landuyt and Ravitsky have saved seeds — so the race is

Plans for planting

Seeds can be sown outside up to two weeks before the last frost date - generally April 25 in this area. They like a well-drained soil, rich in nutrients with neutral pH (6.0-7.5), lots of sun and extra water especially during dry spells.

HIGH HOPES CONTEST

Seed head is to be measured diagonally

We're looking for the tallest sunflower, and for the sunflower with the largest seed head, grown in the 1994 season through July 28. The sunflower's height is to be measured from the soil level to the base of the head where the stem attaches to the flower. The head is to be measured diagonally. If you're raising a super sunflower, let us know. Call 313-953-2047, Ext. 1859, or 810-901-2569; fax 810-644-1314; or write the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham 48009. Deadline is 5 p.m. July 29.

decorative accessories and primarily early American country furniture, buy their antiques "in Maine and out East," said Jim Taylor, a teacher at Seaholm High School in Birmingham. "We buy from 'pickers,' who go knocking door to door, the farmhouses, searching for antiques that may have been in families for generations."

The Taylors' booth will include a collection of inkwells, spool cabinets used in country stores to hold thread, an 1850 step-back pine cupboard from Maine, a turn-of-the-century bride's trunk, end tables, one-drawer stands, deacon's benches, blanket chests, silver, jars and perfumes, tea sets, Oriental porcelain, including Tmari, Rose Medallion and Canton, Flow-Blue china, early American country furniture, brass, copper, small wooden boxes, lamps, candlesticks, and accessories.

"We'll have a lot of 'smalls,' a lot of 'tabletops,' "said Taylor. There are many advantages to buying antiques, the least of which is owning a piece of history like a rocking chair that made it through the Civil War era.

"Antiques are a good investment, something you can enjoy. No two are alike," said Jim Tay-

Besides those reasons, DeDe Taylor added, "antiques tell a story, a history."

And along with that, it's becoming trendy, she said: "It's not just people who decorate their homes in antiques buying from a variety, with something for evthem. A lot of people who decorate with contemporary are vanced collectors and it's for a buying brass and copper accents Blaisdell, who with husband John owns Blaisdell Antiques. has her own set of reasons for loving antiques. "Having things of the past around us takes us back to better times. Antiques warm, they give a personality to a home. You can express yourself through collectibles.'

The Blaisdells are surrounded with the past in their contemporary colonial home in Plymouth.

Blaisdell's booth will offer a collection of pitchers; an oak dresser and commode, assorte,d furniture in a mixture of woods, a turn-of-the-century child's desk, plant stands, a late 1800s bowl and pitcher set, an ironstone Tea Leaf, Stafforshire, glass, lamps. and shades in country plaids and designs. If people want to order custom shades, Blaisdell reminds them to bring their swatches.

Blaisdell finds that of late, she's been buying more and more glass and china. When asked what trends she sees in other's antique purchases right now, Blaisdell says, "The country look is still in but people are getting away from the primitives, the things that look beat up, and moving toward Victorian and pretty things."

The Taylors have done the Plymouth show at least a dozen

"The Plymouth show is a good show with a nice mix of antiques," said Jim Taylor. "It has eryone, from young couples to adgood cause, the Plymouth Sym-

Don't freeze at photography in winter

For those of you who live in cold climates or for those who live in the South but travel to snow country, winter photography can reward you with fabulous shots for your photo album.

But cold weather photography can present you with some problems that make shooting more difficult than during fair weather.

While photographers who live in a very cold climate are accustomed to such conditions, anyone used to more temperate weather can get caught unprepared.

Before setting off to take photographs in very cold conditions, you should spend some time preparing your equipment and your own clothing. Almost any camera can be operated normally to about zero degrees, but at temperatures lower than this, difficulties may start to occur.

Why do cameras function less efficiently in the cold? The most common reason is loss of battery power. Batteries not only operate the metering system, but also operate the shutter on most newer cameras. Batteries work by chemical reactions that always proceed more slowly at lower temperatures. Solution: Keep the battery in your pocket until just ready to shoot. Take your shots, then place the battery back in your pocket to keep it warm.

There are precautions you should take, too, for photographing in very cold weather. Dress warmly, in layers, and make sure your clothing allows easy access to cameras and lenses. Wear two pairs of gloves — a heavy outer pair and a thin inner pair. Remove the outer gloves when you're ready to shoot. The thin pair will keep your hands warm yet will enable you to work all camera controls.

In cold weather, you must take special care with your film. Because it can become brittle, advance it carefully and slowly as you run through the roll (turn off your power winder) and rewind it carefully, too.

Besides the physical problems of working in low temperatures, there are other considerations.

A major one is exposure. Snow-covered scenery is quite different from the average scene and the meter can be fooled. Remember that all meters are programmed to read average gray, so with snow scenes, be sure to overexpose a stop or two in order to produce a good negative.

When you come in out of the cold, pay special attention to your camera. Water vapor in a heated room condenses on cold metal and glass surfaces and your camera will become covered with moisture. No damage will be done, just be sure to wipe off your camera.

There you have it. During the next cold snap, get out and snap some prize-winning shots.

it's a snap: The temperature was below zero, but by keeping himself and his equipment warm, Monte Nagler was able to bring home this exciting shot of Michigan's Taquamenon

Boost value

Improving your home can yield tax saving

Undertaking home remodeling projects may offer you more than just personal satisfaction. Some home improvement projects also may be bring tax advantages, according to the Farmington Hills-based Michigan Association of CPAs.

Tax implication

Capital improvements, such as replacing a roof, landscaping a yard and updating a bathroom, can be added to the basis of your home and decrease your taxable project when you sell it.

Be aware that some home projects are merely repairs that do not add to the basis of your residence. A capital improvement must add to your home's value, prolong its life or adapt part of your home to a new use.

When deciding which home improvement to make, also look at the trends in home sales and consider the features most important to home buyers in your area. For example, adding an outside deck may give you a better return on your investment than installing oak trim and handrails throughout your house.

When making your improvements, consider home prices in your neighborhood. If you want to recover your costs when you sell your home, don't undertake projects that elevate your property value above the neighborhood norm.

How will you pay?

Try not to borrow money for small projects - $3,000 or less. Instead, pay with cash. If your home improvement is larger in scope, there are a number of financing alternatives to

If you've lived in your home for a while and have built up equity in it, you may be able to obtain a homeequity line of credit. The benefit of using home-equity loans is that, unlike consumer interest, home-equity interest is fully deductible, except for three bids. certain high-income individuals who itemized deductions.

Home-equity debt may not exceed the home's value or $100,000 ($50,000 in the case of a married individual filing separately).

You also may finance a large remodeling project by refinancing your home at a lower interest rate. This may enable you to keep your monthly payments about the same, even if you take out a larger mortgage to finance a home improvement.

Another financing alternative is a home-improvement loan. Although you may be able to obtain the funding you need in a matter of weeks, the terms of the loan can be expensive. Home improvement loans generally have short repayment terms.

In most cases, it's wise to aovid financing a home improvement through credit cards. The interst rate on these cards is likely to be higher than on the loans mentioned above and the interest also in nondeductible.

Be wary about allowing a contractor or remodeling company to provide the financing. Since there has been a great deal of fraud in this area, it's wise to check out the company's reputation with regulatory authorities before making a commitment.

Selecting a contractor

Once you've decided on a project and have determined how it will be financed, look for a contractor. Obtain recommendations from people who have hired individuals for similar projects and be sure to obtain has built an unusual new home

Keating, 45, can show prospective buyers nine models, not renderings or photographs, but actual houses they can walk through. He can help find a lot to place the model, arrange a mortgage and, if necessary, find a second job to pay for everything.

All of this under one roof in a 93,000-square-foot warehouse off Halsted, between Nine Mile and Grand River, which he calls Keating's Home Town.

"This is Dream Street," he said pointing to seven models arranged in a square. And with the house lights dimmed amid the sights and sounds of a babbling fountain and artificial landscaping, it actually looks like a piece of small-town

Suburban contractors upbeat about Archer

BY DOUG FUNKE STAFF WRITER

Suburban contractors may have received the signal they were looking for last week when Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer spoke to their professional association about doing business in the big city.

Members of the Detroit chapter Associated General Contractors of America agree that the potential for work in Detroit is great. Several expressed their thoughts on what it will take to get the redevelopment ball rolling.

'We would hope the atmosphere, the energy Archer seems to exert will renew confidence so developers will. invest and put money in the city," said Richard Millgard, executive vice president of the Millgard Corp. in Livonia.

"Instead of building walls, I think Archer will work to enhance building," Millgard said.

quirements established by previous have to have attractive economic mayoral order, especially as they concern residency, Millgard suggested.

"I don't think it will happen overnight, but, again, it goes to immediate confidence," he added. Larry Dailey, chairman of Perini Building Central U.S. Division in Southfield, said he believes that Archer will be a breath of fresh air.

"I think Coleman (Young) tried to do a job, but became kind of one-dimensional," Dailey said. "Dennis seems to want to work with (Wayne County Executive Edward) McNamara and (Oakland County Executive L. Brooks) Patterson.

"He (Archer) looks at it not just as Part of that may involve relaxing a Detroit issues, but a metro issue," or rethinking existing work crew re- Dailey said. "Developers are going to

"The challenge is so big, you just have to work area by area," he continued. "One of the biggest things vou can do is get enterprise zones, grants and tax breaks by the federal government. That can start growth."

Thomas H. Landry, president of A.J. Etkin Construction in Farmington Hills, also is president of the Detroit chapter. "One person being positive and focusing on a vision can create a spirit and vitality,' Landry said. "To achieve a dream, you have to have a dream."

Archer can help developers by cutting through red tape and promoting enterprise zones, Landry suggested. Contractors can help by looking at their costs of doing business and proa-warehouse concept. He eventually found a half-dozen investors.

They leased a large warehouse in Farmington Hills — "the ceiling height, it's 271/2 feet, and it's a good location for us" — and spent about three months setting up. The official grand opening was Jan. 15.

When completely finished, Keating's Home Town will feature a child-care room, a nature center, and a vending/eating area where suppliers like Carrier, Honeywell and Detroit Edison can exhibit their goods and conduct demonstrations, Keating said.

There is no admission charge and visitors will be taken on guided tours through the models.

"Our mission is to educate people," Keating said. "People who want $200,000 can go fend for themselves. People who want to buy for $75,000, $80,000 need help.

"We have special financing. We have employment agencies here for people who need supplemental income. We have credit counselors here if people need help with that.

"We are not builders here, we're coordinators," he emphasized.

While Keating designs the models, the units actually are built in Indiana or Marlette, Mich., and purchased by individual buyers through the builders who reassemble the units on lots.

The nine models ranging from a 1,093-square-foot ranch to a 2,104-square-foot, two-story country home all are priced at less than $100,000, even with upgraded options.

The models can be constructed over a basement or crawl space. Garages are standard on some models, extra on others. Keating expects two models to be especially popular.

Expressions, a ranch of 1,203 square feet, has an option of three bedrooms or two bedrooms and a study. The base price with basement is $73,600, crawl space $70,200.

"People love it when kids can be on one side of the house, parents on the other," he said.

Then there's the Freedom, a 1,093-square-foot, barrier-free ranch priced at $80,200 with basement, $75,400 with crawl space.

"Look at the large thermostat, (electrical) plugs are off the floor, wide hallways, space for a wheelchair under the kitchen sink, a wheel-in shower," Keating said.

Lots cost extra. Buyers of the models can arrange their own financing and find their own building site or use the services provided by Michigan Lot Exchange, a Keating subsidiary, or Nationwide Mortgage at Home Town.

Modular homes have the same building codes as stickbuilt, site construction, Keating said. His prices include a 15-year warranty and one-year layoff insurance policy to pay the mortgage, utilities and medical insurance and child care as part of the base price.

Gordon Blake is spokesman for the major investors of Home Town.

"My confidence in this concept, the people involved and the opportunity to get a return on my investment - and to give back to society — prompted my involvement," he said.

Raymond Anderson is an area builder who will link up with Keating.

"I think it's nice you can show people what their house is going to look like," Anderson said. "People are amazed. The quality of the houses is fine. There's nothing wrong with that at all."

Joe Slavik, owner of a Farmington Hills building company. serves as an advisor to Keat-

"The key in this is you market housing like you market automobiles," Slavik said.
"You have a big showroom with all the models and styles where people can come and have all their questions answered."

Keating figures he can get customers into a house within 90 days if there's no hold-up on municipally issued building permits.

"Really, this is the least risky of all (marketing strategies)," Keating said. "I have six markets under one roof. In a subdivision, you only have one market and if you're wrong, .you're in trouble.

"This is a fun experience and a learning experience. This will attract the public."

viding employment opportunities for city residents.

The crime problem has been addressed in areas of the city that have experienced a renaissance -Harbortown, Victoria Place and Riverfront, Landry said. He's also impressed with Archer's commitment to education. "Quality of life is a concern of everybody, obviously," Landry said. "You need a trickle before it can pour. That's what's happen-Art Shmina, chairman of A.Z. Shmina in Livonia,

"I don't think Archer should be looked upon as an entity of Detroit. He's quality all the way and sets a tone for the area. At that point, there must be encouragement of private enterprise through laws about anything that restricts our activity.

"Taxes, I think, have got to be lowered," Shmina

Bill McCarthy, president of McCarthy & Smith in Redford Township, sees a need to attract new business and then better efforts to expedite the construction process once it starts.

"You've got to go out looking for industry to locate in the area," McCarthy said. "It won't be automotive. They won't spend in the city.'

And about the paperwork process?

"The whole attitude here was very poor," McCarthy recalled. "It was tough to get permits. Inspections? Impossible. You're probably going to have to do something about taxes in the city, too. Income and property taxes are out of touch.'

"It's going to take time and patience. Don't get your expectations so high you'll be disappointed. It takes year to cultivate an environment. Investors perceive hospitality, a good investment.

"A city has to be safe, clean, well managed. If he can get the garbage picked up, buses run on time, crime is better, education - that's what it's going to take," Smith said. "Can one man make a difference? You better believe it."

Frank Smith, president of the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce, said: "We have 11,200 companies as members, only 25 percent in the city. We're regional. Our whole perspective is this mar-

Cut to core when window shopping

Windows are not just windows anymore. Energysaving inert gas fills the gap between panes, special coatings let in light but not heat, and window blinds can operate between the panes to keep clear of dust and damage.

"If energy savings are important, don't stop with how a window looks," says Paul Martin, territory sales manager, Pella Window and Door Co., Livonia. "The decision should include the frame materi-

"Because most window performance characteristics depend on the frame to work properly, it's a critical place to start. The greatest difference in windows is still the product it's made of - solid wood, vinyl plastic or hollow metal."

Wood and vinyl frames have a stronghold on the window market, in large part due to the energy-efficiency problems of aluminum frames. Wood, a natural insulator, has more than 1,500 items the thermal resistance of metal.

BASELINE NEWS

Four new mayors, including Arnold Campbell of Farmington and Lawrence Lichtman of Farmington Hills, have joined the Eight Mile Boulevard Association board of directors.

At a November meeting, the board decided that businesses, community groups and individuals may join the association as associate members. Associate members will receive a quarterly newsletter and annual report and will pay discounted fees for the annual meeting and other events the organization may sponsor.

Early this year, a membership invitation will be sent to more than 600 names on the association's mailing list. The group also will use direct mail to recruit some 3,000 businesses along Eight Mile from Farmington Hills to Harper Woods.

Dues are $8 for individuals, $18 for nonprofit organizations and $28 for businesses. For an advance membership application, call 810-559-8633.

M AHHH, SUN ROOFS

Representatives from Auto Sunroof and Accessories of Troy, a sales and service center for ASC Inc. sunroofs, visited ASC's 112,000-square-foot plant in Columbus, Ohio.

The new facility has the capacity to produce 500,000 sunroofs annually. ASC manufactures power, venting and sliding sunroofs and factory models for the Honda Accord EX and Chrysler LH models at the Ohio facility.

■ SPEED VIDEO MESSAGES

Fiber optic cabling has been installed at MVP Communications on-site studio in Troy, creating a faster, less expensive way to send video messages.

The fiber connection links MVP with the Ameritech switching center in downtown Detroit. From there, the video signal can be routed to its destination by fiber optic cables or to a satellite uplink station for transmission.

In the past, MVP needed one to two days to set up a portable uplink outside of their studio. With the fiber optic link, the cost to transmit a video signal will be reduced by one-half to two-thirds the cost of the portable uplink, the company said.

M AIR BAG VENTURE

Southfield-based AlliedSignal Automotive, Sequa's Atlantic Research Corp. and BPD Defesa e Spazio (Gilardini) of Italy have formed a three-way venture to supply advanced air bag inflators to European automakers.

The group, named BAG S.p.A., will design, produce and sell hybrid inflators for driver and passenger-side air bags. It will be the first company to produce hybrid inflators for driver-side bags. The inflators provide a cost-efficient way to inflate air bags, using compressed argon gas that operates on the principle that heated gas expands.

AlliedSignal has also signed an agreement to acquire the seat belt business of Gilardini. Terms of the agreement were not an-

M SCORE OFFICE

Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) opened a new office in the Buell Management Building at Lawrence Technological University, Southfield, Jan. 4

SCORE helps people start their own business and assists people already in business, says Jack Caminker, SCORE's coordinating counselor at Lawrence Tech.

SCORE counselors typically have 20-45 years of experience in various areas of business, including personnel, marketing, advertising, accounting, engineering, sales and taxes. Advisors can help prospective business owners prepare a business plan and marketing strategy, says Caminker, whose background includes 40 years in real estate management.

Counseling is free and business seminars are $15 to $30.

For an appointment, call 810-356-0200, ext. 3053, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. Counseling is scheduled Tuesday and Friday mornings.

EXECUTIVE AGENCY

Continental Search Associates, a Bloomfield Hills executive placement agency, has opened Continental Interim Executives, providing temporary senior level executives, superintendents and managers for a range of industries.

"The new company offers our clients more flexibility in the staffing process," said William R. Dewey, Continental Search president. "Our clients have gone through great changes during the last recession, and we have widened our spectrum of services to meet the growing demand for alternative hiring arrangements. Professional temporaries are increasingly used by corporations as part of their business plan."

The Continental Group is at 1100 N. Woodward, Suite 224. The telephone number is 810-644-4506.

TOP DEALER

Richard A. Mealey, president of Birmingham Chrysler-Plymouth, Birmingham, is among 17 dealers in the U.S. and Canada to receive the Dealer Education Award from Northwood University, Midland, in San Francisco this month.

Dr. David E. Fry, Northwood president, said Mealey's up-todate employee training has produced sales and service achievement and frequent recognition from manufacturers. The dealer was also singled out for supporting programs at Michigan Technological University, Houghton, and Oakland University, Rochester Hills.
