Judge questions Bennett tape

A tape-recorded phone conversation between a high school athlete and her coach is troubling District Judge C. Charles Bokos, who is concerned by the girl's claim that she didn't consent to the taping. A decision on whether the tape was legally made is expected May 3.

BY DARRELL CLEM

A Westland judge is questioning the legality of a tape-recorded phone conversation between a John Glenn High School girls basketball player who marks one month in jail Tuesday for a highly public sex scandal.

District Judge C. Charles Bokos said he is troubled by testimony from the 16-year-old girl that she didn't know authorities were taping a March and former coach Patrick Bennett, 6 phone call that she made to Bennett, 33, from the Wayne Police Department.

The girl, 15 at the time, said during a preliminary hearing Thursday that she wasn't asked to consent to the taping, which Bennett's attorney has labeled "a set up" and an invasion of privacy.

The teen's testimony contradicted statements by her mother and by prosecuting attorney Margaret Rynier, who insisted Thursday that the issue was discussed March 6 in Rynier's office before the call was made later

"She knew," the mother testified about her daughter. "She understood that. She agreed to it readily."

Rynler has submitted the tape and a transcript of the conversation as evidence to support allegations against Bennett, who is charged with thirddegree criminal sexual conduct and obstructing justice. The latter charge stems from allegations that Bennett told the girl not to cooperate with authorities.

Bennett, a 10-year girls basketball coach, was arrested at the Farmington Hills Kroger store where he

Victim stumbled into illegal gun sale

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WAITER

Murder defendant Keith Lamont Burns admitted that a Canton Township woman was slain when she atumbled upon an illegal gun sale at a Westland apartment complex where she worked, but he claims he didn't kill her, a police sergeant testified Thursday,

Burns, in a statement to police, said he was selling a 9mm gun to an- inary examination before 18th Disother man at Hunters West apartments when maintenance worker Boonshoun Andrew, 50, was strangled and pistoi-whipped on the head, Westland police Sgt. Tom Kubitskey said in court.

But police have rejected Burns' claim that Andrew was killed by the second man, who isn't a murder suspect, Kubitskey said during a prelim-trict Judge Gail McKnight. The hearing ended with Burns, 27, being ordered to stand trial on first-degree murder and felony firearms charges. He would face life in prison without parole if convicted as charged. Andrew, described by relatives as a caring woman who took vegetables to senior citizen residents at Hunters West, was found lying face down about 9:15 a.m. March 29 in a bloodspattered hallway near a first-floor indoor swimming pool, police said.

Residents saw a suspect matching Burns' description fleeing the scene, and he was captured a half-hour later when police chased and captured him in a neighborhood near the high-rise complex, located a half-mile south of

'Loan closet' open for accident victims

BY DARRELL CLEM

Medical expenses can be devastating for victims injured in car accidents, fires and other mishaps, perticularly if insurance coverage is lacking. Families can also be put in a financial crunch if they have to buy wheelchairs, crutches or walkers.

To help residents get the medical equipment they need on a temporary basis, Westland firefighters for 29 years have operated a "loan closet" that's free of charge to people in need. Even before that, volunteer firefighters extended a hand when the city was known as Nankin Township.

But the loan closet itself occasionally needs help to buy equipment, and that's where the city's more fortunate residents come in. Donations of money or medical equipment, including "anything that would help somebody become mobile," can be given at any time, said Sgt. Michael Muscat, who coordinates the project.

The loan closet is located at Westland Fire Station No. 3, 1850 Northgate, Westland, 48185. Donations and medical equipment also can be dropped off at the station, at Northgate and Palmer between Merriman and Venoy.

Workers praised

Two Wayne-Westland school district maintanence workers were honored during last week's school board meeting for averting a possible boiler explosion at Wayne Memorial High School last month. Workers Ken Dahn and Ron Beck risked their lives to fix a boiler that Superintendent Lar ry Thomas said was "out of control." The incident occurred during after-school hours. School board member Leurei Raisenen told Dahn and Beck that "you didn't think of yourself, you just thought of the school and what you had to do."

Rivers, in her first term, said that she expects to talk about tax-related issues, entitlements, Social Security and other things affecting senior citizens. The program, to be held from 7-9 p .m., is designed to give residents a chance to "air their views and concerns as well as to become better informed about what is taking piace in Washington," a spokesman said, worked.

The girl's father, who also was in Hynier's office on March 6, testified Thursday that he didn't remember authorities asking his daughter to consent to the taping.

Ruling due May 3

Bokos delayed a ruling on the issue until May 3, when the Westland hearing is expected to conclude. He said his understanding of state law is that either the girl or Bennett would have had to know of the taping.

The judge said he is concerned not only about the consent issue, but also by testimony that a Wayne police sergeant provided the girl with questions that she posed to Bennett about their sexual relations.

Bennett faces identical charges in Westland and Wayne, amid allegations that he and the 10th-grade girl had sex in both cities. The girl has testified that she and Bennett had sex at his Wayne residence and at a Westland house that he was watching for out-oftown friends.

Authorities have said the relationship began last fall,

In an attempt to ease Bokos' concerns about the taping, Rynier argued that the girl's mother also consented. That, alone, would make the evidence admissable because the teen was a minor, Rynier said.

In turn, Bokos asked Rynier to provide him with past cases supporting her claims that the mother's consent was sufficient.

After Rynler gave Bokos her word that the issue of taping was raised with the girl, defense attorney Irving Tukel raised questions about whether Rynier should be prosecuting the case. Tukel argued that Rynier's statements. made her a witness, but Bokos didn't move to dismiss Rynier.

Under questioning from Tukel, the girl again testified that she didn't want Bennett to be prosecuted.

"Is it your desire, your wish, to prosecute Pat Bennett?" Tukel asked.

"No," the girl said.

Mother testifies

The teen's mother testified that her daughter has lied to try to protect Bennett. The girl, whose parents are divorced, has moved out of her mother's house to live with her father.

The mother also said she found cards that Bennett gave to the "stole them from me" and disposed of them.

The girl has testified that she ingjustice.

flushed some of the cards down a toilet and gave others back to Bennett.

The mother has expressed grief that her daughter won't speak to her or even look at her.

Bennett remains jailed in lieu of a $50,000 cash bond. Although he is awaiting a ruling in Westland, he already has been ordered to stand trial by Wayne District Judge Carolyn Archbold.

His hearing in Wayne concluded last Monday. Archbold allowed the tape and transcript to be admitted as evidence, saying she believed statements made by Rynier and the girl's mother that the taping of the phone conversation was handled properly.

Bennett could face a maximum girl. But she said her daughter of 15 years in prison if convicted on the sex charges. He could face five years if convicted of obstruct-

Burns told police that the second man beat Andrew "real hard with the gun" and then dropped the weapon on the floor, Kubitskey said. The statement, read aloud by the sergeant, made no mention of Andrew being strangled by her own bandanns, which she often wore to work.

Westland police found the gun and the clothing in the apartment, Kubitskey said.

Burns' statement came after he had earlier lied to police by telling them that he had been at his grandmother's house at the time of the murder, Kubitskey said. Police discounted that story after investigating it, he said.

Defense attorney Kal Najar argued that evidence against Burns was circumstantial and "not very persuasive, I think, at this point."

"Beyond him being on the scene, I don't think anything else has been shown," he told Judge McKnight.

Najar then argued unsuccessfully that Burns, at most, should stand trial for second-degree murder rather than first-degree murder. He said there was no motive and that there was no premedita-

McKnight, however, ruled that the killing was premeditated because the attacker had time to think between each blow that Andrew suffered to her head. McKnight also said the assailant had time to pause during the strangulation.

Burns remains jailed, and bond has been denied. He is scheduled to be arraigned April 27 in Detroit Recorder's Court, where the case is to be tried.

Walker hearing delayed

BY DARRELL CLEM

A preliminary hearing for Westland rape defendant Anthony Guy Walker was delayed Thursday after he and his court-appointed attorney told a judge that they had differences they couldn't settle.

District Judge C. Charles Bokos agreed to replace defense attorney Michael Hamzey, but gave Walker a stern warning not to seek another delay when he returns to court this Thursday for the hearing.

Walker, 37, is accused of raping and robbing his 25-year-old nextdoor neighbor during a 2 a.m. Dec. 20 incident at her former residence in Westland Meadows, a mobile home park northeast of Van Born Road and Merriman.

Walker fled the state but was captured 20 days later in Colorado, where he lost an extradition battle and was returned to Westland to face charges of first-degree criminal sexual conduct and armed robbery.

In court Thursday, Walker told Bokos, "I don't believe that the attorney is acting in good faith.

"We've argued," he continued. "We have serious differences. I'm not looking just to delay this case. That does me no good.'

Walker has predicted that charges against him will be dismissed following the preliminary hearing. That opinion isn't shared by the victim and Westland police, who have questioned why a supposedly innocent man would flee the state and fight extradition.

Without elaborating, the defense attorney told Bokos that he agreed with Walker that they had differences they couldn't resolve. "We cannot work together," Hamzey said.

It appeared momentarily that Bokos might force Walker and Hamzey to proceed with the hearing, but he agreed to the delay because he didn't want "to create errors down the road" that could damage the case.

Walker, jailed in lieu of a $1 million cash bond, is accused of raping the victim at knifepoint while her 2-year-old daughter was sleeping in another room. No one else was at the divorcee's residence.

Walker also is accused of robbing the woman of $80.

The victim said Walker came to her residence after phoning her on the pretense of borrowing children's Tylenol for one of his two young stepsons.

She had the misfortune to walk upon a gun transaction, police said, while she was doing her job as a maintenance worker at Hunters West, a high-rise apartment complex in Westland.

University presidents lobby for more state money

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Students can forget about getting a 1996 income tax credit on the tuitions they pay to Michigan public universities, a key legislator savs.

That tax break - about $250 a year - would go to students at universities which hold 1995-1996 tuition increases below the rate of consumer price inflation, about 3 percent currently. That change was Public Act 7 of 1996.

University presidents told Sen. John Schwarz, R.Battle Creek, they can't hold down tuitions when they're due for just a 3 percent state aid increase under a budget proposed by Gov. John Engler and passed by the House.

"We'll have to raise tuition 5.92 percent," Oakland University's interim president Gary Russi said Wednesday during budget hear-

"We're looking at 4 to 6 percent," said James Renick, chancellor of the University of Michigan-Dearborn. 'If we went with a 3 percent (tuition hike), it would not be enough to improve quality on our campus. I don't think it would be a deterrent (to enrollment).'

"We asked a 5 percent state appropriation increase and a 4 percent tuition increase." answered Eastern Michigan University President William Shelton."

Asked by Schwarz how EMU would respond if it got a 6 percent state aid hike, Shelton said, "I'd try to meet the CPI (consumer price index) - the letter of the law.

"I can't balance the budget. with a 5 percent tuition increase," said University of Michigan Provost Gilbert Whittaker. "I'd need 6 percent (more) from the state to stay (keep tuition) at the CPI for in-state tuition."

"A 6 percent increase in tuition," said Charlie Nelms, chancellor of the UM-Flint Campus. where Schwarz conducted a hearing of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Higher Educa-

And so it went. All day, Schwarz gathered ammunition for his attack on the Engler-House budget. Schwarz wants a 6 per"We're looking at 4 to 6 percent. cent general increase in state support for universities - a boost he said will cost $20 million to $25

Schwarz repeatedly referred to that plan as "three winners and 12 losers" among the 15 public university campuses.

Wednesday's hearing was the first of four his three-member the higher education price index.

panel will conduct on the $1.3 billion budget bill. The next in southeastern Michigan will be April 28 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at

Among the nearby regional universities, UM-Dearborn charges $3,685 in tultion and fees a year; Oakland, $3,206; and Eastern, $3,190. Their charts showed a pattern: State support was 70 percent of their budgets until the 1980s; today it's 50-50 between Meanwhile, tuitions had outstripped the CPI and HEPI.

"Whadia do with all the monev?" Cisky asked repeatedly. In 10 years, he said, HEPI has risen 56 percent. He cited:

■ UM-Flint — a 74 percent state aid increase, but a 98.1 percent hike in tuition and fees. Replied chancellor Helms: "We're in a developing stage.'

Oakland University - a 62.8 percent state aid increase but an 82.7 percent rise in tuition.

■ UM-Dearborn — a 74.4 percent state aid increase, a 93.5 percent tuition increase. Chancellor Renick: UM-D had high capital outlays and debt service costs; 26 percent of the students are in engineering, a high-cost program. Eastern Michigan - a 66.4 percent state aid increase, an 82 percent tuition increase. President Shelton: EMU shifted a specific fee to a general fee, exaggerating the appearance of the general fee increase. The current board also decided, as a matter of policy, that EMU would no longer try to be at the bottom of the tuition

University of Michigan-Ann Arbor Campus - state appropriations hikes exceeded the consumer price index by 24 percent, but. UM-AA tuition rose 120 percent more than the CPI. "My district people ask me, "When's it gonna end? We can't afford to send our children to school'." Cisky said.

BM President James Duderstadt, last on the program, had a detailed answer ready:

"Since the turn of the century, higher education costs have risen 2 percent a year faster than the consumer price index. Higher education is not indexed to an urban dweller's living costs; it's the knowledge industry. The rate of increase is not at all out of line with the way it has been for decades." To understand the rising costs of college, "Think of a surgeon teaching micro-surgery, not a doddering old professor teaching Shakespeare."

Hospice plans golf outing

The seventh annual four-individual, shotgun scramble golf outing to benefit Angela Hospice of Livonia begins 12:30 p.m. Monday, May 15, at the Links at Pinewood.

The $150 all-day package includes 18 holes of golf with cart, buffet lunch, steak dinner and a chance towin prizes.

The first individual to hit a hole in one on the third hole wins a car from Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury of Plymouth.

Spots for golfers and corporate sponsors are still available, as well as opportunities to win raffle prizes.

For more information, call Dorothy York at (313) 464-7810 before May 1.

People needed to share homes

The Information Center's HomeShare program administrators are looking for individuals who want to share a house with someone else.

The free service is available to young adults, senior citizens, singles, couples and single parents. Rents can range from $0, with the renter providing services, to $350/month.

People with houses to share and people looking for a place to live are invited to call (313) 282-7171.

Beardmore bucks Engler over higher ed compact

BY TIM RICHARD STATE WRITER

Dorothy Beardmore, a state Board of Education member, is fighting Gov. John Engler's effort to pull Michigan out of the Midwestern Higher Education Com-

Senate Appropriations panel the eight-state group has saved higher education far more than the $58,000 annual dues it has cost.

"A telecommunications network was created. Institutions of higher education saved $3.5 million on purchases of $16 million for interactive video equipment and room design," she told senators in a hearing in Flint.

Lawmakers like interactive video, in which a teacher on one campus addresses students in another location - even an industrial plant --- by two-way video. It is seen as making good use of valuable resources and a cost saves," Beardmore said. "There have been enhanced loss-control efforts.'

Currently the compact has eight members: Michigan, Illinois, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio and Wisconsin. Still out are Indiana and Iowa.

The House went along with Engler, dropping the item from this year's higher education budget. The $1.3 billion bill is now in the Senate.

"This will be the most hotly contested of the 18 or 19 budget bills." Schwarz said as the hearing opened. "I have some disa-greements with the bill as it came over from the House."

Ours was the last region in the U.S. to form a compact," Beardmore told Schwarz's panel. The compact's goals are administrative cost savings, regional academic cooperation, and encouragement of student access and affordability.

Slow or inaccurate readers can be helped with Special program

LIVONIA-Try reading the following sentence. (Hint: the b's, d's, p's, and q's are interchanged and the spaces between the words are altered).

ob you hav etroup lere ading thes esimd lew orbs?

Was it hard for you to read the previous sentence (do you have trouble reading these simple words)? Unfortunately, many children find it just as hard reading normal text;

Children with learning problems struggle with everyday tasks such as reading, concentrating, and remembering because their basic learning skills are not automatic.

We all learn to read on a conscious. level. We start by having to think about the sound a letter makes. Next we learn to blend sounds to form words. And then: we learn the meaning of these words. Each skill requires a conscious effort, and reading cannot become automatic. (subconscious) until these skills are established. And if reading is notautomatic, children have to work especially hard to get information in, so their comprehension and understanding suffer.

According to Dr. John Jacobi, a locally known expert on vision and learning. having 20/20 eyesight means that a child can see clearly, but does not mean that the child can process or use what he or she sees. There could be a visual processing problem that affect the child's ability to learn.

Symptoms of a visual processing problem include:

· letter reversals · avoldance of reading

HÎN Pint

· poor eye-hand coordination

- · lack of concentration
- · inability to sit still · slow work
- careless errors
- troubles copying.

Children who struggle with learning have even more at stake than just slow and choppy reading. Also at risk may be their self-esteem behavior, success in school, and even future employment

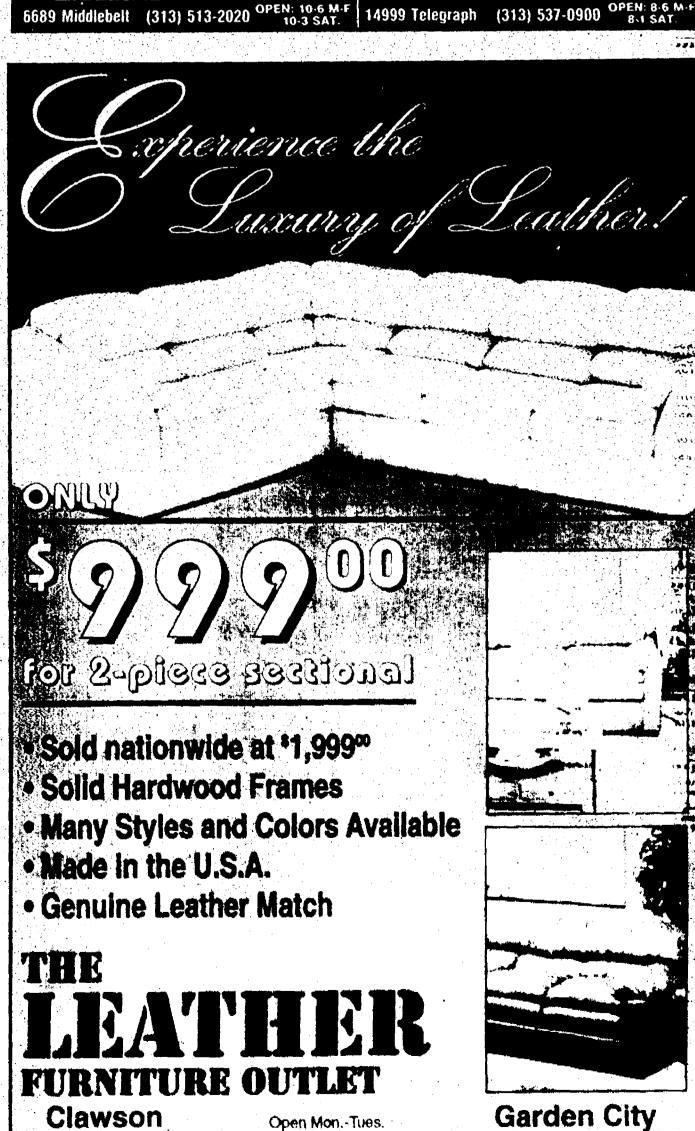

The Vision Improvement Program (VIP) can help the child place basic learning. and visual processing skills into the subconscious level where they belong. Then the child will not put his or her energy into processing the material, but into understanding it.

VIP was developed by a team of visual, psychological, and educational professionals. The program attacks the causes of learning problems.

The 10-week program produces dramatic results, with an average improvement of 3.1 years in the child's ability to comprehend, stay on task, workfaster, and handle more complex tasks. Outstanding results are the norm because it is an intense, one-on-one program with a highly trained therapist who specializes the program to meet each child's specific learning needs.

To identify a child who could benefit from this program, a comprehensive screening consisting of 18 different tests is provided without charge to children. ages 6 to 15. If the results reveal a problem processing visual information, the program can begin immediately to help head toward a more successful. future and a better self-esteem.

To help a child who has a problem. fearning, call Suburban Optometric at 525-8170 to schedule his or her free screening.

A healthy 'glow' follows the facial

hat's not to like? Snugly wrapped in thick, warm blankets, gentle hands thythmically massage, cleanse, moisturize and stroke my delicate facial tissues. The soft music, hot-towel applications and herbal scents combine to relax me into near sleep . . .

If your idea of a facial is the old standard Eastem European cleansing, steaming, squeezing, squeezing and mask routine, you're in for a surprise. There are dozens of new approaches to the quest for perfect skin. High-tech treatments include aromatherapy, Shiatsu massage, Oriental herbs, peels and electrical manipulation. Beware the hype. After all, you're simply looking for improved skin and a couple of hours of pampering.

I checked out two new facial treatments touted by local aestheticians. As promised, my face emerged with a healthy glow and a supple feel.

Magic fingers

Naoko's hands feel like experience. She brings her Shiatsu massage expertise to Dol-Vando, her skin care and day spa. Shiatsu is an ancient Japanese art that involves finger pressure applied to fatigued vital points or "tsubos." Naoko is highly trained in its techniques and she massages pressure points in the face and neck to enhance circulation and de stress muscles during . her facials. She demonstrates the massage on hair stylist Shevawn Distelreth of Dearborn Heights, emphasizing the sensitive eye area. Naoko combines Shiatsu with her new state-ofthe art Alpha Lifting Institute Treatment, which is a deep skin lifting with fruit acids.

Ah ha!

You've probably heard today's newest buzz-letters, AHA. Alpha Hydroxy Acids are a group of naturally occurring substances found in a variety of fruits, sugar cane and sour milk. Cleopatra bathed in sour milk to soften her skin and the ladies of the French court applied a potion of fermented wine to keep their skin smooth and blemish free. Unknown to them, the positive effects they obtained from these remedies were due to AHAs.

Recent scientific research has shown that AHAs work to loosen the outer skin layer, precipitating a sloughing of dead skin cells. Cellular turnover is normalized allowing the skin to appear youthful once again. AHAs also act as moisture-binders, helping to clarify problem skin, balance skin tones, and reduce the appearance of fine lines.

The AHA facial consists of cleansing, revitalizing, a steam vitamin mask, emulsion and an application of a wheat protein treatment. This, in combination with a therapeutic Shiatau facial massage, is Naoko's secret to rejuvenation. The Dol-Vando Skin Care & Day Spa is at 1921 South Telegraph in Bloomfield Hills.

In Novi, the newly opened Salone' Nadwa & day spa, 43236 11 Mile in the Novi Town Center. specializes in a Collagen & Hyaluronic Acid Treatment. Perfect for this time of year when winter weather has left our faces dry and flaky. This: treatment is ideal for dehydration in young or older skin Pacialist Starr Martindale applies the wething gel to Tari Pearce of Pleasant Ridge.

The three step treatment involves two gels that moistorize and ceplenish and a Bio Thermic. Mask that blends heated mineral prevders to ensure the proper delivery system for the active ingredients. According to Nadwa, "this is a remarkable preventive care treatment which intensively prepares the skin and reinforces its resistance to the aggressive effects of the weather, such as sup, see, wind or cold A final mist of mineral facial apray leaves you

Lake lovers set sail for the Land & Seas

Land & Seas sells nautical niceties where boaters and fisherman delight in browsing. The owner shares her success story.

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

Mary Higgins' hottest selling item at Land & Seas is a T-shirt featuring America 3, the all-female sailing team competing in the 1995 America's Cup.

At her nautical stores in Laurel Park Place, Livonia; Rainbow Center, Tampa; and Niagara Falls, such items seem to fly off the shelves along with any and all boating and cottage-related merchandise including apparel, collectibles, and prints by Jim Clary and Leo Kuschel.

If you're looking for a special gift for a salty old dog it's a sure bet you'll find it at Land & Seas.

"We have a cottage and sailboat and we love the water," said Higgins of Northville who owns the stores with husband Brian. "The things I shop for to stock the store must have a summer home or boating theme.

When we first opened in 1981 in downtown Plymouth, no other retailers specialized in nautical things. If a store featured any boating or cottage merchandise it was only through a few items. In the beginning it was difficult even to find stock because we try to carry things that other people don't."

That's what makes Higgins' business such a success, in her opinion.

She caters to a nautical niche by stocking offbeat boating and sailingrelated items. Check out the glass covered coffee table in the shape of a dinghy, lighthouse shaped bird houses, custom monogrammed Captain and First Mate sweatshirts, and models of J-boats formerly used by sailing crews in early years of the America's Cup. Land & Seas also carries more practical items like blank cruise journals and cups that "I think every Michigander loves the water," she insisted. "Boating is big business in this state - just look at the popularity of the boating shows." Yet Higgins sells to as many non-boaters as boaters. It seems, die hard anglers collect lures and fishing-related merchandise the way sailors collect racing memorabilia. And nearly all the state's population is in love with the history of the Great Lakes.

"People are real interested in the Great Lakes," she said. "Legendary ships, lighthouses and shipwreckthemed items are popular. It sounds morbid, but such items sell very well." As the popularity of fly fishing grows, so do the sales of related merchandise. At Land & Seas, anglers appreciate the funny fishing Tshirts.

'Earthy' fashions hit the mainstream

Americans have begun dressing for Earth Day 1995 by wearing sweaters spun from soft drink bottles and athletic shoes made from tire rubber and discarded diapers.

Eco-friendly merchandise brings waste products from the landfill to the mainstream," said Karen Mac-Donald, communications manager for the Taubman Co. of Bloomfield Hills which operates four area shopping. centers - Twelve Oaks in Novi; Fairlane Town Center, Dearborn; Lakeside in Sterling Heights; and Briarwood in Ann Arbor.

Jane Henriques of the American Textile Manufacturers Institute said most ecofriendly products currently on the market fall into one of three categories: those made from post-consumer wastes, such as recycled plastic bottles and used denim; those made from pre-consumer wastes, manufacturing process; and those made from organic fibers and produced using environmentally friendly methods such as natural and low-impact dyes.

"Basically," you can dress yourself from head to toe in recycled products," she said. "Our major customers are telling us they prefer to buy from companies that are environmntally responsible. There's a real push in this area."

By way of proof, she said production of organic cotton in the United States increased four-fold between

Higgins admits that when she opened her first store she knew nothing about retail, "not even how to run a cash register." Land & Seas was originally stocked with gifts, decor items, and art, but gradually switched to more boating and resort apparel with some gifts. By the mid 1980s the business had become so successful Land & Seas expanded to various locations around the country. At one time there were stores in Toledo and Trapper's Alley in Detroit. But failing to reach their targeted market, these eventually

The exposure paid dividends, however. Major malls were impressed with Land & Seas' products, its attention to detail in displays, and customer surveys which indicated a loyal shopping

But undoubtedly, some of the company's success is due to the store's glass wall style which showcases the entire inventory to square feet, Land & Seas stores are boutiques behind floor to ceiling glass walls 50 feet long. The Livonia store leads the rest in sales per square foot. The Tampa store is second. As a "wall store," everything for sale is visible from outside. The retailer must have interesting merchandise to draw shoppers inside.

The concept worked with Gayle Kerby of Livonia who said she has stopped into Land & Seas shoppers strolling by. Just 800- twice over the past few weeks, enticed by a merchandise in the store's window. "And I'm not a boater, but I like their stuff," she explained.

Higgins has no plans to open more stores stating that those she now owns take up all her time. She frequently visits each shop to ensure things are ship shape.

"People ask me when I'm going to open a store close to our cottage in Harbor Springs," she smiled. "I probably won't. I go there to re-

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

There are no small potatoes at our house

'm a meat and potatoes kind of guy. I know I have to eat vegetables, and bread is more like a dessert than anything else. But whether it be a simple broiled steak, baked chicken or pot roast, the only thing in my mind that could make it better would be a great potato.

The Janes Gang doesn't consider it a meal without some kind of potato or starch. We've been eating more rice and trendy starches like couscous, barley, bulgur and quinoa, but nothing beats a great potato.

Momma was, and is still, known for her exemplary mashed potatoes. Whenever the grandkids visit they ask - "Mimmi, make any mashed potatoes?"

What makes them special is momma's secret addition of a pared parsnip. She tosses it into the ruggedly simmering pot of "all purpose". potatoes. Please don't tell any of the grandkids that they've been secretly eating a vegetable without knowing it.

My favorites

Personal favorites include potatoes baked in rock salt. I'll never forget the delectable taste of my first potato baked in rock salt. I never knew potatoes could be so fluffy. "What's the secret?" you ask? Scrub and pat dry some good bakers. Place them in a deep casserole dish and cover with rock salt. Bake at 350 degrees until an inserted fork easily slides out. That's it. Nothing special, no secret. Potatoes and rock salt, period.

Want to make them even better? Try this method with a Yukon Gold potato. Look for Yukon Gold potatoes at upscale markets including Vic's Quality Fruit Market in Novi and Beverly Hills, Pappa Joe's in Rochester, Joe's Produce in Livonia, Strawberry Hills in Farmington Hills, and the Roadside Market in Plymouth.

You can get a bag of rock salt at your local hardware store and start cooking. You can reuse the rock salt over and over. Try baking a pear, especially a Bosc, or an apple in rock salt. You'll think you've died and gone to heaven.

Equally demanded on the potato front are my ever popular no-fat fries. Again, using a good Idaho baker or a Yukon Gold, I scrub the potato, pat dry and cut into wedges. The wedges go skin side down on a baking sheet and the potatoes are sprayed with non-stick coating like Pam or even better, the all new "I Can't Believe It's Not Butter" fat-free spray. Then I give the potatoes a healthy shake of Mrs. Dash table blend seasoning and pop them under a broiler until golden brown. The entire process takes less than 15 minutes, and if your kids like fries, this is the healthy alternative.

Fellow workout buddy George of Garden City passed along an equally good potato recipe at last week's 6:15 a.m. aerobic's class. George suggests that you wedge up a bunch of potatoes, sprinkle them with cayenne pepper, paprika or chili powder and one beaten egg white (beat until stiff). The beaten egg white gives these potatoes a real crispy coating and the spices make them tasty. Place the coated potatoes on a baking sheet sprayed with non-stick cooking spray and then bake them at 400 degrees for about 40 minutes. Making no fat fries these ways will save more than 12 grams of fat from each serving.

Hash browns

Hash browns have always been a personal favorite and whenever I bake up a batch of potatoes I always make a few extra for a batch of hash browns. I find the biggest non-stick pan I can get my hands on and fry up a chopped onion in a little butter or margarine until it just begins to turn golden.

Then I grate an old baked potato that has been in the refrigerator for a few days (akin and all). Cover the pan with a lid, reduce the heat to medium low and let it simmer for about 15 minutes. The trick is "flipping" the batch so nothing falls onto the stove burners

I would be remiss not to mention scalloped potatoes. Once in a while, a batch of homemade. scalloped potatoes, the way momma used to make them with shredded cheddar and a roux of browned butter and flour, is just what this old homeboy needs

The Dr. Moms we talked to serve their children nutritious foods that are low in fat. They agree the best thing to do with children is to offer them a variety of good foods, and let them choose what they want.

BY SANDRA DALKA- PRYSBY SPECIAL WRITER

Have you wondered what doctors feed their children?

The answer isn't a medical secret. The "Dr. Moms" we talked to serve their children nutritious food.

Dr. Susan Bellefleur, a pediatrician who lives in Beverly Hills, was already aware of the importance of making good food choices before the birth of her son;

Matthew, four years ago. "A number of things helped me evolve toward a healthy life-style," said Bellefleur.

"My father had a massive heart attack when I was 11 years old, and this served as a wake-up call for the whole family," she said. "My mother started cooking healthier meals and she eliminated such things as fried and fatty foods, and smoked ments from our diet."

"Our whole way of eating changed. For instance, our tradition of having bacon and eggs for breakfast was replaced by nutritious foods, like whole grain cereals."

With this foundation, and with the knowledge she gained in medical school about good nutrition, Bellefleur, and her husband Jeffrey, a pediatric anesthesiologist, normally eat only good foods and participate in a regular exercise

"We have given Matthew healthy foods from the very beginning and he likes them. When he goes to birthday parties, he takes the frosting off his piece of cake, because, he says, it's too sweet."

She added that her son considers "treats" to be such things as applesauce and yogurt. "For Mathhew, a really special treat would be a Fudgesicle, or homemade lower-fat chocolate chip cookies."

According to Bellefleur, she sees too much childhood obesity in her practice. "Children not only eat the wrong things, they are too sedentary. I urge parents to feed their children healthy foods and to encourage them to do regular exercise." A big part of her advice to parents is to watch the fat in their childrens' diet. *Children over the age of two can drink low fat or skim milk. Whole milk is a must for babies under two years of age, and greasy and fat foods, such as grilled cheese sandwiches and deep fried chicken pieces, should be limited."

She also advises that salt shouldn't be added to the food their children eat. "If children don't acquire a taste for "unhealthy" types of food, they won't

Kenwood Vineyards, in Sonoma Valley, a Sonoma County California appellation, has been making premium wine since 1970. At the time of Kenwood's founding, there were only 30 wineries in all of Sonoma County, Martin Lee Sr., his sons, Marty and Michael, and their brother-inlaw, John Sheela, acquired the historic Pagani Brothers Winery (founded in 1906) and renamed it Kenwood Vineyards. The best part of the Kenwood story is that the same people are still there, 25 years later, making consistently great wines. Americans are attracted to the new kid on the block when huving American wine, but prefer experienced European producers. It is time to give kudos for experience. and consistency in the good ole USA.

"We were organic winegrowers back in the early 1970s," recalled winemaker Michael Lee. "In the early 1980s, with a host of new agricultural chemicals available, farmers began to use every new pesticide and herbicide they could st their hands on. If there was a disease, there was a chemical to get

Winery founders: Kenwood Winery's founders and owners John Sheela, (left to right), Marty Lee, and winemaker Michael Lee, are still together and enthusiastic about their partnership after 25 years. They produce consistently good wines.

Kenwood has come full circle in the 1990s. They are now getting away from chemicals, and are becoming organically certified viticulturists. Without the use of chemicals, grape vines are trained and pruned to open the leaf canopy so the fruit in view. This way, the sun and wind help keep the grapes warm, dry and healthy.

"Family ownership is very special in the wine business." Lee said. "When we purchased Kenwood, the three boys (Michael, Marty and John) divided our roles igth departments. I'm in charge winemaking, Marty handles sales and John is president. We have e become experts in our area specialty while supporting e other. With equal power, salary disresponsibility, there is no need to compete. We make decisions independently, but with constant communication and discussion."

Dr. Karen Mitchell, a family to success in getting children to "The best thing to do with children is to offer them a variety of good and well-balanced foods and let them chose what they want,' she suggested, "That's what my husband and I do with our sons." Her husband, Jay, is a Rochester Hills pediatrician.

According to Mitchell, if her sons ask for a treat, such as a cookle for breakfast, she does not automatically, say "no."

"I tell them that they have to eat their breakfast first - usually cereal, milk and juice, then they can have a cookie. Oftentimes. they are full after eating the nutritious foods and don't want a cookle. But, if they still want the treat. I let them have one or two.

But not the full box." Casseroles are popular dishes for the elder Mitchells. "However the boys don't like these all inone suppers." Her solution is to save some of the ingredients in the casseroles, such as chunks of the meat, pasta and/or rice and

"plain" to her children. "The boys can nibble on these while my husband and I enjoy our

the vegetables, and serve them dinner," Mitchell said. She added that if the boys aren't hungry, she doean't make them eat. "However, we still like to have the family sit down to gether at the dinner table so we can talk about the boys' day. We talk to them at their level. We want them to enjoy these family discussions."

Mitchell said that although she and her husband believe in eating food that is lower in salt and fat, they do allow "healthy" treats in the house. Favorites are graham crackers, and low fat frozen desiserts and yogurts.

"Treats made with sugar are also allowed, but in moderation,"

1/2 cup soft margarine 1 teaspoon vanilla 2 egg whites (beaten)

2 cups semi-sweet chocolate chips

15 cup nuts (optional)

Mix together flour, baking sods and salt. Set aside.

Cream together brown sugar, sugar, margarine and vanilla. Beat egg whites into creamed mixture.

Gradually stir in dry ingredients alternating with water. Stir in chocolate chips and nuts.

Drop by teaspoonfuls onto cookie sheet sprayed with vegetable oil (non-stick) spray.

Bake 10-12 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes five dozen. Submitted by Dr. Susan Belle-wine, none of the others have been able to overcome chardonnay's enormous sales lead. "I don't see any other white wine overtaking chardonnay," Lee said. "Yes, we make a great sauvignon blanc, but chardonnay is too far ahead for any other white wine to threaten its lead in the near future."

Lee is impressed by renewed interest in red zinfandel. "With its great fruit flavors and gentle spice, it's become a hot item," he said. "People think that zinfandel is planted everywhere in California, but good, old-vine zinfandel is difficult to find." At Kenwood, old means at least 40 and goes to 100 years.

Because a number of old Italian families settled in Sonoma and planted zinfandel, Sonoma County is one of the richest sources for old-vine zinfandel. And since wine character is sensitive to site and soil, many zinfandels are vineyard designated on the label.

"The demand for good zinfandel is increasing, and we pay top dollar to get the best. It is my personal favorite red wine," said Lee.

hot wines, but there isn't enough to go around, and that tends to drive up the price of merlot from the best vineyards. It is a finicky grape that is difficult to grow. Lee bets that we'll continue to hear about merlot for some time to come. We bet you'll like the 1992. Kenwood Merlot ($16).

Since 1976, Kenwood has farmed Jack London Ranch, 137 acres of east facing slopes and red volcanic soil producing cabernet sauvignon, merlot and zinfandel.

In 1913, he wrote of the hillside vineyard at his ranch in Glen Ellen, California. "I ride over my beautiful ranch. Between my legs is a beautiful horse. The air is wine. The grapes on a score of rolling hills are red with autumn flame, Across Sonoma Mountain, wisps of sea fog are stealing. The afternoon sun smolders in the drowsy sky. I have everything to make me glad I am alive. . Congratulations on 25, Kenwood! You've kept the Jack London spirit alive with a portfolio of exceptional wines.

Her obsession with perfection was near-fatal

he's thin still. But she's no longer frail. That was the immediate impression in speaking with her last week, and when talking about anorexis nervosa, the difference is essential.

Her thinness is a physical trait; her past frailty made it a dangerous, potentially fatal one. When emotional frailty focuses on weight control, the results can be devastating.

The young woman in question - she requested anonymity - is a rather recent Plymouth Canton graduate. She ran cross country and track, and was extremely good at both.

Until the disease overwhelmed her.

She had a good year athletically as a sophomore at Canton. But as she slipped further and further into anorexia, her progress stopped. She began the cross country season her junior year as one of the top runners on the team.

By the time the season ended, she was barely in the top seven.

She managed to regain enough form - and weight — to compete in track that spring, but when her junior year came to a close so did her athletic career. She had slipped too far.

She was admitted into a hospital for treatment of her anorexia that summer. She stayed there for a month.

"It was an ongoing thing I was battling throughout high school," she said.

Hers was a classic case of anorexia: The emotional strain of adolescence combining with a lack of self-esteem; it creates a strong need to be successful and perfect at everything, to be accepted by all and to be all things to all people. But most important, you must be in control.

"The summer before ninth grade," she recalled.

"That was the beginning of it." She weighed nearly 105 pounds. In a matter of three months, she lost more than 20 pounds - 20 percent of her total weight. She regained some of it, but she never weighed more than 95 pounds in From what she learned, she could say that while most males greet adolescence with optimism, females go in the opposite direction. With physical beauty at such a premium, high-profile models are imitated. Which leads to a "thinner is better" attitude, she said. Her athleticism contributed to it, too. Distance runners don't need weight, or so it was thought. "The thinner you are, the less you have to carry around," was her logic. She wasn't alone. Two of her better friends on Canton's team were borderline anorexics. "Talking about food was such a common thing," she said. "You had to have the lowest body fat to be the fittest." And to be the best is an obsession for anorexic athletes. Having a low percentage of body fat-wasn't good enough; hers had to be the lowest. She would often train by running six miles a day - while consuming less than 600 calories. "Some days I'd only have 100-300 calories," she estimat-

But why? Eating is a normal function; once the problem is identified, can't it be easily reversed?

"It's really complicated," she explained. "It becomes very much a control issue. (Anorexica) feel like they're losing control in some areas, but they can control their weight. It gets to the point where you say, 'I have ultimate power and control, and I don't need to eat. I'm the best at that,"

After a period of time, the physical strain of starvation turns a psychological problem into a medical one. "You deny your appetite, and you get a high off the hunger pains," she said. "You get used to feeling that way, you get addicted to it. When you eat and feel full, it's a nightmare."

The effect alters mental perceptions as well. If an anorexic gains a single pound, her self-esteem plunges. When she looks in the mirror, she sees beauty -- not hones protruding through tightly stretched skin.

Her cure came through addressing her need for perfection. After months of therapy, instead of seeking approval from others, she became more assertive and dominant. As her self-confidence grew, her desire to be the thinnest diminished. Her demons were defeated.

Others aren't so fortunate. Estimates are that six percent of those afflicted by anorexis die from

She considers herself lucky because she was diagreed when she was a freshman. "I really think we need to focus on prevention," she said, noting massive weight loss and an obsession with food and enterie counting as primary warning signals.

Young and athletic, strongly motivated both in school and in her sport, she seems a model of perfection. But it's a lie. When weight control becomes obsessive, she begins a journey that could prove fatal.

It is devious. That is the first lesson to learn. It all too often is disregarded; treatment is ignored, the disease shrugged off as "just another passing phase" in the life of a modern-day teen-ager. What happens next could be tragic.

The disease: anorexia nervosa. In everyday terminology, it's self-starvstion. To someone who's never been exposed to it, that sounds ridiculous. After all, no one starves themselves purposely. Which is what makes it so devious in nature. It is not a physical affliction, at least not at first. And it does not prey upon the weak or sick, or those of lesser intelligence. No. Anorexia attacks those who could be among the elite: According to statistics, those most vulnerable to the disease are young females, from pre-adolescence to mid-20s in age, usually from middle- to upper-class families, highly intelligent and usually driven to perfection — both in the classroom and athletically.

George Przygodski, Plymouth Canton's girls track and cross country coach for the past 15 years, is wellacquainted with anorexia. He's seen it; he knows what to look for. He talks to his runners about it often.

How many cases has he seen? "Life-threatening? Maybe three or. four." Przygodski estimated. "Potential anorexics - maybe 100. And that's probably a conservative guess."

Dr. Marie Beye, a clinical psychologist from Ann Arbor who has made a study of eating disorders, described anorexia as having "both strong mental and physical components."

But rather than refer to it as a mental problem, she called it an "identity

The reason: Those with low self-esteem are particularly prone to it. And teen-age girls, just beginning to mature physically with all the inherent emotional trauma, are most often in Coaches who don't recognize these dangers often contribute to them, according to Beye. A superb, promising 12-year-old gymnast begins to grow and mature; the result can be athletic retardation. The coach doesn't like that; lose weight, he tells his protege.

"The push is to stay as thin as you were before," said Beye.

Thin is in. Young girls scan through glamor magazines, filled with too thin models. That's what they want to be.

The girls most susceptible are athletically inclined. The need to be perfect, to be the best, drives them. They excel academically; now they must do the same in sports.

"It's something in the makeup of distance runners -- compulsiveness," said Livonia Stevenson girls cross country and track coach Paul Holmberg. "They know the harder they work, the better they will get. A little talent and a lot of hard work can make you an excellent runner."

Anorexic athletes are relentless trainers. But there, again, the deviousness of the disease creeps in.

Holmberg had an athlete who "associated progress with weight loss. She continued to lose weight even when she didn't need to."

As Przygodski explained it, "They think. If I'm better after losing five pounds, I'll be twice as good after losing 10. These kids become obsessive about food. They cut out all fats, all meats."

Their athletic progress will begin to slide when the weight loss becomes dramatic. How dramatic? In clinical terms, a person becomes anorexic when they drop more than 20 percent below their normal body weight. By that point, however, the disease is in control. It is an addiction to hunger pangs. Gaining a pound can be traumatic; if an anorexic believes she has eaten too much, she may induce vomiting. That's when it becomes a physical affliction. Kidney failure, even heart attacks have resulted. According to atudies, of those anorexics treated over a long period of time — and it can take years to cure - approximately 50 percent reach normal body weight, 20 percent improve but still are underweight, 20 percent remain anorexic, 5 percent become obese, and 6 percent die.

Alison Mann, whose sister Rachel ran at Canton several years ago before transferring to Ann Arbor Pioneer, was an outstanding runner. She became anorexic; last year, the disease killed her.

There is no specific cure. Therapy is often long-term. Holmberg used a widely accepted method when he faced a potential anorexic problem: "I told her, 'If you're losing weight to be a better runner, you won't run.' "It came to a point where I basically had to threaten her with not run-

Przygodski watches his athletes carefully. "When I hear girls who are obsessed with no-fat foods - who say, 'Let's go to the store and read fat contents on boxes' - there's an obsession there," he said.

He will sit in on meals with the team, watching what they eat. He will watch for excessive weight loss.

But in people who are often thin to start with, that is not always easy to spot. And the self-denial of an nnorexic - they don't see themselves with a frame of skin and bones; their view of themselves is greatly distorted.

- . What Angrexia Nervosa is an eating disorder that evolves into a paralyzing fear of becoming fat. It begins as a psychological disorder that becomes a physiological one; induced yorniting to remove unwanted food can result in an electrolyte imbalance, which in turn leads to death.
- Those affiliated The most common shorexic is a young white female, ranging in age from pre-adolescent to mid-20s. Their background is middle to upper class, and they have a tendency to be physically active. Studies indicate ancrexia occurs in one-tofive percent of the group at highest risk.
- Systimical concern for weight loss and behavorial changes are most common. A fanatical concern for weight loss is prevalent; in early stages, it ranges from 16 to 25 percent of normal body weight. A preoccupation with food is often evident. So, too, is sleep deprivation. Anoreidos suffer from a lack of self-esteem, stemming from any number of sources, including family. Some psychologists believe the common ancrexic's family is over-incluiging, with parents extremely involved in the children's lives, making many decisions for them. In an effort to take control of their life, the ancrexic will take control of what they can -- their food intake. Ancrexics are also perfectionist in nature, driven to succeed at everything, including sports. Weight is often viewed as fat and, therefore, an anchor to runners, gymnaets, swimmers, etc.
- . The dissipation There is no specific treatment. Early diagnosis is of primary importance. The ancrexic's intense fear of becoming fat ocupled with an overestimetion of body size results in a strong resistance to therapy. Goal-setting in therapy often is useful: If a pedant gains anough weight, she will be allowed to-rhubh exercise. In long-term treatment, half of the patients reach normal weight: 20 percent improve but remain underweight, 20 percent remain encreads, five percent become obese - and six percent die

Walter's drops out of Collegiate loop

By Steve Kowalski Stapp Writer

Saying he's "concerned with the direction the league is heading," Walter's Appliance coach Harvey Weingarden has decided to pull his team out of the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League.

Walter's has been a member of the LCBL since the early '80s and a consistent title contender. Weingarden informed LCBL director Gary Gray of the team's intentions last Monday, 10 days after the league accepted Dearborn Adray as a sixth member on the entry deadline.

University of Detroit-Mercy assistant coach Bob Atkins is in charge of Adray Appliance's sponsorships of 600 baseball and softball teams in metro Detroit. Even though Dearborn Adray will be coached by Craig Overaitis (a Livonia Franklin graduate and former Walter's player), Weingarten is concerned the team is too closely affiliated with U-D Mercy.

The LCBL earlier this off-season accepted Decision Consults, inc., a team coached by Madonna University head coach Mike George.

Walter's, a home in the past for several Madonna standouts, also is losing several players to Decision Consults.

What helped Weingarden make up his mind was when two U-D Mercy players, who originally gave him a verbal commitment to play for Walter's, decided to play instead with Dearborn Adray.

"They yerbally committed, and asked for the contracts to be mailed to them three weeks ago. (Since then) they've made it clear to me (that they're playing for Dearborn Adray)," Weingarden said. "I'm concerned with the direction the league is heading. It's not who it was, but that it's another team affiliated with another college. The more they come into the league, the more it reduces our recruiting base. It's my opinion that this should not turn into a summer league for college at least three who were on last year's team, and if you count the two who gave us verbal commitments, that makes it five."

Walter's Appliance owner John Mistak, who is in charge of the sponsorship, was out of town and unavailable for comment Thursday. Weingarden said he would not discuss the conversation he had with Mistak about the decision to leave the LCBL.

"I prefer to keep all the conversations between Mr. Mistak, me and Stick (Mike Keller, the former coach) private," Weingarden Walter's won three LCBL playoff championships and one regular season crown between 1988-92. It finished runnerup at the All American Amateur Baseball Association national championship in '92, after a fifth-place showing in '91.

The absence of Walter's means LCBL teams will play a 28-game schedule instead of 30. Each team also will have byes on certain nights, which would have been avoided with a six-team league.

"We're back to five and I'm disappointed," Gray said. "Walter's has been in this league as long as I've been with Parks & Rec, and I talked long and hard with Harvey about not retiring this team."

John Moraitis, coach of another long-time member of the LCBL, Little Caesars, doesn't agree with Walter's decision to leave. He cites times when Walter's Appliance signed players who played the previous year for Little Cae-

"I think he's making a mistake," Moraitis said. "Part of the game is losing ballplayers. When he took Jim Solak away from me two years ago - and he ended up being MVP of the league - I didn't bail out on 17 kids. #### Class A. Maybe his job is too demanding and he can't scout enough colleges."

Moraitia welcomes new teams into the league.

"I thought that's what the collegiate League needs if we're ever going to win in Johnstown," Moralits said. "You need quality pitching to pick up from other teams.

The LCBL instituted a rule this season that forbids teams from taking more than seven players off one college. George will live by the rule, but doesn't agree

He said his top priority is making sure his Madonna players have a place to play in the sum-

"If I have my seven and no one else wants my other kids, then they can't play in the summer," George said. "I think there are a lot of kids out there capable of playing in this league. Harvey never complained when he had seven Madonna kids go to Johnstown with his team. I think this is petty."

With the deadline for rosters 24 hours before the first game May 24, there is sure to be a lot of jockeying for players in the next several weeks. It looks like Madonna star pitcher Craig Benedict, who pitched last year for Hines Park Lincoln Mercury as a resident player, will return to that club in George doubts if he could get a release for Benedict from Hines Park, anyway.

"I told him he can do whatever he wants," George said. "His scholarship or my relationship with him won't be affected one bit. He does what he wants to do.'

UM nips Madonna

COLLEGE

Madonna University took Michigan to the limit for the record straight week before succumbing once again in the final inning, 10.9.

The Big Ten Wolverines. who beat the Crusaders 5.4 in 10 innings April 5, won it in the bottom of the ninth Wednesday at Fisher Stadium on Ryan Van Oeveren's twoout RBI single, scoring Kirk Beerman.

Michigan improves to 13-18 overall, while Madonna slips to 19.6.

Jim Solak (0.3), the losing pitcher worked the final 33% innings. He allowed two earned runs, Starter Craig Benedict (Plymouth Canton) worked the first five innings, allowing seven hits and two earned runs.

Chris Hesse (1.0), in relief (two innings), was the winning pitcher.

Mark Temple (North Farmington) was the U-M starter. He gave up three earned runs over three innings.

Madonna committed five errors, while Michigan had six.

The Crusaders led 9.8 after eight before the Wolverines scored twice in the bottom of the ninth.

Michigan out-hit Madonna,

Third baseman Kurt Wilcynski and second baseman Tim Kasubowski each collected two hits and two RBI for Madonna.

How interested are you in selling your home?

Interested enough to spend a few moments and discover the best place to advertise the fact that your home is for sale?

Good. We knew you were intelligent, In fact, more than 40% of our readers

And if knowlege is power, let's look at a few powerful facts: this newspaper, the one you're reading right now, reaches some of the most affluent households in Wayne and Oakland counties:

have college degrees or better.*

FACT: When you advertise with us you will reach 9 out of 10 adults in the Observer & Eccentric market area who have read weekly classified advertising.*

FACT: 91% of the adults in our market area who had read classified advertising in the past seven days had read it in the Observer & Eccentric*.

and are proud of our record for successfully putting home buyers in touch with home sellers.

What else can we say? We've had years of experience in publishing newspapers

By the way, dld you know that all those little ads in the back of this newspaper—the ones placed by people like you—are Therefore, when you advertise anything automatically reach this huge, interested published in all 12 newspapers?

from a horn to a home, you will reading audience.

In fact, we've just introduced HOMELINE,* a great new way to find out about open houses simply by using your touchtone telephone.

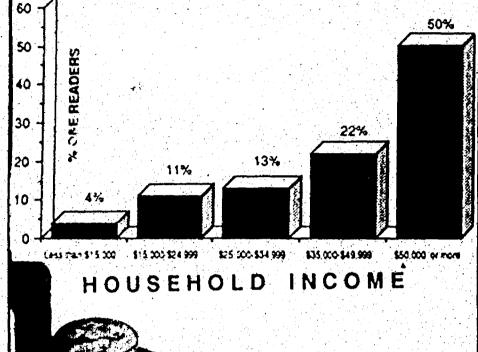

Be sure to mention it to your Realtors so that when it comes time to show your home, it will be described on HOMELINE.

Observer & Eccentric CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

That's a median household income of more than $50,000-$10,000 more than the income of the people who don't read our newspapers. So when you advertise in your Observer & Eccentric newspapers, you not only reach thousands of smart people, you reach people with substantial incomes.

Now, that's something to smile about.

Our circulation area has 90% home ownership and look at the value of our reader's homes:

So, we can offer you one quarter of a million adult readers and a very rich market, what else do we have for you? How about an award-winning newspaper— a newspaper that people trust and look forward to reading? One that reaches 25 communities with important local news that's not available anywhere else.

That's us.
