Groups want to turn off violence

Two community groups are planning a free program for families and their youngsters to encourage them to take part in wholesome activities as an alternative to viewing violence on TV or in movies. The program will be Thursday, Oct. 12, at Bailey Recreation Center.

By LEONARD POGER

Two Westland groups want parents and their middle school students to pull the plug on TV violence and mayhem on the movie screen.

The groups are providing what they feel is a positive alternative - free games and entertainment in a nationally observed "Turn Off the Violence" program next Thursday night, Oct.

The sponsors are planning family games and activities at the Bailey Recreation Center, on Ford between Wayne Road and Newburgh, including a free swim at the Wayne-Westland Family YMCA indoor pool.

Purpose of the free 6-9 p.m. program is to bring about an awareness of the frequency of violence on TV and movies and provide non-violent choices for entertainment, said Margaret Harlow.

She is a member of the two organizations putting on the program the Mayor's Task Force on Substance Abuse and Violence and the Westland Rotary Club.

The task force interviewed middle school students and found that a constant problem is that they are afraid of all the violence all around them,' Harlow said.

"We hope to turn the tide and get families to regain high standards." She and the sponsors, are hoping that families will read, talk or walk together as a group, either at home or at the Bailey Recreation Center on Thursday, Oct. 12.

At the center, there will be familyoriented games and activities with prizes awarded, she said.

Another Rotarian, Shunkwiler, is helping Harlow and task force members with the program's activities.

In relation to the program, the YMCA, on Wayne Road south of Cherry Hill, will offer its facilities free to families 6.9 p.m. with a free swim in the indoor pool from 7-8 p.m.

Local residents split on verdict in O.J. case

BY DARRELL CLEM

Some local residents say the verdict in O.J. Simpson's murder trial was fair, while others continue to believe he killed Nicole Brown Simpson and Ronald Goldman.

Several agree that Los Angeles police Detective Mark Fuhrman's testimony was damaging to the prosecution's case.

* They were there for a year. It's got to be fair. I don't agree with it, but that's beside the point.

Carl Gresen Westland resident on a rainy Tuesday afternoon at the Westland Post Office, Wayne Road south of Hunter.

Westland resident Don Koleh-Residents gave their opinions mainen said he initially believed Simpson was guilty of the murders. But he said he had a shred of doubt after Fuhrman took the witness stand.

"I think it was the way the evidence was presented," Koleh-mainen said. "I think he (Fuhrman) hurt the case."

Carl Gresen of Westland said he still believes Simpson committed the murders, but he added that the jury saw and heard much more testimony that he did.

"They were there for a year. It's got to be fair," he said of the verdict. "I don't agree with it, but that's beside the point."

Winifred Engleby of Westland said she expected Simpson to be acquitted.

"I was expecting what the jury said," Engleby said, "but I don't know if it was fair. O.J. had so much money that he could spend. And they (prosecutors) didn't really prove their case without a reasonable doubt.' Margaret Allen of Canton Township said she doesn't believe the verdict was fair.

"I just think the evidence proved that he did it," Allen said.

However, she said O.J. Simpson was supported by many senior citizens who live at the nursing home where she works. They didn't believe Simpson committed the murders, she said.

"They let out a big yell" when the verdict was announced, Allen said.

A woman who asked that she only be identified by her initials, E.B., said she supported Simpson. from the beginning.

"From the very beginning I thought he was innocent," she said. "He loved Nicole, and I don't think he would kill her."

3 weeks left to nominate candidates for First Citizen nominate people for the 10th annual First Citizen of Westland community service award.

The recognition program, cosponsored by the Westland Observer and the Westland Chamber of Commerce, has a deadline of 5 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 25.

Nominees will be considered by a panel of judges, to be named later this month, on the basis of their community service activities and the impact those activities have had on the city or a segment of its residents.

In the past nine years, the backgrounds of First Citizen recipients have included fire safety, government, education, business organizations, recreation and social services for low-income fami-

Nominees must have made a significant contribution to helping improve the quality of life for the community in general or a segment of the community.

While the previous First Citizens have been local residents, residency isn't a requirement.

Nominators should provide detailed information about those to be considered for the award and the nominees' impact on the community or groups of people.

The community service award was initiated by the two co-sponsors in the fall of 1986 to honor volunteers whose efforts are many times overlooked.

The 1995 First Citizen will be publicly honored at the chamber's monthly membership luncheonprogram on Tuesday, Nov. 14, scheduled for the Hellenic Cultural Center. Besides receiving plaques or certificates from the Observer and the chamber, federal, state, county and city officials are also expected to honor the First Citizen.

Last year's recipients, Tom and Mary Wieske, marked the first time that a couple won the award.

Past winners have been, in order, Joseph Benyo, Thomas Brown, Sam Corrado, Linda Pratt, Sharon Scott, Margaret Harlow, Madeleine Schroeder and Susan Powers.

Nominations must be in writing and directed to:

SCC has health care magazine L

Starting today residents of southeastern Michigan will be reading LifeLine, a brand new health care magazine published by Specialty Communications.

According to its editor, Cathy Smillie, LifeLine is designed for people who need complete, easy. to-read tips on how to keep themselves well.

"Our readers live fast-paced, busy lives," Smille said. "They're looking for clear perspectives and accurate information that is useful in their daily activities."

All stories take a local slant, using experts from area hospitals, clinics and other health care facilities. Although the magazine covers complex medical issues, most articles are written in the "howto" format, such as how to pack nutritious lunches that kids will eat, or what to look for when browsing for fresh fruits and vegetables at the local farm market.

"Now more than ever, we are encouraged to take responsibility for our own health," Smillie says. "But where do we start? The medical field can be costly and confusing, and insurance companies make matters even more complex."

October's feature story, "Whole Health," explores the emerging managed care environment and aims to help readers better understand its components, including the role of the primary care physician, when you should see a specialist, and how to use nurse midwives, osteopathic physicians and other providers.

Specialty Communications is a subsidiary of Suburban Communications Corporation, publisher of Observer & Eccentric and Hometown newspapers. LifeLine will be distributed through the Suburban network in Wayne, Oakland, Washtenaw and Livingston counties.

tion: Sam Daley-Harris, executive director of RESULTS; and Margie Hazelton, a Peace Corps volunteer.

Moderator will be Paul Huth, associate professor of political science at the University of Mich-

The panel members will share their views on foreign aid and respond to questions pertaining to: "Is foreign aid a form of embezzlement from U.S. taxpayers or an investment in our future?"

The discussion is being held to mark the fifth anniversary of the World Summit for Children. RE-SULTS (Responsibility for Ending Starvation Using Legislative, Trimtabs and Support) is a nonprofit, grass-roots citizens lobby committed to creating the political will to end hunder and the worst aspects of poverty.

RESULTS intends to spotlight effective programs to help meet the goals of the World's Summit for Children.

Nationally, over 85,000 people were seen at more than 2,000 locations. Of those screened, 76.4 percent scored positive for depression.

While one out of every four women and one out of 10 men will experience one or more depressive episodes at some point in their lives, currently only about onethird of those who suffer from a depressive illness will seek professional help.

Depression is not just "a case of the blues." It is not a flaw in character or a personal weakness that the victim can "pull themselves out of." It is a serious biological illness that can be successfully treated in 80 to 90 percent of cases with medication, therapy or a combination of the

"It's not unusual for people to be depressed, to be suffering from depression and not realize it. It's kind of like having a very negative, dim view of life and thinking that's the way things are."

The most common types of depressive illness are unipolar (deep, prolonged depression) and hipolar or manic depression leycles of deep depression followed by inappropriate highs).

The screening questionnaire to aid in detecting depression takes only about 10 minutes to fill out. A professional will go over information individually with each participant and, if screened positive for depression, will be able to offer a variety of resources for follow-up care.

County canoe rental to open

A new county operated canob rental concession opens this weekend at the Oak Grove Area of Hines Park, Ann Arbor Trail one-quarter mile west of Farmington Road.

The canoe concession will operate Saturdays and Sundays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in October.

There is a $20 deposit fee and $10 for a maximum of two hours.
The three-mile trip from Newburgh Lake to Nankin Lake takes about 90 minutes, according to county officials,

"This is an important symbol of our efforts to clean up the Rouge River," said Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara.

"We plan to make the Rouge a national model of how to take a river that once was thought to be helplessly polluted and return it to a state where people can use it and enjoy it."

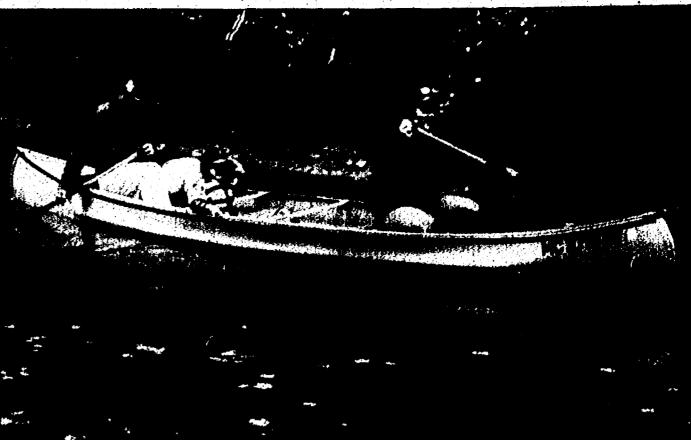

In addition to recent county efforts to improve water quality, McNamara credited the volunteer efforts to the Friends of the Rouge, who have been working to clean up the river for more than a decade, and U.S. Rep. John Dingell who helped secure federal funding to clean up the Rouge River watershed.

The first cance tilp was expected to be taken earlier today by Deputy County Exeuctive Michael Duggan and his children. Duggan, who headed a recent project to clear logiams from the river, said that even though other parts of the Rouge are still polluted, the stretch of the Rouge used for the cances is clean enough to allay any health concerns.

"From Newburgh Road to Farmington Road, the water in the Rouge is passing all tests for human contact," Duggan said. "The canceing here will be safe — otherwise I would not have brought my children."

Although the Newburgh-Farmington stretch has been cleared, Wayne County Environmental Health Director Glenn Brown stressed that the rest of the Rouge does not yet meet health standards and should still be considered hazardous to human health.

Anti-violence backing urged hy can't people, young and old, solve their problems without killing or hurting each other?

The Observer, sadly, is seeing on a more frequent basis incidents of homicides or serious injuries when people have an argument over something, usually of no consequence. with one of the combatants pulling out a gun and shooting the other.

For example, witnesses testified at a district court hearing in August that a teen-ager shot and killed a man who was attempting to break up a fight in the middle of a residential neighborhood in broad daylight.

The Observer sees far too many police reports telling of fights in homes, bars and other places where one person gets into a spat about something and ends up in a hospital emergency room or morgue.

But instead of tacitly accepting this irrational behavior, two local groups are working hard to address the problem as it relates to middle school students.

The groups, the Mayor's Task Force on Substance Abuse and Violence, backed by the Westland Rotary Club, are planning a turn off the violence" program for middle school students and their families next Thursday night, Oct. 12.

The program focuses on helping families realize the volume of violence on TV and in the movies and that there are better ways to resolve conflicts.

The Observer hopes that families mark that date on their calendar and make it a top prior-

The program, to be held 6-9 p.m. in the Bailey Recreation Center, on Ford between Wayne Road and Newburgh, is free.

Offered are a free swim at the Wayne-Westland YMCA's indoor pool, on Wayne Road south of Cherry Hill, and family activities.

One of the organizers of the program, Margaret Harlow, said that the two sponsoring groups hope that families will use the event to read, walk or talk with each other at home that night or come to Bailey Center for organized family activities.

At the same time, the sponsoring groups are urging families to make a conscious effort to "turn off" the TV, which has violence in many of its programs, and shun movies or videos which also include blood and gore.

The national organization which initiated the "Turn Off the Violence" program four years ago wants Westlanders to achieve the two main goals of its mission: Provide people with non-violent ways to deal with anger and conflict, and also help people realize how violent entertainment can contribute to the social acceptance of violence.

Next Thursday's program shouldn't be viewed merely as a now-and-then reminder that TV and movie violence can be harmful, but that family relationships can be vastly improved by eliminating violence from personal lives.

While local schools have initiated conflict resolution programs, the Oct. 12 program is an excellent step forward to involve parents as well as students in dealing with the problem.

The Observer hopes to see hundreds of family members at Thursday's program relating to each other in a positive way.

would like you to know what I think of some of Philip Power's distorted views published in the Observer Newspapers. He, a man of position and influence, should be ashamed the way he has interpreted the Michigan Constitution. It is obvious that he has never read it.

In the Sept. 21 Observer, he tried to vilify anyone who was in favor of the Cropsey concealed weapons bill, he said many things which I believe should deeply offend and outrage any law-abiding constitutionally minded

How dare you state that the interpretation of the U.S. and Michigan constitutions of Cropsey, Washington and their allies — as relates to the proposed legislation, concerning the setting up of gun boards, "Shall Issue" permits to anybody who isn't explicitly ruled out" — is nonsense!

What part of the state Constitution doesn't Mr. Power understand? I noticed that you omitted quoting it. Was that accidental? Article 1, Section 6 states, "Any law abiding citizen exercising their inalienable and constitutional right must logically be prepared to defend themselves any where that their life could be in danger."

Doesn't it only seem logical that Mr. Power would need the means to do that, not only in your home, but anywhere that you could be in

Notice that the state Constitution states that the right to defend oneself ("himself") is an individual right, not some socialist idea of group rights or group or individual privilege. How dare you suggest that any one or any group or U.S. legislative body degrade the state Constitution by totally ignoring or misrepresenting the intent or the application of the law

The article says: "Notice that the perspective embedded in this argument is that of the individual, entitled to protect himself when faced with menace."

Next it stated, "If you switch the perspective, however, from the individual to society as a whole '

This is exactly what is wrong with your in terpretation of the law. Possibly Mr. Power may wish to ignore this law, or maybe your switching of the perspective might fit your skewed argument conveniently; but it is not the law. Article 1, Section 6 of the Michigan Constitution emphatically states the rights of the individual.

It is when these individuals come together in a lawful spirit and mind that they comprise one of the legal, effective, citizen deterrents to combat crime; unlike the many ridiculous laws that have proven to be failures. Law enforcement voluntarily admits that it is not their job to protect every individual and they could not, even if it was.

Therefore, ready personal protection is not only a constitutionally guaranteed right, but the necessary and logical answer if you or your loved ones are threatened bodily. Witnessing the rise in crime would therefore lend the Boy Scout motto "Be prepared" appropri-he recent murder of an Oakland University coed who was studying prostitution as a "school project" raises a problem that we should all be concerned about. I call it the "ghettoization" of American culture.

Many impressionable suburban and rural young people have been taken in by the liberal media's glorification of urban underclass culture. Life in the underclass is being portrayed as "hip," "cool," and "exciting." All, of course, in the name of "inclusion" and "diversity." Popular movies and rap music portray "home boys" and "gang life" in a romanticized way. And "ghetto" fashions have become pervasive in suburban high schools. Many middle-class youths are spending large amounts of money trying to obtain a "home boy" look previously reserved for the urban poor. The question is — why?

The liberal political and social agenda of an "inclusionary yet diverse" society seems to have degenerated into an attempt to bring. ghetto values to the suburbs - rather than to bring suburban middle class values to the urban underclass. It appears the liberals believe it is always easier to go to the lowest cultural common denominator.

Our schools are pushing "inclusion" and "diversity training" on the kids - yet our upper-middle-class teachers go off each night to protected and safe communities, leaving their impressionable students behind. So, young people, beware — the "cultural relativism" of the liberal establishment, and the schools and universities, can be very hazardous to your health. Don't let "political correctness" be a substitute for common sense.

Pro ball in suburbia? No joke roadcaster Ernie Harwell had a little joke when he narrated Detroit Tigers baseball games in the 1970s, '80s and early '90s.

That pop foul was caught by a fan from Allen Park That home run was nabbed by a fan from Kalamazoo That-slice into the right-field stands was picked up by a fan from Okemos."

Of course, Harwell had no way of knowing where the fans came from, but it was the Tigers' way of acknowledging that people from over two-thirds of Michigan came to games.

Joke time may be over. A new competitor is emerging for baseball fans' attention, and it is eyeing the metro Detroit suburbs.

We refer to minor league baseball. Already the West Michigan Whitecaps are attracting folks to their new ballpark in Grand Rapids. Lansing is putting up a stadium for a team with the unlikely name of Lugnuts. Battle Creek's team, the Battle Cats, started play this year.

Earlier in 1995, a group of outstate investors approached the city of Novi with an idea for a minor league stadium.

And a couple of weeks ago, the Palace approached Oakland Community College with an unwritten proposal for a minor league stadium on 20 acres of OCC property on the Auburn Hills Campus.

Anyone can see the point. The notion of a minor league baseball team and stadium near I-75, I-96, I-696 or even I-94 is far from crazy.

And if the horse racing business goes bellyup, as the owners of Ladbroke DRC in Livonia threaten, a good chunk of land and parking lot may come on the commercial real estate market sufficient to accommodate a minor-league

Tiger crowds used to push the two million mark in a season. Lately they've been lucky to exceed one million. There was one players' strike too many in 1994 that cost loyal fans a World Series. "Fans" comes from the word "fanatic." That's how much baseball watchers love the sport. To deny them a World Series is an act bordering on desecrating the flag. And that's just about what the major leagues did.

During former owner Tom Monaghan's machinations for a new stadium, it became abundantly clear that most suburbs wanted no part of a major league stadium, with 50,000 seats and a parking need for tens of thousands of cars and buses. But a minorleague team? That may be food for thought.

Minor-league stadiums are built for 10,000 or fewer fans. Minor-league stadiums don't demand the $55 million the Michigan Strategic Fund intends to use for "public infrastructure and land assembly" for a new Tiger Stadium.

A dozen metropolitan Detroit suburbs are large enough in population to qualify as a hometown for a new minor-league club.

If the PBS television series "Baseball," produced by former Ann Arborite Ken Burns, taught us anything, it's that major-league ball wasn't always played in palatial surroundings seating 60,000 people with luxury boxes for the corporate types. Smaller-town baseball can be just as satisfying, easier to get in and out of, cheaper to take the family to see, and easier on the state treasury than major-league ball, at which current Tigers' owner Mike Ilitch confesses he's losing $10 million to $15 million a year while producing disappointing quality.

Think about it. Baseball in a small-city setting in the suburbs, the way it used to be played. A lot of investors are thinking about it. A lot of fans are ready for it. Mike Ilitch's Tigers should be looking over their collective shoulders.

'Tough' bills would incarcerate public safety

ow you can experience the distress that recently gripped the California-based editors of the staunchly Republican Investor's Busihess Daily without ever leaving Michi-

The IBD scribes were recalling how Gov. Pete Wilson had campaigned for "three strikes and you're out" legislation but has now established quotas on the number of parole violators he'll take back into prison.

A Michigan version of "Speak Loudly, and Carry a Featherduster" consists of a package of three bills - HB 5033. 6034 and 6035 - Introduced by Reps. James Ryan and Eric Bush.

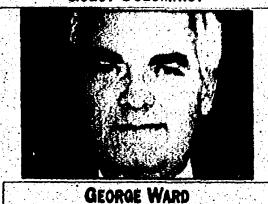

These bills would abolish consecutive sentences for new felonies committed by parolees through the drastic measure of stripping the prosecutor of nuthority even to file new charges; render parolees unsupervisable by eliminating their risk of prompt re-incarceration for parole violations; and destroy the public safety leverage of parole revocation, which law-abiding society must possess over the re-entering felony convict - all under the cambuflage of an empty but tough-sounding provision which merely makes a name change from minimum sentence to determinate sentence.

In August, Rep. Ryan told Ronna Romney's WJR talk-show audience that under his bills, if a sentencing judge selects a sentence of 12 years, "that person will serve 12 years in prison, not one day less." But that's not even close. Section 33 of HB 3054 provides that sentence shortening credits of 84 days per year are to be calculated exactly as before and "deducted from the prisoner's determinate sentence in order to determine his or her discharge date." Whatever happened to truth in sentencing?

Let's consider other elements of what the public understands by determinate sentence. Take manslaughter, for example. The present statutory sentence is 15 years. To voters, getting rid of parole means that the manslaughter convict will stay in prison for the full 15 years.

But that's not what Ryan and Bush mean. Just as now, they pass the buck to judges in each case to fix a so-called determinate sentence. Legislative guidelines are talked about, but there's no provision for ever bringing them to closure. Some idea of determinateness. GUEST COLUMNIST

But the biggest objection to Ryan/ Bush is how it would undermine public safety.

The real purpose of this hodgepodge of provisions is to covertly repeal the consecutive sentences for re-offending felony parolees which were enacted by the Legislature in 1988 and upheld by Judge Susan Bieke-Neilson in O'Hair vs. Gregory Young.

But the package is so pro-convict it even intrudes upon the prosecutor's authority to file new charges. Section 8A of HB 5033 vests the last sentencing judge of the prisoner on supervised release with "exclusive jurisdiction to impose a penalty" for any violation alleged to be a felony. It's hard to believe the inmates themselves didn't write this one.

We've known for three decades that society's only chance to deter criminal. ity is with a credible threat of swift and certain punishment. That threat cannot exist as to first offenders. They're presumed innocent, and most are out on bond for the six months or more it takes to complete their first criminal trial.

The conditions necessary for swift and certain punishment exist only for offenders already in convict status. That's why MCL 791 has long provided that a parole violation subjects the parolee to prompt re-incarceration for the unexpired term of his or her maximum sentence.

How, with recidivism rates as high as they are, can we repeal the unserved maximum sentence? Yet, under the guise of getting tough, section 38 of HB 5035 would abolish this important le-

Almost 20 percent of the offenders against whom new prosecutions are instituted in Wayne County are already in convict status. Prosecutor John D.

O'Hair has estimated that taxpayers in Wayne County alone could save $6 to $10 million a year if the state would just use the punishment authority of existing unused sentences. The parole board refuses to do so on the false ground that it lacks subpoens power.

Now legislators, including a number from Wayne County, propose to compound the state's past sins against their own county taxpayers by abandoning what they should insist be used.

These bills are dangerous and expensive steps backward.

Sadly, the overly generous concessions to felony parolees by the Ryan/ Bush proposal makes Governor Pete Wilson's quotas for parole violators look hard-nosed by comparison.

But don't take my word for it. Read the Ryan/Bush package for yourself. If you care about public safety, I'll bet you conclude as the IBD editors did about the comparable California situation. "It's an administrative shift." they said, "worthy of Mike Dukakis."

George Ward is chief assistant prosecuting attorney for Wayne County. He lives in Plymouth Township.

Law-enforcement lobby misfires on concealed weapons

f Sen. Joe McCarthy, of 1950s Commie-hunting infamy, had said it. liberals would have said he reached new depths of smearing and depravity.

The statement was that would-be handgun carriers are "criminals who have avoided conviction, hot-heads, alcohol abusers, drug abusers and people prone to domestic violence."

It came from John O'Hair, Democratic prosecutor of Wayne County. A former judge, O'Hair appeared to have forgotten that a person is innocent until accused, tried and convicted. Moreover, his wording was so all-encompassing that it muddied all persons interested in CW (concealed weapon) permits.

Also in the fray was Ron Deziel, Dearborn police chief, with statistics about what happened to crime rates in Florida after it liberalized its handgun laws. Deziel wrote of crime and shootings soaring in 1987-91, after the sunshine state's gun law was changed.

Very slippery. Deziel hopes you will be tricked into assuming that the newly issued CW permit handguns were used. He never proves it. In fact, he never even tries to prove it. It's reminiscent of those hokey statistics that showed New York City with a ballooning birth rate nine months after a power failure.

Center of attention is House Bill 4720, sponsored by state Rep. Alan Cropsey, R-DeWitt, to change the rules under which CW handgun permits are issued. There are two issues, and most commentators mix them up.

1. Should Michigan do away with 83 separate gun boards and have a single state office regulate permits? The answer should be a resounding "yes."

2. Should Michigan become a "shall issue" state - that is, should it be required to issue a CW permit to anyone who isn't a felon, awaiting trial or in some way demonstrably loony? Here there may be room for negotiation, as the attorneys say.

But not a lot of room. Consider the language of the Michigan Constitution, Art. I, Sec. 6: "Every person has a right to keep and bear arms for the defense of himself and the state." That is the entire section.

I am most bothered by the current 83 county gun boards. These are threemember panels: the sheriff, the prosecutor and the local state police commander. And what groups are lobbying hardest for retention of the present boards, even to the point of issuing smears and hokey statistics? Prosecutors, local police and the Michigan State Police.

Have you ever been in a police state? The first rule is that only cops have guns. The citizenry is disarmed.

One of the more potent groups in the Michigan Legislature calls itself the Law Enforcement Caucus, many former cops and prosecutors. Some of its members recently introduced a constitutional amendment allowing the death penalty, but only for cop killers.

was a big baseball fan when I was a kid. I lived and died with what happened to the Tigers. I knew all the standings, memorized all the statistics and thought that Johnny Groth, a journeyman Tiger outfielder in the '50s, was the most perfect being ever put on this earth.

But now, like most folks I know, every year I get grumpler and grumpler at what's happening in professional sports.

The players' collective greed and arrogance is matched only by that of the owners, who suffer the additional delusion that owning a profesgional team entitles them to demand and receive public money for new sports stadiums erected primarily to enrich themselves. Moreover, matters of professional sport appear to attract politicians in a way as profound and as pointless as a light attracting a moth.

In the welrd world of professional sport, nothing ever seems to add up.

The recent news that Gov. John Engler and Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer have cut the deal to kick in $90 million in public funds to build a new baseball stadium for the Tigers is a perfect case in point. Some Q and A will show how. Is a new stadium really needed?

Probably not. The old Tiger Stadium could almost certainly be renovated at far less cost than the current estimate of $250 million or so for building a new stadium. So why build a new stadium?

Good question. There seem to be three rea-The unstated reason is simple profit. Tiger owner Mike Ilitch will make lots more money with a new stadium than with the old, not to mention the enormous gain in value for his Fox Theatre, Second City comedy club and two restaurants. spirited. The stated reason from the politicians is economic development. A new stadium, it is asserted, is a great way to bring more folks to downtown Detroit and, hence, will provide lots of new jobs and contribute to the renaissance of the city. The real reason is that building a new ballpark is the price to be paid to keep Ilitch from moving the Tigers out of the city. It isn't full-blown blackmail, but it's close.

Does the economic development argument stadium itself won't generate many more jobs than the old one. Some argue that the new stadiums in Baltimore and Cleveland stimulated the rebirth now going on there. It seems far more likely that the rebirth was going on well before any new stadium was built.

The state's ante in this deal is $55 million from the Strategic Fund. Is gutting the fund in the interest of all the people of Michigan?

No. Started during the Blanchard Administration, the Michigan Strategic Fund was supposed to put long-term investment money into stimulating research, technology transfer and entrepreneurial business startups around Michigan's universities. While the results have been disappointing, it's very difficult to argue that a new stadium for the Tigers is going to buld a more solid economic base than investing in high-tech business ventures.

Engler's a smart politician. What's he getting out of this?

: It doesn't add up.

Certainly, it's not good public policy. The governor first killed the Greektown Indian gambling casino, arguing, "There are no shortcuts . . . no magic." Most economists think neither a new stadium nor legalized gambling are magic routes to prosperity, but there is no doubt that of the two, gambling offers far more jobs. Votes? Engler's western Michigan base cannot be happy, while solidly Democratic Detroit is not likely to turn around solely on the basis of building a new stadium. The auburbanites I talk to mostly don't care. After all, it's only our tax dollars, hard at work.

Fire prevention begins at home

ntional Fire Prevention Week will be ob-served next week. It's scheduled then, near the eighth of October, because it was Oct. 8 when, in 1871, Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over that kerosene lamp in that downtown Chicago cowshed and started the "great" Chicago fire."

Things were a lot different back then: First of all, there were cowaheds with cows in them in the middle of the city. And second, not a lot of thought went into fire prevention or building codes or even fire safety awareness. And that is why 250 people perished and 100,000 were left homeless and 17,000 buildings were destroyed. Yet, out of the ashes something good arose. Better-built, stronger, fire-resistant buildings were constructed. And a keen awareness of the swift and brutal nature of fire came to pass. And eventually, Fire Prevention Week.

Now, I didn't know much about this, Fire Prevention Week and its history, until a couple of weeks ago when the fire chief told me a little about it while offering advice on conducting my own fire safety program right at home. It was sheer coincidence that what I, on my own, had thought of doing was what fire departments across the nation encourage everyone to do dur-

"We're trying to raise $200 for each dancer to cover their stay in the area they will be dancing," said Marcez, the troupe's director. She estimates that 40-50 dancers will make the trip.

The fund-raiser will start with a social hour at 2:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 3:30 p.m., at Sts. Peter and Paul, 750 N. Beech Daly. There will be Polish food and baked goods, artifacts and authentic men's and women's costumes from some 15-20 Polish regions.

Among those modeled will be the aforementioned heavyweight from the Lowicz Region. The costume features panels made with beadwork and is considered the prettiest costume of Polish folklere, Marzee said.

The collection also includes a long-sleeved city vest from the Krakow region that dates back to the 18th century, a vest from the village of Pzworsk in the Rszeszow tegion.

"These costumes are influenced by Austrian and Slovakian folklore and most are wine-colored because they produce wine in the region," Marzee said of the city-vest. The ornamentation can tell a story about the culture and you have to look closely at the detail to tell the story.'

Dear Lorene, I'm a terrific and energetic young man of 32 years of age.

I'm currently seeking em-ployment in the business and technical field. I have been employed by the same corporation for the last 7 years.

As I write this note, I realize that I'm right handed. I've been known to write in different styles. I do enjoy Palmer calligraphy, but I seldom use it; sometimes I write cursive, but usually this is how I write.

Thank you for your response and assessment.

This is a quick, intuitive thinker. He is able to appraise a situation and formulate his answer. Often, this can be done on gut feelings.

He is concise in speaking and writing. His succinct style helps him move things right along. He wants information minus embellishment.

In his work, he is very productive. He dislikes distracting influences, procrastination or delay. Wasted time or materials can be upsetting. He prefers to work with his mind rather than his hands and may work more effectively.

This young man utilizes his time very efficiently. He does not waste it on window dressing. Time is money and he has more than a passing interest in this.

On the day this letter was written, he was feeling extremely euphoric. However, it is not possible to be certain how long he can maintain this level of optimism without seeing samples written at other times.

Some indications in this handwriting sample suggest he might run a little hot and cold in relations. He appears to need time by himself and does not require a great amount of company. Friends, I believe, would be reople with similar intellectual lean-probably all of them well. When his huge illegible signature is compared to the body of his writing, it presents quite a contrast. It suggests he wants to project a bolder image than he may be able to sustain. The illegibility says he wants to be an enigma, or is.

ring the early October observance of Fire Prevention Week.

No cows or kerosene lamps were the impetus behind my unofficial Fire Prevention Week. Instead, a stranger burning leaves and branches on a windy day in our subdivision, rather near our house, was. The flames appeared to shoot 10-12 feet high and every time more brush got thrown in, sparks showered upward toward the trees and flew everywhere.

The children worried. And I worried. But then I worry about spontaneous combustion in the clothes closet. I worry about the furnace this time of year when it first is put into use after months of being dormant. And I worry about our cozy fireplace. And I worry about the wires crisscrossing behind my walls and coming into contact with unknown flammable things in there and the dreaded, unexpected, inexplicable short circuit and the clothes dryer with its flame right behind that bottom panel. And at night, when all of the children are snuggled in their beds fast asleep, sleeping peacefully and knowing all is well. I worry that all might not be well.

And so, after seeing those shooting flames against the night sky a couple weeks ago, the worry translated itself into Fire Prevention Week at the Meiers'.

This is how it went. First we talked. We discussed how each of us can avoid fires. Most of that was review, of course. I cover these things periodically throughout the year on an as-needed, "I don't have time to explain it all right this instant or else you won't be safe anymore" basis. But this time I explained — calmly and clearly.

I explained why the kitchen is off-limits for throwing games and bumping games while I'm cooking and baking. And why the family room becomes a non-rumpus zone while I'm ironing. And why the fireplace is best enjoyed from a safe distance. And why something as small as a match can be a monstrous danger.

As I talked about these dangerous, rather frightening things with the children, I wondered if I were perhaps doing them psychological harm. Was this going to lead to nightmares?

But then I realized that not knowing what to do in a situation where fire is involved goes way beyond frightening, it goes straight to deadly. So I figured a little bit of psychological harm today and a nightmare tonight might be necessary to save tomorrow.

So we discussed. And then we tested the smoke alarms. We talked about what we must do if we hear that signal. We talked about crawling or moving like a snake on the floor and feeling doors before opening them and not hiding in a closet or under a bed and how we should always, always leave THINGS behind and think only of getting to safe-

We talked about the fire extinguishers we have on each floor. We looked at the escape routes I'd drawn on paper. And we went to our meeting place out on the sidewalk. And then we had a fire drill, which put everything we'd talked about into action.

I can only imagine (and I hope that's all I'll ever have to do, is imagine) what a real fire emergency would be like. And I realize that even though the practice and the drills and calm discussions will have preceded such a situation, panic will flare up anyway just like the flames. But knowledge will be there to help neutralize, to squirt water on the panic.

So even though that stranger's fire a couple weeks back was scary and bad, good arose from it, just as good arose from Mrs. O'Leary's cow and the great Chicago fire of 1871. Awareness, I'm convinced, is always good.

Organizational skills worth learning for the busy '90s

By Christina Fuoco Stary Writer

Barbara Hemphill has been helping people organize their personal and professional lives for about 17 years. But the expert has a confession to make.

"I'm naturally kind of a messy person; I'm not naturally a neat person," she said. "When I take off my clothes, I'm real happy to just drop them on the floor or drop them on the chair."

That reflects her belief that the old saying "a place for everything and everything in its place" is only half right.

I can quickly put them (the clothes) in the right place because they have a right place. The stress comes when people don't have a place to put them," she explained.

Hemphill, the author of "Taming the Paper Tiger" (Kiplinger Books), was in town recently for seminar at Staples in Westland.

Since forming her company Hemphill & Associates in 1978 with a $7 advertisement in a New York newspaper, Hemphill has provided organization skills for homes and offices. She has appeared on numerous television shows, including "CBS This Morning" and "CNN Nightly News," and has written for publications like Reader's Digest, Redbook, USA Today, Kiplinger's Personal Finance and The Washington Post.

Hemphill, who once worked in India with Mother Theresa, shares her wealth of information because she feels organization, make it more and more compliskills are an important skill to cated.'

learn, especially in the busy '90s. .

Complicated lives

"Our personal lives are more complicated," said the immediate past president of the National Association of Professional Organizers. "We have dual-career families. Children have more complicated lives than ever before. Their schedules are more complicated and many of us now are dealing with aging parents. It becomes very complex."

She became interested in helping people organize their lives because it's a "mechanism to get to know the people." She and her staff organize anything a client desires, from kitchen cupboards to entire corporations.

"When you help them organize their stuff, you get to know all about them," she said. "When I used to do people's homes, I had people who put my name in their safe deposit box because they said when they died there was no one who knew more about their affairs than I did.'

Although the basic principles are the same, she sees corporations as more challenging than households.

"There's virtually nothing you could show me in a household that I haven't seen before." Hemphill said. "Corporations and businesses are becoming more and more complicated all the time. The technology issues, the international issues, and the economic issues - all those things

Different reasons

Hemphill, who is now based in Raleigh, N.C., said there are plenty of people she has met who are unwilling to be organized for a number of different reasons. One of these is they feel they don't have the time.

But Hemphill counters: "They don't have the time because they're not organized. This morning a woman said she spent 45 minutes looking for a plece of paper she needed in her office yesterday. She said she didn't have the time to get organized but yet she had to spend 45 minutes looking for something that if her filing system (was up to par), it would have taken her three minutes to find. It's kind of a Catch-22."

Others don't know how to orga-

"Unfortunately, in our school systems, it's not a skill we teach,' she said, "As a mother of five, I'm concerned about why we don't teach this in school. It's just as important as learning math."

Finally, people think that there are certain ways to be organized and creative people find that restrictive and boring, Hemphill

"My definition of organized is, 'Does the situation work and do you like it?' I spent a lot of time today with someone who had specific questions. All these people are creative people who are not fixed. They need flexibility and creativity about how they organize."

The key to organizing, she said, is to keep it up.

Alliance: Mental illness real disease

Mental illness is a disease. And like physical diseases, it has nothing to do with personal strengths or weaknesses, will power or morality. It has specific symptoms. It can be accurately diagnosed and effectively treated.

That is the message the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill and the Alliance for the Mentally Ill of Michigan are trying to get out during Mental Illneas Awareness Week now through Saturday, Oct. 7 . . . "Treatment works."

'We try to educate the community about what people with mental illness can do," said Hope Cummins of AMI of Michigan. "We want to help the community understand that mental illness is a biological condition, that it is a serious illness that is treatable and that treatment works."

What began as a move to increase congressional awareness of mental iliness has become a nationwide observance the first week in October. This is the 12th year that a grass-roots effort has been launched to "bring information, hope and treatment to rolllions."

'We want to emphasize that one key to increasing awareness and decreasing atigma is to omphasize that with proper access to treatment, people with severe mental illness can live productive lives," sald Farrell Fitch of the National Alliance for the Mentally III.

This year's observance is cosponsored by The American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry, American Psychiatric Association, Center for Mental Health Services, National Alliance for the Mentally III, National Depressive and Manic-Depressive Association, National Institute of Mental Health, and National Mental Health Association.

Montal iliness is a term used for a group of disorders causing severe disturbances in thinking, feeling and relating. It can affect people of any age -- children, adolescents, adults and the elderly - and occur in any family.

Probably, the most serious and disabling is schizophrenia, which affects approximately one person in 100. It affects men and women equally and onset is usually in the late teens or early 20s.

Schizophrenics may have poor reakoning, memory and judgment, high levels of anxiety, eating and sleep disorders, ballucinations and delusions, to name a few of the symptoms. Contrary to myths about the disorder, they do not have "split personalities," and are not prone to criminal violence.

Likewise, their illness isn't caused by bad parenting or the result of weakness of character. It is due to a blochemical disturbance of the brain.

Affective disorders are the most common of the psychiatric disorclers. Generally less persistently disabling than schizophrenia, the primary disturbance in these disorders is manic-depressive (bipolar) illness and persistent severe depression (unipolar).

People with bipolar illness usually have such symptoms as boundless energy, enthusiasm and need for activity, decreased need for sleep, impulsive and erratic behavior, and rapidly switch to severe depression.

On the other hand, people with severe unipolar illness have difficulty sleeping, loss of interest in daily activities; loss of appetite; feelings of worthlessness, guilt and hopelessness; and suicidal thoughts and even actions.

Anxiety disorders, when severe, may also be considered mental illnesses, Likewise, personality or behavioral disorders and the abuse of drugs and alcohol may also be so disabling as to be labeled mental Illness.

Working to improve the quality of life for people with long-term mental illness is the Alliance for the Mentally III of Michigan. Based in Southfield, its purposes also include providing support and advocacy for families and educating the public to dispel myths and overcome the stigma associated with mental illness and open opportunities for the mentally ill in the community.

The organization also advocates for legislation, at the state and national levels, which would improve the care of the mentally ill; and advocates and supports research into the causes, treatment and prevention of mental.

People interested in more information may contact AMI by calling (810) 552-9485 or hy writing to it at 24133 Northwestern Highway, Southfield 48076.

Chapter eyes jewelry trend

When the Michigan chapter of Gemological Institute of America Alumni and Associates meets on Sunday, Oct. 8, the topic will be a new trend in the jewelry industry -- synthetic diamonds.

The keynote speaker will be Sharon Wakefield, a well-known gemological author, according to chapter president Melinda Adducci, who with Joseph Du-Mouchelle operates Michigan Gernological Services, a Plymouth-based jewelry appraisal and brokerage business.

The afternoon meeting will be at the Pairlane Club in Dearborn and is open to the educated professional, daily practitioner, gem hubbyist, and person who loves and owns gems and jewelry, Ad ducci said.

The program will include a slide presentation, samples of synthetic diamonds and lunch.

Synthetic diamonds are manmade materials that essentially duplicate the optical, physical and chemical properties of natural diamonds, which are grown under natural conditions unaided by man. Synthetic diamonds should not be confused with simulated diamonds, which are imitations or fakes like cubic zir-hia year marks the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's golden birthday, and a celebratory concert season is about to begin. On Oct. 15, the orchestra will replay its first concert at Plymouth-Salem High School Auditorium. Titled "Come Home to Plymouth," the program features award-winning violinist Scott Yoo and includes many Plymouth Symphony alumni.

"It's a pleasure and an honor to conduct the orchestra during such a momentous year," said Russell Reed, the symphony's present conductor, who is beginning his ninth season. "There's always been a great sense of pride for the musical product and a great commitment from the members of the orchestra."

When it comes to the musicians' commitment to the orchestra, longevity seems to be the rule. "It's not unusual to play for 20 years in the Plymouth Symphony. It's because it started out as a family and a community kind of feeling," said Christa Grix, PSO executive director, and a free-lance harpist.

Edith Schutze of Plymouth, a cellist, holds the honor of being the orchestra's longest-standing member. She joined in 1945, shortly after 10 Plymouth musicians met in Carl and Evelyn Groschke's home on North Mill to organize a string orchestra. "There were so few of us at that time. We were so excited," she said.

While Schutze cannot recall specifics of those early years, she does remember that sometime during the first 10 years, "Life" magazino did an article on the orchestra. "."Life' wrote us up as being one of the best community orchestras. They focused on the fact that we were all volunteers," she said.

At age 90, Louise Bradley, also a cellist, is the oldest member of the Plymouth Symphony. In

All that glitters is not gold. Just ask members of the Great Lakes Beadworkers Guild,

At a recent gathering of the guild board in the Troy home of treasurer Posey Macedonia, they enthusiastically listed dozens of reasons why beads have fascinate ed mankind for thousands of years. Although cultures from the North American Indians to the Oyumbundu in Africa considered beads so valuable as to use them as currency in trade, beads continue to stand the test of time primarily because of their decorative capabili-

"Most women do some kind of needlewark and embellishment with beads, That's why beadworking is experiencing a resurgence in popularity. Quitters and artists are using them. Young girls are making friendintricately knits beads into new purses as well as restores antique évening bags at Complements in Lake Orion.

"Beads have gone beyond personal adornment. There are many people who use beads, Ukrainians do an awful lot with them in their folk art."

If you collect heads, string them as jewelry, add them as embellishments to clothing or simply love the way the ornamentations sparkle in the light, don't miss the Great Lakes Beadworkers Guild's First Bead Bonanza Sunday, Oct. 8, at The Plaza Hotel in South-

Nearly 30 vendors will offer hard-to-find seed beads, antique, stone, glass, clay polymer and ethnic beads from Austria to Czechoslovakia. A guild exhibit of beadwork, "Beadlieve It or Not," will illustrate the many different objects capable of being created with Nationally known glass artists Don Schneider of Plymouth along with Fred Birkhill, art professor at ship bracelets, and anklets," said Macedonia, who - the University of Michigan Dearborn, and Stevi Belle turning out one of a kind beads throughout the day.

This is an exciting time to be a glass artist as there are a tremendous amount of glass beads being made as of late. Glass beadmaking preceded the invention of the blow pipe by about 2,500 years," sald Schneider, a glass artist who Is in constant demand nationally as a lecturer and demonstrator the to the beauty of his millefiori beads.

Lampworked glass is being looked at now from an art perspective. People interested in teads or glass should come to the Bead Bonanza. It's a chance to see artists working with different glass techniques. There will be Leads from all over the world. As this is the first event we need people to come out and support the craftsman.

Many of the exhibitors in the Bead Bonanza began beading before reading. Gail Frederickson, who teaches beadwork in Birmingham Public Schools adult education classes, started at her grandmother's knee. Frederickson's loom-woven fiber necklaces are miniature works of art much like tapestries. Her mini-purae necklaces using peyote stitch will be on display in the guild exhibit.

"I grew up in northern Minnesota on the edge of a reservation and everybody beaded. Stringing as jewelry is what most people think of when they think of beads. but you can do bead weaving, knitting and crocheting, embroidery, and on and off loom weaving. You can even weave baskets from beads," said Frederickson of Beverly Hills.

Pattee Goodman, a child development worker at the Jewish Community Center in West Bloomfield, says quite frequently exhibits she enjoys at the JCC's Janice Charach Epstein Museum allery incorporate some type of bead in the art, whether it's quilts or paintings.

"You can create wall hangings with beads. Anything you do you can use beads. It's not just your basic stringing. Beads spark your creativity," said Goodman, whose Egyptian style multi-strand seed. bead necklace will be on display.

Besides being versatile, beads create a comfortable state of mind. Sylvus Tarn of Detroit sees beading as a form of Zen, providing plenty of time for meditation and escape from the stresses of

"Beads date back 30,000 years. Some of the first were made of seeds, shell and amber because they're easy to drill. Glass beadmaking peaked when Louis XIV gathered up all the artists on the island of Murano to work over alcohol lamps but now it's enjoying a renaissance in this country due in large part to Dale Chihuly. said Tarn, who frequently uses spacer bars and a Japanese technique called maruda as design elements in the jewelry she sells at arts and craft shows and festivals.

"As far as beading, it's an inexpensive hobby to get into. You can start with a pair of pliers, beads and some string. You don't need $3,000 worth of equipment."

The Great Lakes Beadworkers Guild, a non-profit organization. dedicated to education and promoting an awareness of beadwork being created in the Great Lakes region, meets monthly at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, 814 N. Campbell in Royal Oak.

fact, sho is the oldest playing member of any community orchestra in the state. "You have a real feeling for something special that keeps you alive inside. I hat to think of my life without music," she said. Since joining in. 1963, Bradley recalls missing only one performance, when she was recovering from surgery.

When Bill Beitner of Plymouth joined the Symphony in 1947, he didn't have to audition. They needed his trumpet. "I never played an audition. They took everybody they could at the beginning. The principal players usually filled the section with whom they wanted. You needed somebody who could play, be compatible, someone who could fit. It was like family, always. We rehearsed in an old barn behind the high school." Beitner retired in 1983.

Throughout the years, the Plymouth Symphony has maintained its singular musical voice. "For many years, 20 years or so, Wayne Dunlap was the voice of the Plymouth Symphony. That kind of feeling is still continuing with Russell Reed. The orchestra members love him, and he feels the same way about them," said

"He gives his players a great deal of freedom to interpret. His vision is clear. I think stylistically we're all in the same boat," sald two-year member Betsy Bogner, a flutist and the symphony's personnel manager.

from Front

Under Reed, the Plymouth Symphony continues to challenge ita members, playing difficult pieces like "Night Rivers" by Anthony Iannaccone and the complicated Verdi Requiem. Also, it's no stranger to introducing new works, "We are premiering a piece in November that was recorded in Warsaw, It's a clarinet concerto. The first United States perform. ance will be with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra," sald Reed.

The orchestra realizes its programming must evolve to meet the audience's needs. That includes reaching out to children, its future supporters. This February's "A Carnival of the Animals" will duplicate last year's program by inviting children - and their teddy bears - to take an orchestra safari.

"They walk through the orchestra as the musicians are playing so that they can really experience the music intimately," said Grix. "That's the kind of thing that's unique to the PSO."

The Symphony recently received some "hot, hot news." said Grix. It was awarded a $5,000 grant from The Michigan Counsel of the Arts and Cultural Affairs to commission a special 50th birthday work. Grix said she knew nothing of the proposed work other than it would be "a celebra. tory fanfare." The birthday piece will be part of the Verdi Requiem program on March 23. Except for a short time a few years ago, the Plymouth Symphony's home always has been Plymouth. During their "homeless" period, the orchestra reached out and made new friends in neighboring communities. "We were welcomed with wide open arms by Belleville and Novi. They were thrilled to have us in their community. We had soldout auditoriums. That brought to light how valuable this orchestra is," said Grix.

Even though their Plymouth home is once more secure, the orchestra continues to give one concert a year in Novi and one in Belleville. "We are really trying to make ourselves the orchestra for Western Wayne County," said

After 50 years, the Plymouth Symphony's identity has been enriched by tradition and innova-

Grix summed up the orchestra members sentiments by saying, "We're not the Detroit Symphony, and we're not trying to be the Detroit Symphony. But the Detroit Symphony is not the Plymouth Symphony either."

Spend the day exploring Hidden Lake Gardens

BY DAWN NEEDHAM SPECIAL WRITER

Owned and operated by Michigan State University, Hidden Lake Gardens in Lenawee County in the tlny village of Tipton, is a virtually undiscovered treasure, The land in the Irish Hills area was donated to MSU by Harry Fee of Adrian, a businessman with an interest in horticulture. He purchased Hidden Lake, and about 200 surrounding acres, in-1928. Intending to farm, he found the rolling, rocky Irish Hills area was not conducive to conventional farming, explained Hidden Lake Gardens' coordinator of education, Tina Podboy Laughner.

He then turned the place into a nursery, but when the Depression hit, the wealthy Fee closed so he wouldn't compete with people who really needed the money, Laughner explained.

In 1945, he entered into an agreement with MSU "to preserve the area for the benefit and education of the public," Laughner

Fee chose MSU — then known as Michigan State College -- for its agricultural connections and its horticulture department, to which he frequently turned for advice about his ventures.

This year is the 50th anniversary of Hidden Lake Gardens' affillation with MSU, and a celebration is being planned Saturday, Oct. 14. In those five decades, Hidden Lake Gardens has grown to about 755 acres through accumulation of contiguous property.

Hidden Lake Gardens is more

Hidden Gardens is in Lenawee County. Take I-275 south to US-12 west to M-52 south to M-50 west. It's on the north side of the road, Hours: Open 365 days a year, 8 a.m. to dusk through October, and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. November thorugh March. Admission is $1 per person weekdays, $3 holidays and weekends.

like a beautifully landscaped park than a conventional public garden. There are five miles of hiking trails, picnic areas and a six-mile one way paved drive that gets used by walkers and drivers alike.

The fall color displays attract many visitors, and AAA calls weekly to monitor the percentage of fall color for a list the automotive club compiles. Laughner said. Hidden Lake has "great fall color" from maple and sassafras plantings, as well as serviceberry and Virginia creeper, two of the first plants to change color in autumn.

Hidden Lake Gardens is "designed for four-season interest,' Laughner said. In the winter, some access is limited, depending on snowfall, but visitors can walk anywhere.

Visitors to the gardens, on M. 50 west of M-52, first approach a gatehouse where they pay admission and receive a map. From there, it's an individual decision on how to proceed. Sticking to the main loop of the drive. first you go through a huge expanse of lawn and evergreens, beyond which is a pond constructed by Fee.

The drive continues around Hidden Lake. The lake has a pair of resident swans which had eight cygnets this spring; seven are still. alive, Laughner said.

At the north end of the lake, visitors can park and choose a hiking trail. The first quartermile is extremely level asphalt, eight-feet wide, that's even accessible for wheelchairs. Past that is a wooded area that opens into a panoramic view.

Next along the drive is the shelter/picnic area, with water and rest areas, followed by a new planting called "Trees for Tomorrow," installed by some master gardeners from Jackson.

There's no time limit for guests, and it's easy to while away a few hours or an entire day. Visitors are encouraged to picnic, walk on the grass, and examine plantings up close. Bikes are allowed any day except Sunday; inline skates and skateboards are prohibited.

"It really is a hidden gem," Laughner said, adding that while much of the Irish Hills area has become more commercial and tourist-oriented, Hidden Lake Gardens has worked very hard to maintain its pristine nature atmosphere.

Heist goes wrong in 'Dead Presidents'

MONAGHAN

"Dead Presidents" means cash, which Allen and Albert Hughes have a lot more of since directing their debut feature "Menace II Society" in 1993. The success of that film, a gripping account of life and death on L.A. streets, gave the 20-year-old twins the chance to tackle an ambitious project about the effects of the Vietnam War on black Ameri-

It would be great to say that these former Detroiters, raised here through the age of eight, have produced another winner. But "Dead Presidents," which opens wide Friday, is an uneven and often routine look at what they call "the American dream gone wrong."

Anthony Curtis (Larenz Tate from "Menace") is young and going nowhere when he decides to join the Marines in 1968. After a nightmarish five years overseas. he returns home to find that his neighborhood has changed, the girlfriend and baby girl he left behind now visited by a flashy

When he loses his job at the local butcher shop, Anthony starts hitting the bottle. Desperate to provide real money for his family, he plots an armored car heist with his old army buddies and his Revolution-obsessed sister-in-

According to Albert Hughes, in town recently with his brother to promote the film, "We like the story because it's about one person going through so many experiences, and how he deals with

Drama:

Unemployed and desperate after returning from service to his country in. Vietnam. Anthony (Larenz-Tate, left) enlists the help of buddy Skip (Chris Tucker) to plan a highstakes robbery.

those extremes ... we like to see him go through the ups and downs.'

To see the ads for "Dead Presidents" you'd think that it's a heist movie. "We realize that," said Albert, "but we didn't want anything attached to that other Vietnam picture that came out last year. The whole one-sheet poster was in direct response to

That other movie, "The Walking Dead" was made by another Detroiter, a low-budget story of a Marine unit with each member recalling how they got to the Nam in the first place. The Hughes call it a "stinker" (which it was at the box office), quickly assembled after word of their project got out.

Actually, the brothers could learn a few things from that film, especially in terms of plot structure. Characters come and go in "Dead Presidents" and then pretty much disappear, among them Anthony's brother and a drug dealer that helps push him to the

Though Allen and Albert Hughes were barely alive when the Vietnam War was raging, they did their homework. Much of the film is based on stories from the book "Bloods," a riveting collection of black veterans' memories.

The late '60s/early '70s atmosphere, from clothes to black velvet paintings, is especially vivid. "We heard from a lot of people who liked the authenticity of those scenes in "Menace," says Allen.
"We designed a whole lot of the look on my dad's photo album from 1972.'

After "The Usual Suspects" and "Reservoir Dogs," however, it's difficult to watch the routine heist scenes in "Dead Presidents" without drawing some comparisons. "We definitely went for a more linear type of movie making," said Allen. "We didn't want to simply retread what was already done before."

The movie does have some momenta it can call its own. One of the best finds Anthony leaping over backyard fences then cuts immediately to him jumping over obstacles in the fields of Vietnam.

Whatever the shortcoming of "Dead Presidents," the brothers are understandably enthusiastic. The movie was selected for screening at the prestigious New York Film Festival while they're already at work on their next project in a four-picture deal -Allen dealing with actors, Albert setting up the visuals behind the camera.

STREET BEAT

builds frenzy

By Todd Wicks

Michael Stipe hates balloons - at least the black ones from a local radio station that floated around Michigan State University's Breslin Center Sept. 27.

Midway through R.E.M.'s set, the Q106 balloons, which had drifted lazily through the air during Radiohead's languid set, invoked the wrath of the bald singer. "I don't know why, but those balloons are really bugging me," Stipe announced between songs. He then accepted one from a security guard, and with a little help from bassist Mike Mills, popped it with a microphone stand to wild applause.

Funny little scenes like this were scattered throughout R.E.M.'s show in East Lansing last week. On the final leg of the grueling tour in support of its latest album "Monster," the band seemed relaxed and playful. Barely 30 minutes after Radiohead's set ended, the lights went down as R.E.M. strolled casually onstage and leaned into the midtempo "I Took Your Name." But something about the scene wasn't quite right. Light flooded in from the exits, and the bleachers circling the floor seats never let anyone forget that this was, after all, just a mid-sized basketball arena. As the first song ended, both the crowd and the band seemed uncertain about what kind of night this was going to be.

However, several crowd-pleasers in quick succession roused the sedate crowd. A vested, surgery free Peter Buck and a Les Paul led the charge through "What's the Frequency, Kenneth?", "Crush With Eyeliner," and the electric hip-hop version of "Drive" with gusto. Mills, in a white Nudie suit and long curls, stomped about the stage with his bass slung low, banishing his former nerdy, shirt-sleeves image to the '80s forever. His perfect background harmonies also saved a few songs from Stipe's purposely erratic pitch. Drummer Billy Berry was typically non-descript, donning a baseball hat for his turn at bass during a disturbing "Country Feedback," which Stipe introduced as "our favorite song."

For all of their scissor kicks and crowd-working, Stipe remained the show's focal point. Under thick black eye makeup and the quickly shifting stage lights, he alternately resembled an angry zombie and a playful, restless child. Untalkative at The Palace show this past summer, Stipe was exceptionally verbose between songs. "This one is ladies' choice," he announced as a disco ball dropped for roller-rink effect on "Tongue." At one point, harrassed by an overzealous fan at stage right, Stipe looked perplexed and said, "Uh, I'm going to go over here now," walking left to enormous laughter.

Like The Palace visit, the show contained a good number of new songs consistent with the gritty, glamorous, guitar bent "Monster." "Departure" and the Beastie Boy-ish "Revolution" were highlights of material slated for an upcoming album. R.B.M.'s road-tested muscle also rejuvenated overplayed gems like "Losing My Religion" and "Man on the Moon," turning the latter into the most propulsive, rousing song of the evening. Reaching back for 1986's "Begin the Begin, Buck's Spanish riff was hypnotic above Berry's tribal rhythm. Although the set's fast cong-slow song new song pattern occasionally distrupted a good groove, it also provided for a wealth of diverse material, from the slowest of the slow ("Everybody Hurts") to the slamming ("Star 69").

Stipe seemed especially excited bringing out Detroit legend Patti Smith for their encore. After an under-rehearsed but moving duet on "Let Me In, and a lovey-dovey chat near the drum riser, Stipe left the spotlight as Smith fronted the band for the night's only cover, her classic "Dancing Barefoot."

However, the night's best treat was yet to come. The closer, "It's the End of the World as We Know It (and I Peel Pine)" was given a trashler veneer than its album counterpart, with Stipe ranting the stream-of-consciousness lyrics way out of time. As the song built and built, the crowd, who had remained excited but orderly the entire show, finally broke loose, flooding the aisles in a rush to the stage.

After several stressful and injury-prone months on the road, R.B.M.'s performance was full of fire and griatle. Overcoming a slow start, it had professionally worked the crowd into a frenzy. Now it was time to have some fun. So Mills, Buck and Stipe, immediately noticing the crush, moved forward like good old-fashloned rock stars, closer to the broiling masses, posing, jumping and teasing the crowd joyfully as the night apun to a frenzied

Roseville's The Ritz becomes Palladium

BY CHRISTINA RUOCO

After 11 years as The Ritz, the Roseville club whas changed its name, its facade and is in the process of revemping its image.

The Palladium, as it's now called, will turn its focus toward Top 40 and alternative music.

"We've always been known as a long-hair heavy metal hand club," said manager John Cathers. "We're making a change in format to Top 40 dance and bande."

'We want to become more of an event-oriented room. We want to bring in bands, comedians, anything really," he added.

Playful R.E.M. Charm Farm shifts musical gears

By TODD WICKS STAFF WRITER

It's a rare band that can successfully change musical styles over the course of its career. The Rolling Stones have done it a few times, from rock to country to disco to punk and back. U2 reinvented themselves from earth toned missionaries into black. leathered technobrats a few years ago. with "Achtung Baby."

Detroit's Charm Farm doesn't resemble either of those bands, but doesn't need a 10-year career to start genre-hopping, either. On their third . album, "Pervert" (PRA Records), they do it within the course of a few songs. The head turning jump from the straight-shead rock of "I'm a Man" to straight-faced disco on the first single "Superstar" is an undeniable shock. Likewise, the whispery funk of the title track unexpectedly gives way to "Sick" and stereo guitars like something by Queen.

These kinds of surprises delight the members of Charm Farm. After four years, the band has become a staple of the Detroit scene. Singer/ songwriter Dennis White and guitarist Steve Zuccaro, both of Grosse Pointe Park, enjoy their ongoing expeditions in musical perversity.

"It's a very, very diverse record," said White of "Pervert," released Sept. 19. "I must confess, I don't listen to music a lot. If I do listen to a full CD, it's because it went all over the place. Even if (a CD) is great all the way through, if the instrumentation doesn't change up a lot, I can't be interested in it. And of course, if I'm making a record, it's something I want to be interested in."

Zucarro said despite the musical changes there's an underlying theme to the songs.

There are a lot of different areas we're going into, but there's still a common denominator in all of the songs. The production value should bring it all together and make for a cool record. When we were recording it, we were thinking about that. We knew that these were all different styles, so we tried to make sure that the production was similar on each song so it would be cohesive.'

Particularly for White, "Pervert" marks a distinct change from the styles on 1993's "Flirt," which spawned the radio hit "La La Hey."

Those songs (on "Flirt") were written when I was between 22 and 24, and that's a pretty happy record, said White, who is 28 now. "I had just finished playing with Inner City (a groundbreaking Detroit techno project with Keyin Saunderson). I had been travelling around the world at someone else's expense, and it was just models, parties and good times. I came home and wrote a record that sounded exactly like that . . . which is why no one cares about it now, why it died a pretty quick death artistical-

White, who produced both albums, shared the public's apathy.

'Flirt' was out of sight, out of mind for me four days after I got the CD," he said.

He sees the superior lyrical quality of "Pervert" as a personal triumph.

Celebrating release: Multi-Detroit Music Award winners Charm Farm — from left, bassist Dino Zoyes, background singer Taj Bell, keyboardist Ken Roberts, singer/songwriter Dennis White, drummer Eric Meyer, and guitarist Steve Zuccaro — celebrate the release of their third CD "Pervert" with a party and performance at 10 p.m. Friday, Oct. 6, at the Magic Bag in Ferndale.

■ 'There are a lot of different areas we're going into, but there's still a common denominator in all of the songs. The production value should bring it all together and make for a cool record. believe in. I'm very proud of this. I Having his own TV show can actually listen to this and be interested in what we came up with in the studio. I want as many people to hear it as possible."

Interestingly, "Pervert's" more wounded, emotional approach was completedly unplanned.

"I didn't go into this album saying, 'Here's what's on my mind and I'm going to get it down,' "White said.

'Only after I finished everything and put the songs in order did I start to notice that it was the kind of record that a guy who's getting older makes. In retrospect, thematically, the record is about the pangs of getting older and getting on, more about coming to terms with the way life really is as opposed to the fantasy of what we hope it will be. There are the fantasies we entertain about it when we're 16 and then there is the way that it really is."

Besides "Pervert," a new development that should widen Charm Farm's audience is a band project called "Underground Television" (U.T.V.) on local public access cable channels. The show features interviews with the band, acoustic perfor-

"I have a record now that I really mances, and old Charm Farm footage.

White. "The minute I learned that cable operators had to let you have your own TV show if you wanted one, I was all over that in a second. You can spend a lot of time trying to promote a little concert and hope that 400 or 500 people show up, or you can spend the same amount of time putting a TV show together. Even if it's on these little dinky cable stations, at least 5,000 people are going to see it. We hope to not just get exposure for ourselves, but to get exposure for things that we're into. Zuccaro said that the TV show is "a big deal to us."

"This could really help spread the word. Plus it's something you don't really see a band do, at least not since the '70s, since the Osmond Family or something.'

The members of Charm Farm which also includes bassist Dino Zoyes, background singer Taj Bell, keyboardist Ken Roberts, and drummer Eric Meyer - are pleased to have become a multi-media experience. The group is one of the few Detroit bands who have its own World Wide Web site.

"It does a lot more to empower individuals and give them a lot more access to information and exposure. Like us! A couple of dorks can get their own TV show, exposing themselves to tens of thousands of people. We have a web site, and tens of millions of people have access on the Internet now," White said.

He paused sounding cowed by such numbers. "Look for Charm Farm to worry less about playing shows around the area and more about maintaining a really cool television show and having a really good site online. We want to have a lot of ways for people to interact with the group besides the same old, boring, 'We're playing a show at a club' thing."

Technology and advancement; aside, Charm Farm members are still old-school rockers enough to throw a good bash the U2 "Where the Streets is Have No Name" or the Beatles' last; gig way. Without coming right out and saying it, Zuccaro hinted that ! Charm Farm would be visiting downtown Royal Oak very soon in a very? special sort of live show.

Charm Farm, with special guest DJ Kenny Larkin, celebrates the release of "Pervert" with a party and performance at 10 p.m. Friday, Oct. 6, at the Magic Bag Theatre Cafe, 22918 Woodward Ave., Ferndale. Tickets are $6 for the 18 and older show. For more information, call (810) 544-3030. They will also perform Thursday, Oct. 26, at Industry, 15 S. Saginaw, Pontiac, (810) 334-1999. Spectadium scores with sports fans

BY JUDITH DONER BERNE SPECIAL WANTER

Nothing of the two-thirds-pound cheese burger was left on his plate.

"It was just excellent," critiqued Don Sherer of Troy, dining for the first time at the recently opened Spectadium Sportsvideo Bar & Grill.

Sherer was having a business lunch with his son, Jon, also of Troy, and Greg Capp of Ann Arbor.

Jon was merely half-way through a huge Mediterranean salad, of beets, Calamata: olives, feta cheese, onions, pepperocini, chick pear on mixed greens. He ordered the herb vinaigrette dressing on the side and pronounced the salad full of "great fla-VOIB.

Capp had finished a Philly Cheese Steak sandwich which he described as "good and spicy." Their 40-ounce glasses of soda pop and iced tea appeared to need no refills.

At another table, Beyorly Hills resident Theresa Dziubek had eaten lunch at her Troy office, but was indulging in one of two desserts on the menu, the deep dish apple pie. "It was exquisite," she said.

Spectadium owners say they are already filling their multi-tiered stadium-setting tables with fans for hig games and sporting promotions. The 8,000 square foot restaurant is designed to resemble a miniature stadium. There are three 12-foot projection screen televisions, 20 31-inch televisions, and a state of the art Surround Sound audio system. Linked to three satellite

But they are hoping the menu that Chuck Williams, former executive chef at Morton's Steak House in Southfield, has put together also will make them a contender for non-sporting types who just like high quality food in a relaxed atmosphere.

And they are eagerly awaiting the November day when the road construction on nearby Big Beaver is supposed to be completed and customers can get to them without a hassle.

"We're a restaurant first," said CEO Mark Alhermizi, a Wost Bloomfield resident who acknowledges he's had little time lately for his Farmington Hills law practice. Chuck's a veteran executive chef. It is a genuine American concept — a little more upscale, a little more creative than the average sports bar," Williams says, of the cuisine. In particular, he is stressing "homemade" over "deep-fried."

What Williams likes best is no big secret. He has designated his all-star picks right on the menu:

•Appetizer: Maryland crabcake served with garlic Aioli and Hunter dipping sauces ($6.95).

·Salad: Mediterranean ($5.95). ·Sandwiches: Meatloaf served on potato bread with homemade country gravy ($5.95). (All sandwiches come with homemado Sarasota chips: Fries are $1 extra.)

•Entrees: Baby-back ribs — a full slab with Hoisin barbecue sauce ($15.95) including salad and choice of potato.

"I'm in love with our ribs," said Alhermizi. And he says a following is developing for the vegetarian chili.

Williams rib recipe calls for rubbing spices into the ribs themselves, then slowcooking for six hours. And the secret to the mentloaf, also offered as an entree, is "personalizing it in an individual one-pound meat loaf pan." The five different peppers and cumin ketchup give it, he says, "a nice blend." A few menu revisions have already been made in the several weeks Spectadium has been opened.

A weekday all-you-can cat deli lunch buffet ($5.95) that can also be carried out has been added to lure the quick business lunches.

Mr. Hibbs answers O&E call

Adam Hibbs, a 1991 graduate of Farmington High School, battled stiff winds Sunday at Whispering Willows to win the championship flight at the O&E golf tournament.

By C.J. RIBAK Stapp Vriter

It came down to the finish, quite literally. The winner of the

So on Sunday, all Hibbs needed to do was basically survive. And he did, barely, with a 76 that included a 40 on the back nine.

"I was getting nervous," Hibbs admitted. "The way I was hitting the ball. I'm not deserving of this. I mean, I had 32 putts each day . . that's not good.

"But it was good enough, I guess." Hibbs posted his score Sunday early, then had to wait while the final foursome in the championship flight finished. Three members of that foursome - Alex McLuckie of Livonia, Ian Harris of West Bloomfield and Chris Zbanek of Farmington Hills were within striking distance of Hibbs' clubhouse-leading total of

It seemed almost unfair, the Livonia golfer unable to match his surname while Hibbs won in his firstever attempt. Hibbs remained in a state of disbelief even after the final results were posted.

Westland John Glenn, as well as Livonia Franklin, Walled Lake Western and North Farmington, stand in the way of that happen-

Looking farther ahead, Class AA Glenn, Redford Catholic Central and Stevenson and Class A Harrison have good playoff chances Redford St. Agatha (D) and Plymouth Canton (AA) are on the bubble.

A final word on the '95 Boys Bowl. It was quite possibly the best game in the long history of the event.

Brother Rice had the game won twice, 20-17 late in the fourth quarter and 23-20 in overtime. But CC rallied each time to win

CC's last-minute drive to force overtime, a booming field goal by Eron Kosmowski and a decision on fourth-and-one to go for the winning TD in overtime provided plenty of high drama.

■ On the prediction front, Brad Emons gained another game and leads by seven over Dan O'Meara. 62-11 to 55-18. Emons was 12-3 last week, O'Meara 11-4.

GRID PICKS

FRIDAY'S GAMES (all times 7:30 p.m.)

Northville at Liv. Churchill: The Muslangs (2-1, 3-2) are smarting this week after losing 48.7 to Harrison in a game that could have been much closer. Northvide's other loss was to South Lyon, the No. 1 team in Class A. The Chargers (0-3, 0-5) are still looking for their first win. PICKS: The Mustangs kick up their heets

Farmington at Westland Glenn: These teams played a great game last year when the Rockets (2-1, 4-1) won in overtime, 20-17. Glenn's win streak was stopped last week when underdog Walled Lake Central staged a surprising, 21-20 upset. The Faicons (1-2, 2-3) had hoped to be 5.0 going into this game but have had some bad breaks and just-misses. Farmington is coming off a 21-12 win over North Farmington, PICKS: Glenn wins a soueaker.

Pty. Salem at W.L. Central: Momentum belongs to the Vikings (2-1, 3-2), who suddenly became takes Division contenders with their big win over Glenn. Salem (1-2, 1-4) tries to rebound from a 27.6 loss to Lakes frontrunner Livonia Stevenson. Aside from their 35-34 win over Farmington, the Rocks have scored only 13 points and will need more to beat Central, PICKS: The Vikings stay in con-

W.L. Western at Ply. Canton: This one looks like a tossup between even teams. Both are 2-1 in the Western Division (beating Churchilf and Franklin) and 3.2 overall. The Chiefs have won two straight and hope the home-field advantage helps to make it three. PICKS: Canton keeps the streak going.

Wayne Memorial at Believille: The Zetras (2.2, 2-3) appear to be coming together as a team, winning their last two games over Woodhaven and Wyandotte. Lorenzo Guess passed for two TDs and ran for another as Wayne beat the Bears 20-8. But now comes the big test against state ranked Belleville (4-0, 5-0). PICKS: lan Gold and the Tigers won't be stopped.

Taylor Kennedy at Garden City: The Cougars (1-2, 1-4) got their first win last week, trouncing Truman 35-14, and the confidence gained from it should help against winless Kennedy (0-4, 0-5). The Eagles aren't flying too high these days. losing 9.0 to Southgate last week and averaging just five points a game. PICKS: The Cougars get the deuce.

Redford Union at Southgate: The Panthers (1-2, 1-4) need some offense. They haven't scored a point since beating Kennedy three weeks ago. Southgate (3-1, 3-2) has a supenor record, but the game will determine if the Titans are realby a better team. PICKS: Southgate pulls Red: Thurston at Taylor Center: The Eagles (0-4, 0-5) have their best chance to get something started since the second week of the season. Thurston has played Crestwood, Allen Park and Melvindale in its last three games, but the Rams (2-2, 3-2) won't exactly be pushovers elther. Center has beaten Kennedy, Annapolis and Carlson, PICKS: Thurston has to wart longer for its first victory.

SATURDAY'S GAMES (all times 1 p.m. unless noted)

Liv. Franklin at F.H. Harrison: The Hawks (3.0, 4-1) are tolling after fourstraight wins, including a 48-7 thrashing of Northville last week in which Jason Granger rushed for 283 yards and five touchdowns. The hard-luck Patriots (9-3, 1-4) have lost three in a row and will by to rebound from a 17-6 loss to Walled Lake Western, PICKS: Harrison has a happy homecoming.

Liv. Stevenson at N. Farmington: The Spartans (3-0, 4-1) are alone in first place in the Lakes Division and could be headed for a second straight appearance in the WLAA championship game. Stevenson can't afford to be looking ahead to next week's showdown with John Glunn, however. The Raiders (0-3, 1-4) played well against Farmington and have the potential to give the Spartans a good game. PICKS: Two votes for Stevenson.

Clarenceville at Luth. Westland: Observedand's Metro Conference members meet this week, and both hope to end two-game losing streaks. The Warriors (2-2, 2-3) suffered a 33-8 loss to Lutheran East. John Rose caught two touchdown passes from Rob Ashton, but the Trojans (2-1, 2-3) lost 36-14 to Harper Woods. PICKS: Flip a coin. O'Meara takes Lutheran Westland; Emons goes with Clarence-

St. Agatha at O.L. Lakes: The Lakers are having a down year by their standards. Lakes is 3-2 overall but 2-0 in the Catholic C-Section following a 28-0 rout of Ann Arbor Richard, St. Agatha (1-1, 3-2) eked out a 7-6 win over Richard two weeks ago and lost to Royal Oak Strine 21-0 Saturday. PICKS: Nobody said the Lakers were all wet.

Bishop Borgess vs. Benedictine, 2 p.m. at Garden City Jr. High: Borgess (1-1 Tri-Sectional, 3-2) saw its two-game win streak end in a 36-18 loss to Riverview Richard. The Ravens (0-2, 2-3) have lost three straight in the league after beating New Haven and Inkster. Benedictine held Allen Park Cabrini to a touchdown in a 7-0 loss a week ago. PICKS: Emons is an Edgar Allen Poe fan, so the Ravens are his choice. O'Meara's reply:

Go Tell The Spartans.

Redford CC vs. O.L. St. Mary's, 7:30 p.m. at Clarenceville: The Eaglets (4-1) are having another good year, but OLSM isn't the awesome team that won the Class CC title in '94. The Shamrocks (5-0) will be thinking payback this week, having lost 20-0 to St. Mary's last year. CC has a new lease on life after rallying to beat Brother Rice 26-23 in overtime Sunday In the annual Boys Bowl. PICKS: St. Mary's (2.0) is ahead of the Sharwocks (1.0) in the new Central West Division, but that will change Saturday.

Spartans put halt to losing skid; Warriors capture 9th straight

Livonia Stevenson broke its three-game losing streak Tuesday, thanks in part to the return of guard Katie Downarowicz.

Downgrowicz suffered an ankle injury two weeks ago in a loss to Plymouth Canton. The Spartans then lost to Beverly Hills Detroit Country Day and Farmington.

But Stevenson got back on track as Downarowicz returned to score 11 points and grab six rebounds in the Spartans' 49-39 victory over visiting Livonia Churchill.

The Spartans, now 6.4 overall and 2-2 in the Western Lakes Activities Association, held a slim 21-20 advantage heading into the third quarter. Stevenson dominated the quarter, however, outscoring the Chargers 17-6.

Stacey Nichols scored nine of her game-high 18 points in the third. She also pulled down 10 rebounds.

"Katie picked a nice time to come back with a strong game,' Stevenson coach Wayne Henry ROUNDUP said. "She scored nine in the third when we were able to pull away and take control of the game."

Jenny Dulz added six points and eight rebounds for the Spat-

W.L. CENTRAL 48, FRANKLIN 38: Livonia Franklin gave the WIAA's top team a tough ride Tuesday, but host Walled Lake Central was able to hold on for the victory.

The state-ranked Vikings, who improved to 80 overall and 4.0 in the WLAA, led 20-11 at halftime, but the Patriota rallied to cut the lead to just two in the third quarter. .: We ran out of gas and they were able to take advantage," Franklin coach Gary Warner said. "It was a great defensive game on Franklin's part. We came out and played some real good defense." Senior guard Tracy Rynkiewicz poured in a game high 26 points for the Patriote (5-5 over-all, 1-2 in the WLAA).

Becky Cummings scored 14 to lead Central.

Rochelle Harris and Jami Grigal scored seven points each for the Rockets (1-7 overall, 0-4 WLAA).

LUTHERAN WESTLAND 60, LUTH, N'WEST 47: Lutheran Westland won Its ninth straight game Tuesday, and more importantly, took sole possession of first place in the Metro Conference with its overtime victory over visiting Rochester Hill Lutheran Northwest.

After allowing the Crusaders to tie the game at 44-44 with 11 seconds remaining in regulation, the Warriors outscored Northwest 6-3 in the extra period.

The Warriors, now 3.0 in the league and 9-1 overall, took the lead for good on a Jackie Kemp layup, Jenny Twietmeyer added a pair of free throws to give Westland a cushion. Twietmeyer led the Warrior attack with 17

Trailing 15-5 at the end of the first quarter and 19-13 at halftime, the Blazers railled to tle the game at 34.34, but were never able to take the lead.

"We played a good second half, but we came out weak in the first half and that's what hurt us," Ladywood coach Lisa McPhee said. The Blazers (1-8 overall, 0-5 in the league) were led by Erin LeSage who tallied 10. Stephanie Mussat added nine for Ladywood,

Of course the object of the surfing was to promote Foster's beer, a product originating from Australia. The Aussies do their share of surfing, so by combining the popularity of the two activities, they hope to get local bowlers booked. The action occurred once again

The West Side Lutheran League is now in its 49th Sear. After spending each of the previous seasons bowling out of Redford Lanes, the league this season has moved to Novi Bowl.

In recent action, Don Johnson stole the show by rolling a block consisting of 237-243-300 games. Those scores added up to 780 and the highest three game set ever bowled in the league.

Johnson's 300 game was his first and only the third rolled in the long history of the West Side Lutheran League.

Other high scores that night included a 621 series from Tim Collins, 605 from John Koepke and 603 by Randy Krohn. The Professional Bowler's Tour returns to Taylor Lanes for the 11th consecutive year, beginning Friday and concluding next Wednesday with the televised finals, ESPN will air the stepladder finals live from 7:30-9 p.m. 277.

"Hang 10" was with PBA Hall of Famers Mike Durbin and Earl Anthony calling the action.

The event will begin with the pro-am, which will help raise funds for the Karmanos Cancer Institute to help in the fight against cancer through the celebrity squad which will bowl on Friday.

Among the celebrities scheduled to bowl are former Detroit Tigers pitcher Dave Rozema, Paul Buck of radio station WCSX and WDIV-TV meteorologist Paul Gross.

Churchill ties Canton, 1-1; Spartans' Urbats scores 4

By C.J. RIBAK

The final result was deserved, because neither Plymouth Canton nor Livonia Churchill proved itself better in Monday's soccer showdown for supremacy in the Western Lakes Activities Association's Western Division.

The match, played at Canton, ended in a 1-1 deadlock. The winner: Canton.

Examining the division records reveals why. The Chiefs are now 3:0.1 against Western foes; Churchill had a scoreless tie against Northville, leaving it with a 2-0-2 mark.

The Chargers hosted Walled Lake Western last night in their final divisional match; Canton plays Monday at Western. If Churchill won and the Chiefs lost or tied, the Chargers would play Livonia Stevenson for the WLAA championship Wednesday, Oct. 18 at Stevenson.

But that is an unlikely scenario. As Canton assistant coach Jeff Neschich put it after Monday's 1. 1 tie, "It's good enough for the division title.'

Neither team displayed much in the way of offensive skill. The Chiefs scored first, in the 10th minute, with Evan Sabourir knocking in a loose ball. Church ill knotted it in the 28th minu on a goal by Peter Varga.

That's the way it remained Both teams had opportunities in the second half; neither did anything with them. Shots went over the net, dribbled to keepers Bryan Stramecki (Churchill) or George Tomasso (Canton), or were swung at and missed. There were no close calls in the last 40 minutes; indeed, it was rare to see either team complete two-straight pass-

"It was a great game," Insisted Churchili coach Chad Campau, his team now 6-2-4 overall. "I hate tying and I hate losing, but watching two teams like this is great. This was like a state tournament game already."

Canton's Don Smith did not quite agree with that assessment, But then, perhaps the differences in the coaches offers an explanation for that - Campau is in his first year of coaching; Smith gulded the Chiefs to the Class A championship last year. "We're not as skillful, but we're getting there," the Canton coach said. "Nobody really had an advantage (tonight). Nobody really had any real good shots.'

After a moment of reflection, Smith provided a more blunt description of his team's offense: "We just stunk it up."

What are the Chiefs doing well? "Hustling, and we're playing fairly good defense. We're not giving up much," Smith said.

Unfortunately, they weren't getting much against Churchill, elther. "We're not putting the ball to people's feet," said Smith, whose team is 9-3-2 overall. "But (Churchill's) defense was tough. They ran our forwards off the ball. "Of course, we did the same thing to their forwards." So it could be said both teams are perhaps halfway there. Of course, in the hotbed of soccer that this area has become, halfway won't get a team too far in the state playoffs.

What's ahead was something Campau was quick to point out to his team minutes after the game.

'Keep your heads up - don't worry about it. We've got a lot of road ahead of us," he told them.

His meaning was all too clear: "Every game along the way from now on will be just like this. As a team, our first goal was to win the division. We can't do that now, but there are bigger and better things ahead."

A lot bigger, and with better goals at stake - if your team can score goals, that is.

STEVENSON S, PICHEER S: Four goals by Jeff Urbats carried the state's top-ranked team in Class A, Livonia Stevenson (11-0-1 overall), to the non-league victory Monday over visiting Ann Arbor Ploneer.

Urbats now has 19 goals on the year. Matt Quinter tallied the other goal for the Spartane, who were deadlocked 2.2 early in the second half.

Pete Lechowicz assisted on a pair of Urbata goals, while Mark Dietrich and Quinter also had assists.

SALEM 6, FRANKLIN 1: Drew Drummond tallied a pair of goals Monday, leading stateranked Plymouth Salem (11-2 overall) to a Western Lakes crossover win at Livonia Pranklin (8-5).

Salem jumped out to a 4-0 first-half lead Franklin's Bric Kracht scored on a penalty kick to avert the shutout. "It was really a bad game for us, the worst we played all year," Pranklin first-year coach Dave Hebestreit sald. "Hopefully, we learned a lesson. We had to get some things out of our

REDFORD CC 3, BISHOP FOLEY 2: Dan Mulvihill scored twice and back-up goalkeeper Matt Kessler, filling in for the injured Travia Miller, posted the shutout Tuesday, leading host Redford Catholic Central to the win over Madison Heights Bishop Poley.

The win gives CC a 9-2-1 overall record. The Shamrocka also stayed in the hunt for a Catholic League playoff berth. CC, 4-2-1 in division play, can earn a spot in playoffs with a win Saturday at Warren DeLaSalle.

Mulvihill scored in the 23rd and 75th minutes on assists from Mike Martin and Brian Lindsay, respectively.

Lindsay then scored in the final minute from Shaun Kahanec.

"Kessler really did a good job job in goal, CC coach Phil LaJoy said. SOUTHQATE 2, WAYNE 1: On Monday, Wayne Memorial fell to 2-3-1 in the Mega Conference White Division with a loss at Southgate An

Lady Ocelots win twice during Chicago swing

This time, the Schoolcraft College women's soccer team didn't waste a lead against Du-Page Collège (III.).

The Ocelots led 2.0 at halftime and deleated DuPage, the No. 10-ranked team in the National Junior College Athletic Association, 3-0, in a Region 12 game played Saturday near Chicago.

The victory avenged a 3-2 loss earlier in the season to DuPage when Schoolcraft blewa one goal lead in the last 10 minutes.

The Ocelots are 5-3 overall, 4-3 in Region 12.

"My girls were really up, they should have won the last time and they wanted to show they were better," Schoolcraft coach Nikki Johnson said. We had a long team meeting Friday night. DuPage, no matter their (skill) level, always plays hard and we knew we had to play full out for 90 minutes. to the whistle."

The Ocelots finished the weekend trip with a 6-1 victory. Sunday against Moraine Vallev, a school also located outside of Chicago.

Sophomore Holly Kimble (Livonia Stevenson) scored two goals and had an assist, and freshman Stephanie Surma (Dearborn Heights Crestwood) scored one goal in the win against DuPage.

Freshman goalkeeper Jennifer Audritsh (Garden City) made only three saves, but that was because she played more aggressively, which is the style encouraged by Johnson. Audritsh usually got to the ball before DuPage's forwards could get a shot on goal.

"When the ball went over the defenders heads, Jennifer asserted herself in coming out. She didn't hold back," Johnson said. "That's what we worked on with her."

Scoring chances for Du-Page's star forward Debbie Markovich also were limited because of the defense of freshman defender Stacey Mille-(Plymouth Canton).

"She is a really quick forward, but Stacey did an excellent job," Johnson said, "Debbie didn't get but one sho. maybe the whole game.

Kimble scored first, convert ing a pass off a corner kick by Staci Muysenberg. The lead grew to 2-0 before halftime after Kimble stole a DuPage outlet pass and scored on a shot from about 18 yards out.

Surma finished the scoring in the second half off an assist from Kimble.

The Ocelots built a 3-1 halftime lead against Moraine and scored three unanswered goals in the second half.

Six different players scored: Melissa Crain, Nicole Gentry, Kimble, Susan O'Neill (Plymouth Canton), Surma and Mu-

SC men suffer lost weekend

It may not seem that way, but the results could not have been better for Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team.

What? You crazy? They lost and they tied!

True enough. The Ocelots' trip to the College of DuPage, to play the former top-ranked team in the NJCAA Saturday and then another tough team, Moraine Valley, on Sunday, ended up with a 3.0 loss to DuPage and a 4.4 tie against Moraine Valley.

Which left SC (ranked fifth in the NJCAA in last week's poll) with a 5-1-2 record. Hardly something to build on.

Or is it?

It can be. As SC coach Van Dimitriou noted: "We got what we wanted out of the weekend - not in terms of wins and losses, certainly, but the kids found out how hard they will have to play to beat better teams.

"If anything, this will enhance our level of play. It taught us the importance of teamwork. And when you're playing away from home against teams of this caliber, that doesn't help us. But now they know what it will take."

And, to an extent, so does Dimitriou. Against DuPage, a strong wind made a big difference. SC had it at its back in the first half and controlled play, but failed to score. DuPage got a run upfield late in the half and a penalty kick was called, which it converted.

In the second half, with the wind against the Ocelots, the tide changed in favor of DuPage.

"We had our opportunities," said Dimitriou. "We just didn't convert. The wind was a major factor; they just took better advantage of it than we did."

Dimitriou wasn't at all pleased with the Ocelots' fold-up act in the second half against DuPage, something he made sure they knew prior to Sunday's match with Moraine Valley. The result: A fired-up SC team attacked aggressively, which led to a 4-1 halftime lead for the Ocelots.

"That was our best half of the year, against a very good team, said the SC coach.

Unfortunately, it also led to four yellow cards. With injuries limiting two others, Dimitriou suddenly had a very limited bench. A penalty-kick goal for Moraine Valley early in the second half helped turn things against SC and fueled the comeback.

Which ended with a goal scored by SC's Doug Walters into his own net. Walters was filling in at stopper, a position not entirely familiar to him.

SC got first-half goals from Mo

Hijazi, Victor Rodopoulos (from Livonia Franklin), Ryan Phipps (Plymouth Canton) and from Rodopoulos again. Hijazi assisted on Rodopoulos' second goal, and Rodopoulos assisted on Phipps'

"In the long run, this might help us," Dimitriou said. "It was an educational thing."

A pair of wins might have led the Ocelots toward overconfidence. Now they have a goal: A return trip to DuPage (which will host the NJCAA Inter-regional Tournament) still lies ahead. If SC is to go further, it must win that tourney.

Now they should know how to

Sophomore Erin Comment recorded 14 kills and 21 digs Tuesday, powering Madonna University to a 15-1, 9-15, 16-14, 15-8 women's volleyball victory over Jubborn University of Michigan-Dearborn.

Madonna is now 15-8 overall.

"We started off very fast in the first game - we put the opponent away," Madonna coach Jerry Abraham said. "But in the second game, we played softer and U-M probably played the best match they've played all year. Their setter really took control the second game.'

The Lady Crusaders, however, bounced back as Julie Martin (Livonia Stevenson) added 13 kills and seven digs. Junior Kelly-McCausland (Redford Union) contributed 15 digs and eight kills, while setter Meg Paris tallied 40 assists (10 per game).

"We came back in the fourth game and put them away," Abraham said. "We hadn't played in a week and it showed. But hopefully we're back on track now and can get rolling."

Teeters not discouraged

Despite losing five straight matches, Schoolcraft College coach Tom Teeters remains opti-

On Tuesday, Macomb CC moved into a first-place conference tie with Henry Ford after a 15-6, 9-15, 16-14, 19-17 win over the visiting Lady Ocelots.

"All of our losses have been to a 3.0 record to win the tourney." strong teams, but I'm pleased with the way our lineup is shaping up," said the SC coach, whose team is 14-9-3 overall. "We're going more toward a defensive setup.

Jamie Clark (Livonia Churchill) led Schoolcraft with 37 digs against Macomb, Setter Andrea Greer (Livonia Franklin) contributed 37 assists-to-kills.

Hermina Angeles led SC's offensive attack with 20 kills, while Michelle MacRae added seven blocks. Stacy Sailus had four ace.

Over the weekend, SC lost three matches in the four-team Belleville (III.) Tournament.

Belleville, ranked No. 5 in the National Junior College Athletic Association, downed SC, 14-16, 15-4, 15-8, 15-11. Believille posted

Second-place Parkland (III.) also beat the Lady Ocelots, 15,12, 15-17, 15-7, 15-6, while thirdplace West Plains (Mo.) outlasted SC, 15-12, 8-15, 13-15, 15-7, 15-

Angeles, a 5-foot-3 outsidehitter from Madison Heights Lamphere, was named all-tournament. Julie Schmidt was SC's top digger and serve-receiver.

Offensively, Tracy Sledz (Livonia Clarenceville) led with 32 kills and Sailus added eight blocks.

On Sept. 29, SC lost to Henry
Ford, 15-12, 15-4, 16-14, despite Clark's 22 passes on target and Sledz' 12 kills.

Macomb and Henry Ford are both 4-1 in the Eastern Conference of the Michigan Community College Athletic Association. SC is a game back at 3-2.

Bulb seminar gives information, inspiration

More than 40 people attended the recent two-day bulb seminar with Charles Cresson, which was sponsored by Telly's Greenhouse in Troy and The Gardeners Guild. Cresson provided much information and inspiration; I shall try to share some random thoughts.

Flowering plants that grow well with bulbs include forget-me-nots, wallflowers, pansies and dark blue grape hyacinths. Try color combinations of yellow and red, blue iris with violas and tall allium, white with deep purple, and orange and yellow mixtures. A few white blooms peeking out of pachysandra or vinca add interest, as do the yellow or white blooms of daffodils. Think of color combinations and bloom times when you plan the gardens.

A pedestal planter can be changed for the season and surrounded by wood hyacinths in the spring then over planted with annuals such as impatiens for the rest of the summer, the house so you can enjoy them as soon as they appear. Dwarf species tulips do well in a rock garden or on a raised bulb bank.

Plant tulip bulbs eight to nine inches deep when they are to remain in the ground. Bedding tulips need only to be planted six inches deep. For optimum results, bulb sites should face in the following directions: first south, then east, west and finally north.

Evergreen boughs provide good mulch for bulb beds because they trap more snow, thus provide better cover. Don't tie bulb foliage because it absorbs the sunlight for energy to feed the bulbs.

Dassodis should be planted by mid-October to develop strong roots before winter. Mulch to keep the soil warm. Tulips and grape hyacinths can be chilled before planting. Fall blooming bulbs should be planted in early fall; the ideal time is mid-August — six inches deep. Two good crocus to grow are Thomasine and Crocus Speciosus. Narcissus hybrids will generally multiply best if planted four to six inches deep.

"If rodents eat the bulbs, kill them . . . after chipmunks have done a certain amount of damage, they're no longer too cute to kill," Cresson said.

He suggested making cages of 1/3-inch rat wire (or use plastic containers) and planting the bulbs in them. Squirrels can't eat crocus with wire placed six inches over the top of the bed. Scilla siberica isn't bothered by animals.

Hyacinths

Dasfodil hybrids are better adapted to our gardens than are the species or wild ones. Species tulips are those found in the wild — not hybridized. Buy small hyacinth bulbs for the garden — they will produce blooms that don't fall over. If bulbs are diseased with either striped or mosaic virus, which is spread by aphids, dig all the infected bulb out and destroy. The soil should still be clean.

Fertilize all bulbs in the fall when roots begin to grow and again in the early spring when foliage begins to grow. Don't put fertilizer in the bottom of the planting hole — roots can be burned.

Force bulbs in small pots so they can be moved from one location to another to change the decorating scene as wanted. Large hyacinth bulbs are best for forcing. Two good bulbs for forcing are the tulip "Apricot Beauty" and daffodil "February Gold." Tulips that have been forced are usually not strong enough for future bloom, but daffodils will recover after forcing and gain full strength in the garden.

Bulbs require good drainage, rich soil, sun or light deciduous shade. Dig (and mix in amendments) to a depth of 12 inches; six to 7.5 is the ideal pH range. Generally plant 2-1/2 times the height of the bulb.

The Gardeners Guild will present a garden symposium March 2, 1996. Watch for details.

Forcing bulbs

Force hardy bulbs for early indoor bloom. Do it now, or store in refrigerator until needed.

Pill the pot 1/2 to two-thirds with freedraining potting mix. Place bulbs in the moist mixture, tamp to settle and recover bulbs with additional soil. Water until it drains out holes well, then place in plastic bag and seal. Chill in temperature between 32 and 45 degrees — a refrigerator is fine.

When you see top growth, remove plastic and set in a cool spot for a couple of days then in regular house temperature in a place with as much light as possible. Don't let soil dry out. Blossoms should appear in two to four weeks.

COVER STORY-

On the job Style, function key to home office

STORY BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

In the future, it's not a matter of whether a home will have an office, but for what tasks it will be designed.

Combine the popularity of home computers with today's life in the fast lane and you have two good reasons why home office furniture sales are going through the roof.

Add to that the fact more and more people are working at home and it becomes evident why increasing numbers of people are buying home office furniture.

Dolores Carroll has a whole set of theories about the necessity for home offices in the future. She says busier lifestyles than our parents' generation (committee meetings for fund-raisers and the like, keeping a schedule of the children's karate or skating lessons) necessitate organizing a space where receipts, valuable papers and scribbled down appointments will no longer be kept in a shoebox.

According to LINK, a New York City research and consulting firm, nearly half a million people are now working at home, either as employees or independent business people. The invention of computer modems and E-mail to convey information (back to the office), coupled with the trend of more people starting their own businesses make it necessary for people to get organized. The key is to do it in style.

The home office is coming out of the closet. People are going for beauty, the traditional wood office furniture because our work environment affects performance. How organized you are and the beauty of your surroundings makes you more efficient," said Carroll, a sales representative at Walker/Buzenberg Fine Furniture in Plymouth.

"People are starting to look now towards the leather because they're taking it more seriously."

And what does a handsomely outfitted office complete with classic credenza, barrister bookcase inset with beveled glass, and a traditional leather sofa and chair say about you to clients?

"It's power dressing for the home office, the business suit look. What you work at says a lot about you as well. It says professional.

"A lot of people have a home office mostly because it organizes your life. Once you have one, you wonder how you ever did without one. It does decrease the stress level."

Determining present and future needs

The face of home offices is changing and that face has many different looks depending on space limitations. Do you need a home office to house a computer system complete with tower, printer, and fax machine? Is the office simply for keeping track of household papers? Does the room do double duty as a den, dining room or extra bedroom? Will the size of the space suffice if you plan on running a small business or meeting with clients there?

Along with measurements of the room, these are some of the questions you'll need to ask yourself before determining the style of furniture. Will it be a hideaway computer cabinet, credenza or rolltop desk, traditional or modular?

The trend is to more and more modulars. A lot of people do go for the hutch because it does give you the vertical space for manuals and books. Fifteen years ago you couldn't find modular for the home, now with the computer it's become available," Carroll said.

The advent of affordable home computers is affecting the types of desks and cabinets furniture manufacturers design and produce. Tailoring their pieces with slide-out trays for keyboards, larger areas for work surfaces and equipment such as speakers for multimedia computers with CD-ROM, and locking storage for family computers, the manufacturers are trying to keep up with the electronics that seems to change every six months, says Pat Zatina, home office and occasional buyer for Scott Shuptrine in Troy.

"Technology is driving this category of furniture with students and adults depending more on their computers at home. The number one consideration of people is what components they will need to add eventually. They also need to consider the size of work surface needed for papers, and the type of lighting, determining the correct amount of light to reduce eye strain. A desk lamp is important if you plan to be working with or reading papers," Zatina said.

"We sell a lot of the cabinet type set-ups because you can throw this in any room and close it away when it's not in use. When it's closed it's a relatively nice looking piece of furniture."

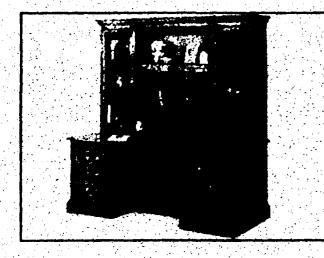

Functional beauty

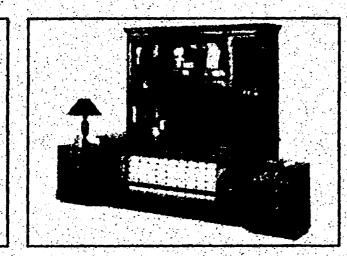

Corner hideaway computer cabinets offer beauty plus functionality. In general, cherry and oak pieces are the most popular because of the woods' classic look, says Walker/Buzenberg co-owner David Buzenberg, but whitewash is also available.

"People want to do the traditional, and typically by nature, the office is not a room that's contemporary," Buzenberg said.

"We're seeing more wall units and credenzas, the wood pieces. Most address the filing needs, and provide storage for manuals and books. Everyone comes in with different sizes of equipment. If people bring in a floor plan of their room we can suggest a configuration."

Comfortable: At work and at rest, this unit has beauty and style. A bed fits easily into the unit.

The invention of computer modems and E-mail to convey information (back to the office), coupled with the trend of more people starting their own businesses make it necessary for people to get organized. The key is to do it in style.

At work: These displays from Sligh, available from Scott Shuptrine Furniture, show different home office styles. Adjustable shelves and pullout writing surfaces and printer shelves are among the features. The desk at left contains a box and file drawer in each pedestal.

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

Zoom in on small details for telling photographs

MONTE NAGLER Often times a small area of a building such as an ornate doorknob or lvy-covered window ledge will create a photographic composition much stronger than the whole. The intimacy of a flower petal or the patterns of a breaking wave on the beach are often missed in our desire to concentrate on the totality of the subject.

Details of pattern, form and texture can tell us much about our subjects without the need to show their entirety.

Isolating detail will give a new perspective and impact to your pictures not obtained by shooting the whole.

Any environment contains an inexhaustible supply of fascinating detail waiting for your camera. For example, in nature photography, try moving in close to isolate the texture of bark instead of shooting the whole cluster of trees. Photographing the lake in its entirety will give you a nice scenic picture, but don't overlook the delicate reeds and lilies at water's edge. Overall winter scenes are dramatic, but isolating that one unusual icicle will give you that special shot not obtainable in the whole.

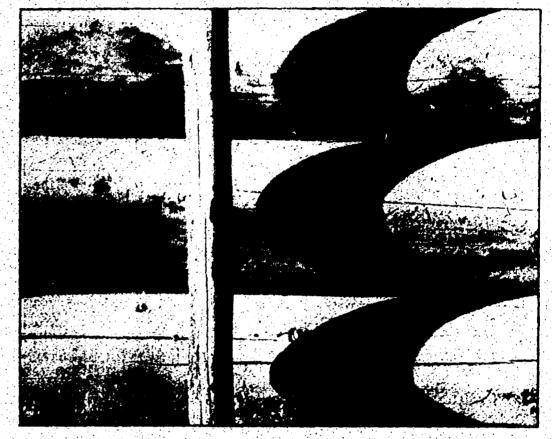

In architecture, the supply of detail is endless. Isolate a pattern of unusual brickwork or look for colorful window shutters. Move in close on a section of peeling paint. Churches offer details in statues as well as the many colors and patterns of stained glass.

Can you isolate parts of people? Of course! The hands of the elderly or the foot of an infant will produce photographs of special, personal impact.

Other than a keen eye, no elaborate equipment is needed to isolate detail although a viewing mask will prove invaluable as an aid in composing your shot. At times, closeup filters will help you to move in close and a tripod should be used to maximize sharpness and depth-of-field.

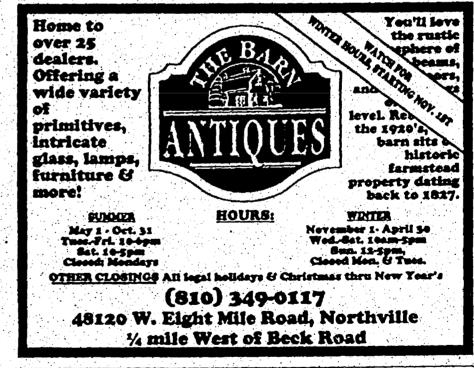

But the important ingredients in isolating detail are your vision and insight. Your aim in photographing detail should be to obtain a complete picture in itself while at the same time maintaining the flavor and essence of the whole.

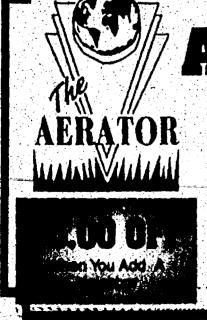

Monte Nagler is a fine art photographer based in Farmington Hills. You can leave him a message by dialing (313) 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, then his mailbox number, 1873. His fax number is (810) 644-1314.

Book offers unusual view of American Jews

ESTHER LITTMANN

"Imagine the wonders of America. To begin with, there's the land. It's flowing with milk and honey. People make heaps of money, they make fortunes, they literally scoop up gold. And business is so good, it makes you dizzy. You can do anything you want. If you want a factory, you set up a factory. If you feel like opening a little store, you open a little store. And the size of the cities! The width of the streets! The height of the buildings!"

"That's all very well . . . but tell me: Don't people die in America, just like here? Or do they live on and on?"

"Of course they die, but the way they die - that's what's wonderful.

- from Sholom Aleichem's "Beryl Isaac and the Wonders of America'

These sentiments, expressed by the Yiddish author whose stories form the basis of "Fiddler on the Roof," were shared by countless Jewish immigrants who came to America. They also provide the framework to "The Wonders of America" (Hill and Wang, 1994), a fascinating and informative book by Jenna Weissman Joselit, Princeton University professor and author of numerous works on popular culture.

When Jews came to America, the freedom to pursue happiness took many forms, religious as well as commercial and professional. But freedom of worship was only the beginning.

After that, writes the author, Jews claimed freedom to discard, modify, invent and reappropriate. Not for them a religious straitjacket of "ideological and behavioral consistency." America was the place to exercise choice, to practice indulgence rather than self-denial, to secure material well-being as well as spiritual welfare.

Grass-roots

Joselit has written a book of modern Jewish history in America like we've never read before. It's about a Judaism shaped by consumers rather than by the "cultural custodians," a grass-roots phenomenon, created by the people and for the people.

When time constraints made strict Sabbath observance too difficult, Jews channeled their energy and enthusiasm to another family event — the Bar Mitzyah celebration. When adherence to dietary laws began to wane, the love of Jewish cooking proliferated, dotting the urban landscape with bagel shops and delicatessens.

The author's 40-page bibliography contains no weighty tomes by biblical scholars. Instead, we find references to temple yearbooks, articles in popular Jewish magazines, personal letters to relatives still living in the "old country." and advertisements to entice the Jewish homemaker.

Along with the minutiae of daily living - marriage, childbirth, parenting and departing - Joselit includes some startling, little-known items of informa-

Orthodox congregations before the Reform movement welcomed its inclusion, The latter, after all, already had a ceremony that acknowledged women's religious quality: Confirmation, Bat Mitzvah, purists claimed, was redundant. But who could ignore the tide of popular opinion?

Also interesting is Joselit's account of the double-ring ceremony. Although its roots were in non-Jewish 19th century Germany, the ritual was adopted in 1871, after several educated, cultured German-American Jewish brides asked if they could give their grooms a ring. Reluctant to be passive at the alter. they wanted "equal participation."

But whether the examples come from the kitchen (beef-frye, a meat product that resembled bacon) or the wedding (the electric chupa), Joselit's work is alive with amusing anecdotes and telling detail that describe what it means to be Jewish in America.

When the community's leaders "saw only deterioration," writes Joselit, "the folk, by contrast, saw color, liveliness, fun and good-natured sentimentality. When the elite believed consumption and religious ritual to be . . . adversarial, the folk joined them together."

During this holiday season, many Jewish clergy will, no doubt, address the issue of identity versus assimila-

"Our distinctive characteristics are going," said one rabbi from a pulpit in Chicago. "Intermarriage is rising, and temple attendance is in decline.'

That was 1893. Since then Jews have bemoaned the same trends and continue to ask, "Can we survive freedom?" Joselit's response is provocative: "The wonder of it all - and of America - is that the answer remains the same.'

Jenna Weissman Joselit will speak on the topic "The Unaffiliated Jew" 1 p.m. Friday, Oct. 13, at the Birmingham Temple in Farmington Hills as part of "Colloquium '95."

INVITING IDEAS

Your family will flip over these oatcakes

RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON

Oat cuisine doesn't classify as serious food prepared in grand manner or necessarily topped with an elaborate sauce, but it does classify as a great breakfast comfort food.

Some oatcake "affectionados" believe all proper oatcakes are composed of leavened batter made of oatmeal, flour, milk, water, salt, sugar and yeast. When oatcakes are flipped they almost look like Indian Chapatis — you can stuff them or top them, but they still taste like pancakes, no matter how you flip 'em.

Here are some oaty ideas:

Grate a hard cheese over the back of an oatcake, then fold over, roll over, or fold into quarters for easy handling.

Using large oatcakes as a pizza base—add your favorite tomato sauce and shredded cheese (bacon or sausage too).

■ Make a clown face out of an oatcake — use chocolate chips or raisins for eyes and mouth, a cherry for the nose, and make a whip cream or yogurt collar. This is fun for children's parties.

Spread softened chevre cheese over the back of an oatcake, top with a slice of smoked salmon and roll up. This is perfect for even the most elegant brunch.

Dress up plain oatcakes: add a cheese sauce, fruity chutney, warmed fruit topping, flavored yogurt or shredded co-conut. Another option is bacon, mush-room and melted cheese. Top oatcakes with ice cream or frozen yogurt, whipped cream and chocolate chips, peanut butter chips or butterscotch chips, honey or real maple syrup.

Henry Ford, who was progressive in all things, had his personal party chef. Ian Willemse making Soybean Oatmeal Pancakes in the 1930s. Long before our local health food stores, Henry Ford saw the possibilities of utilizing soy beans in food as well as the manufacturing of commercial products.

Here are some recipes to try.

SOYBEAN OATMEAL PANCAKES OR WAFFLES

3 egg whites

1 teaspoon sait

1/2 cup honey (or sugar)

134 cups milk

1/2 cup soybean oil (or melted soy margarine)

😘 cup soybean flour

I cup whole wheat flour

% cup instant rolled oats

1 tablespoon baking soda

Beat the egg whites, salt and honey (or sugar) until foamy. Add the milk and oil and stir a little. Then fold in the flours, rolled oats, and baking soda. Heat a greased skillet to about 350 degrees F. Pour 2-ounce pancakes. Cook until they bubble, turn and brown the other side. Serve with honey or syrup. Yield 3½ dozen, 2-ounce pancakes.

Recipe from "Cooking For Henry" by Ian Willemse and Eleanor Eaton, published by The Doning Company, 1993. Spray a grill, griddle or large frying pan with no-stick cooking spray, (butter or margarine can also be used). Preheat the pan or grill to very hot. Ladle out an eight-inch circle — cook until bubbly, then flip and cook the other side until it is as brown as desired.

Serve with your favorite topping. Yield 8, 8-inch pancakes.

This recipe is based on an old recipe dating back to the 19th century wherebatter of this type was left overnight to swell — and then rest.

APPLE OATCAKES

Ingredients for the night before:
'5' cup buckwheat flour (you can also use whole wheat)

I cup all purpose flour

4 cup rolled oats (not instant)

1/2 teaspoon salt

I tablespoon sugar

1 4 cups buttermilk

Ingredients for the next morning:

2 eggs separated
1 tablespoon melted butter or marga-

1/2 cup grated fresh apple (peel can be left on or off)

I teaspoon ground cinnamon

I teaspoon ground cinnamoi I teaspoon baking soda

Place all of the dry ingredients (for the night before) into a large bowl and slowly drizzle the buttermilk in, stirring continually until the batter appears smooth.

Cover the bowl and place in the refrigerator overnight.

The next day, in a glass bowl, beat the egg yolks with the melted butter or margarine. Add the grated apple and cinnamon.

Stir the egg yolk/apple mixture into the flour batter — then add baking sods.

In another glass bowl whisk or beat the egg whites until stiff — when the peaks are produced, gently fold into the batter.

Grease or spray a griddle, frying pan or grill. Heat until medium hot and pour your catcakes on to the desired size. When one side becomes bubbly, turn over and cook until they are the desired doneness. Serve hot with powdered sugar. Yield 12 large pancakes.

OAT PANCAKES

11/2 cups rolled oats (not instant)
6 tablespoons butter or margarine

21/2 cups flour

2 tablespoons sugar

2 teaspoons baking powder

1 teaspoon baking soda 1 teaspoon salt

4 large eggs

2 cups buttermilk

In a large saucepan, combine rolled oats with 2½ cups water. Bring to a simmer over medium heat and cook stirring, frequently, for approximately 4-5 minutes. Remove from the heat source and stir the butter or margarine into the hot oatmeal until they are melted.

Sift together the flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda, and salt into a large mixing bowl. In another bowl, whisk together the eggs and buttermilk.

Slowly stir in the oatmeal into the egg/ milk mixture. Add oatmeal mixture to the dry ingredients — and stir just enough to mix.

Holping hands: Realtors Who Care spent a day sprucing up a house in Livonia.

Realtors, friends pitch in to fix house

Real estate agents and associates in the mortgage, title and insurance business love to sell houses.

That's how they make their living. For many, there's also a genuine affection for helping other people realize their dreams.

For the second year now, a group calling itself Realtors Who Care, affillated with the Western Wayne Oakland County Association of Realtors, has renovated a house for a single mom with children who needed a helping hand. "It felt wonderful," said Diane Winkelmann, a Realtor associate with Red Carpet Keim Midwest in Farmington and co-chairwoman of the improvement project.

Realtors Who Care solicited donations of supplies and cash to get the job done and, just as important, got down to the dirty business of doing much of the work themselves.

They installed a new furnace and water heater, rebuilt the front porch, put up new gutters and downspouts, rep. teed some doors, painted, landscaped and assembled play equip-

This is just tremendous dedication from everybody. Not just talkers, doers," said Al Marshall, marketing director at Great Lakes Title in Livnnia and co-chairman of Realtons Who Care, "Every time you fix a house up, everybody benefits."

"We just want to help out wherever we can," she said. "It's going just great. I'm not the handiest person in the world, but I'm learning."

Pat Murphy, an agent with Realty Professionals in Farmington Hills, and Dan Haverty, manager for real estate lending at Dearborn Federal Credit Union, worked together replacing the front door.

"Home ownership is the American dream, right?" Murphy said. "We want to keep it that way for as many people as we can." "It's continued community development, helping out in a community we do business in," Haverty said. "It's a good way to meet each other, a lot more casual. Basically, it's a whole lot of fun."

Creative mortgages make dream home within reach

The lowest interest rates in more than 20-years have many homeowners scrambling to reflnance higher-rate mortgages. But as important as the low rates have been for reducing monthly payments, they're even more valuable for people looking to buy their first house. By taking advantage of the current rates, consumers are discovering they can not just afford to buy a house for the first time, but they can buy more house than they ever dreamed possi-

When consumers apply for a house loan, the mortgage company looks at, among other things, income and down payment. According to lending guidelines, the monthly mortgage payment cannot exceed a certain percentage of monthly income. For example, if a couple had a combined yearly income of $34,285, this would work out to a monthly income of approximately $2,857. The maximum monthly mortgage payment, including interest and taxes, could not be more than $800.

When this interest rate was at 10% (which was not too long ago, by the

It's quite a dramatic difference. For the same monthly payment that bought you a $113,000 house at 10%, you can now afford a $150,000 house. Now, first time homebuyers can start in a house of their dreams, instead of spending years building up equity in a house in which they're really not comfortable.

Of course, homeowners who already have substantial equity in their current residences and are looking to move up can now apply that equity toward a much more expensive house than they could have just a few years ago. To see how much house you can truly afford, talk to your local Real. tor. Your real estate expert can give you the information you need to make an informed homebuying decision. But don't wait. These low interest rates may not be around for very long. Duct system improves

air quality

Most Houses have conventional duct systems which contribute to indoor air quality problems. They don't heat or cool some parts of the house as well as others, and leak air at the joints. Prequently they are noisy, and offer no protection against potential microbia growth.

In addition, the air leakage, together with lack of insulation, wastes energy dollars.

To overcome these problems, there' a rigid fiber glass duct system whose consistent high insulating value and minimal air leakage help to deliver warmed or cooled air at desired temperatures, with greater energy efficiency and improved comfort.

The system also absorbs noise, and is cleanable using standard duct-cleaning systems.

Its tough acrylic polymer airstream surface coating is even formulate with an EPA-registered anti-microbial agent for exceptional resistance to microbial growth.

Although this new SuperDuct system, manufactured by Schuller Interntional, offers the highest performance any duct system available, its installed cost is comparable to other aystems.

For all the facts, obtain a copy of brochure All8-210, from the Schuller Product Information Center, P.O. Box 5108, Denver, CO 80217, or call 1-800-654-3103.

Plum Creek offers one-of-a- kind luxury houses

Christopher Young, president of Homes of Distinction, offers all kinds of floor plans and artists renderings for visitors to Plum Creek, a site condominium community of 51 lots in Oakland Township.

But it's just an academic exercise, a starting point, to give prospects an idea what the Rochester builder can do.

"Houses in Plum Creek basically are one-of-a-kind built homes," Young said. "Really, houses we build in here we design from the ground up. We have a CAD designer and three architects on staff.

"Houses here will start at $350,000 and go up to $750,000 with a mid range of $400,000 to $500,000.

"We're a niche builder. Our typical buyer is someone who usually pays attention to detail more, expects more things in a house," Young said. "We're a smaller company. We do five to 10 houses a year."

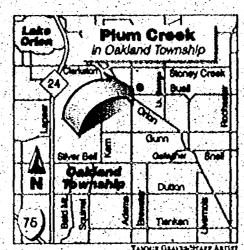

The model at Plum Creek, off Adams just north of Orion Road, has five bedrooms, 41/2 baths and four fireplaces. The 3,940-squarefoot, story-and-a-half lists for $475,000.

The main floor features a dining room with octagonal ceiling and a step-down family room with fireplace for more formal occasions, plus a kitchen/eating nook/ hearth room with fireplace for less formal gatherings.

The first floor master suite has two walk in closets, separate whirlpool tub and shower, two sink vanities and trav ceiling. A den with fireplace connects to the Little nooks and crannies window seats between the first and second floors and the main floor and walk-out, an opening over the fireplace in the hearth room for a TV and a planter shelf on the second level at the fover abound.

The model has two separate stair entrances, off the foyer and the hearth room, and a bridge at the second floor overlooking the main level.

The fourth fireplace is in the basement.

Exterior materials include brick, limestone and wood siding.

"The house has a lot of recessed lighting," Young said. "That's a favorite of us. It gives more of a clean look.

"Several things we like to recommend. We like to put linen closets in every bath. In the laundry room, we recommend a place to fold things. If you're going to have a formal dining room without a view of the kitchen, we recommend a butler's pantry," Young added.

The model comes equipped with two furnaces, air conditioning, a 75-gallon water heater, and oven, microwave, cooktop and dishwasher.

"Almost everybody talks about quality as they go through," said Conrad Chojnacki, sales manager. "We tell them we don't furnish, we don't decorate. Here, they get to see the actual house. You can't

"Plum Creek has some of the longest lots in the area, a lot of wooded walk-outs. We have a stream running through the area, a nature preserve in the area. There's a lot of wildlife. The topography drops off 70 feet from top to bottom," Young said.

Take time to pick a builder committed to value want to buy a new house, do you know how to find a builder who is committed to giving you the best value for your money? When selecting your builder, you'll want to choose him or her as carefully na you will choose the style of your house.

A good place to start your search is the real estate section of the newspaper. Look for the type of house you want and note who builds them. Make a list of the ones you like, then visit the developments. Take a look around, and pick up the promotional material they will have available. Now is the time to plan for winter

For most homeowners, the chores wound a Weatherstripping house are never done. Fortunately, for many household maintenance and improvement projects, there also seems to be an appropriate season to undertake them.

As the weather gets crisper outside, attentions should focus on winterizing a house. While many homeowners automatically think of outdoor activities like replacing screens with storm windows and shutting off the water outside, it's even more important to think about winterizing a house on the inside as If time gets short on you this season, consider hiring a professional insulation contractor. These contractors are experts at weatherizing houses and can undertake projects from adding an extra layer of insulation in an attic to insulating sidewalls and crawl spaces.

Insulation contractors can be located in the Yellow Pages, by calling friends and neighbors who may have had work done on their houses or by calling the local contractor's association in your town. An insulation contractor will then come out to your house, conduct an energy audit and suggest ways to winterize your house to make it more comfortable and efficient when the true cold hits.

If your contractor suggests an extra layer of fiber glass insulation to bring your house's attic up to today's energy standards, ask about the highest quality and safest products and systems on the market today. Contractors might mention Insul Safe III Blown-In Fiber Glass Insulation, a pure white material that feels and looks like cotton. It is highly thermally efficient, noncombustible and noncorrosive for the life of your house.

Another unique insulating method on the market today is the Blown-In Blanket System or B.I.B.S. A B.I.B.S. is ideal for insulating sidewalls in a house you are constructing or renovating. It involves applying a netting to the wall cavity, and mixing a small amount of adhesive into a blown-in insulation, which helps the material completely fill the cavity, even around pipes and wires.

Besides insulating, an insulation contractor can handle any number of winterizing projects including:

One of the best means for sealing a house against drafts. Caulking can be applied to do the most thorough job around stationary parts of window and door frames, around wall and roof vents, skylightsand chimneys and where plumbing or electric wiring enters your house.

Drafty windows rob heat from houses. One of the most effective means for preventing this is sealing them with weatherstripping. This can involve channel stripping, which is most popular for double-hung windows, foam-filled or hollow vinyl tubing. Drafty doors can cause as much heat loss as several drafty windows. Insulation contractors can handle this project as well. The process normally involves sealing the sides and tops of the door and then sealing the bottom. Foam-edged wooden strips are the most popular forms of weatherstripping products available today.

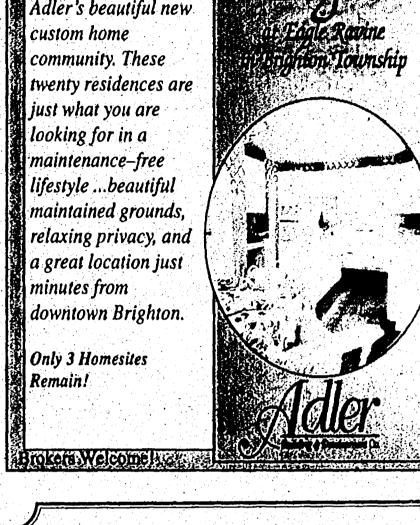

Preparing Heating Systems for Winter

Inspect and service your system annually for safety and efficiency reasons. Some insulation contractors also specialize in this; otherwise, call a qualified heating technician. An inspection should include: checking for air leaks, cleaning and checking the filter system. combustion air blower and burner motor, examining the firing system, and adjusting the draft regulator.

Websites cater to women users ago I wrote a column dealing with Internet sites of interest to women and invited women users to e-mail their favorite sites to be shared with others.

Actually only two persons did that, but I since have come across other sites that women surfers will want to check out.

Carol Dunitz, a writer from Ann Arbor, believes she might be the first to publish a romance novel on the Internet. Surfers and romance enthusiasts can find the first two chapters of "Already Spoken For" at http://lastword.com.

"Already Spoken For" is set in metropolitan Detroit, Readers have the opportunity to visit a number of landmark places there including historic Greenfield Village, the Detroit Zoo, and The Whitney, the residence built by turn-of-the-century lumber baron David Whitney. A scene in the first chapter occurs on Farmington Road in Livonia.

Dunitz has her doctorate in speech communication, theater and journalism. She writes, researches and produces speeches, scripts and promotional literature for business. She also is writing the music, script and lyrics for a musical stage play. "Already Spoken For" is available on computer disk for $5.59 plus postage, handling, and sales tax. Information on ordering the book is at Dunitz' Website as well as the first two chapters for on-line reading.

Another suggestion for wom-Weiss, who is an information specialist with Tradewave Galaxy. Weiss is involved with an organization called Assault Prevention Information Network (APIN) and has developed a website accessible through Galaxy.

To learn about APIN go to http://galaxy.tradewave.com. click on the "guest editors" link, scroll down to the ensuing list of guest editors until you come to Judith Weiss, and click on Assault Prevention Information Network. The APIN site has information about self-defense, domestic and workplace violence, martial arts, conflict resolution, and child safety. I found interesting the information she provided on how to protect your child, real life self-

A few months defense stories, how to evaluate a self-defense course, and selfdefense myths. Welss' page has been chosen by the Feminist Majority for inclusion in its directory and a lot of feminist pages on the Internet link to Welss' page.

The Feminist Majority Foundation has a World Wide Web site which is a pretty complete package at http:/www.feminist.org/textmenu.html. The site offers extensive background information on all aspects of feminist affairs and issues, including a weekly news summary focusing on U.S. events.

The site also has a Media Response Service which encourages women to send e-mail to Internet-connected media outlets. You will find here convenient links to a variety of media outlets, from the major television networks to newspapers and wire services to organizations which act as media critics.

When you arrive at the Feminist Majority site, you will find links to Feminist News, Feminist Internet Gateway, Feminist Publications, Feminist University Networks, and 911 For Women. Follow the links and you will find information about organizations for women, hotlines, shelters, career center, and more.

Another site I've learned about is Femina which can be visited at http:/www.femina.com. This site claims to be the first friendly and searchable database of links to information online relevant to women and girls. There are more than 500 links, and it's growing daily. This site sees itself as the "Yahoo" for women and girls. offering many links to specific sites of interest to women under such broad categories as art. business, computers, culture, en surfers came from Judith education, entertainment, feminists, girls, health, etc.

> Women's resources and more are offered at Cybergrif Websta. tion at http:/cybergrrl.com. Here you will find more online resources for women, a collection of cool links, and a lighter approach. Some of the topic areas include SafetyNet, Biz-Line, Health-Wise, Info-Zone, and Family-Life.

> You can direct questions to Emory Daniels by e-mail with emory@oeonline.com or fax number 691-7279. To sign up for O&E On-Line, dial (313)591-0903, at "log-in" prompt type "new" and at "Key:" prompt type GL6NY2. Women fuel business growth - editor

BY JULIE BROWN STAFF WRITER

Lynn Povich knows a thing or two about working women. Her position as editor in chief of Working Woman magazine guarantees that,

"There's certainly still a glass ceiling in place," Povich told about 400 people at a Women's Economic Club luncheon last Thursday at the Westin Hotel in Detroit's Renaissance Center. Some industries, however, are making way for bright, talented women.

Povich, who previously worked at Newsweek for 25 years, has been at Working Woman about 41/2 years. The magazine, with 750,000 circulation, deals with a variety of concerns of professional women.

Next year, the magazine will mark its 20th anniversary. Povich, who is the sister of TV's Maury Povich, cited several changes in its coverage in recent vears.

There's more coverage of management issues and of personal finance. "Women are vitally interested in money," Povich said. Women live longer, earn less and are often not aggressive enough about invest-

Coverage of small businesses has increased. Some women are leaving large cornorations to begin their own businesses or to work for smaller businesses with greater opportunities.

"That's where the jobs have been created and women have fueled the small husiness growth," she told her audience.

The publication has profiled the highest-paid corporate women and other leaders. "Working Woman is the only magazine to cover women business owners in depth," Povich said, citing Marian Ilitch of Little Caesars as one of the top women business owners.

There's been improvement for women, with 81 percent of Fortune 500 businesses having at least one woman on the board of directors, she said. Globalization means that well-trained. well-educated women in the work force are a secret weapon. Competitors such as Japan have no equivalent, and even European women lag behind their American counterparts in professional success, she said.

Men have a head start in development of computers. "But software in the world of the Internet is a different thing." Women need to acquire those skills, Povich said, particularly women who are disadvantaged.

She discussed work/family issues and women's management style. Women often have the ability to build consensus and to create a more collegial workplace, in part because of their experiences as mothers, said Povich, a wife and mother of

"It's not easy as managers to deal with flexibility." Such flexibility, however, helps employers attract and retain employ-

"We like to work on teams in projects. We all know that smarts only go so far." There's still a long way to go in solving work/family problems.

"So we still need to solve those problems for those of us now and for our daughters and sons," Povich said.

She took questions from the audience on a variety of topics, from female-to-female mentoring and ways in which Working Woman is family-friendly as an employer. One person wanted to know why so many celebrities grace the magazine covers; the economic realities of newsstand sales make that so, Povich said.

Reaction to Povich's speech was positive. "I thought sho was so succinct in her definition of the key elements," said Elleen Sinclair White of Warren, who grew up in Garden City. White is associate director of marketing and public relations for Youtheatre at the Music Hall. Center.

"As somebody starting my own business, it was encouraging to hear the success stories,' said Christine Ilas of Northville Township, who does writing and design work. Ilas, former executive director of the Plymouth Community Arts Council, was pleased to hear women's issues addressed as issues for all. "I think that's one of the most important things she said."

BUSINESS PEOPLE

Editor in chief: Lynn Povich has made a number of changes during her tenure at Working Woman magazine. She recently spoke to the Women's Economic Club on "What Women Want Now: Key Issues in the Next Decade."

Investing requires study

HOGAN

Many people put their money into investmenta with little thought or knowledge of what type of financial instrument their money is going

The first step in investing money is to acquire information about financial instruments that are available. This can be done by going to the library and obtaining an appropriate book, or attending a class or a seminar that is offered by financial institutions or financial advisers.

You also need to have balance in your cash flow between expenses and the need to save money for the future. For many people, saving 10 percent annually for retirement and living on 90 percent of what they earn is about right for the purpose of having balance between what is needed to live on and saving enough for the future...

If an individual is close to retirement with little in savings and investments, then they will have less time to accumulate adequate savings for retirement. Therefore, savings will have to be accumulated at a much faster pace, because there is less time to acquire the needed nest egg.

On the other hand, if you start the process at a very young age, you will not have to save as much yearly, because your assets will have longer to com-caught my attention recently.

First, Newt Gingrich complained

pound and grow.

A 25-year-old saving $2,000 per year, growing at 8 percent annually, will accumulate $518,113 by age 65. By contrast, a 45-year-old would have to save $12,228 annually to accumulate approximately the same aniount by age 65.

People tend to overlook the fact that they need to maintain proper cash reserves to weather the financial storms that inevitably come along when you least expect them. A good rule of thumb is to have at least 90 to 180 days cost-of-living set aside in your savings account to handle financial emergencies. In addition, it is a good idea to have cash set aside for nearterm purchases that need to be made over and above your normal budget. This avoids unnecessary use of credit cards and payment of the high finance charges.

Having adequate cash reserves also means that valuable investments will not have to be liquidated at an inopportune time in order to meet your needs. With proper cash management, one can stay fully invested long-term to maximize returns on investments.

Diversification is one of the most important aspects when investing. Two recent events clearly illustrate the benefits of diversification. On Black Monday, Oct. 19, 1987, the Dow dropped in excess of 20 percent in one day. During the late summer of 1990, Iraq invaded Kuwait and it resulted in the fear of oil supplies being cut off. This contributed to stock markets worldwide taking a significant drop. If you were fully invested in stocks during both of these events, you would have felt the full force of the drop in the financial markets.

Through diversification into various securities, such as. bonds and cash equivalents, you would have at least somewhat softened the blow, because not all of your money would have been in stocks,

You can also enhance your diversification by investing some of your money overseas. Since international financial markets can react differently than U.S. markets, a portion of your assets diversified overseas can enhance return while at the same time reducing volatility. These are just a few of the things that can be done to reduce the risk in your investment portfolio through diversification.

Invest prudently by acquiring knowledge, balance expenses and savings, maintain adequate cash reserves, and diversify your investment portfolio.

In a future article, we will discuss how asset allocation can help to diversify an investment portfolio to enhance return and reduce risk.

Politics undermines action

STEWART L tion. Second, in TIES the recent Sean

Connery movie "Just Cause," one of the main characters complains that a person from his community who tries to better himself by going to college is pulled back down into the barrel with the rest.

On a more personal level, each of us has undoubtedly been on the receiving end of personal criticisms or even attacks in a job situation. In fact, a recent article in the Journal of Accountancy reported the results of a national survey showing that "office politics" was the single greatest source of stress - more stressful than too many assignments, lack of job security, time pressures, stalled careers, and even frequent interruptions.

The question arises as to why this phenomenon exists. In large part, it exists due to people's assumption of what is called a "zero sum" condition. In this situation, if you get a larger piece of pie, it leaves less for the rest. When all the pieces are gone, the sum of what's left is zero. This is referred to by Stephen Covey as "the scarcity mentality."

When this point of view exists, it fosters antagonism between and among employees. Therefore, the opportunity and the temptation for political back-stabbing is rampant. In fact, your best strategy is to keep all others from getting ahead by making them look bad every time you get the chance. In a case such as the example in the movie, the person who tries to better himself or herself by going to college is threatening to others who have not achieved. They try to keep him from getting ahead by attacking him. The effect is to reduce achievements in the entire community and to perpetuate its impoverished condition. However, a very different point of view is called the "non zero sum" condition, or the "abundance mentality." In this situation, you find ways to create a bigger pie so that if one person takes a larger piece, there is still enough left for others. In business, for example, there is often tension between labor and management. Management always wants workers to be more productive, which is defined as increasing the ratio of output over input. Workers, on the other hand, always want to be better compensated, and find it astonishing when they see the large salaries of top executives.

How can this be resolved? Recently, U.S. companies have adopted several practices that offer some help. Pirst, with teamoriented employee involvement programs, employees help participate in finding ways to reduce costs and increase profits. This results in increased productivity. In effect, these activities enlarge the pie.

A good example of this is American Airlines. Through its employee suggestions, it decided to eliminate the seldom eaten olives from salads served in the firstclass section. This alone saved $40,000. Overall, American Airlines has saved over $180 million because of employees' ideas.

Second, companies have been offering profit-sharing bonuses, thus rewarding employees for their efforts to increase productivity. When the company does better, everybody wins!

It seems that every organization could potentially benefit from trying to encourage an "abundance mentality." Even families and communities could practice more of this.

Politics in business is often defined as the activities of a subgroup that achieve the objective of the subgroup at the expense of the larger organization. On the other hand, organizations that reward activities which contribute to the success of the entire organization, as with profit-sharing bonuses, are more likely to see a reduction in "politics" and an increase in achievement.

Imagine what the world might be like if each of us in our daily lives decided to practice more of an abundance mentality and less of a scarcity mentality.
