Bookmobile, lab proposed as library outreach

BY DARRELL CLEM

dclem@oe.hometown.com

Westland library officials Monday unveiled a two-tiered proposal for bringing library services to local neighborhoods.

Library Director Sandra Wilson touted a bookmobile and a separate, mobile computer lab to bring services to schools, parks, community centers, assisted-care retirement homes and high-traffic commercial parking lots, among other places.

The combined price tag: $912,325. "This would be real good for people who can't get to the library," Wilson told Westland City Council members during a study session.

A bookmobile and a mobile technology lab would mark an effort to bring services to outlying neighborhoods where residents sometimes complain that the city's central area gets a disproportionate share of attention, officials said.

"Definitely it looks as though there's a need for it, and it would be well-utilized," Councilman Richard LeBlanc said.

But he and his colleagues indicated that they want to study costs and ways of paying for the services before they commit themselves to the proposals.

Startup bookmobile costs are projected at $752,325, and a mobile computer lab would cost an estimated $160,000.

The biggest portion of costs stem from a $512,325 garage and storage area that would likely be built next to the Central City Parkway library, officials said.

City council members Monday didn't quibble over the merit of the two mobile services. But they now must wrestle with whether to approve one or both proposals — and how to pay the tab.

"I would hate to have to go back to the taxpayers and say, 'Look, we need money,'" Councilman Glenn Anderson said.

Library and city officials mentioned several possible funding measures:

■ A library fund balance now estimated at $825,000.

■ Potential federal or state grants. One $50,000 grant has already been submitted.

■ Private donations.

■ Revenue increases from a 1-mill library tax levy already in place. "Three percent a year would be a safe number, I would say at this point," city Finance Director Tim McCurley said.

■ Tax Increment Finance Authority revenues, a longtime financing tool that comes from taxes collected in a special district. TIFA dollars helped build the library itself.

A council minority has questioned whether TIFA revenues, intended to spur economic growth, should be used to expand library services. Westland Economic Development Director Scott Veldhuis said he didn't perceive a problem, although he said he would discuss the issue with city attorney Angelo Plakas.

Meanwhile, Wilson predicted Monday that it would be at least a year before mobile library services would hit city streets — if the council approves the proposals.

The library's proposal for a mobile technology lab followed earlier discussions about a possible bookmobile. On Monday, Wilson cited a national study indicating that the number of U.S. Internet users is expected to increase from 50 million now to more than 140 million by year 2000.

"If the trend holds true locally," she said, "then a potential 52,000 adult

Bogus bills charge lands area woman in hot water

Westland police Sunday arrested a woman suspected of spending hundreds of dollars in counterfeit $20 bills at local businesses.

Police Sgt. James Dexter said the 28-year-old Canton Township woman is accused of spending counterfeit money at Target, two Arbor drugstores and a Rite Aid before she was caught trying to buy $150 in groceries from Kroger at Ford and Central City Parkway.

"There's $800 of her bad money floating around somewhere," Dexter said.

POLICE

An alert Kroger employee noticed suspicious serial numbers on the old-style $20 bills and notified other store personnel, who called in Westland police.

The woman is accused of spending money at Westland businesses from Friday evening until 7:40 p.m. Sunday, when police officers arrested her at Kroger, Dexter said.

Police had already received a description of the suspect's vehicle from Rite Aid employees, who realized after she left their store that she had used counterfeit money for her purchases, Dexter said.

The suspect told police that someone else had given her the money, but Dexter said he believes that the woman knew she was spending fake bills because she also was carrying $1,200 in real money.

Local police arrested the woman and held her until U.S. Secret Service agents picked her up Monday, Dexter said.

A federal agent in Detroit said Tuesday that it wasn't yet known whether the suspect will face federal or local charges of passing counterfeit bills. He said the woman could possibly face as much as 15 years in prison if convicted.

Westland police Lt. Marc Stobbe said counterfeit money has become a growing problem because criminals can use computers to easily produce fake bills.

Teen swimmers protest after coach boots them

Three Franklin High seniors ousted from the school's swim team for choosing not to attend Thursday's swim meet with Northville believe they were unfairly punished by their coach, Jean Pritchard.

The parents of the girls, Holly Greene of Livonia and twins Rebecca and Sarah Taylor of Westland, have appealed their daughters' ouster to Franklin principal Michael Fenchel.

The grounds for the parents' appeal is page 62 of Franklin's Parent and Student Handbook. The handbook states that athletes who miss a meet may be suspended from participating in a subsequent meet.

The handbook doesn't list ejection from the team as a punishment for missing a meet.

"We were willing to accept that punishment (suspension) because we felt what we were doing instead of going to the meet was equally as important," said Holly Greene.

The event they believed "equally as important" was making decorations for Franklin's pep assembly preceding Friday's homecoming game with Northville.

"This was something more important and dear to their hearts," said Mark Greene, Holly's father.

The girls, as part of their participation with Student Congress, said they had spent time over the last few weeks working on the decorations.

"We felt, as seniors, in our last year, that we wanted to work hard on the 'spirit' thing," said Holly Greene.

Decoration vs. dedication

Speaking from her home Monday evening, coach Pritchard said that the girls were told that "if they failed to show up (for the meet) they showed us by their actions they didn't want to be part of the team."

"What type of team would I have if everybody wanted to decorate instead of showing up for a meet?" Pritchard asked.

Greene is a four-year member of the swim team; the Taylor twins are three-year members.

Compounding the seniors' distress is the fact that they believe they wouldn't have been kicked off the team if they had lied about the circumstances surrounding their absence.

The girls said they told their coach a week before the game that a conflict existed between their commitment to the team and their commitment to work on decorations from 5-11 p.m. Thursday. The swim team had been told to report to the school's pool area by 5:30 p.m.

"We were told we had to be there (for the meet)," Greene said. "So we asked, 'What will happen if we don't show up?' We were told we would not be allowed to swim in the next meet. We figured not missing one meet was not that big of a deal."

The student handbook says: "If it is necessary for an athlete to miss a practice session, meeting, or game due to personal business, illness, injury, family emergencies, or family vacations, it is incumbent upon the athlete to make arrangements with the coach."

Fenchel, Franklin's principal, said the reason given by the girls for failing to participate did not meet the dictates of the above policy.

"The policy refers to emergency situations, if it's necessary for an athlete to miss a meet," he said. "I'm not sure their situation fits into that."

He also told of the commitment students agree to make when they join a school team, a commitment he said is also spelled out in the student handbook.

The girls believe that if they had given one of the above excuses for their absence, they would not have been ousted from the team.

"We were honest, up front," Greene said. "If I had called in sick and not said anything, we would still be on the team. What do they want me to do, lie?"

Telling the truth

Sarah Taylor, who along with her sister, Rebecca, is a member of the National Honor Society, said the three girls were "truthful right off the bat."

"We decided to be adults, and handle this in an adult way, and we got kicked off the team," said Rebecca Taylor. "If we had lied, there would not have been a problem."

At 5:15 p.m. Thursday, while painting signs in the school, the girls said they got a telephone call from athletic director Daniel Freeman. They said Freeman told them they would be "kicked off the team" if they didn't attend the meet.

On Monday, calling it a disciplinary issue, Freeman declined to discuss the incident. He did say, however, that the girls had quit the team, and had not been removed from it.

The three girls showed up in the Franklin locker room for a practice session Friday. They said they were denied access, and told to clean out their lockers and turn in their locks.

All three girls said they still considered themselves members of the Franklin swim team, which has about 40 members.

Corner homeowners Larry and Peggy Sullivan have suffered yard damage from parents who crowd their cars near the bus stop to watch their children climb aboard to go to Garfield Elementary School.

The couple's complaints prompted Westland police to erect no-parking signs, angering parents who say their children's safety is as important as the Sullivans' property rights.

Jim Grainger, who owns a landscaping business across Ravine from the Sullivan house, said he has been dragged into the dispute by parents who wrongly accused his drivers of adding to safety problems.

"I've been there eight years and haven't hit any children yet," he told the council. "I've been slammed. I've been harassed ... and I'm not going to take it anymore."

The dispute simmered for a year but has worsened to the point of neighbors intimidating each other and threatening to boycott Grainger's business, Westland police Sgt. Peter Brokas said.

"This thing has escalated quite a bit," he said.

Seeking consensus

Following nearly three hours of highly emotional statements Monday, residents and council members appeared on the surface to have reached a consensus on several issues:

■ The 30-year-old bus stop will remain where it is rather than being moved.

■ Parents agreed to try carpooling to avoid dangerous traffic congestion that, at times, virtually seals off Ravine from Joy.

■ No-parking signs will remain in place for now, at least.

■ The Sullivans offered to let children stand in their driveway as they wait for the bus.

Westland police issued tickets to two parents who ignored the no-parking signs, but one offender said Monday that her violation was dismissed in Westland 18th District Court.

■ The city will conduct a study to clearly define boundaries for Ravine and private properties.

■ The city will investigate the possibility of putting in a ditch not only to protect the Sullivan property from motorists, but also to counter drainage problems on Ravine.

Larry Sullivan and Grainger said parents made the area even more dangerous by causing traffic congestion and socializing over coffee for 25 minutes after buses depart. He said children sometimes dart between parked cars.

"Eventually, someone will get hurt," he said.

Robert Talaga, a 37-year Ravine resident, said he raised four children that he walked to the bus stop.

"People don't want to get out and walk their kids to school. They want to drive them to school," Talaga said.

But parents said Ravine becomes too muddy and has too many potholes for children to walk the half-mile road.

Parent Charlotte Rudiceo spoke of rumors of a Westland school bus stop stalker and said, "Someone could nab a child real easily."

Chief discounts rumors

But Police Chief Emery Price said such rumors are unfounded.

"We have no reports of school bus stop stalkings," he said.

"There are stalkers everywhere," parent Denise Herbert said. "There are people everywhere waiting to hurt children."

But Grainger said parents have gone too far.

"You don't need cars parked three abreast to protect your children," he said.

Peggy Sullivan told council members that she and her husband have had to replace five water sprinkler heads and repair their lawn because of damages to their property.

"Not one person who has damaged this lawn has incurred one penny," she said.

Parent Ken Klein, who grew up in the area, said he wants his children driven to the school bus stop because he had to walk as a child.

"I like to be able to do for my children what my parents couldn't do for me," he said.

Councilman Charles Pickering said the city had to become involved to help resolve the problem.

"I think we have to do our job to define the boundaries so we're not encroaching on anybody's property," he said.

Westland police issued tickets to two parents who ignored the no-parking signs, but one offender said Monday that her violation was dismissed in Westland 18th District Court.

The police chief said Monday that officers will continue to issue tickets if the Joy-Ravine area becomes dangerously congested. However, he pledged that police will try to be accommodating as all sides try to implement solutions.

"We will make every effort to compromise with the parents that are out there," Price said.

FREE "LIVING TRUST" SEMINAR

"What You Ought to Know About Living Trusts"

(What you don't know could cost your family thousands of dollars!)

If you own a home...or you have assets worth at least $100,000...you owe it to yourself—and your family—to get the facts on living trusts. If you think you're protected with a simple Will, think again...A Will guarantees that your estate will go through probate, which means that your family may not be able to take possession of your estate for many months, or even years!

Plus, if your estate is over $625,000, your family may owe estate taxes which could amount to 37-55% of the value of your estate.

This means that your family may have to sell some assets just to pay the estate taxes!

A living trust avoids all this by avoiding probate and minimizing estate taxes. Plus, a living trust will protect your estate if you become incapacitated during your lifetime by avoiding a conservatorship. This means your estate will be managed as you see fit, not as a court-appointed guardian sees fit.

To find out more about the benefits of living trusts, attend one of these free seminars...

Dedication to showcase 'new' Newburgh Lake

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER
kabramczyk@oe.homecomm.net

And then the rains came. Now that Newburgh Lake has been filled with water, Wayne County officials will dedicate it Friday.

The heavy rain on Oct. 7 was needed to fill Newburgh, an impoundment of the Rouge River and the site of an ambitious $10 million federally-funded restoration project.

Tomorrow's dedication will showcase the "new" Newburgh Lake, which features a new fishing dock, a nature observation station, parking lot and, most importantly, a lake free of polychlorinated biphenyls, contaminants that plagued the lake for many years.

Just two years ago Newburgh sat contaminated with PCBs originating from a lubricant used several years earlier at a nearby industrial plant which is now closed. The PCBs had flowed down a creek into the northwest part of the lake.

Since then excavation crews have removed about 560,000 tons of contaminated and non-contaminated soil. Many fish were contaminated, but it is believed that they were removed with two fish kills, one in 1997 and another in 1998.

In September the lake was restocked with minnows, bluegills, largemouth bass, channel catfish, walleye, northern pike, black crappie and pumpkinseed sunfish. Students from Garfield Elementary School in Livonia will release fish Friday afternoon into the lake.

Earlier that day the students will receive a brown bag lunch and a presentation from John O'Meara, project manager for Environmental Consulting and Technology, about the lake.

Children will paddleboat and enjoy other activities at the lake at 12:30 p.m. Appearances will be made at the one-hour dedication at 2 p.m. by U.S. Reps. John Dingell, Joe Knollenberg and Lynn Rivers, Livonia Mayor Jack Kirksey and Plymouth Township Supervisor Kathleen Keen McCarthy for the lake's dedication.

The public is invited to the dedication. Donuts, cider and cake will be served.

Hines Drive between Newburgh and Haggerty roads will be open to the public at 3:30 p.m.

Fieger campaigns here

Geoffrey Fieger, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, will bring his election campaign to Livonia at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 28.

The 11th District Democratic Committee will host Fieger at a town meeting-style event at Burton Manor, 27777 Schoolcraft.

This will be a follow-up to an issues conference recently, where party members were invited to offer ideas, concerns and issues for the campaign. It's open to party members, precinct delegates and the community.

Class to focus on snowmobile safety

Area snowmobilers will have a chance to learn how to safely operate their machines on Saturday, Oct. 17.

That's when the state Department of Natural Resources and the Snomads Snofari Club want to train up to 200 people at the Snowmobile Safety Certificate Class from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Novi Expo Center, Novi.

This snowmobile safety class provides education in safe snowmobile operation, environmental responsibility, snowmobile laws, ethics and citizenship to snowmobilers of all ages. The class is taught by experienced snowmobilers who are certified as instructors by the DNR.

Instructors will be available to answer questions within small groups.

Experienced snowmobilers as well as adults considering the sport are encouraged to take the training. "I encourage students and adults to participate in this informative class Oct. 17," said conservation officer Patricia Blair.

Children 12-17 must be certified to operate a snowmobile without adult supervision.

The snowmobile safety class is open to people of all ages. Children must be at least 12 by the end of the snowmobile season (March 31, 1999) to be certified. Parents are encouraged to attend with their children. Children younger than 12 must be accompanied by an adult.

Pre-registration is required. The cost is $5. To register, call (248) 681-7429 weekdays from 6-9 p.m. and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information on snowmobile safety, call the DNR Law Enforcement Division at (313) 953-1498.

Businessman has big plans

BY SCOTT DANIEL
STAFF WRITER

If George Marvaso has his way, Canton could become an entertainment destination for all of metropolitan Detroit.

He hopes to house a comedy club, dance floor, arcade, pool tables, dining and banquet facilities all under one giant roof on Haggerty just south of Ford by the end of 1999.

"Electropolitan" would provide township and area residents with 80,000 square feet of fun aimed at adults. Cost of the project is estimated at $15 million.

"We've been working on this for two years," Marvaso said. "I think it will be unique to America."

About 24,000 square feet would be used for an arcade. A pool hall with nearly two dozen tables would be available as well.

A restaurant serving steaks, ribs, pasta and sandwiches is planned. A 500-seat banquet facility would host wedding receptions and other events.

Marvaso said the facility would be along the lines of a Dave & Busters, a national chain of adult entertainment complexes. He said he toured the country looking at similar facilities.

"I wanted to see what had already been done," said Marvaso.

The first step for the development was taken recently as the township planning commission unanimously recommended rezoning 14 acres.

Marvaso, who owns the Electric Stick pool hall in Westland, said he will submit site plans to the township within 30 to 60 days.

"We want to break ground next spring," he added.

If all goes well, Marvaso said he would open Electropolitan by Dec. 1 of 1999.

"That may be a little aggressive," said Marvaso.

A total of 27 acres off of Haggerty south of Ford is owned by AMC Theaters and Gary Jonna. Marvaso has an option with Jonna to purchase 14 acres of that parcel for his entertainment complex.

That portion of the site had to be rezoned to allow for the development. Canton Community Planner Jeff Goulet said current C-4 or interchange service district zoning was too narrow and was more suited for a regional mall-style development.

Going to C-3 or regional commercial district zoning would allow for a mixed-use facility such as Marvaso is proposing.

"It's a more appropriate zoning category for this parcel," said Goulet.

The remaining 13 acres would be left C-4 for future hotel development.

"I think it will be a good mix with hotel and other entertainment (venues)," Marvaso said.

Planning commissioners raised no objections to the development. Ted Robinson, a Canton resident living adjacent to the site, was supportive.

"I have no objections to what's being proposed," he said.

The home, which is the only residence near the site, may eventually be sold to developers. If that happens, Commissioner Melissa McLaughlin wants the home saved and moved somewhere within the township.

"It's a very important historical home," she said. "It may be up for national register nomination. I would hope the house isn't considered for demolition."

Marvaso credited Jonna for helping guide him through the planning process for Electropolitan. He also said faith played a big part in his decision.

"The strength behind this comes from the church," Marvaso said.

persons in Westland will be learning Internet."

The library now offers Internet training classes, but a high demand has resulted in a long waiting list.

Library and city officials said they are astounded at public usage of library services since the facility opened on Nov. 4,

The Westland library is consistently the top-used facility in a library network that includes libraries in Livonia, Plymouth and other communities. In July alone patrons checked out 70,000 items.

"Never in my wildest dreams did I think it would take off like this," Councilman Charles "Trav" Griffin said Monday.

Now, council members must wrestle with decisions on whether to expand those services by adding a bookmobile and a mobile computer lab. They didn't indicate Monday when they will make those decisions.

Thanks George... For Nothing Since 1981

It recently came in the mailbox: a great big pat-on-the-back for Senator George Hart. It praised George for sponsoring a law requiring child safety seats.

They Forgot to Tell You Something

We were impressed with George's accomplishment. But the piece of mail left something out: that George's accomplishment occurred in 1981. Yes, you read correctly: 1981.

1981 Is The Last Time George Hart Did Anything

It's a real shame that George's own backers couldn't come up with something a little more recent. It's a shame...but it's not a surprise. You see, George Hart stopped doing his job long ago. He's missed so many Senate votes it's like we haven't had a Senator for an entire year and a half.

George Hart: ABSENT

We need a Senator who is on the job every day. That rules out another four years of George Hart. He's absent too much. And when he is there, he doesn't do much.

George has a big, fat pension coming after 50 years in politics. So let's let him enjoy his pension—and let's elect a Senator who will actually do the job.

We commend George Hart for sponsoring a law to require the use of child safety seats. But he did that 17 years ago. And he hasn't done much since. He's been resting on his laurels all that time. He's been missing hundreds of key votes. He's out of gas. And that's why we need a new Senator.

SENATOR GEORGE HART
HELP CHILDREN

We take it for granted now. Before parents even think of driving off for even the smallest errand, they strap their children into the car seat. But there was a time when children were put at risk because they were not secured safely in the car.

HART SAVED LIVES BY FIGHTING FOR LAWS THAT REQUIRE CAR SEATS FOR YOUNG CHILDREN.

Before child safety seat laws were passed, over 575 children under the age of four died or sustained serious injuries each year in auto accidents. (Michigan Department of State Police)

George Hart thought that loss was tragic. That's why George fought for and passed a revolutionary law that required parents to put infant children in safety seats. (PA. 117)

Now, fewer than 8 children a year die due to lack of adequate restraint. (Office of Highway Safety Planning, 1996)

8,000 CHILDREN'S LIVES PROTECTED. THANKS, GEORGE.

Protecting children is nothing new for George Hart, and the fight is not over yet. This year Senator Hart introduced new legislation that will give children more protection by making safety seats meet tougher standards. Senator Hart also sponsors child safety seat checks.

George Hart is committed to the safety of our children and families. Protecting our children from traffic fatalities is just one example of how Hart has helped to keep our children safe.

Sam's Club shopper reports pager theft

Residents might want to consider watching their pagers and cellular phones while shopping.

A woman shopping at Sam's Club in Westland told police that someone stole her pager from her purse, which was in a shopping cart. She said the incident occurred about 6 p.m. Oct. 3.

Two days earlier, a man shopping at Farmer Jack, 132 S. Merriman, told police someone took his cellular phone while he was getting groceries. He had it in his cart. He said it was stolen about 4:30 p.m. Oct. 1.

A resident of Point West Apartments, 31610 Cowan, told police someone broke into her residence through the front door and awoke her at 8:15 p.m. Oct. 6. She told police she yelled "who's there" and the intruder fled.

A man told police that someone broke into his residence in the 34500 block of Nancy and took a $700 television/VCR, a $900 camcorder, a $300 VCR, a $300 TV and a $20 duffel bag.

He said the house was also ransacked during the incident that reportedly occurred between 8:30 and 11 a.m. Oct. 6.

A man reported several vehicles being damaged with rocks and other items while they were being stored at 1118 S. Newburgh for the Red Holman dealership in Westland. He said the incident occurred between 9 p.m. Oct. 5 and 8 a.m. Oct. 6. He told police that eight 1998 GMC Sonomas received damages ranging from $179 to $873. The man told police he believes that juveniles walking along a nearby path threw rocks and other items over a wall to damage the vehicles.

A man told police someone broke into his residence on Forest between 4 p.m. and 6:20 p.m. Oct. 11 and took a television and several cans of beer.

He said he found the rear door of his residence had been kicked open.

Quality of life Rouge shows renewal signs

For the residents of southeast Michigan, the Rouge River has long represented an urban cesspool suffering from the long-term effects of rainwater runoff from parking lots, sewage and contaminants flowing into it from local businesses and industries.

The signs at Newburgh Lake, an impoundment of the Rouge, once said it all, warning residents of the contaminated fish in the lake and the river.

On Friday, Wayne County officials will take another step toward cleaning up the Rouge when Newburgh Lake will be dedicated, marking the conclusion of a two-year, $10 million restoration project. It was refreshing to watch our federal tax dollars used in a practical way — to clean up our waterways adequately enough to allow for recreational activities to resume on the lake.

It was an unusual restoration project for state and county environmental officials. Soils and sediments, mainly confined in the northwest portion of the lake, were contaminated with polychlorinated biphenyls, the result of contamination flowing down a creek from a former manufacturer. PCBs from a lubricant used there entered the food chain in plants and soon they entered the fish. Most of the time, money and energy was spent removing soil from the lake.

The project had its share of problems and tragedy. A diver lost his life in February 1997 trying to clear soil from the front of a sluice gate on a dam under Newburgh Road. In June 1997, contractors sprayed rotenone, a natural pesticide used during a fish kill, too close to the dam area and it accidentally flowed downstream, killing fish in Nankin Lake, all the way to Telegraph Road.

But the project moved onward.

Excavators removed 560,000 tons of contaminated and uncontaminated soil and sediment from the lake. Trucks transported the soil to a landfill in Salem Township. In September, the lake was restocked with minnows, bluegills, largemouth bass, channel catfish, walleye, northern pike, black crappie and pumpkinseed sunfish.

The lake won't be ready for public use for a while. Paddleboat rentals are expected to be available next spring, ice skating in the winter and, in 2001, state officials believe the game fish will have grown to the state's legal size.

It is not known how "clean" the lake's water can become and if or when the health advisory against human contact can be lifted, but consultants have tested the water and lake's bottom and found it is no longer contaminated with PCBs.

While the Rouge is far from clean or far from being ready for human contact, it is improving. The state of Michigan, Wayne County and the 48 basin communities — which includes Westland — have made great strides with the help of the federal grants. Just as important are the cooperative efforts between the communities and government departments and agencies, whether discussions center on wetlands mitigation, funding for retention basins to control combined sewer overflows or stormwater permits designed to control rainwater flow from parking lots in western Wayne County.

All the federal money will not help the Rouge if there is no public conscience or effort to improve the river's quality.

Time will only tell whether the efforts have paid off. But Newburgh Lake looks to indeed have the potential to become a gem in western Wayne County.

Families come first in city

Two recent city projects are good news for Westland's families.

On Thursday the city hosted its annual Turn Off the Violence Night for families. Also, recently the city and residents have been working on improvements at Corrado Park in the north end of the city.

The Turn Off The Violence event featured demonstrations by fire and police officers of emergency vehicles, hockey and basketball sponsored by Drug Abuse Resistance Officers and the Dad's Club, arts and crafts such as making paper pumpkins and making puppets, line dancing and free food.

The evening, sponsored by the Mayor's Task Force on Family Enrichment, Westland Parks and Recreation and the Rotary Club, with assistance from the Westland Police Department and Westland Fire Department, is designed to bring together parents and children in fun family activities.

Meanwhile at Corrado Park, the city and families have banded together to clean up and improve the park which has been a hangout for vandals and party crowds.

But neighbors and the city are taking back the park and making it an attractive place for families to enjoy a nice day.

Parents today face a sometimes uphill battle to find fun, safe activities for children, and meanwhile, working couples are often hard-pressed to spend quality time with their children.

Having safe, clean parks and playgrounds, plus city programs offering fun activities, is at least a start in helping improve families' opportunities for a better quality of life.

'Road rage' has varied reasons

When two drivers stage a reckless, aggressive battle over lane ownership on the I-275 freeway — leaving one dead — does the state bear any responsibility? The answer may not be as simple as you think.

The Observer can't excuse negligent actions of any driver. Neither can we demand that the state be held legally accountable when people willingly ignore the law. But we can and should try to understand the underlying reasons why "road rage" occurs — and one of those reasons is the overburdened — in some cases poorly designed — freeway system in southeastern Michigan.

Redesigning freeways is costly and can take years. But maybe in the long run drivers would be better off if state officials began using some of last year's gas tax increase to pay for better entrance/exit ramps and merge lanes — not just smoother blacktop.

Consider these "obstacles" faced by law-abiding drivers everyday:

■ Entering southbound I-275 from M-5 in Farmington Hills, drivers must merge to their left within a few hundred yards or they will find themselves heading back on M-5 and Grand River.

■ Taking the eastbound I-96 ramp from southbound I-275, drivers seeking to exit at Newburgh Road in Livonia (the first exit), must cross over four lanes of eastbound freeway traffic in less than a mile.

■ The rural-like three miles between Ann Arbor Road (Plymouth/Livonia), Ford Road (Westland/Canton) and Michigan Avenue (Canton/Wayne) exits on northbound and southbound I-275 creates long back-ups during peak periods. The combined populations of these communities is a very unruly 300,000-plus.

What's even more troubling is these examples are taken from a freeway designed and completed just 21 years ago, not some World War II-era transportation model. Engineers don't design freeways for minimum or maximum traffic loads, according to Robin Pannecouck, spokeswoman for the Michigan Department of Transportation. They may have a broad range in mind, but there are no figures for what constitutes a "safe" number of commuters, particularly since the actual number varies on a daily and hourly basis, Pannecouck said.

Still, the fact that the most heavily trafficked stretches of I-275 are carrying more than three times the number of vehicles on a daily basis since the freeway opened in 1977 is alarming. According to MDOT figures for 1997 (the last year available), a high point of 190,000 vehicles traveled the freeway daily between the I-696 and I-96 interchanges. That compares to 57,000 passing through the I-96/M-14 interchange in 1977.

When you add speed to the mix, you're increasing the "road rage" quotient. The passenger car limit on I-275 ranges from 65 to 70 mph; it was 55 mph when the freeway opened.

MDOT suggests that freeway commuters use common courtesy and remain aware of surrounding drivers when merging. Use turn signals and allow others to get into the traffic flow. Those are certainly good points. But updating freeway design should be part of the "road rage" solution too.

Tragic aftermath

Safety first: Road design is one factor in fatal traffic accidents such as this one on I-275 last week. The two drivers were jockeying for lane position. One was killed in the accident.

Vote against Bennett

We all know the serious financial problems our local schools are facing. We also know that our local schools need and deserve more money from Lansing. However, did you know that Loren Bennett, our state senator, voted against giving our schools more than $12 million in additional funding? It's a fact. Bennett believed Lansing couldn't afford to send us the "extra" money. I can't believe that he would turn his back on our schools, and our children.

I urge your readers to vote against Loren Bennett on election day. We need to elect someone who will put our children and their schools first. Lansing keeps too much of our money already. Let's elect someone who will return it to us.

Column a winner

I was delighted, and favorably impressed, with Leonard Poger's column in the Oct. 1 edition of the paper.

It seems to me that Leonard said a number of things about what was happening in this area at that time which were not said then (at least out loud), and need to be acknowledged.

There is not much honor, and very little grace, in living in a racist society, but I can't help feel that it will somehow help us if we can at least be honest in talking about what we are doing.

Thank you, Leonard.

No to resignation

President Bill Clinton should not resign. His doing that would validate Ken Starr's tactics (which are unreasonable) and thus do a grave disservice to our political heritage.

The president's behavior with respect to the Monica Lewinsky affair was quite stupid. (We can understand passion leading to a single sexual encounter and could excuse that if it had ended there.) Such an affair, in the presidential office, with a young intern/employee cannot be considered a private matter.

Nevertheless, nothing revealed so far strikes us as a reason for him to be removed from office.

In the present circumstances, an impeachment debate by the full House may be unavoidable. We hope that will end with a censure, which could be endorsed by the Senate; perhaps that could be joined by some members of the administration (e.g. the vice president and the cabinet), in order to provide an historical record disapproving the president's behavior. We previously thought that some additional punishment would be appropriate, but it now seems to us that Ken Starr's past (and probable future) actions are punishment enough.

Whether the president committed perjury or similar illegal acts are questions which should be left to the courts. Even if he did that, the context — a consensual sexual affair — isn't sufficiently important to justify conviction by the Senate. (Just as illustrations, without suggesting they apply in this case, impeachment and Senate conviction would be justified if there were perjury related to major public policy responsibilities, or if a president committed a heinous crime such as murder or rape.)

We recognize that disruption and distraction will continue, but transition to a new president (even one as closely involved as Gore is) would not be easy (e.g., Would there be a fight over the new vice president?). Furthermore, perhaps this matter will lose momentum after the election this November. Isn't it likely that Republicans want to increase their control of Congress, rather than to displace the president and will not do the latter even if they have enough votes to do that?

The issue will, and should not, be forgotten — but other presidents have functioned under a cloud of disapproval, and President Clinton seems particularly able to do that.

POINTS OF VIEW

Dogs get friendly when 'bone man' arrives

There's something to be said about the gratification one gets from feeding others.

I used to be known as the Atomic Fireball man around the office because I kept a large jar of jawbreakers on my desk for co-workers.

I gave that up when I realized that I had no great desire to suck on the candies myself. But the need to feed has taken a new form. Since I've become a Redford homeowner I've taken to feeding Milk Bones to the neighborhood dogs.

This habit started when I was annoyed with the great number of fenced-in dogs barking at me when I strolled around the 'hood. I started carrying Milk Bones with me and soon made several dog buddies who stopped barking and started eating.

It's interesting to note that a species of animals so congenitally dumb can have so many distinct personalities that are apparent when one tosses them a Milk Bone.

Some of them are gentle dogs who carefully take each bone in their mouths as if they were handling eggs. Others are so eager to receive their gift that they don't care if they bite off your fingers. These are the dogs that generally stop barking at me after a few visits.

They know I'm the "bone man" and no threat.

Some of them eat fast, practically swallowing each bone whole. These are generally the ones who grab the bones in their mouth in midair. Others chew it carefully as if fearful of upsetting their dental work.

The really dumb dogs never stop barking. Yet half of these will still eat the bones I throw them. The other half aren't worth cultivating a friendship with because they won't eat the bones. Often they don't even seem to notice when I toss one their way. They just bark and bark as if I'm Godzilla,

RALPH R. ECHINAW

King Kong or Geoffrey Fieger.

That's the general picture. Then there are specific dogs who act in singular ways. A German shephard on Inkster Road knows me and is eager to eat, but he backs away from a tossed bone as if it were a 10-pound rock.

Two dogs on Curtis Street are almost always in their pen, and they're my most eager customers. Both of them catch the bones before they hit the ground. The brown one shifts his weight from foot to foot and will bark if I take too long. They never fight over the bones, but if the brown one can beat the black one to a bone he'll do it.

Another two dogs on Margareta are quite different. Their owners have had their vocal cords removed, so they try to bark, but nothing comes out. One of them likes to be petted, but neither one of them seems interested in Milk Bones.

A sheep dog on Curtis is almost always outside, and he gets two bones. I think his owner knows of my habit, because the one time I stopped and he wasn't out I paused for a minute because he's "always" out. Then I gave up and started to walk away, but was called back by a bark as my dog buddy was let outside.

Two little dogs around the corner from my house still bark at me but more from excitement and anticipation than anything else. The smallest of them eagerly grabs the medium size bone in his mouth as if he were a much bigger dog. Often he runs around the garage to follow me down the sidewalk and beg for another.

It seems odd that after five years of living in the neighborhood I know the dogs better than the people. (People don't act the same when I offer Milk Bones to them.) When I see people out walking their dogs I first look at the dog to see if it's one of my buddies.

I've taken to carrying a stash of bones in my car that I use to feed my sister's dog and whatever dogs I happen across at softball games and elsewhere.

It's too bad people aren't the same as dogs in this respect. Give them something good to eat and they'll be your friends.

Why isn't the news media reporting on Proposal A?

Q. You guys at the paper haven't written much on Proposal A. Some big secret?

A. There has been no one to quote. There is no visible campaign, no ads, no nothing.

Q. It has to do with changing the word "handicapped" to "disabled" in the state constitution. What's that about?

A. Start at the beginning. It would change a section of Article VIII ...

Q. That's the education article, right?

A. Right. It guarantees every kid a free public education, sets up the universities and community colleges, and guarantees public libraries.

Well, Sec. 8 also guarantees care and education of the physically and mentally handicapped. Proposal A, if voters say yes on Nov. 3, will change "handicapped" to "disabled."

"Handicapped" actually is the broader term because it covers both mental and physical problems. "Disabled" refers to physical problems.

Q. So why replace a broad word with a narrower one?

A. Because "mentally" already is in Sec. 8. So Prop A is a refinement in wording.

Q. Who's behind this?

A. The Legislature this year passed two dozen laws changing various statutes from "handicapped" to "disabled." The bills started in the Senate but were supported by both parties.

Sen. Alma Wheeler Smith, D-Salem, was sponsor of Senate Joint Resolution I of 1997. It needed a two-thirds vote from both chambers to go before voters.

The Senate passed it 37-0 with one absent. The House passed it 99-0 with 11 absent. That tells you a) there was no controversy and b) no sense of urgency in getting everyone on the

TIM RICHARD

House floor.

Q. So what is pushing this effort - political correctness?

A. Not the kind you're thinking of. Citizens Research Council of Michigan gives this explanation:

"The change would create no grammatical or budgetary consequences. It is being proposed as a part of an effort to make the nomenclature contained in the laws of Michigan conform with current conventions and with federal laws, such as the Americans with Disabilities Act."

You remember the ADA, don't you? President George Bush signed it with a lot of fanfare in 1992.

Q. Is it that important to make the wording in Michigan laws match the federal laws?

A. It's a good idea to make them match whenever you can.

Remember the suburban school districts' Durant lawsuit? One center of contention was that the state definition of "special education" didn't match the federal definition.

This doesn't mean Michigan should water down its declaration of rights just to match the U.S. Constitution's; just that it's a good idea to match legal wording where possible.

Q. I can't recall voting on anything like this before.

A. It's more common in city government, where voters are asked to amend the charter to match amended state laws on election dates, boards of canvassers and the like.

Q. So Proposal A is kind of a routine legal wording change?

A. That's what it looks like.

Art. VIII Sec. 8 says: "Institutions, programs and services for the care, treatment, education or rehabilitation of those inhabitants who are physically, mentally or otherwise seriously handicapped shall always be fostered and supported." "Handicapped" would be changed to "disabled." That's all.

Electing university trustees makes them more accountable

Attentive readers of this column will recall that I am a candidate for re-election to the University of Michigan Board of Regents. Along with other candidates, both Republican and Democratic, our names will appear on the "State Boards" section of the ballot on Nov. 3.

So, in addition to being warned of potential bias in this column, readers may wonder just why in Michigan we elect state educational posts - U-M Board of Regents, Wayne State Board of Governors, Michigan State Board of Trustees and members of the State Board of Education - rather than appointing them, the way the overwhelming majority of states do.

After all, those of us who choose to run for these jobs are largely unknown except to our family and friends. During this campaign season, we toil away in relative obscurity, punctuated by efforts to get the news media to notice what we're up to.

When I call the news media, the conversation generally goes like this:

Me: "I'm calling in hopes you will run a story on my campaign for U of M regent. And, while you're at it, if you do decide to endorse in this race, I hope you'll endorse me."

Media: "Thanks for calling. We're pretty busy just now, what with races for governor, attorney general and secretary of state, not to mention our local races for state Legislature. We'd love to run your story and to endorse, but we don't have the staff or the time or the knowledge to do a good job in it."

Me: "I understand. But the problem is that the average voter has no idea who these candidates are or what their credentials might be. So the outcome of the election will be determined by name ID or coattails."

Media: "That's too bad. Say, why aren't you guys appointed anyway? That would be much neater and cleaner. And it probably would lead to better people being on these boards."

Why, indeed, elect statewide education posts? I see two persuasive arguments.

The first is that the Michigan Constitution makes us officials directly elected by the people. Therefore, the universities we serve have constitutional standing as a kind of fourth branch of government. That, in turn, has led predecessor boards to assert in the courts that our universities are autonomous, independent of other branches of state government.

That's important because over time the autonomous status of U-M, for instance, has been a big factor in preserving educational quality. Without that protection, any good university is a sitting duck for ambitious politicians who want to make a reputation by taking cheap shots at the professors.

Moreover, running for election brings all kinds of benefits for the candidates. The process forces us to talk directly with the people, to hear complaints about high tuition or high-handed administrators or even highly unlikely maize and blue halos around Michigan Stadium. That, in turn, gives us insight into what the people - who, after all, own the University of Michigan - like and don't like about their university.

I've always had the theory that I never learned much while I was talking, so I try to work a Q and A portion into any speeches I give on the campaign trail. And, often, somebody says something simple, sensible, thoughtful and entirely new.

The other day, a woman with two kids in college asked me, "How come the University of Michigan can't guarantee what my kids' tuition will be when they enroll? It's tough enough meeting the payments on our family's income, but it's worse when the university keeps upping the tuition. I have to continually rebudget in the middle of the year, and that's not fair."

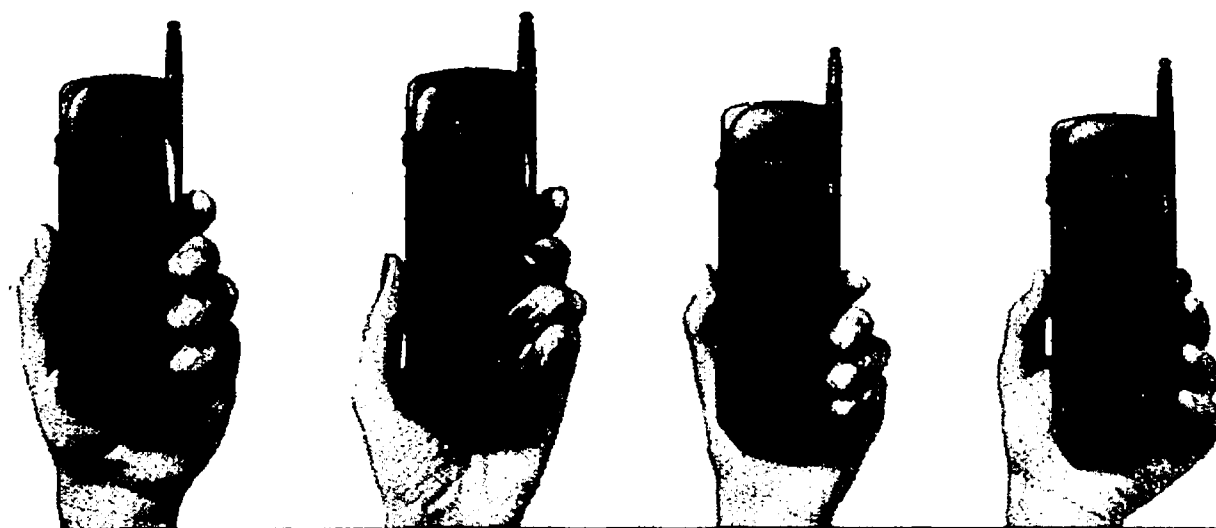

What an interesting thought! It may turn out to be practical or it may turn out to be impractical. But here is a wholly new idea that I never would have been exposed to if I had not been campaigning and paused to take questions.

As Winston Churchill said, democracy is the worst system of government possible, excepting every other system. And even with all the defects inherent in the system of electing folks to state educational boards, I still think election is the best.

Voters to decide tax board issue

BY HEATHER NICKHAM
STAFF WRITER

Does Wayne County need to keep a tax allocation board?

That is a question county voters will decide Nov. 3 when an as yet untitled proposal to eliminate it is presented to them.

The general consensus of the Wayne County Commission is that the board, which oversees tax allocations of only five governmental entities, has become obsolete and is unnecessary. As of 1997, 73 of the 83 Michigan counties had adopted separate tax limitations, eliminating the need for tax allocation boards.

"The Tax Allocation Board in Wayne County has been reduced to a fraction of its former self," said Commissioner Bruce Patterson, who represents the 11th District, including Canton, Belleville, Van Buren Township and Sumpter Township, which is one of the entities overseen by the board.

It costs "several thousand" dollars to keep the board going, including the cost of record keeping and paying commission members for meeting time.

Ballot language

"All separate tax limitations be established for an indefinite period, or until altered by the voters of the county, for the non charter townships, intermediate school district, and Detroit Public Library within Wayne County, the highest aggregate of which shall not exceed 1.4576 mills (as reduced by the Headlee rollback adjustments and as certified in the 1997 Wayne County Commission Government Report) Wayne County Education Services Agency: .0984 mill

Detroit Library Commission: .6400 mill
Township of Grosse Pointe: .6486 mill
Township of Sumpter: .870 mill
Highest total: 1.4576 mills
Yes or No?

While that figure is a mere fraction of the county's $2 billion budget, it is money that could be better spent, Patterson said.

"We should be always looking for ways to be more efficient."

If passed, the governmental units covered by the board would "not be subject to the board telling them what their tax limit is," Patterson said.

Democrat Kay Beard, vice chair of the commission, agrees the tax allocation board is outdated and needs to be abolished.

Beard's district includes Westland, Garden City and Inkster.

Most chartered governments are exempt from the state mandated 15- and 18-mill limits because of their charter status, and school districts were exempted by Proposal A. This leaves the Tax Allocation Board responsible for only a small amount of millage allocation in a few units of government.

If passed, tax increases would be left up to the voters to decide and would give non-chartered townships, such as Sumpter and Grosse Ile, the ability to ask for more millage money.

"It puts more responsibility on the voters," Patterson said.

Only non-charter townships, the intermediate school district and the Detroit Public Library would be affected. Chartered municipalities such as Wayne County, cities and most townships, would be unaffected.

The ballot language reads:

In April, the Wayne County Tax Allocation Board requested the Citizens Research Council to review the issue of establishing a separate tax limitation for the county and abolishing the Tax Allocation Board.

Commissioner George Cushingberry, who sponsored the proposal, was out of the country and unavailable for comment.

S'craft workshop tells how to find government contracts

Representatives from the General Services Administration from Washington, D.C., will present the seminar, "How to Find Contracting Opportunities with GSA," 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 21, in the McDowell Center on the Schoolcraft campus.

This is the first time in 10 years this seminar has been offered in this area. It focuses on helping companies learn about this yearly $10 billion potential customers. The GSA rents, builds, furnishes and maintains government offices. It purchases supplies ranging from pens to state-of-the-art computers. It also contracts for services such as teleprocessing and trash removal.

WOMEN

Fulfilling lifestyle includes custom-fit career

Thanks to a thriving economy, better educational opportunities and more social support, today's business woman is no longer forced to act as a social and economic barometer, checking out the corporate climate to see where - or if - she fits.

She fits everywhere. Gerry Barrons, executive director of the Women's Economic Club of Detroit, said the diversity of the club's membership, which draws from throughout southeastern Michigan, has become "extraordinary" in the last five years. WEC includes not only corporate elites among its 1,400 members, but dentists, judges, health-care professionals and business owners as well.

Barrons, who was a job and executive-search consultant for many years prior to her role at WEC, said women today view success and fulfillment in the business world in terms of creating their own environment and "customizing" their lives.

"Women ask themselves what kind of life do I want to live and what kind of career will give me that life."

It's an issue of empowerment and control, said Barrons. The prescribed steps of 20 years ago are gone, along with the infamous androgynous look - the ultra-tailored navy-blue suit. "Now we wear red and slacks and scarves and every length of hemline."

Jacque Martin-Downs, a mental health therapist in private practice and coordinator of the Family Resource Center in Westland, said climbing the corporate ladder has become easier for women due to flex time, on-site child-care and the ability of taking work home.

However, she added that many of these women are opting out of the corporate world to care for their children at home. "I'm glad we're at that place today. In the '70s you whispered 'I stay at home with my children.'"

Business owners

Susan Shoemaker, a Livonia Chamber of Commerce board member and owner of RWS Financial Group, founded her business with a partner three years ago after the birth of her second son.

After bouncing through several corporate mergers and acquisitions and striving for family balance, Shoemaker decided to be a stay-at-home mom while pursuing her MBA degree in finance. "We needed some flexibility in our lives."

However, she emphasized that a flexible work schedule doesn't mean starting your own business is easy. "It's still a challenge to start your own business from ground zero, just to build relationships and contacts."

A significant source of support and networking for Shoemaker is her membership in the National Association of Women Business Owners. The 500 members of NAWBO's Greater Detroit Chapter represent diverse professions (including six women in the construction field) but are highly representative of the service industry - accounting, advertising, human resources, and employment and financial services.

According to the 1992 U.S. Census statistics, retail trade businesses at 1,093,342 and service industries at 3,158,444 dominated the categories of women-owned businesses in the United States. In other words, if women have infiltrated corporate offices across America, they own Main Street within their communities.

"The downtown retail businesses are predominantly owned or managed by women," said Fran Toney, executive director of the Plymouth's 600-member Chamber of Commerce. "And women continue to increase their leadership role in our industrial-based companies."

Myths

The 1994 Survey of Businesses by Gender of Ownership conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau put an end to stereotyping women-owned businesses and firms regarding credit and expansion plans.

The survey found:

■ There is no "statistically significant" difference between men and women business owners in their access to credit. Only 12.8 percent of women-owned firms said their ability to operate or expand had been hampered by credit difficulty. The figure was slightly lower for men.

■ Sources of credit for women-owned businesses were similar to those for all firms: reinvestment of profits, investment of own assets, bank loans, and supplier credit, business credit cards and government-guaranteed loans.

■ Women business owners were in an expansive mood, planning additional growth through increased work forces, new products, increased employee work hours, new locations, government contracts, and international markets.

Forecast

Research by The National Foundation for Women Business Owners indicated that as of 1996 there were 263,000 women-owned businesses in Michigan, including part-time firms. These businesses employed 533,200 people and generated $63 billion in sales. Most impressive, NFWFO research showed that the number of women-owned businesses increased 80.4 percent between 1987 and 1996.

Also, the 1994 U.S. Census Bureau survey showed more women established businesses between 1991 and 1994 than men.

So, is it sunny and bright every day for women business-owners and women in corporate offices? The answer is "no," but there are fewer clouds.

According to a Women's Economic Club membership survey this year, almost half the women thought progress in hiring and promoting women executives has "slowed down or is getting worse" in large companies. And a significant number think "balance is causing a great deal of stress."

However, over half WEC's members said companies are more supportive in finding ways to relieve stress through flexible hours and allowing working at home. Also, the majority of women rated their companies as excellent or good places to work.

If the corporate world doesn't provide the best environment - the best fit - for today's professional women, she is less hesitant than were her predecessors to start her own business. And why not?

"We're a lot more confident in our roles," said Shoemaker.

Area group provides support for women in business

When Marilyn Malin, owner of Detroit-based Staff Solutions, started her own business in 1983, she felt as if she was the only woman business owner in town. Her life was divided between work and home, where she was raising five children.

All that changed when she joined the local chapter of the National Association of Women Business Owners in 1991, when her youngest child was a preteen. In NAWBO, she found both emotional and professional support.

"More than ever, it's kept me from being an island."

Staff Solutions has grown tremendously over the years, especially since Malin bought out her partner in 1989. The company generated $5 million in sales this year and will be included in Inc. Magazine's "Inc. 500" list of exceptional

Business facts

Did you know that:

- Women-owned businesses contribute more than $2.38 trillion annually to the national economy.
- Women-owned businesses employ one out of every five U.S. workers.
- Women entrepreneurs are taking their firms into the global marketplace at the same rate as all U.S. business owners.
- Nearly all (96 percent) of women-owned businesses use computers.
- Home-based businesses owned by women are making a substantial economic contribution. These businesses provide full or part-time employment for 14 million people.

Source: "Women Owned Workplaces," compiled by data from U.S. Small Business Administration, U.S. Bureau of the Census, and The National Foundation for Women.

Today, Malin is president of The Greater Detroit Chapter of NAWBO, which draws its membership from throughout southeastern Michigan, including Livonia, Plymouth and Canton in Wayne County. Nationally, NAWBO has 8,000 members; locally, it has 400, a number not representative of the women-owned businesses within its boundaries.

"We know we haven't even touched the number of women business owners," said Malin. "We have a member from Gaylord because she was searching for a business association to join."

Networking is the most important asset NAWBO offers its members.

"Women business owners are extremely supportive of each other," said Malin. "When I look for a vendor I look at the NAWBO directory. I buy from at least 25 members - payroll, carpet cleaning, lettering for my vans, herbs, printing, marketing materials."

Informative programs are another NAWBO plus in addition to its monthly meetings, which are held at different locations throughout the metro-Detroit area.

Today (Oct. 15), the Detroit chapter is pairing up with the Michigan Jobs Commission to present a trade exposition, "Business-to-Business Showcase," at the Masonic Temple. On Jan. 21, 1999, the chapter is one of 19 women's associations presenting "Women in High Gear: How to Succeed in the Automotive Industry" at the Gem Theatre/Century Club.

The two young high school girls followed the saying, "Find what you enjoy and make a living with it."

Nicole, Cheri and Cheri LaPointe, enjoyed starting fashion trends and just loved shopping! Their bright idea of having a fashion show spurred their careers.

Nicole recalls, "We have been friends for 13 yrs. and both respect each others opinion on fashion. We are still working together on the many fashion shows we put together, and have traveled to Chicago, New York, California and Europe for our love of fashion." Cheri does the model training and show choreographing and I handle the models, clothes and music. "We are still enjoying the success that started with our first fashion show in high school. As I look back, we would do it so differently now, but we were kids and thought it was great!" Parents should encourage their children to go after what they enjoy doing. This way the child will put all his/her energy in it and be positively motivated.

Cheri LaPointe has established Successful Images International, that produces fashion shows, plus is a fashion/make-up consultant. "I do private consultations with women. A client calls and makes an appointment and I make her look beautiful."

Going to the doctor is not an event that many women look forward to. However, Canton Obstetrics and Gynecology understands this universal feeling and does their best to make the most out of the situation. Why is this medical practice so unique? Because there are five physicians and a nurse practitioner and all are female: Marcia Caron, M.D., Donna Hrozencik, M.D., Yvonne Manber, M.D. and the newest additions, Priya Gupta, M.D., Jody Jones, M.D. and Kathy Kise RNC,MS.

Providing modern health care for women in a brand new, decidedly feminine office, Canton Obstetrics and Gynecology provides a comfortable setting for their patients. There is and urgent care and an on-site pharmacy housed on the first floor, offering the ultimate in convenience. A separate surgical procedure room allow for a wider range of procedures than were available in their previous building. In addition, there are twelve examination rooms, an ultrasound room and a procedure room. Out patient colposcopy, LEEP, HSG and cryosurgery are also performed.

To welcome new patients to both their Livonia and Canton offices, Canton Ob-Gyn has added two new partners to their practice, Dr. Gupta and Dr. Jones.

Dr. Gupta completed her undergraduate and medical school training at the University of Michigan and her residency at Cedars-Sinai in Los Angeles. She is an avid reader and enjoys exercising and rollerblading. Her focus, in the scope of Women's health issues, is Perimenopause.

A native of Chicago, Dr. Jones has been in practice for four years and joins the team from Providence Hospital where she continues to enjoy hospital privileges. She completed her internship and residency at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor and is board certified in OB/Gyn. She is also a Fellow of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists. Her hobbies include tennis, gardening and golf.

In addition to the two new doctors, Kathy Kise, a nurse practitioner has joined the Canton OB/Gyn team. She has been practicing in the area of Women's Health for the past six years and received her Master's Degree in Nursing from the University of Michigan. Her special interests are menopause management and contraceptive issues. When she isn't playing with her two children, Kathy enjoys reading and a good game of golf.

Defective Thermogenesis

Your Food calories can either supply your body's energy needs, be stored away as white fat or be burned up by brown adipose tissue. The later process is called "Thermogenesis" which means "the generation of heat." The major fuel for generating heat is fat. Unfortunately, people with a history of diet failure, people with poor genetics and people as they become older, shut down their thermogenic, fat-burning furnace. So they gain fat in their hips, waist, thighs, and buttocks and can't seem to lose it.

Hyper-insulin Secretions

The body's set point for weight is tied to fat cell insulin sensitivity and the regulation of blood sugar. Unfortunately, the typical American diet, adult-onset diabetes, pregnancy, normal aging and excessive body fat can derange blood sugar control mechanisms. This can over-secrete pancreatic insulin caused by ingested food that pushes fat into cells and prevents fat cells from releasing fat. As a consequence, even consuming a small amount of refined carbohydrates can cause a large amount of fat gain and sabotage weight loss efforts.

Toxic Body and Bowel Conditions

Your bowels produce poisons that may contribute to weight problems. Endotoxins may damage the liver that regulates fat burning and make your metabolic rate sluggish. Plus, our gastrointestinal tract harbor a wide assortment of pathogenic microorganisms that include parasites and yeasts like Candida Albicans that can make you overeat sugars to keep them alive.

The Solution to Difficult Weight Loss

A successful program for losing excessive body fat is consistent with the basic tenets of holistic health and counteracts each of the previously discussed primary factors which are responsible for being overweight. All the components are critical and inter-related, creating a system where no single component is more important than another. Improvement in one facet may be enough to result in some positive changes, but impacting all three yields the greatest weight loss results. Suddenly Slim's highly effective program addresses the main reasons we have weight problems and helps reprogram your body's set point. Isn't it time to give your body the weight-loss advantage? The Suddenly Slim Success Center will give you the skinny on life long weight loss. Attend a FREE "Get the Skinny" Information Seminar or sign up for a free personal consultation.

Weight Loss, Nutrition, Exercise... Inches-A-Weigh has it all!

For many women, maintaining a healthy weight has always been a struggle. At Inches-A-Weigh in Livonia, Barbara Horowitz is helping women with that problem curb their bad eating habits and lack of exercise. Inches-A-Weigh, the first Detroit area location of this national franchise, provides a safe and effective weight loss program, combined with a mandatory exercise and toning regimen provided in the same facility. The unique part of the program is not only that weight loss and exercise are combined in the same place, but that it is available only to women. Here women can feel free to exercise in a comfortable, non-competitive atmosphere.

Barbara, an R.N. with her masters degree, assisted by her husband, a successful real estate developer, decided opening a weight loss/nutrition and exercise business was the perfect match of both of their talents. Not only did it give the couple an opportunity to work together, but it also placed them in a business they really believe in. Both make it a point to practice good nutrition and exercise regularly, the only way to lead a healthy life.

The Inches-A-Weigh philosophy is based on a distinctive concept that allows women to get their weight loss, figure reshaping, and exercise needs all served at one time, in one place, with one program. Each client is allotted personal time and attention from a nutrition consultant weekly and from exercise counselors at every exercise class, assuring individualized, specific needs will be met. The weight loss program is nutritionally sound and teaches clients to walk into the grocery store and make good choices. In addition, 10% of the food program incorporates nutritional supplements and vitamins into the diet which increase metabolism, reduce hunger levels and help nourish your body, insuring the most meticulous care to each client. At Inches-A-Weigh, "Our focus is on you!"

Located at 30985 Five Mile Road in Livonia, Inches-A-Weigh is open for business Monday and Wednesday from 6:30 am-8:30 pm, Tuesday and Thursday 8:30 am-8:30 pm, Friday 6:30 am-7:00 pm and Saturday from 9 am-1 pm. ## Health Care Catered To Women

"I treat my patients as if they were a part of my family!"

There are some people in the world that envision a dream very early on in life and never stop striving to reach that goal. Dr. Regina Simone is one of those individuals. "I have never wanted to be anything else except a physician, that is probably why I love my job so much." A graduate of the University of New England College of Osteopathic Medicine, Dr. Simone is Board Certified from the American Board of Osteopathic Family Physicians. She is also a member of the American Medical Association, and the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons. Among other things, she has been awarded the distinction of Who's Who in Medicine and Health Care and Who's Who in America.

Dr. Simone's practice encompasses all areas of medicine with a special interest in dermatology and women's medicine. However, what seems to make the difference in her business is her careful attention to detail and the extra time she spends with her patients, caring for their individual needs. "I treat my patients as if they were a part of my family," she said.

New patients are welcome and most insurance is accepted.

Michael's Angel Attic

Nestled in the heart of Livonia sits a little brick building, familiar to us all. This converted 1920's house, now adorned with angels, is the cozy home to Michael's Angel Attic, a specialty shop that sells nothing but angels ... and lot's of them!

Lisa Reed, owner of this little slice of heaven, re-located to this charming abode from her previous location just two blocks away. "I am so blessed to be herel. The character of this old home really lends itself to the inviting ambience that I have created. I want my customers to feel warm and welcome: as if they were entering my own home," commented Reed.

Michael's Angel Attic is much, much more than a business to this busy mother of two active earth angels. This whimsy little shop is dedicated to her real angel, Michael. Reed's three year old son died seven years ago of a sudden illness. Shortly after Michael's death, Reed, began studying the role of angels, and collecting them as well.

This led her to pursue the dream of having her own business and honoring her beloved son.

"Having a corporate business background and being blessed with a creative edge, I have combined my passion for both the arts and angels. I have put my energies toward something positive: and good heavens! ... what could be more positive than angels!" explains Reed.

Aside from being a fun and unique place to shop, ("I travel the different markets to bring an eclectic blend of unusual items"), says Reed, Michael's Angel Attic is also a place where people come to connect. With some customers, Reed's relationship transcends business. "Many of my customers have also lost a child. They come not only to shop, but to talk. I know what they are going through and I try to help by listening and sharing with them. There's a bond that only another bereaved parent can understand," says Reed.

Reed will be a designer once again at this year's Festival of Trees ... an annual holiday fund raiser that supports the Children's Hospital of Michigan, a place Reed holds very close to her heart.

Is Your Child "At Risk" or Struggling in School?

According to the American Foundation for Vision Awareness as many as 25% of school age children have vision problems that can hinder their ability to read and learn, and only about 5% of these problems are detected by school vision screenings. As part of our tribute to women in business in the Livonia area, we are proud to inform you that we are fortunate to have a solution for this problem.

Kamela Asher, a certified vision therapist, has seen many children that were doing great in school up until they hit third or fourth grade when they would start having trouble. These children truly perplex their teachers, their parents are usually very frustrated, and the labels start flying about - is the child "lazy", "not trying hard enough", or worse than that could the child be "learning disabled" or have "ADD/ADHD"? "Third or fourth grade is usually the time when a child with an undetected vision problem will start to have trouble in school," Ms. Asher continues, "and if it remains untreated it usually goes downhill from there. By the time parents bring their children to our office, they have usually tried everything to no avail because the true cause of the problem has never been treated."

"Most people don't realize that 80% of learning is done through the eyes. So it makes sense if someone is having difficulty learning that they should have a thorough developmental vision evaluation." Ms. Asher goes on to state, "A lot of people ask me how this evaluation is different from a regular eye exam. A big mistake people make is to assume that 20/20 means they have 'perfect' vision. All 20/20 means is that when you are looking at the vision chart from a distance of 20 feet, you are able to see the size of letters you are supposed to see from 20 feet away. Being able to see 20/20 is just the beginning. All it tells us is if your child is able to see the chalk board. The developmental vision evaluation tests ALL the visual skills required for someone to be successful in school."

Parents and educators alike have been amazed at the difference in performance levels of students once these undetected vision problems are diagnosed and treated. "My son had a negative attitude toward learning because everything came so hard to him. He also had a problem with self-esteem," adds Deborah Pikuiski. "I have seen great improvements in these areas. Comments from his teacher, tutor and coaches have all been good and they can see a difference in him also. I am very pleased..."

Undiagnosed vision problems can have a tremendous impact on a child in school. Until the actual source of a learning difficulty is found, these children are truly "at risk". Kamela Asher works with Dr. John Jacobl, a developmental optometrist, in Livonia.

Whirls and Twirls at Dancewear Gallery

Slightly over two years ago Cathy and Aimee LeMay opened Dancewear Gallery. A mother and daughter team, they felt there was a need for a store of this type in the Canton area. Specializing in dance shoes and apparel for dancers, skaters and gymnasts, Dancewear Gallery offers everything you need to pile, flip or twirl through the air gracefully.

Obviously, experience is not something this staff is missing. Aimee and her friend Wendi Stepchuk, who also works at the store, have bachelor's degrees in dance and have studied in New York City and Chicago as well. Wendi danced with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in the Nutcracker Ballet as a soloist for several years. Aimee spent a summer dancing at Alvin Ailey American Dance Academy and was chosen to perform in a piece choreographed by Alvin Ailey company member Jonathon Phelps. Wendi and Aimee both graduated from the Creative and Performing Arts High School at Churchill in Livonia where they are currently guest teachers. Cathy managed Encore Dance Apparel in Howell, Michigan before opening the Canton store.

They are very pleased with their success and growth over the last two years and are very grateful to the local studio owners and teachers who help them provide their students with the apparel and services they require. Carrying a wide selection of the latest in dancewear and shoes, the staff is knowledgeable, experienced and ready to serve you.

Business Heats Up At Sharon's Heating and Air Conditioning

Some industries have historically been viewed as male dominated trades and typically remain so today. But what is unique about Sharon's Heating and Air Conditioning is that it was founded in 1981 by a woman and continues to be woman-owned and operated. Owner, Sharon Klicker, is a licensed mechanical contractor and has worked in the industry for 25 years.

She started learning her trade in 1973 under the instruction of Homer DeShais, who years later came to work for her. (Mr. DeShais passed away earlier this year and will be sorely missed by everyone at Sharon's.) After installing for other companies, Ms. Klicker decided to get her license and start her own business, originally located near the intersection of Wayne and Ford. It was slow in the beginning with only three employees but has grown to employ around thirty at the new, larger location on Cowan. This includes the four sons that are now working for her, turning it into more of a family business. "The employees are the key to my success," says Ms. Klicker. "I appreciate their dedication and enjoy the opportunity to work with them and see them grow."

Sharon Klicker has always based her business on giving the customer a good product at a reasonable price. This philosophy has served her well through the years. The company does new and replacement work of forced air and boiler systems in the commercial and residential markets. They also provide service work, preventive maintenance, duct cleaning, and certification checks. Ductwork is fabricated for jobs in house in their metal bending shop and they even do custom pieces for other companies.

Dancing Towards Success

It was many years ago when Joanne Zavisa decided not to simply open a business, but to continue an educational process. She wanted to teach dance and be able to see that her students were being trained correctly. Now, fifteen years later, Joanne is the owner and artistic director of the very successful and highly acclaimed Joanne's Dance Extension and the Plymouth Canton Gym Express in Plymouth.

Since incorrect training can be physically damaging, Joanne uses an educationally based program and places a strong emphasis on technique, teaching a student to dance the "right" way. Training both students and teachers, they teach ballet, tap, jazz, acrobatics, lyrical and modern dance. In addition, they have a strong gymnastics program, taught more on the recreational level. While students still utilize all the equipment and floor exercises, competition is not the main focus.

"We have produced students that have gone on to a professional career, students who have become teachers, and students who just enjoy the art of dance," says Joanne. New students are always welcome so call (734) 455-4330 for information on registration.

Joanne's Dance Extension is located at 9282 General Drive #180-195 in Plymouth and is open for business Monday - Thur. 3:30 p.m. - 10 p.m. and Saturday from 9:30 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Art is Beauty at Artistic Permanent Make-up Inc.

While tattooing is an ancient art form, its use has undoubtedly changed a bit over the years. No one knows this better than Jacqui, owner and manager of Artistic Permanent Make-up in Plymouth. She uses tattooing for a practical purpose, to apply cosmetic make-up permanently to women from all walks of life.

Jacqui says, "Being artistic is the key. Body proportions and facial features both come into play in choosing custom colors and shaping for a very natural and soft look." She will apply eyebrows, eyeliner and lips for around the clock beauty enhancement. For example, people who have lost their natural eyebrows can regain that youthful look with a simple application. Eyeliner will make the lashes look fuller, shape and give definition to the eyes. Lip color is applied to add definition and fullness. Even cleft lips can be reshaped for a more natural look. For those individuals with scarring, camouflage color is matched to the skin and applied to those areas to make the marks seem to disappear.

Jacqui has been in the field of beauty for 26 years. For the last 9 years she has been permanently enhancing faces. "Permanent make-up is an asset to anyone's life, especially the very active."

Artistic INC.

For more information on this art form, call (734) 455-6980 or stop by for a visit at 1257 S. Main St. in Plymouth. She is open for business Tuesday through Friday, 11 am-5 pm or by appointment.

Sharing Culture and Art Native American Style

You don't have to travel to New Mexico in search of Native American art or Southwestern home furnishings. You only have to go as far as downtown Plymouth where you'll find Native West, a well established and longstanding seller of hand-crafted items featuring the work of Native American and Southwestern artisans.

Open in 1989, gallery owner, Annette Horn has brought in various items over the years, including Indian jewelry, one-of-a-kind Hopi Kachina dolls, original paintings, hand-woven rugs, "Navajo Sandpaintings," sculptures and furniture. After 15 years in retailing Annette decided it was time for a change. She had developed an intense appreciation for Southwestern art and wanted to put that love to use as an entrepreneur. Thus in 1993, she bought Native West. Annette set out (and continues today), to offer quality, authentic Native American art to the midwest, but at a price comparable to that of the West.

"She says, 'Retailing Native American art is very rewarding, and knowing that we are helping a culture, a family, an artist etc., makes it even more special. Yes, Native West is a business, but more than that, Native West is about sharing our knowledge of another culture.' Explaining the special meaning and/or legends behind the items she sells is exciting to her because this gives her the opportunity to share the spirit of the native culture."

As with any good business, customer satisfaction and quality merchandise are extremely important to Annette. They are, in fact, keys to her success. Listening to what her customers want or need and then giving it to them at a reasonable price, is all a part of how she does business.

However, ten months ago she decided to take her knowledge one step further and open up her own bridal salon. Now she is the proud owner and manager of Julie's Bridal Imports, located in Plymouth.

Julie's Bridal Salon specializes in exclusive bridal gown designs, catering to women of all shapes and sizes. "We carry the area's largest selections of bridal, bridesmaids, mother of the bride and formal wear gowns available. Our designer gowns are made to fit every budget and every size." This variety of selection is important to Julie's customers, as finding the perfect wedding gown is no easy task. Her on-site alterations department allows her to custom fit any gown, to any woman. In addition, she will custom order, or make a gown or headpiece to the customer's exact specifications. A final feature that makes Julie's Bridal so unique is the fact that she is able and willing to bring in designers from all over the world who will meet with the bride and attempt to create the dress of her dreams.

From the early days of childhood, many young girls daydream about their weddings and wonder what their dress will look like. They have a vision in their heads of what the perfect gown would look like. Julie's Bridal wants to make those dreams a reality for every woman.

Wild Wings Flies High Over Plymouth

Louise Jabara Deschenes displaying "Garden of Prayer" by Thomas Kinkade

In the beginning, working for her father's gallery was not a career choice for Louise Jabara Deschenes. However, she found herself enjoying the atmosphere and taking part in a business where customer satisfaction was a priority. "To see customers depart with a song in their heart in anticipation of enjoying the art they purchased or that special gift they had bought for someone was extremely rewarding to my own heart, she states. She adds, "I saw the joy in my father's heart and this made it more endearing to me, for my family business is something that one could say is an extension of family outside the home."

Not long after she made this realization, she and her brother, Dean Jabara, decided to open a location in Grosse Pointe, and worked together there for several years. While she managed that location for 16 years, she made the choice to return to work with her father, Kal, and "once again work with the person who was responsible for this career that I find so rewarding."

Wild Wings is a gallery that takes great pride in featuring the art of renowned artists such as Thomas Kinkade, Robert Bateman and Terry Redlin. Offering a mixture of framed canvas, signed and numbered lithographs and a wide selection of gift items, Wild Wings Gallery strives to touch the hearts of individuals as it illuminates the delicate balance of nature. Shared enthusiasm has always been their vision, as their customers undoubtedly appreciate the beauty and God given talents of the artists that they display.

Louise is grateful for her success and comments, "...The challenge resides in building a new customer base in which I can continue to commit myself to the satisfaction of those who have and will continue to patronize our Wild Wings Gallery." To be a part of this young lady's challenge, stop in and visit the folks at Wild Wings Gallery.

The gallery hours are Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday 10 am-6 pm, Thursday and Friday 10 am-9 pm, and Sunday 12 pm-5 pm. Please call (734) 455-3400 for more information. 388 S. Main St • Plymouth also located at 406 Main - Rochester

Don't Suffer Another Day
With Bunion Pain!
Read This Free Report.

Foot pain is not normal. Most people go through life believing that it's normal to have achy, sore, painful bunions day in and day out. Bunion pain can be alleviated, once and for all. Advanced surgical techniques are utilized in the Tri-Correctional Bunionectomy™ (as seen on The Learning Channel program, The Operation) to produce very satisfying, virtually painless results with a quick return to shoes and normal activities.

Dr. Ellen Mady of Feet First Podiatry in Farmington Hills, is one of only a dozen or so doctors trained directly by Dr. Allen Selner of North Hollywood, California. Working side-by-side for over a year under his direction, Dr. Ellen Mady has performed several hundred of the advanced bunion procedures.

The Tri-Correctional Bunionectomy™ is done on an outpatient basis at a hospital or surgical center where patients walk out of the hospital the day of surgery. Many patients return to a tennis shoe in about 2 weeks and are back to normal activities shortly after.

Please call Dr. Ellen Mady or one of her staff members for a FREE phone consultation or call now to schedule an appointment regarding your painful bunions and the Tri-Correctional Bunionectomy™ (248) 478-FEET (3338).

Brass and Iron Beds Offers Comfort and Quality

Where can you find a store that carries the world's finest built-to-order beds, at a reasonable price, with all the special bedding and accessories to complete the picture? Brass & Iron Beds of Plymouth is just the place for such things. "The insurance industry no longer challenged me and I felt I was letting some of my creativity go to waste. The opportunity to sell Brass Beds of Virginia came our way so my husband and I jumped at the chance to do something fun and different."

Reme's Dolls Travel Across Seas

Although many young girls play with dolls every day, there are few who develop an intense appreciation and penchant for their craftsmanship and design. However, Reme Tillman is one of those individuals and has made good use of her love for them.

Opened in 1989, Reme Collectibles is one of the largest doll shops in Michigan, carrying over one million dollars in inventory from dolls and bears to plates, figurines and cards. In addition to all the items she currently offers, she is now manufacturing her own dolls as well. Utilizing one of the best doll artist teams from the U.S., Juanita and Monica Montoya, Reme feels that the mother-daughter relationship is very important in a business of this type. This is demonstrated not only through the relationship with her daughter (and full time employee), Carol, but through the relationship of the designers.

Incidentally, Juanita will receive the Doll of the Year Award for her new doll named Clarissa, this year.

Another new development in Reme's business is her increased amount of travel. For example, in January she will journey to San Francisco to introduce a new doll from Germany. She is continually seeking manufacturers from Europe to make a different style of doll, one that is more up to date and closely resembles live children. Luna Babies, are a prime example of this. The most popular in the doll world today, these high quality dolls come from Germany, are made in Spain, and cost about half of what other manufacturers sell their dolls for. She also travels to Europe once a month to meet with different vinyl factories in order to reproduce American designed dolls. They will take a one of a kind, original, porcelain doll to Spain and reproduce it for half the cost, out of vinyl. This allows Reme to offer a much larger selection of dolls that are top quality, at a more competitive price.

In store for 1999, Reme is planning to have numerous artists into the store for various signing events. Customers enjoy those events and are appreciative of the fact that they don't have to go to commercial doll shows to see what is available that year. During the first week of November she will celebrate the holiday season (November 6, 7 and 8) with a customer appreciation sale — 25% off for three days only.

Reme spends her days surrounded by dolls created by the top designers of the world. She loves her job and is determined to offer the best customer service possible.

Sweet Success at Mary Denning's Cake Shoppe

Quality is still important to Mary Denning after 6 years of quality baking.

Six years ago Mary Denning decided to open a cake shop, priding itself on quality and service. Little did she know that by the year 1998 it would be such a huge success in Westland and other neighboring communities. Today, the integrity and the quality of the cake shop's products is still as important to Mary Denning and her employees, as it was the day her shop opened in 1992. October is here and with it comes the celebration of Mary Denning's 6th anniversary with 25,000 cakes sold. To mark this event, they are sponsoring a contest to guess when exactly their 25,000th cake will be sold. The lucky customer who purchases the 25,000th cake and the customer who correctly guesses the time and date of that purchase will win a free cake every month for the next year. In addition, to thank everyone for their six years of loyalty, the bakery will be offering 25% off all special order cakes (excluding wedding cakes) for the last two weeks of October.

Although decorated cakes have been the mainstay of her business, Mary Denning's has much more to offer anyone's sweet tooth. Everything from cookies and coffee cakes to muffins and pastries are readily available. For those times when a special gift is in order, Mary Denning's is quick to fix up a gift basket or show you the different varieties of gourmet coffee she has for sale.

Located at 8306 North Wayne Road in Westland, Mary Denning's has been tempting the taste buds of the residents of Wayne County for years and will undoubtedly continue to do so for many more to come. Open seven days a week for your convenience. Call (734) 261-3680 for more information.

Personalized Hearing Care - more than a name - it's a commitment

Personalized Hearing Care is a private audiology practice owned and operated by Barbara Douglas, M.A. CCC, certified audiologist and licensed hearing aid dealer.

Because they're audiology-based, their focus is different. They focus not only on hearing aids but on helping people who have a hearing loss communicate - sharing information about assistive devices, closed captioning or possibly cochlear implants. It's not restricted to the sale of hearing aids. It's aural rehabilitation - working with patients to help them get used to hearing again; and including their families in the process, because they find it works better that way.

It's also about education. They spread the word about available options, and actively promote hearing awareness to patients and in the community. Their message is: you can do something positive about your hearing loss. And, if you choose the right provider for your hearing needs, it can literally change your life.

Their name tells what's unique about them - Personalized Hearing Care. They look at each individual separately, one at a time. They make them feel comfortable. They work with them until both staff and patient are comfortable with the solution.

They try to make hearing better and using hearing aids a positive experience, something people feel good about. Barb says, "If they feel good about the experience, they are more willing to refer to us because they know the people they refer will be taken good care of. That's why our customers come back. They bring their parents in and refer their friends to us. They trust that their family and friends' hearing needs will be cared for."

They are service-driven. They look at each person's needs and what they want and what they can afford. The patients know the staff cares about them hearing well and really work at making that happen. They look for solutions to our patients' problems - and solve each one individually. Personalized Hearing Care is a caring practice.

"Having my own practice means that I can really help people now. It gives me the freedom to offer patients choices, to get to know my patients, and their needs. I can take as much time as each person needs," states Barb Douglas, audiologist.

Barb also mentions, "It also gives me the opportunity to educate about hearing, hearing loss and hearing care and to sponsor events such as our Better Hearing and Speech Day. People want to know about hearing. Now, I can go out and speak - at clubs, senior residences, union locals - and spread the word about hearing care options."

Personalized Hearing Care is located across from Westland Shopping Center at 35337 W. Warren. Office hours are Mon. through Thurs. 9 am-6 pm, Closed Friday and Saturday 9 am-1 pm. Evenings by appointment. For more information or to schedule an appointment call Barbara Douglas at 734-467-5100. Don't forget to congratulate her on her 5 yr. anniversary this month.

THE NEW ZERBO'S HEALTH FOODS
YOUR NATURAL REMEDY STORE, EXPANDED AISLES, AND A FRESH NEW LOOK - COME AND VISIT

Many natural snack and food items line Zerbo's Health Food Store aisles, to help customers choose alternative items from high cholesterol and saturated fat, artificial flavors and colors to natural food items without so many additives and more nutrients.

As this demand for more and more natural foods continues, the expansion for Zerbo's continues. The store added 6,111 sq. ft. of retail space this past summer. The older part of Zerbo's is getting ready to add a greater variety of organic produce and an exciting new juice bar for the shopper who desires a better choice of quality food items.

Harry Zerbo, 82, founded the store in 1958. He is still an energetic part of the store's personal customer service and can be found at the store everyday. Many customers have been coming to Zerbo's Health Foods just to see Harry and listen to his professional health advice on homeopathics, vitamins, herbs, and foods. Harry also includes a free joke to go along with his advice and always leaves his customers laughing. He will still do a little zone therapy on the feet.

Clara Zerbo Adams,

Harry's daughter, started to take over the day to day duties in 1982. She has since received a certificate in massage therapy and continues to expand her educational courses in nutritional subjects and massage techniques. Linda Zerbo, Clara's sister, has just recently taken a part of the store's crew and spends much of her time helping customers find their personal nutritional needs.

Clara's children, Ryan and Shannon Adams, are now an important part in running the store. Clara is proud of the fact that Ryan is a CMU graduate with a business degree and Shannon is in her final studies to become a Registered Dietitian from Madonna University. The family enjoys working with each other and work hard to make the store successful.

Zerbo's sells a variety of supplements including St. Johns Wort and Kava Kava used as mood elevators, arthritis cures like Chondroitin and Glucosamine Sulfates, estrogen replacements like soy based Phyto-Estrogen, CO Q 10 an anti-aging enzyme, the very much in demand Ginkgo Biloba for the memory and body building items that include muscle builders and testosterone enhancers such as Andro-6 and Creatine.

Supplements come in a variety of ways. You can have your choice of vitamins, herbs, amino acids, essential fatty acids and homeopathics, in liquids, sprays, powders, chewables, capsules, or tinctures. Zerbo's carries supplements for the young and old, the fitness minded, the fatigued, the stressed, and the aged who want to feel young again. The store has aisles of products like books, anti-oxidants, super green foods, ginseng, aloe vera, digestive enzymes, phyto-estrogens, and many other disease preventives.

"How do you know what all of these items are for?" is a frequently asked question to many of the knowledgeable staff that Clara keeps on the floor at the store. The employees do keep up on the latest health issues and try to help customers find just what they may be looking for to obtain a healthier body.

Information is always available and help is easy to find with the very insightful staff.

Patients First at Partners in Internal Medicine

To demonstrate their vision of personalized patient care, Drs. Martha Gray, Mark Oberdoerster and Lisa Feldstein joined together in January of 1998 to form a practice named Partners in Internal Medicine. In September, Dr. Chuck Yadmark was welcomed to the practice, sharing the exact same vision as his partners. In the changing world of healthcare, the doctors believe that in order to be distinguished from other medical practices, they need to refocus on personalized patient care delivery and not just simply the financial aspects of the business. "Over the years, patients have conveyed the loss of 'personal touch' in their medical care due to large practices and technology. Therefore, our vision was to develop a company that is clinically driven and provides a smaller, more personalized setting which meets the needs of our patients."

Although the practice has only been in operation for eight short months, all the doctors have years of previous training and experience. Dr. Gray has been practicing for 17 years and is completely certified in Geriatrics. She received her training at the University of Michigan Medical School. She is also CEO of Partners in Internal Medicine. Dr. Feldstein has 8 years of experience behind her and received her training at Northwestern University in Illinois. 15 years of experience backs Dr. Oberdoerster, as does his training from the Medical College of Ohio at Toledo. Finally, Dr. Yadmark has been practicing for 1 year and was trained at the University of Michigan Medical School.

Partners in Internal Medicine offers a variety of services to their patients including diabetic training, work with the geriatric population and colon screening. Whatever procedure is offered, the staff always retains the belief that the patient deserves to come first. There is a strong focus on customer service, making the practice very successful and highly acclaimed.

With two locations, one in Ann Arbor and another in Canton, the practice is easily able to accommodate both Washtenaw and Wayne counties. Always, welcoming new patients, they accept most major insurance carriers. Call (734) 981-3300 or (734) 973-2487 to schedule an appointment. They are open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. and available 24 hours a day.

A graduate of the University of Maryland School of Dentistry, Dr. Nematollahi has had two years of post-graduate training at the University of Michigan Dental School, along with training in cosmetic dentistry. Ms. Bosas has been practicing as a Dental Hygienist in Canton for the past ten years. These two new faces are a welcome addition to an already well established family dental practice.

"Your comfort is our highest priority" is the practice's motto and Drs. Pinkney, Greenbaum, MacFarland and Nematollahi are determined to keep that promise. Open six days a week, they run strictly on schedule and adhere to the highest standards of sterilization. Emergencies are always seen immediately after they call in an attempt to provide the most comfort possible for the patient. ## BILL AND ROD'S APPLIANCE: An Unlikely Success Story

Then...Now!

Linda Legato never planned on owning and running her father's appliance store. In fact, she had plans to work in public relations after graduating from Michigan State University. However, when her father, Rod Rodrigues, died in 1976, Linda (at the time only 21) was left with no choice. Someone needed to take over the business and the task was placed onto her shoulders. Kim Legato, recently hired to deliver appliances, became one of her employees and the two soon fell in love, marrying in 1977. Ever since then, the couple have run the business together. While Linda handles office and sales work, Kim is busy at the service end of the business.

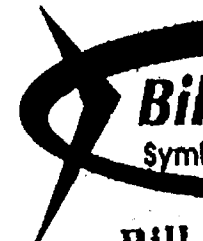

In operation for 35 years now, Bill and Rod's Appliance in Livonia is based on all brand services. Maytag sales, and parts sales for all makes and models of appliances. With two full time technicians (each with 20 years of experience), all the in-home repair work is easily taken care of. They carry the parts on their trucks so that there is no need for return trips.

As far as Maytag is concerned, Linda believes that it is the only product available today that is designed to last through 20 years of dependable service. They carry everything from refrigerators, ranges and dishwashers to micro-waves, hood fans, garbage disposals, washers and dryers. Therefore, they have a full-product showroom that features these products and allows the customer to make the best buying decision.

Their appliance parts sales are handled much the same way. "We provide knowledgeable advice for do-it-yourselfers. Because of years of experience, we know and stock the parts that people need most often. We generally know if you truly need that expensive part or not."

Kim and Linda's business philosophy is undoubtedly working. They recently doubled its showroom space and added the Jenn Air line of gourmet ranges. Don't think the Legato's need to depend on people simply spotting their business from Middlebelt Road because ninety-five percent of their sales come from past customers. "We've been in the area for so long, most people know us...If our customers aren't happy, neither are we," says Linda.

Salon Trio Celebrates 4th Anniversary

"...a departmentalized salon with both color and styling departments..."

For the past four years, Salon Trio co-owners Jacinda Reed and Melissa Montagano have worked hard to maintain the vision they began with when they first opened their doors. "We wanted a departmentalized salon with both color and styling departments with employees specializing in one area," said Jacinda and Melissa. They have accomplished that, and so much more.

Salon Trio promotes the most highly-educated and well experienced Toni and Guy stylists to help you choose the most appropriate look for any occasion (work or play), a specialized color department, a full skin care and cosmetic line and nail technicians who offer complete nail and pedicure services. As their business continues to grow and prosper, they have added a new staff member to their team, Tammy, a full time colorist. If you are looking to update your present color, make your appointment today.

To keep up on the latest trends in the industry, Jacinda conducts local seminars and is traveling to Fargo, North Dakota and Dallas, Texas later this month to further educate herself. Although the trends may rapidly change, certain principles remain at Salon Trio. "...to focus our energy on our clients, encourage our employees to continue their education, service our clients with the highest quality of product and work together as a team."

Help From Homestead USA America's Residential Mortgage Source

Today, the cost of living continues to rise and more and more individuals are finding it harder to get by. They live paycheck to paycheck, hoping for some type of immediate relief. It is companies like Homestead USA that offer hope to these people, making their lives just a little bit easier.

As a mortgage lender, Homestead USA lends money for all types of loans. Conventional FHA, VA, no money down, no income verification and bruised credit loans are just a few of the programs they offer. Due to the current low interest rates, many home owners are refinancing to lower rates, pulling out cash for home improvements and taking advantage of debt consolidation. However, customers are not interested in just refinancing. Many of Homestead's clients are first time home buyers (or simply home buyers in general) and need financial direction. To accommodate these needs, Homestead USA conducts seminars for first time home buyers. Here they will answer questions regarding finding the right home, qualifying for a home mortgage or as which loan program is best for you.

Lisa Hecht and Gale Kennedy of Homestead USA say they enjoy working with people on a one to one basis. "Our clients are our number one priority. We take care to find the right loan program for every client. Unlike banking institutions, we do schedule our appointments around our clients' needs. It's quite simple, we care!"

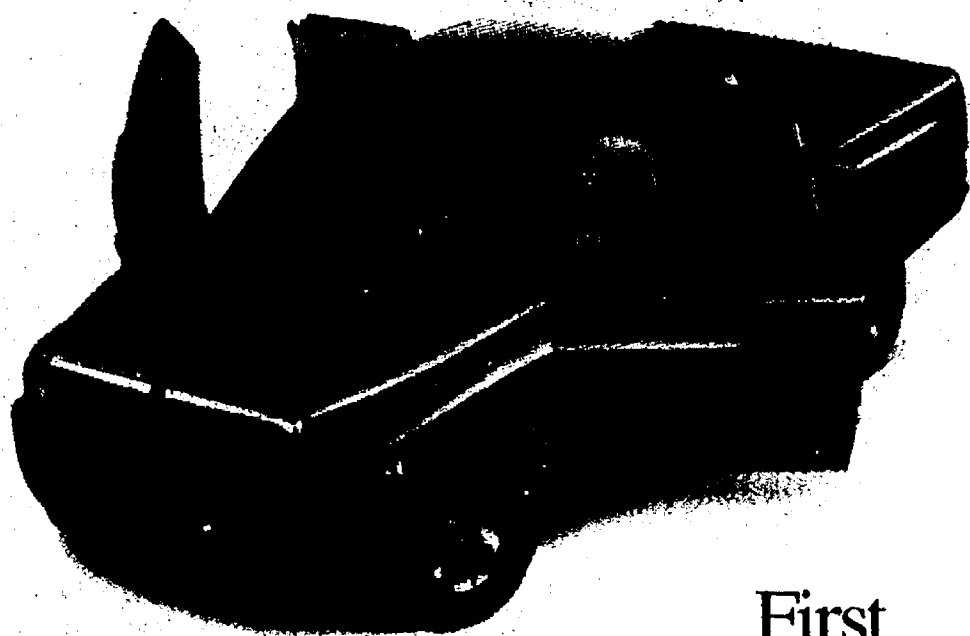

Located at 32410 Five Mile Road (#104), Homestead USA has become well established in Livonia over the past ten years. Call (800) 722-9698 for more information on how you may qualify for a loan.

We have stake in raising happy child

What is the No. 1 thing that parents want for their children? "I just want my child to be happy." For people who started having children in the '60s, right up through today, it is the first thing that most parents wish for. When a person feels loved, capable and responsible, they will likely be happy. I see hundreds of unhappy children every year. Whether they are in a youth support group, school classroom, counseling session or with their parents at Kmart, I keep wondering why there seems to be a lack of contentment and an abundance of sober, sour looks. It begs the question, "If most parents' goal is for kids' happiness, then why aren't they happier?" Samantha belligerently plunked herself down onto the couch in the therapist's office one day. With arms crossed and lips pursed shut, her body language read, "I hate being here, and you're not going to change it."

The counselor didn't bother dancing around the obvious, but offered, "Not too happy about being here, are ya?" Her terse "Nope" was to be expected. Turning to mom, who the therapist suspected had the keys to opening up her teen, she asked, "Why do you think Samantha is so unhappy?" Mom went into a lengthy diatribe

Russian journalists explore state's politics

■ There's a big difference between politics in Russia and politics in the United States. And a group of Russian journalists were in Westland last week to explore those differences.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER
cfuoco@oe.hometown.com

When Russian journalist Mikhail Mikhayolichenko visited the Westland office of state Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton Township, he longed to hear secrets.

"Give me a few secrets of your election campaign experience," he asked Bennett. "I promise, I won't tell anyone in Russia."

The laughter broke the ice between Bennett and five Russian journalists who visited his campaign office in Westland on Oct. 9. The six, along with two translators, held a roundtable discussion about Michigan elections.

"There aren't really any secrets that caused me to be elected," Bennett answered. "My wife and I, four years ago, spent nine months going door to door talking to people on front porches. In nine months, we visited 38,000 homes."

"I truly believe that there was no way to win an election. I had to earn the election one vote at a time."

The Russian journalists visited the Detroit area Oct. 7-9 under the auspices of the International Visitors Program of the U.S. Information Agency. The group chose Michigan in order to observe a campaign office of a senator up for re-election.

According to the International Visitors Council in metropolitan Detroit, the local sponsor, the goal of the program is to gain an understanding of the relationship between the press and the government.

"I receive a paycheck, but I see one of the benefits or privileges is that I get opportunities such as I'm experiencing today that the average person doesn't have. As for any extra benefits, no," Bennett answered.

Bennett explained the basics of state, local and United States government, the frequency of meetings and cam-

The group was fascinated with the piles of campaign signs along one wall, and the charts hanging on another wall that listed campaign volunteers at each polling place.

Mikhailichenko, chairman of the committee on press and information for Leningrad Oblast, gave Bennett the thumbs up on his campaign slogan, Bennett for Senate.

"That's a very good slogan," he said with a wide grin. "Does your opponent have a slogan?"

When Bennett said no, Mikhailichenko responded, "He's too young maybe in politics."

Not quite, Bennett is being challenged by Democrat, Ken

Warfield, in the November general election. Warfield has been in public service for 35 years, including 27 years in fire service in Wayne, and is serving his fourth term as mayor of that city.

Smolin asked if there were any restrictions on placing signs. "Would it be possible to put a sign on a hot air balloon or aircraft?"

Mikhailichenko and Bennett compared the average expense of elections in the United States ($500,000-$600,000) to one in St. Petersburg ($200,000).

"Is there a sentiment that campaigns are too expensive, or that they should limit the expenses?" said Irina Bayanova, head of the press service for the legislative assembly, Sverdlovsk Region, Yekaterinburg.

"Yes, the public thinks there's too much money spent on elections," said Bennett. "The only way to do that is to lessen the effect of the constitution."

Bennett explained that he's running again because he has enjoyed his time in office.

"Certainly I've enjoyed it immensely," he said. "My background is in local government. Four years ago, I was approached by people in Lansing who asked if I would consider running for this office. It was something that four years ago I didn't immediately agree to run. I discussed it with my two daughters and wife."

"It is something that is very, very stressful. It is a tremendous amount of work and it is a family obligation. My belief is that since it is a family obligation, the family would decide if I would run again."

Maybrek Vachagayev, press secretary/director of the information and analysis center of the office of the president of the Chechen Republic, Grozny, seemed surprised that neither Bennett nor his opponent were using the President Clinton-Monica Lewinsky affair as a campaign issue.

"We try to focus on issues that are important to the areas we represent," Bennett explained. "I am the one who could make that a campaign issue. We're all embarrassed by the events."

"I believe it would cheapen the win I am expected to achieve, if I used that against my opponent."

With a mischievous grin, Bayanova looked for more secrets behind a campaign.

"As a candidate, what are your major strengths and weaknesses," she asked via a translator.

"I'll tell you my strengths, but since the U.S. press is here I don't know if I want to talk about my weaknesses," he said with a nervous laugh.

He cited commitment as his strength. "I consider this a full-time job so I'm always out in the public."

Toward the end of the one-hour meeting, Bennett relented and offered one weakness.

"There are more Democrats living in my district than Republicans," he said. "Not only do I have to persuade the Republicans to vote for me, I also have to persuade the Democrats to vote for me."

"I have to work very hard. It's not a personal weakness but a challenge of the campaign."

Bennett explained that there was one Democrat whose vote he could never sway.

"My father, who passed away a year ago, was a staunch Democrat and he never approved of me being a Republican," he said.

"So he never voted for you?" Vachagayev asked.

"He lived in another state, so we never had to cross that bridge," Bennett said to rousing laughter.

about her current situation which included a separation from her husband and dealing with another one of her children who had just been diagnosed with ADHD.

The teen's face gave it all away when the therapist asked, "Mom, do you think she feels like she doesn't get much attention these days?" You would have thought the kid was going to break down in tears right there on the spot.

Kids from 2 to 20 act out the disappointment, anger and frustration of not getting enough attention in thousands of different ways. Some will shut down and become depressed, some will turn to alcohol or cigarettes, others will be defiant and snarly. If you know a child who displays any of these behaviors, you may have a child who is not getting the attention he or she needs.

In a recent USA Weekend magazine, they, too, asked the question as it pertained to school: "Does your child get enough attention in school?" In the article, they spoke to teachers who had smaller classes. The across-the-board consensus was that a smaller class size meant the teacher got to know the kids inside-out.

"It's a family feeling," says Lynn Reese, a teacher in California. With more families struggling to stay intact and with 70 percent of the parents out in the workplace, kids are getting less attention than ever.

What's it going to take to bring up a happy child? As this columnist has said many times before, happiness is the byproduct of feeling loved, competent and responsible. We cannot expect results by merely sprinkling the happiness dust on the children in this country.

But we all can play a part in this:

- Listen to your own children.
- Listen to other people's children.

- Act interested in kids that you teach or mentor.

- Praise their good works not their good looks.

- Help them find something they do well that they can be proud of.

- Make them feel they are of value.

- Reward them for doing things the right way.

- Help them make changes when they mess up, instead of making them feel worthless because they failed.

We all have a stake in this. They are the ones who will be our next leaders. An unhappy captain sets the tone for an unhappy crew.

Volunteers help restore splendor to Henry Ford Estate

BY SUZ MASON
Staff Writer
smason@ea.hometown.net

If you think cleaning a 2,000-square-foot home is the pits, imagine cleaning 20,000 square feet of living space. If caring for the rosebush makes you feel horticulturally challenged, try 15,000 of them.

That's just part of what the staff tended to when Henry and Clara Ford lived on their 300-acre Fair Lane estate in Dearborn.

Fair Lane actually is the 15th home that the Fords lived in, said Ruth Ann Melikan, at 10-year volunteer at the estate. The house has 56 rooms, six bedrooms and a maid's room and eight fireplaces.

Melikan opened up the Schoolcraft College Women's Resource Center's fall luncheon series with a look at the Fords and the estate. A retired kindergarten teacher, Melikan started as a tour guide at the estate and now trains other tour guides.

Fair Lane, situated just two miles from the farm at Ford and Greenfield roads where Henry was born, originally stretched from the Rouge River to Southfield Road and from Ford Road to Michigan Avenue. Today, the estate includes just 72 acres of the original 1,300.

Mary Mahoney Griffin, a licensed architect who studied with Frank Lloyd Wright, designed Fair Lane. She was fired because of disagreements over contractors and suppliers, and William H. Van Tine was hired, according to Melikan.

Griffin had designed a Prairie style home for the Fords, but Van Tine altered the plans to create an early English or Scottish Baronial style house.

Simple tastes

Henry Ford was proud of his simple tastes and didn't feel a need to flaunt his wealth. He cautioned the architects against building lavishly and set a limit on building costs.

"He planned to spend about $200,000, but spent $240,000 for the powerhouse alone," Melikan said. "The Fords had spent more than $2 million by the time Fair Lane was done."

Ford liked to be self-sufficient, so the estate included its own hydroelectric, refrigeration and water purification systems. Thomas Edison, who had his own bedroom at Fair Lane, was instrumental in developing the powerhouse and laid the cornerstone in 1914.

With few exceptions, the wood carving was done in place by up to 800 workmen. Rose leaf mahogany can be found in many of the rooms, which Clara decided to have painted while her husband was away.

"Two rooms were done, but Henry put his foot down with the dining room," Melikan said. "The color Clara had picked out was a Chinese red."

Noted landscape architect Jens Jensen transformed the farmland into a natural, native landscape. Included on the grounds was Clara's 10,000-plant rose garden and a 1,000-plant peony garden.

About a half dozen people worked in the residence. Technicians, stokers and electricians were always on duty in the powerhouse, but it took up to 25 to tend the grounds on a seasonal basis.

Named after the area in County Cork, Ireland, where Ford's ancestors lived, Fair Lane also included several special rooms — billiard's room, swimming pool and bowling alley.

"The Fords didn't want their son Edsel cavorting with the wrong type of people, so they added the three rooms," Melikan said. "Their planned failed. He lived with them less than a year before getting married."

The most casual place in the mansion was the field or rustic room, designed so Henry could invite friends over for an evening of old-fashioned dancing.

Change of ownership

After the Fords died, the grandchildren — "all married and millionaires living in Grosse Pointe" — sold the furnishings at auction.

The estate was purchased in 1952 by Ford Motor Co. Then in 1957, the residence, powerhouse, 210 acres and some $6 million were donated to the University of Michigan to start a Dearborn campus.

The estate was designated a national historic landmark in 1966. Tours of the estate were given briefly in the 1960s and reintroduced in the 1970s and restoration work has helped revive Fair Lane's splendor.

"We've been able to acquire some pieces of furniture back, and some rooms are more completely furnished than others," Melikan said. "The dining room is one of the most completely furnished."

For more information about tours and events at the estate, call (313) 593-5590.

The luncheon series continues on Friday, Oct. 23, when Roseanne Heppner portrays Susan B. Anthony, a leader in the women's suffrage movement. The luncheon costs $14. Doors open at 11:30 a.m., and luncheon is served at 11:45 a.m. Seating is limited, and reservations can be made through Tuesday, Oct. 20, by calling the Women's Resource Center at (734) 462-4443.

S'craft workshop explores adoption

Kayla Marie Rong Dempster has come a long way since she was found on the steps of a government building in China and adopted by Janet and Bill Dempster after 10 months in a Chinese orphanage.

Now Kayla lives in a house in Livonia; has a swing set and large wooden playhouse named "Kayla's Cottage" in the backyard and about all the toys, love and attention any girl would want. Her parents cannot imagine life without Kayla.

"She is the joy of our life," said Janet Dempster. "Bill is just a mush now."

The Dempsters are among many people who have followed the adoption route which will be the focus of an adoption exploration workshop Sunday, Nov. 8, at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

The workshop will be 1-5 p.m. in Room 200 of the McDowell Center on the college's Livonia campus, Haggerty west of Six Mile. The fee is $19.

Linda Yellin and Sharon Kaplan Roszia will deliver the keynote presentations. Yellin, a leading authority on adoption, is a therapist and consultant in Farmington Hills, specializing in pre- and post-adoption services.

Kaplan Roszia, co-author of "The Open Adoption Experience," is program director of the Kinship Alliance in Tustin, Calif., and is involved in placing special-needs children.

Representatives from a dozen agencies and parent groups will be available 4-5 p.m. for questions and guidance.

Workshop participants will learn about being ready to begin the adoption, where to start, the time and money required, what kinds of children are available, what to expect in a home study, emotional preparedness for adopting and post-adoption experiences.

For more information about the adoption workshop, or to register, call (734) 462-4448.

Dancers prove they're best in 'Quest for Best' competition

Gina Piazza of Livonia and Marilyn Esper of Farmington Hills have a good reason to celebrate. Their Piazza Dance Company in Northville Township captured top honors at the recent three-day "Quest for the Best" dance competition at the fifth annual Starquest National Performing Arts Competition.

Starquest was held in Orlando, Fla., and attracted entries from throughout the United States and Canada. To qualify for the national competition, all of the routines earned top honors at the state competition, held at Clarenceville High School. The winning routines were a musical theater number, "So Long, Dearie," and a junior large group/jazz number, "Rhythm Nation."

"So Long, Dearie" was performed by Alison Hedke, 11, of Northville and Angelina Grima, 12, and Brienne Dluzniewski, 13, both of Livonia.

"Dearie" won the sole platinum-level trophy in the junior duet/trio category and a judges' special recognition award, "Triple Threat." The special award qualified it for the "Quest for the Best" finals, where the girls won three top honors: high score in the junior duet/trio category, "The Complete Package," recognizing the combined effect of costume, choreography and performance to produce a successful result, and a choreography award, presented to Piazza for the routine.

Talent on display

"Rhythm Nation" was performed by Kim Baber, 11, Shana Baber, 13, Angelina Grima, Katie Mann, 11, Michele McClintock and Jackie Sinko, 10, all of Livonia, Emily Cummins, 13, Ashley Handley, 11, Alison Hedke, Carolyn Kirkman, 12, and Nicole Primo, all of Northville, and Stephanie Kinsman, 13, and Trisha Santoro, both of Novi.

The routine received the highest gold medal award during the first round of competition, making them one of the top five groups in the "Quest for the Best," junior large group/jazz category.

The group, minus an ill Jackie

Sinko, and performing a routine re-choreographed by Esper less than an hour before the competition, earned the second highest score in the final round.

Other kudos

Additional honors that Piazza Dance groups received during the national Starquest competition include:

■ Gold medal and seventh overall high score for "Sugar and Spice" in the junior small group/jazz. Performing were Kim Baber, Kendall Kosbe, 12, and Jackie Sinko, all of Livonia, and Rachelle Hadley, 8, and Renee Hadley, 10, both of Novi. Choreographer was Tina Garrant.

■ Gold medal and eighth overall high score for "North and South" in senior large group/tap. Deborah Rebeck Ash Principal flutist, DEBORAH REBECK ASH, emerges from the orchestral woodwind section as the soloist in the Pied Piper Fantasy. Ms Ash, winner of the 19978 National Flute Association Professional Performer's Competition, holds degrees from the University of Michigan and Olivet College. A member of the PSO since 1981, Ms Ash also performs frequently with the Ann Arbor and Greater Lansing Symphony Orchestras. As an active flute teacher, Ms Ash directs the handbell choirs at Westminster Presbyterian Church in Ann Arbor.

The Pied Piper Fantasy by John Corigliano is a real theatrical happening with costumes and off stage flutes and drums. Ms Corigliano has most cleverly modified the story to include battle scenes between the Piper and the rats causing the soloist fingers to race! Also to be performed is the familiar classic, Symphony No. 4 (Scottish) by Felix Mendelssohn. The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will open this festive concert with George Gershwin's, Cuban Overture. Originally title Rumba, the Overture was inspired by a pleasure trip Gershwin took to Havana.

Twisters lose finale

Quarterback Matt Werner completed 13 of 15 passes for 188 yards, and rushed for two touchdowns, leading the Zanesville (Ohio) Fury to a 17-9 Lake Shore Football League playoff victory over the Wayne County Twisters in a game played Saturday at Academy of Detroit (old Inkster Cherry Hill High School).

The Twisters finished the season 8-3, while the Fury advances to the LSFL championship game this weekend against the Motor City Cougars.

After a scoreless first period, the Twisters got on the board when Rob Clough blocked a punt to set up a 1-yard touchdown run by quarterback Kevin Kutch. (The point-after failed.)

Two seconds prior to the half, the Twisters' Chuck Petipas booted a 40-yard field goal to give Wayne County a 9-0 lead.

The second half, however, was all Fury.

Werner completed 10 of 12 for 159 yards and ran for TDs of 3 and 5 yards, while Kutch suffered through his worst outing of the season, completing just 11 of 46 for 187 yards.

"Our basic strength is grinding it out on the ground," Twisters general manager Glenn Brothers said. "And when you've lost the services of not only one, but two of the best tailbacks in the league, you're in real trouble."

Darius Williams was lost five weeks ago to an ankle injury and Eddie Trent went down in the opening quarter with bruised ribs.

"The Fury played a great game and they came ready," Brothers said. "We did not rise to the occasion. They are to be commended for outstanding play as well as their on-field player conduct. We wish them the best in the championship game."

Included in Piraine's total were game-winning goals against both Judson (Ill.) College and Aquinas College.

Madonna is first in the WHAC with a 10-0 conference record. The Crusaders are 12-1 overall.

Clarenceville's Ragland '1 of a kind'

BY BRAD EMONS

BEMONS@OE.HOMECOMM.NET

When the name Walter Ragland comes up at Clarenceville High School, his exploits on the football field are well documented.

A starter since his freshman year, the 6-foot-1, 200-pound senior is rewriting the Trojans' record book.

He will carry 3,567 total rushing yards into Saturday's key Metro Conference game against unbeaten Macomb Lutheran North.

Clarenceville, sporting a 5-1 record, is enjoying its best season in recent memory, and Ragland, who goes both ways (he also plays linebacker), is one of the big reasons why the Trojans are competing for a championship.

But Ragland is more than a good high school football player and wrestler.

He's a study in perseverance, a student-athlete who has beaten the odds, somebody who has become a leader at the Class C school on and off the field.

"Very sincere, rational and pretty mature for his age," is how Clarenceville football coach Chuck Donaldson describes his captain. "Morally forthright, hard working on both sides of the ball, always pays attention to detail, very focused."

Ragland's words come at you in rapid-fire delivery. He has a slight speech impediment. A hearing disorder was caused when cotton balls, lodged inside his eardrum as an infant, were later discovered and then removed.

But that doesn't stop Ragland at all in the classroom. His hearing is now normal and he carries a 3.3 grade-point average and is a member of the Student Congress.

Ragland, who just turned 19, has fulfilled a majority of his high school requirements. He attends a three-hour sociology class each Monday night at Schoolcraft Community College to get a head start at the university level.

Ragland wants to study sports medicine and play college football.

But Ragland's family situation has been anything but normal.

Born in Wisconsin, Ragland came to the Clarenceville community as an elementary school student. (As a seventh and eighth grader his middle school

Eller is stellar as Stevenson takes home WLAA title, 3-0

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

cjrisak@oe.homcomm.net

So little time, so much to do.

That's what went through the collective minds of Livonia Stevenson's soccer team when, just four games into their season, Plymouth Canton put a hurt on them. The Spartans found themselves down 3-0 with 28 minutes still to play, despite having had the majority of the good scoring opportunities over the first 52 minutes.

The lesson learned was a simple one: Don't make mistakes against a team like Canton's. Finish your opportunities and don't give up any.

Sounds great — but how does one convert a good idea into a winning solution?

Last night in the Western Lakes Activities Association championship match played at Canton, the Spartans showed that in the six weeks since that first meeting, they had indeed learned how to manage such a transformation. A swarming, suffocating defense surrendered few true scoring chances, and the offense didn't miss any opportunities in Stevenson's 3-0 blanking of Canton.

The No. 1-ranked Spartans improved to 15-1. The Chiefs slipped to 12-5-1.

So how big a role did that early-season loss play in Wednesday's lopsided Stevenson win? "I think it was very important," said Spartan junior Tom Eller. "That was the only game we lost."

It obviously affected Eller quite a bit. He was the offensive force in this game, assisting on the first goal and scoring the next two.

"You got a guy like that, it makes you look like a good coach," said Stevenson's Lars Richters. "I felt all along, (Eller's) as dynamic a player as there is out there."

He certainly looked it against Canton. A 20-minute delay due to an injury suffered by Stevenson midfielder Nick Soper (a possible ankle fracture) six minutes into the match did not slow down the Spartans. Still, chances were about equal through the first 25 minutes of play — which means there were few for either side.

STAFF PHOTO BY PAUL HURSELMANN

On the move: Livonia Stevenson's Tom Eller (right) had two goals and one assist against host Plymouth Canton in a 3-0 victory as the Spartans captured the WLAA championship.

Until, with 14:51 left in the first half, Eller and Mike White got into a game of give-and-go headers, with Eller's header to White drawing Canton keeper Doug Koontz out of the net. Once he committed, White popped a header past him to give Stevenson its first goal.

It didn't take nearly that long for the Spartans to assert themselves in the second half. The opening kick was played back to defender Jeff Budd, who sent it back up to the midfield stripe to Eller. He turned and blasted off — literally — outracing the Canton defenders who seemed to be caught flatfooted. Eller's rocket of a shot from the right side beat Koontz inside the near post, and with just 20 seconds of the second half elapsed, Stevenson was up 2-0.

And the Chiefs were deflating. "One of the things our guys were looking forward to was getting another shot at these guys," said Richters. One item in particular from that earlier loss must've weighed heavily on Stevenson: Canton won by scoring two quick goals to start the second half.

The Spartans countered by doing the same thing. Just 6:25 into the second half, Eller struck again — this time fielding a cross from Adam Coulter and, after a Chief defender slipped while trying to make a play, took a wide-open shot from 15 yards out that beat Koontz.

It was an impressive offensive performance, but it was no better than that displayed by a well-disciplined Stevenson defense. "They didn't want to get beat again, that's for sure," said Canton coach Don Smith. "We didn't get that many opportunities."

One reason for that: An altered defense. In their initial meeting, Richters — in his first year as coach — had relied on a zone defense. That changed.

"You're looking at 12 games since that time," Richters said. "We've had personnel changes, and instead of a zone defense we've gone to a man. That allows us to pay more attention to a Scott Wright."

Spartans gain 3rd, earn trip

■ GIRLS TENNIS

SPORTS WRITER

Livonia Stevenson is headed back to the state Division I girls tennis tournament in Midland.

Stevenson finished third with 17 points Saturday in the Michigan High School Athletic Association regionals.

Novi scored 22 points to top the regional and Farmington Hills Mercy was a point behind.

Finishing in the top three earned the Spartans a trip to the finals this weekend and was a tribute to the girls. The Spartans missed out on the state tournament a year ago after Coach Frank Dotson's team made the trip in 1996.

"We did a lot of rebuilding from last year," said Dotson, who lost his top two singles players and doubles teams. "We actually had to build roughly half the team."

He had to replace Whitney Crosby, now at the University of Toledo, and Megan McGlinch in singles plus his No. 1 (Anita Plante and Lindsay Pfeifer) and No. 2 doubles teams.

"They've worked very hard," Dotson said. "They've come together as a team. They finished first in the (Western Lakes Activities Association) Lakes Division and they had one loss in the conference — to Northville."

"And they battled Northville completely in the (WLAA). They're probably one of the top five teams in the state in Division II. They should do very well."

The Spartans are Division I.

Stevenson got some big help from Sara Derefolk, a foreign exchange student from Switzerland who is part of the school's global education program.

"I knew about her probably just about this time last year," Dotson said, "but I had no idea how good a player she was."

"She's just now beginning to feel comfortable on our court surface. She played primarily on clay over there."

"She's a very confident player, capable of going to the net on just about everybody."

Derefolk came from one set down in both the semifinals and finals to capture the regional title at No. 1 singles.

Sarah Pipas of Novi had Derefolk down 7-6 after one set but the Stevenson player came back to post 6-3, 6-2 victories to advance.

Kristen Palombo of Mercy took the first set, 6-4, but Derefolk

Shamrocks blank Falcons Cranes top Warriors, 26-6

It was a perfect day for the Shamrocks on Saturday as they blanked the Falcons, 26-0, at the home of the Falcons.

The Shamrocks made a strong start, scoring on a 12-yard pass from QB Tom Mearns to WR Dave Lusk. The Falcons' defense was unable to stop the Shamrocks' offense, which scored on a 14-yard pass from Mearns to Lusk. The Shamrocks' defense was also strong, stopping the Falcons' offense on several occasions.

The Shamrocks' defense was also strong, stopping the Falcons' offense on several occasions. The Falcons' offense was unable to score on several occasions, including a 17-yard pass from QB Grant Weber to WR Glenn Emons.

The win improved the Shamrocks to 5-0 overall, 3-0 in the Catholic League Central-Division West. DC fell to 3-2 overall, 1-2 in the Central West.

The Shamrocks finished with 260 yards, 225 on the ground, and 18 first downs. Senior quarterback Dave Lusk completed three of nine passes for 35 yards and was intercepted once, which ended the Shamrocks' first scoring threat inside the DC 10 yard line early in the second quarter.

A fumble recovery by CC defensive tackle Lou Willoughby at the DC 35 set up the Shamrocks' first score. Lusk completed a 21-yard pass to tight end Nick Brzezinski on second down to put the ball on the Falcons' 13 and four plays later, John Kava scored the first of his three touchdowns on a one-yard dive with 6:59 left in the half.

The Shamrocks took the second half kickoff and drove 64 yards in 14 plays, scoring on Kava's one-yard run with 4:21 left in the third quarter.

They finished the scoring with 9:52 left when Kava went over from one yard out to cap a nine-play, 63-yard drive.

Josh Moldenhauer then ripped off a 57-yard TD run for the host Warriors, but the PAT was no good as Cranbrook held on to a 14-0 lead.

In the third quarter, Patrya Sakal scored on a 6-yard run and Rose rushed for the two-point as Cranbrook took a 10-point advantage, 18-6.

The Cranes then added a two-point safety in the final quarter off a bad snap that sailed through the end zone. Cranbrook then ran for a 1-yard TD and Eric Scialowicz hit Sloan Eddieston with the two-point pass.

It's time to start thinking post-season, as in state high school football playoffs.

And Observerland should be well-represented. If Redford Catholic Central (5-0), Farmington Hills Harrison (6-0), Westland John Glenn (6-0), Redford Union (6-0) and Redford St. Agatha (6-1) continue to win.

Another strong possibility is Livonia Clarenceville (5-1), which could vault in Class CC-Region IV with a victory this week over Class B Macomb Lutheran North (6-0) in a Metro Conference battle.

As far as last week's picks go, both Dan O'Meara and myself correctly picked 12 of 15 games.

O'Meara leads the season-long prognostication battle with a 67-21 record, two games ahead of yours truly at 65-23.

Here is a look at the weekend action:

FRIDAY'S GAMES

(all at 7:30 p.m. unless noted)

Red. Thurston (4-2, 3-2) at Highland Park (2-4, 2-3): The Eagles crash-landed in a 40-14 setback to Melvindale last week, while Highland Park was getting thrashed by unbeaten Redford Union, 53-18. Thurston's secondary could be vulnerable again because the Polar Bears' Irvin Johnson had 222 yards in catches and three TDs vs. RU. PICKS: Thurston gets back on the winning track.

N. Farmington (1-5, 0-4) at Westland Glenn (6-0, 4-0): The Rockets clinched another Lakes Division title last week in a 28-19 win over Plymouth Salem. North, a 39-22 victim to Walled Lake Central, can score points, but can't hold defensively even though Amran Gowani made 19 tackles. PICKS: Glenn gets ready for Harrison.

River Rouge (1-5, 0-5) at Redford Union (6-0, 4-0), 7 p.m.: The Panthers were glad to have quarterback Matt Rigley back in the lineup and running back Mike Maccek relieved the pressure with 210 yards in 24 carries in a 53-18 win over Highland Park. Rouge is coming off a 12-6 loss to Dearborn Heights Annapolis, which happened to be former Lutheran Westland coach Scott Wiemer's first win of the year. PICKS: RU makes it seven straight.

F.H. Harrison (6-0, 4-0) at Liv. Churchill (2-4, 1-3): Playing Walled Lake Western and No. 1-ranked Farmington Hills Harrison is not fun, but Churchill made it respectable last week in a 22-0 loss to Western. Harrison, a 49-0 winner over Plymouth Canton, continues to rack up the points. PICKS: Harrison puts the peddle to the metal.

Liv. Franklin (0-6, 0-4) at Ply. Canton (1-5, 1-3): The Patriots are coming off successive heartbreaking 10-7 defeats (Churchill and Northville). Harrison ruined any Canton momentum by routing the Chiefs, 49-0. Canton's only win is a 27-7 triumph over Northville. PICKS: Emons says the Patriots win their first game of 1998, but O'Meara goes with the host Chiefs.

Liv. Stevenson (2-4, 1-3) at W.L. Central (2-4, 2-2): Could be an even matchup. Stevenson, coming off a 19-3 loss to Farmington, must avoid turnovers. Central has been a Jekyll and Hyde outfit. Last week the Vikings beat North, 39-22. PICKS: Stevenson rebounds, both agree.

Wayne (4-2, 3-2) at Wyandotte (2-4, 1-4): The Zebras were outmatched last week by Mega-Red leader Dearborn, falling behind 30-0 at halftime before losing 30-0. Wyandotte notched its first Mega-Red Division triumph with a 46-14 over winless Southgate as senior tailback Dustin Powers rushed for 232 yards on 29 carries. PICKS: Wayne squeaks out a win.

Garden City (2-4, 1-4) at Tay. Kennedy (0-6, 0-4): The Cougars blanked Taylor Truman last week, 11-0, while Kennedy dropped its sixth straight against Dearborn Edsel Ford, 37-6. The Cougars have a good shot at making it two straight. PICKS: GC does it again.

SATURDAY GAMES

(all at 1 p.m. unless noted)

Ply. Salem (3-3, 2-2) at Farmington (3-3, 3-1): Second place in the Lakes Division is at stake with the winner taking on Walled Lake Western in the Western Lakes crossover. Farmington has been a surprise. The Falcons' Grant Weber figured in all three TDs last week in a 19-3 victory over Stevenson. Salem, which gave Glenn a test before losing 28-19, must control the ball to win. PICKS: Emons goes with Salem, but O'Meara rides with the Falcons.

St. Agatha (5-1) at B.H. Cranbrook (2-4): The Aggies, second in Class D-Region IV, will get a stiff test from the Cranes, a Class BB school from the Metro Conference. The Aggies, a game behind Dearborn St. Alphonsus in the Catholic League D-Section, took care of business last week by defeating Wyandotte Mount Carmel, 29-7. Cranbrook beat winless Lutheran Westland, 26-6. PICKS: Cranbrook steals a victory, Emons says, but O'Meara likes the Aggies.

Hamtramck (4-2, 3-2) at Luth. Westland (0-6, 0-5): The Cosmos, with speed to burn, lost last week to Clarenceville in a wild shootout, 52-40. Lutheran Westland stayed with Cranbrook for a half before losing 26-6. PICKS: The Cosmos become cosmic again.

Clarenceville (5-1, 4-1) at Macomb Luth. North (6-0, 6-0): This is Clarenceville's season in a nutshell. The Trojans have the offense, but can they stop Lutheran North running back Andrew Sics? Last week, North edged Harper Woods in a battle of Metro Conference underdogs, 18-15, on Tim Gill's 30-yard field goal as time expired. Turnovers hurt Harper Woods. PICKS: North wraps up the Metro Conference championship.

Bishop Borgess (3-3, 2-1) vs. S'gate Aquinas (4-2, 3-0) at Garden City Jr. High, 7 p.m.: The Spartans, 60-0 winners over Detroit Benedictine last week, can keep their hopes alive in the Tri-Sectional by upsetting co-leader Aquinas. The Raiders are coming off a less-than-impressive 14-7 win over 1-5 Allen Park Cabrini. PICKS: Borgess does it again, Emons says; but O'Meara goes with Aquinas.

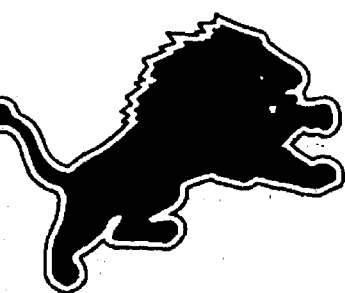

Redford CC (5-0, 3-0) vs. Warren DeLaSalle (3-3, 1-1), 7 p.m. at Roseville Memorial: Can anybody remember the last time the Pilots beat CC? It was 1994. Warren DeLaSalle is a formidable foe after nearly beating Orchard Lake St. Mary last week. The Pilots gave up an 80-yard TD drive in the final minutes as the Eagles rallied for a 19-15 triumph. CC is coming off a 21-0 shutout over Dearborn Divine Child as linebacker Casey Rogowski returned to the lineup and running back Kyle Entsminger rolled up 152 yards in 29 carries. PICKS: CC rules the roost.

His natural father (Walter), whom he has little contact with, lives in Georgia, while his remarried mother (Ruth Ann DeBot) recently moved to Flint. He is of mixed race. His father is black, his mother is white.

Ragland and his sister Karriann now live with Jeff and Keitha Cowen. The Keithas have two children, Alex and Andrea.

Ragland also spent time with the Hernandez family before moving in with the Cowens.

"My daughter (Andrea) and Karriann are good friends and when Karriann moved in with us in September she missed having her brother around," Keitha Cowen said. "Walter's mother had just moved into a trailer near Flint.

"My husband and I just hated to see them move away from their friends and school-mates, along with all the activities they'd be missing together their senior year. Walter's family was having a tough time. We're a Christian loving family and we felt the right thing to do was let Walter stay with us, too. Walter moved in two days later."

Ironically, Karriann and Andrea Cowen, escorted by Walter, both stood on Clarenceville's homecoming court.

"My husband and I agreed we'd let them stay here until they graduated and got their high school education taken care of," Keitha Cowen said. "His mother works in Farmington and she stays here with us some nights."

"It's worked out."

Ragland's mother attends most of Walter's games and school functions. During Clarenceville's homecoming game, his uncle Robert and aunt Lillian drove over from Sullivan, Wis. and watched the Trojans score a 49-12 win as Walter rushed for 152 yards on 14 carries. His grandfather David Whitney, who revived Ragland as a 5-year-old when his heart momentarily stopped while swimming, also was in the stands.

When Ragland is asked who his favorite football player is, there's no hesitation: "Barry Sanders."

Why, the reporter asks. "Because he doesn't showboat," Walter says. "He just does his job and is a great athlete. He doesn't hoot and holler, he just holds it back. But don't get me wrong, I can get excited."

But most who know Ragland say he's quiet, reserved and polite.

"He's never stepped over the boundaries," Keitha Cowen said. "The rules around here are you don't drink, you don't smoke or screw around."

"He's dedicated, very hard-working and sets goals," Clarenceville principal Dave Simowski calls Ragland "one of those rare kids that only comes along once in a lifetime."

"He's had a rough way to go and has overcome some obstacles," Simowski said. "He's just a role model for students. He's always prepared for the task at hand, very focused. He is truly a role model, the type of behavior you want in a high school. The person you see is the person you get. He's 100 percent consistent day after day."

When Simowski asked for seniors to help volunteer in a mentoring program for freshman, Ragland was the first to sign up.

"You can see it in a kid like Tim Shaw, a football player who has been mentored by Walter," Simowski said. "He's shown him so many things about how to prepare and train, and it's paid off. He (Shaw) is of the same ilk."

Like Sanders, Ragland remains modest, almost to the point of being shy.

"He's not an outspoken individual," Donaldson said. "He just leads by example, not by word of mouth. Sometimes I'd wish he'd speak up more."

Adds Simowski: "With all the skills and success he's had, you'd think his hat size would keep growing. But he's more appreciative than anything else.

"I have a sixth-grade son of my own and I want him to be like Walter, not the athlete, but the person."

Ragland also acts as a big brother and mentor to Alex Cowen.

"My son likes to brag to his friends that he knows the big jock in the high school," Keitha Cowen said. "And he loves to go to the football games. He just loves being around Walter."

Rooted in his faith, Ragland regularly attends Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Novi, but sometimes participates with the youth group Sunday evenings at Clarenceville United Methodist where the Cowens attend.

Meanwhile, with three games left in the season, Ragland has a chance to break the 4,000-yard mark for his career.

So far in 1998 he has 854 yards in 111 carries. As a junior he rushed for 1,554 yards and 17 touchdowns.

"Walter's the number one guy the opponents have to stop and the yards are sometimes tough to come by," Donaldson said. "But he's still having a pretty good season regardless. This year he's much stronger, but he's also more elusive as far as getting around guys."

Schools such as Ferris State, Toledo and Western Michigan have expressed interest in Ragland. This summer he prepared for the season by attending summer football camps at Toledo and Central Michigan, along with a wrestling camp at Olivet College.

Ragland can only wonder had he not returned for his senior year at Clarenceville. He is thankful what could have been adverse situation worked out for the good.

"I wanted to stay here and I'm glad I stayed here, we all get along pretty well," Ragland said. "And I like the camaraderie on the team."

Trade benefits 7-1 Whalers

Adam Colagiacomo has turned out to be quite an acquisition for the Plymouth Whalers.

The 6-foot-2, 203-pound right winger had 11 points over the weekend, six goals and five assists in three Whaler victories, to earn Ontario Hockey League Player-of-the-Week honors.

The Whalers, a 7-0 winner Sunday over the host Windsor Spitfires, lead the OHL's West Division with a 7-1 record.

Colagiacomo, a Toronto native and 1997 fourth-round pick of the San Jose Sharks, was traded to Plymouth over the summer by the Oshawa Generals. He is currently second in the OHL with 19 points.

Teammate Harold Druken, a second-round pick of Vancouver, leads the OHL with nine goals and 11 assists.

Before an announced crowd of 1,650 fans on the eve of Canada's Thanksgiving, Whalers goaltender Scott Holsinger made 17 saves to post the shutout.

Colagiacomo, Shaun Fisher, Troy Smith, James LaLonde,

OHL REPORT

David Legwand and Druken each scored goals.

Before 3,674 fans Saturday night at Compuware Sports Arena, Colagiacomo's hat trick gave the Whalers a 7-2 win.

Other goal scorers included Fisher, LaLonde, Smith and Kris Vernasky, the Whalers' 1998 No. 1 pick.

Don Cherry's expansion team, the Mississauga IceDogs, fell Friday to host Plymouth, 9-1, as Colagiacomo had two goals and four assists, while Legwand, a first-round pick of the Nashville Predators, added two goals and three assists.

In the midst of an 11-game road trip, the Ice Dogs fell to 0-5 in the OHL.

The Whalers return to action against the Erie Otters Friday at home. They will also host Barrie on Saturday at Compuware. Both game times are 7:30 p.m.

Toledo gets CC's Moore

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER
skowalski@homecomm.net

Redford Catholic Central senior guard Nick Moore has made a verbal commitment to attend the University of Toledo.

The Rockets finished 15-12 overall with a 10-8 record in the Mid-American Conference last year under coach Stan Joplin, a former UT standout.

Moore, a first-team All-Observer choice the last two years, also strongly considered the University of Wisconsin of the Big Ten. He made an official visit to the Madison, Wisc. campus the second weekend of September and turned down the

BOYS HOOPS

Badgers' scholarship offer after visiting Toledo over Labor Day Weekend.

Northwestern offered Moore a scholarship over the summer but it was given to another guard before Moore had a chance to make a visit.

"I got the feeling from the Toledo coaches that they wanted me more than any other coaches," Moore said. "Especially when the head coach wants you so much. That's got to be a good thing."

"The campus isn't too big or too small, everything is compact.

There's not much walking to get to classes."

Moore's host was 6-foot-8 sophomore forward Greg Stempin, a former Harper Woods Notre Dame all-stater who averaged 9.2 points and 5.0 rebounds in making the MAC all-freshman team.

"He's a lot stronger - the college game has built him up a little bit," Moore said. "This is supposed to be a big year for him."

The Rockets' colors are blue and gold which are similar to the colors worn by Moore's favorite football team: The University of Michigan. Moore's allegiance is to the UT basketball program but the football team that will always be No. 1 with him wears maize and blue.

"I told (UT assistant) coach (Tony) Jones no matter where I go to school I'll always be a U-M football fan," Moore said.

Moore carries a 3.5 grade point average and scored 22 on the ACT, scores that not only make him eligible but put him among the upper echelon of basketball recruits.

"I told myself I'd take it over (the ACT) unless I got a 25," Moore said. "But I'll stay at 22. I hate taking it, it takes so long."

Moore's mother, Deborah, likes the idea of him playing so close to home.

"She definitely likes it," Moore said. "She is able to come down and see all the games."

Moore is the Shamrocks' second player in a year to earn a Division I college scholarship. Former CC center Chris Young is a freshman at the University of Michigan.

"Nick was their primary recruit, and he's a solid kid," CC coach Rick Coratti said. "He's really been shooting the ball well over the summer and he gets the ball to open people."

Regional tennis

repeated her 6-3, 6-2 comeback to win the championship match.

"She gets a very high percentage of first serves in," Dotson said. "She's extremely competitive and a very nice young lady."

"She's made the cultural adjustment very well and she's very well liked by both students and adults. She's a unique person."

The Spartans had three second-place finishes in both the regionals and the WLA conference meet.

Mara Mazzoni was runner-up in the regionals at No. 3 singles, Kelly Ross was second in No. 4 singles and Stevenson's No. 2 doubles team of Julie Yambasky and Jeanette Fershtman reached their final match.

Mazzoni earned a hard-fought 3-6, 6-3, 7-6 (7-0) victory over rival Lauren West of Northville to win No. 3 singles in the WLA meet.

"She earned her fourth varsity letter," Dotson said. "She lost twice in the conference - playing a sport that's her second love. Golf is her first love; she's an excellent golfer."

"She's very, very competitive. She beat West after having lost to her the previous Friday in a very close dual meet match. She felt and I felt she could have won that match."

Ross made the WLA finals at No. 4 singles, Stephanie Ladd and Kim Samsel were runners-up at No. 1 doubles.

The Yambasky-Fershtman tandem made the No. 2 doubles finals, Mariam Paul and Janice Tanzo were finalists at No. 3 doubles and the No. 4 doubles combo of Jamie Perrin and Kristin Walter were second.

Warriors' Metro title bid denied

A deflected goal with just 1:54 left in the match Tuesday gave host Macomb Lutheran North a 1-0 victory over Lutheran High Westland in a battle for the Metro Conference championship.

Both teams are state-ranked.

The loss drops Lutheran Westland to 10-3-2 overall.

It was North's second straight 1-0 triumph over the Warriors.

"Our guys played their hearts out and they should learn a lot about themselves from this game," Lutheran Westland coach Rich Block said.

Goalkeeper Andrew Gleeman made nine saves. The shots were 10-8.

"We had some good chances," Block said. "I thought the whole team played well from Mike Randall, Ryan Ollinger and Brian Woehke in the middle, to Jason Davis, Brad Nollan and Jason Davis in the back."

Goalkeepers Steve Kleczynski (Churchill) and Jeremy Finlay (Salem) each made eight saves.

"In the first half we had quite a few opportunities," said Churchill coach Chad Campeau, whose team is 1-4-2 in its last seven games. "I'm extremely pleased. The defensive effort was strong."

On Friday, Churchill and host Ann Arbor Pioneer battled to a 2-2 draw.

JOHN GLENN 2, FRANKLIN 2: In another WLAAC crossover Monday, host Livonia Franklin (5-10-3) scored with three minutes to go to earn a tie with Westland John Glenn (6-7-3).

Dave Moldovan's goal from Ryan Knecht gave the Patriots the tie. Glenn led 2-1 at halftime.

Junior Matt Trussler's goal from senior Adam McGahan gave the Rockets a 1-0 lead, but Franklin's Ken Tamonis scored on an indirect free kick touch from Moldovan.

McGahan gave Glenn a one-goal halftime lead on an assist from Jeff Ruppel.

Franklin coach Dave Hebestreit also singled out the play of Ross Bohrer.

LUTHERAN EAST 3, CLARENCEVILLE 2 (2 OTs): Livonia Clarenceville nearly gained its first win of the year, but host Harper Woods Lutheran East scored in the final minute of the second overtime in a Metro Conference play consolation game.

Quincy Choi tallied the Trojans' first goal from Brian Pankow.

Pankow then scored from Steve Shaw.

COLLEGIATE SOCCER

Madonna continues WHAC stranglehold on 1st place

Madonna University's men's soccer team solidified its No. 1 position in the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference with a pair of 4-0 wins over league rivals Concordia College on Monday and Aquinas College on Saturday.

The Fighting Crusaders, ranked 23rd in the last NAIA poll, improved to 12-3 overall, 10-0 in the WHAC.

In the win over Concordia Saturday in Adrian, Madonna scored four second-half goals to pull away. Two of those came from Ryan Mollien (Livonia); Charlie Bell added a goal and three assists. Other goal-scorers were Vic Rodopolous (Livonia Franklin) and Lael Bryant (Canton). Dave Hart made three saves in goal to earn the shutout.

In the victory over Aquinas Saturday at Madonna, Hart was tested twice as much (he made six saves) but was just as effective in earning the shutout. Rodopolous, Adam Purcell, James Catlett and Sam Piraine scored goals for the Crusaders.

Ocelots win twice

In what coach Van Dimitriou called "our best performance of the year so far," Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team edged

MEN'S ROUNDUP

Saginaw Valley State 1-0 at SC.

"This was a very, very good team," said Dimitriou of his Ocelots, who defeated Lakeland (Ohio) CC 3-1 last Saturday in Lakeland. "For us to shut them out is a major accomplishment. Our defense sparkled."

Shannon Lamb (Livonia Stevenson) scored the game's only goal, on an assist from Ryan Konley (Plymouth Salem) following a restart. Eric O'Neil (Livonia Stevenson) earned the shutout, his seventh of the season.

The win improved SC's record to 14-3 overall.

Last Saturday, the Ocelots got two first-half goals from Matt Nyholm and rode that to a win over Lakeland. Bart Mays (Livonia Stevenson) assisted on the first, crossing the ball to Nyholm in the air; Nyholm trapped it and knocked it in to make it 1-0. Konley assisted on Nyholm's second goal, finding him on the right side of the net and sliding the ball to him.

Mike Minicilli got the third goal of the match for SC, with Dave Lotarsky assisting, to make it 3-0.

Lady Crusaders close, but fall

Once again, Madonna University's women's soccer team — playing its first season — came close, but couldn't collect a win.

Last Saturday in Adrian, the Lady Crusaders played host Siena Heights to a standstill for a half, but gave up a second half goal in losing 2-1.

The game was tied at 1-1 at halftime, with Jamie Scott netting the only Crusader goal, on an assist from Karen Kozlo. Jennifer Dumm and Jenny Barker (Livonia Stevenson) split time in goal, Dumm making eight saves and Barker six; each surrendered a goal.

On Tuesday, the results were less favorable for Madonna against visiting Aquinas College. The Saints scored twice in the first half and three more times in the second to post a 5-0 shutout victory.

All the goal-scoring came from two sources: Amy Panse scored three goals and Kim Eager two. Eager also had one assist; Pam Bierczynski had two. Dumm was in goal for the Crusaders, making 10 saves.

WOMEN'S ROUNDUP

Madonna fell to 0-9-1 overall, 0-8-1 in the WHAC. Aquinas is 10-3 overall and a perfect 9-0 in the WHAC.

SCHOOLCRAFT NOTES: The Schoolcraft College women's team was supposed to play Saturday at Manchester (Ohio) College, but the host school forfeited.

The Lady Ocelots moved up in the NJCAA rankings to No. 8; they play two tough opponents this weekend in Moraine Valley and College of DuPage in the Kick-Off Classic Tournament at SC.

The Lady Ocelots play DuPage at 1 p.m. Saturday and Moraine Valley at 11 a.m. Sunday; DuPage and St. Mary's College play at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, with St. Mary's going against Moraine Valley at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

Crusaders overcome shortages, win 3 of 5

VOLLEYBALL

The start was fast. Unfortunately, so was the finish.

Madonna University's volleyball team won its first three matches at last weekend's University of Michigan-Dearborn Tournament, with relative expediency.

But then they got derailed, losing a five-game match to Mt. Vernon Nazarene and four-game set to host Michigan-Dearborn.

The Crusaders opened the tourney Friday with a 15-5, 15-3, 15-9 triumph over Marian (Ind.) College.

Erin Cunningham led the attack with nine kills; Brandy Malewski (from Redford Thurston) added six kills, three solo blocks and eight block assists, and Stephanie Uballo had five kills, three solo blocks and 12 block assists. Jennie Wind, filling in for injured setter Deanne Helsom (knee), collected 24 assists to kills and a team-best eight digs.

Madonna then met Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference rival Spring Arbor and won, 15-10, 9-15, 15-4, 15-10. Malewski had 13 kills, 10 digs, two solos and 10 block assists; Nicole Burns contributed 10 kills and 10 block assists; Uballo had 10 kills; Wind had 49 assists to kills and 10 digs; and Marylu Hemme (Livonia Ladywood), Jennifer Russell and Rayna Vert each had 11 digs. Hemme also had two service aces, while Vert had eight kills.

The Crusaders opened Saturday's portion of the tournament well enough, beating Tusculum University easily, 15-4, 15-4, 15-5.

Malewski totaled 16 kills, one solo and 11 block assists to lead the attack; Hemme's nine digs paced the defense; and Wind got 36 assists to kills and three service aces.

After that, however, they began to slip. Mt. Vernon Nazarene topped Madonna 15-9, 13-15, 15-5, 13-15, 15-5, despite 15 kills, 12 digs, two solos and four block assists from Malewski; 14 kills, three service aces and 19 digs from Cunningham; 22 digs from Russell; seven kills and 19 digs from Vert; and 48 assists to kills and 21 digs from Wind.

The host Wolves then bested the Crusaders 15-10, 12-15, 15-10, 15-12. Madonna was forced to use Hemme, a freshman, at setter after Wind hyper-extended her knee. Cunningham led Madonna with 23 kills and eight digs; Malewski had six kills, three aces, eight digs, two solos and nine block assists; Vert got four kills, nine digs, five solos and three block assists; Burns had eight digs, one solo and eight block assists; Russell had 10 digs; and Hemme totaled 42 assists to kills, six digs, one solo and 10 block assists.

On Tuesday, Wind was back in the lineup and Madonna was back to its winning ways, defeating WHAC rival Tri-State University 11-15, 15-8, 15-6, 15-8 at Madonna.

The Crusaders are 24-6 overall and 7-0 mark in the WHAC. Tri-State is 7-18 overall, 3-4 in the conference.

Uballo's 19 kills paced the offense; she also had six block assists. Malewski contributed 13 kills, two aces, 11 digs, four solos and 12 block assists; Cunningham had eight kills, four aces, two solos and 10 block assists; Vert collected seven kills, 11 digs, two solos and six block assists; Donna Birkenhimer had two solos and nine block assists; and Wind totaled 43 assists to kills and six block assists.

Lady Ocelots shut out

A trip to the Jefferson County (Mo.) Community College Tournament last weekend wasn't too successful for Schoolcraft College. The Lady Ocelots lost all six of their matches, managing to win just two games in that span.

The six losses dropped SC's overall match record to 9-16.

In its opening match, the Ocelots lost to host Jefferson 15-9, 9-15, 15-2. After that came defeats to Utah Valley 15-3, 15-10; ICC 15-12, 15-5; Miami-Dade 15-5, 15-5; Barton CC 15-6, 15-8; and Johnson County CC 15-13, 13-15, 15-7.

Tournament leaders were Megan McGinty (Livonia Churchill) with 42 kills, four service aces, 43 digs, two solo blocks and 11 block assists; Kelly Johnston (Plymouth Salem) with 37 kills and 43 digs; Cindy Maloof with four aces, 41 digs, one solo and nine block assists; Melisan Plave with five aces, 32 digs and five block assists; and Danielle Wensing (Livonia Franklin) with five aces, 97 assists and 41 digs.

Blazers surprise; Dulz's 31 lifts LS

In three years, Andrea Gorski has accomplished several feats as coach of the Livonia Ladywood girls basketball team.

But one thing she had yet to do was lead the Blazers to victory over Redford Bishop Borgess.

That changed Tuesday as Ladywood defeated host Borgess 52-45 behind clutch free throw shooting down the stretch.

The Spartans had cut the Ladywood lead to 44-41 with 1:40 remaining, but two free throws by Michelle Harakas and four more by Erin Hayden staved off the Borgess comeback.

"The team didn't panic and remained focused tonight," Gorski said. "We were able to limit out turnovers and we shot well from the free throw line. We were finally able to play a complete game."

"I've been telling the team that they will improve because there are so many young players on the team. We also have a favorable part of our schedule coming up with two straight home games."

Harakas, a sophomore forward, tallied a game-high 18 points and grabbed eight rebounds. Hayden, a senior guard added 10 points.

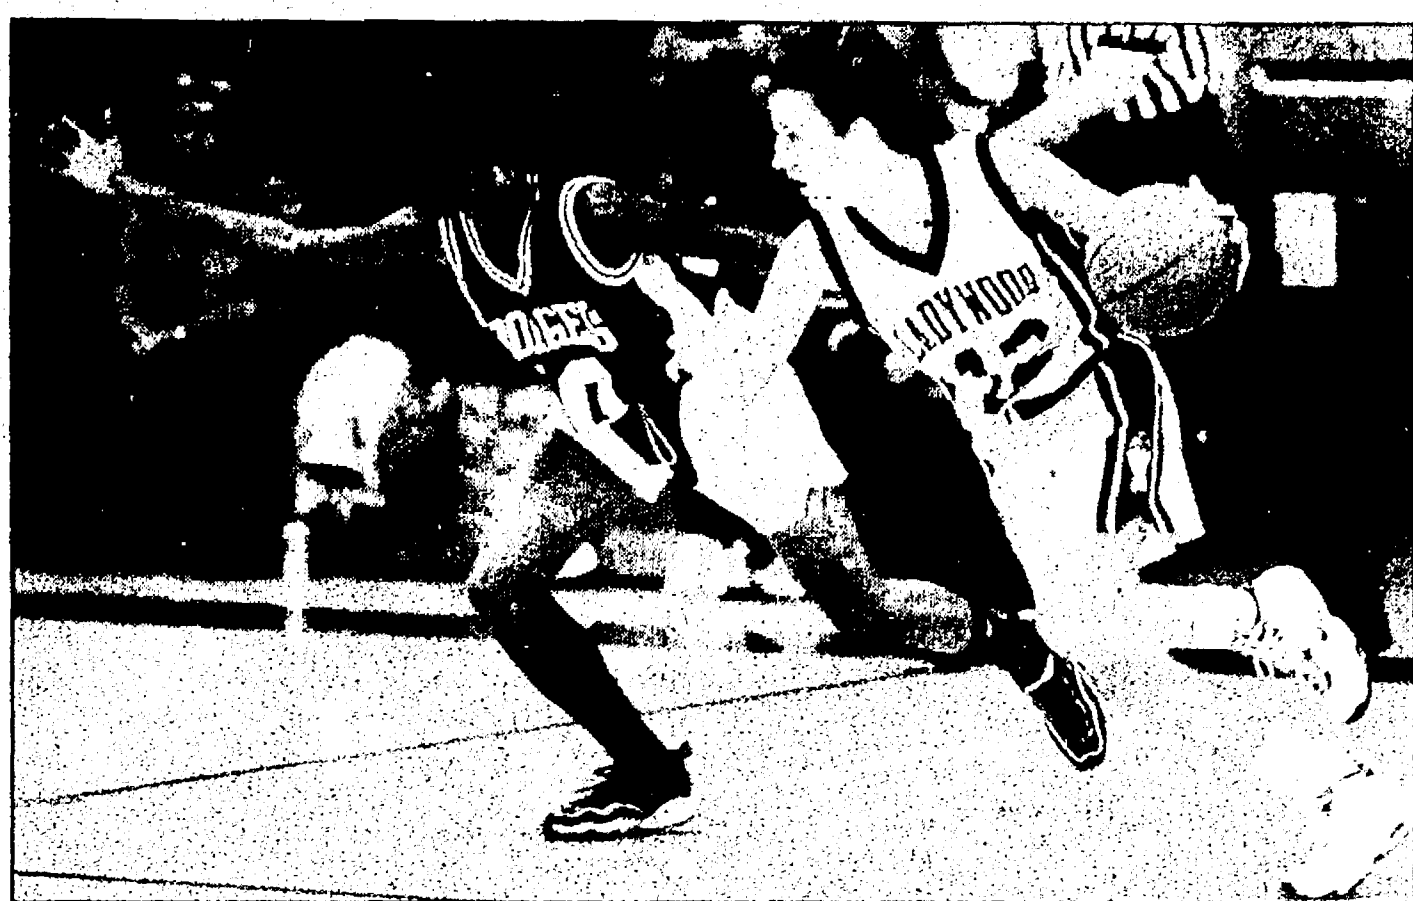

Perhaps the biggest spark of the game came from senior forward Elena Sventickas, who scored a career-high 12 points. She recorded two baskets and added a pair of free throws in a crucial third quarter stretch when the Blazers extended a 25-23 lead into a 40-33 advantage.

Another key for Ladywood was the tough defense played on senior guard Tiffany Simon. The Borgess star scored 11 points in the first quarter, but was held scoreless in the next three periods.

"She started off strong and we switched to a box-and-one which shut her down," Gorski said. "Erin did a fantastic job covering her."

Sophomore guard Michelle Catchings led the Spartans with 12 points.

Ladywood shot 47 percent from the floor (18-of-38) and 76 percent from the line (16-of-21). The Spartans were 40 percent from the field (18-of-45) and 80 percent from the free throw stripe (8-of-10).

The Blazers improved to 5-8 overall and 2-6 in the Catholic League. Borgess slipped to 6-6 overall and 3-4 in the league.

JOHN GLENN 44, FRANKLIN 37: Westland John Glenn evened its record to 3-3 in the Western Lakes Activities Association with its win Tuesday at Livonia Franklin.

The Rockets (6-5 overall) rallied from a three-point deficit in the second quarter to take a 27-23 halftime lead and never look back.

Junior forward Samantha Crews led Glenn with 11 points. Freshman guard Stephanie Crews and junior forward LaToya Chandler added eight points apiece.

Junior forward Tera Morrill's game-high 13 points led the Patriots (1-9 overall, 1-6 in the WLAA). Kerstin Marshall and Andrea McMillian chipped in with eight each.

Neither team shot well at the free throw line, as Glenn converted only six-of-12 attempts and Franklin made five-of-12 tries.

CHURCHILL 56, FARMINGTON 20: The host Chargers got balanced scoring and a quick start Tuesday to knock off the Falcons.

Kersten Conklin led all scorers with 14 for Livonia Churchill. Lauren Ruprecht had 12 plus 6 rebounds. Nikkie Lewis scored 7 and Kristin Leszczynski came off the bench to score 6.

Beth Jaeger's 10 points paced Farmington. The Falcons (1-11) are now winless in six WLAA games arm while the Chargers (7-5) squared their WLAA mark at 3-3.

Churchill roared out to a 20-2 lead and it was 38-10 at the half.

STEVENSON 64, W.L. WESTERN 37: Forward Stephanie Dulz had a big Tuesday night and so did Livonia Stevenson.

The senior poured in 31 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to key the visiting Spartans' WLAA victory.

"In the first quarter," Stevenson coach Wayne Henry said, "Dulz had 16 of her points. That had something to do with us getting off to a good start."

"Obviously she was doing the right thing — and the rest of the team was doing right thing and getting her the ball."

The Spartans (8-4, 3-3) put a 25-11 crunch on the Warriors (1-11, 1-5) in the opening quarter and maintained the margin at the half. Stevenson outscored Walled Lake Western in each of the final two periods.

Junior forward Katie King and sophomore guard Lindsay Guskic scored nine points apiece for the Spartans. Stevenson made 9-of-14 free throws while Western made 6-of-9.

Walled Lake got 13 points from forward Heather Gibson and 12 from forward Kim Schriever.

WOODHAVEN 60, WAYNE 54: Woodhaven spotted the host team eight points at the start of the game Tuesday and recovered to win the Michigan Mega Conference crossover game.

Wayne, a Red Division member, is still missing guard Sarah Moore, out with a burn on her hand, and made some costly turnovers during the game.

Guard Lorianne Tschirhart scored 26 for Woodhaven with Katie Martin adding 10. Woodhaven, 5-0 in the Mega White, is now 7-4 overall.

Tonya Crawford played her usual strong game for Wayne Memorial, scoring 22 points and hauling down 15 rebounds.

Center Beth Molitor contributed 10 and sophomore guard Ericka Davis 7 for the Zebras. 2-3 in the Mega Red and 3-8 overall.

Wayne took advantage of its 8-0 start to take a 17-13 lead after one quarter but Woodhaven came back to forge a 32-27 halftime lead.

The Zebras fought back to tie, 41-41, after three periods.

GIRLS HOOPS

Westland Huron Valley Lutheran trailed, 19-18, at the half Tuesday but outscored Taylor Baptist Park, 9-6, in the third quarter and 18-15 in the fourth to up its record to 3-9 after the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference crossover game. Baptist Park is now 2-8.

Junior forward Stacie Graves led Huron Valley with 23 points, junior forward Jessie Cherundolo had 8 and sophomore guard Rachel Zahn 7.

Freshman Stephanie Demos scored 12 points to lead Baptist Park.

Huron Valley made 16-of-33 free throws to 9-of-10 for Baptist Park.

LUTH. WESTLAND 30, LIGGETT 27: Lutheran Westland scored only two points in the third quarter Tuesday night, so coach Ron Gentz wasn't sure a comeback was possible against Grosse Pointe University Liggett with the deficit nine and just 2:44 remaining.

Until then, Lutheran Westland had scored only 18 points in 30 minutes. Gentz called a timeout and was about to concede victory when assistant coach Donna Strang changed his mind.

Wholesale substitutions would have to wait.

The Warriors came out of the timeout an inspired team and scored the game's last 12 points to win 30-27.

"I didn't think we had a prayer but the girls played real solid man-to-man defense, made shots they didn't make earlier and just didn't quit," Gentz said.

Senior forward Kari Charles' basket with 22 seconds left put the Warriors ahead 28-27.

Lutheran Westland's Sharon Greer recorded a steal to end Liggett's next possession. The ball ended up in Anna Rolf's hands and after a Liggett foul, Rolf made two free throws to seal the win.

Rolf, a junior guard, led the Warriors with eight points. Senior forward Anna Schwewe contributed seven points, Charles six and junior forward Sarah Marody five.

The win raises Lutheran Westland's record to 10-2 overall, 9-0 in the Metro Conference. University-Liggett fell to 4-8 overall, 4-5 in the Metro.

LUTHERAN EAST 36, CLARENCEVILLE 21: Host Harper Woods Lutheran East took a five-point lead after the first quarter Tuesday and eased to the Metro Conference win.

Danielle Sledz led Livonia Clarenceville with 6 points and Christina Skrela had 7 rebounds. The Trojans are 1-9 overall, winless in eight Metro games.

Christina Jaranowski paced all scorers with 13 points for Lutheran East, which led 16-10 at the half. The margin was 26-17 after three periods.

Pumpkin painting workshop set

Rows of round, ripe Halloween pumpkins will have new faces bestowed upon them as McFarland Florist of Farmington Hills and Detroit kicks off its Sixth Annual Halloween Pumpkin Painting Workshop Saturday.

Kids of all ages (adults too) are invited to the hands-on workshop at McFarland's, 28915 Grand River near Eight Mile (four blocks east of Middlebelt) in Farmington Hills.

Two sessions — at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. — of painting are planned. Cost is $5 for materials, pumpkin, painting lesson, supplies and goodies for each participant. The pumpkin paints are water-based, non-toxic acrylics and offer a selection of bright colors.

Mary Lore, McFarland's president and "artist-in-residence" will help participants create and paint personalized Halloween pumpkins. Before the painting begins, Lore presents a color chart and gives brief demonstration on creating custom colors.

"We don't use patterns or outlines for our pumpkins," says Lore. "We help participants visualize, then create their own unique pumpkin. Some children paint faces, others cover the entire pumpkin in paint. It's the anticipation of what they'll decide to do that makes it so exciting. We all have a great time."

Lore reminds participants to wear clothing appropriate for painting.

Reservations are required and groups are welcome. Call (248) 474-0750 for more information and to register for the workshop.

McFarland, an award-winning florist and specialty garden shop in Farmington Hills, is celebrating its 70th year in business this year.

Young artists: Kids of all ages are invited to paint a pumpkin on Saturday at McFarland Florist, 28915 Grand River, four block east of Middlebelt, Farmington Hills.

Ozone Action days end

The Clean Air Coalition of Southeast Michigan reports that the end of its 1998 season blew in Sept. 30, along with cool autumn weather. The lower temperatures and increased wind speeds of the season mean that the seven-county region's ground-level ozone concentrations will stay well below levels of concern for public health.

In 1998, a new, more-stringent air quality standard from the federal Environmental Protection Agency changed the way meteorologists identify "Ozone Action" days.

The revision set the acceptable level of ozone in the air at 85 parts per billion (ppb) over an eight-hour period, much tougher than the old standard of 125 ppb over a one-hour period. EPA sought to protect the most susceptible populations: children, elderly people and people with respiratory conditions.

"In terms of Ozone Action, the new standard means we have to work harder to achieve clean air," said Chuck Hersey, a spokesman for the coalition.

Southeast Michigan residents breathed in ozone at levels above the new standard on 17 days during the 1998 ozone monitoring season. The region exceeded the old standard on just three days. Still, Hersey said, the picture is not as grim as it may seem.

"Many individuals, businesses and industries care about the air and participate in Ozone Action," said Hersey.

Statistics from a recent "Ozone Action" survey showed that about 80 percent of southeast Michigan's households get involved in emissions reductions on action days. That number accounts for almost 1.5 million households and is up from 64 percent in 1995 and 35 percent in the program's first year, 1994.

"The people who participate know they are part of the problem, and Ozone Action is their commitment to being part of the solution," Hersey said.

The coalition brings "Ozone Action" into classrooms with teacher resource kits for grades kindergarten-five, six-eight and 9-12 as well as a free computer program for students.

Working with businesses, the coalition helps participants determine some of the most-effective opportunities for episodic pollution reductions.

Teachers and businesses interested in ordering program materials, scheduling speakers or getting more information can contact the Clean Air Coalition by calling program coordinator Eve Pidgeon at (313) 961-4266. Its e-mail address is twow.ozoneactionsemcog.org.

Consumers unleash complaints at area PSC hearing

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER
trichard@oe.homecomm.net

Utility representatives sat in silence in the back of the room as consumers from suburban Oakland and Wayne counties unleashed a barrage of complaints about Ameritech and Detroit Edison to the state Public Service Commission.

"Nothing ever gets resolved," said Debra Bzovi, a 17-year Farmington Hills resident whose home suffered three power outages totaling 20 hours in the last year and a half.

"Ameritech says, 'Tough.' Ameritech says, 'You lose,'" said Michael Wayne, a Rochester Hills resident and president of a Troy Internet service provider called Msen.

The Oct. 6 hearing in Farmington Hills was conducted by John Strand, chair of the three-member PSC, which regulates utilities. Often Strand referred complaints to individual utility representatives. It was the fifth in the PSC's 1998 series of six regional hearings.

Look in the woods

Bzovi, who lives near 12 Mile and Middlebelt, complained that Edison told her to "look in the woods" for a downed power line. "No way was I going to look," she said. When an Edison crew finally arrived, "they had it fixed in five minutes."

Wayne said Ameritech is constantly telling people to "put in another phone line - for modems, for faxes - and it doesn't work. They're cramming more service onto existing (inadequate) facilities."

The public wasn't 100 percent down on utilities.

Farmington Hills Mayor Aldo Vagnozzi said that since major storm damage three and a half years ago to power lines, "the service has improved. But there is still a concern about tree trimming. They should talk to homeowners (about tree trimming plans). And there is still a concern about unexpected outages.

"My pet issue is that when there's a long delay - days or weeks - there should be some reimbursement, say, for food losses."

Chris Cesulski got "excellent cooperation from Ameritech" when his elderly father was "crammed." Cramming refers to a phone company's practice of billing a consumer for services never ordered.

"My father was crammed by a company called Integretel for an incoming 800 number. He certainly didn't order this service but was billed $4.95 for a service activation fee," Cesulski said.

The 800 number at Integretel produced no satisfaction. Finally Cesulski got the firm's number from the Florida PSC. Months later, he learned Integretel is merely a billing company for a third company called Telecom.

"I'd like to solve this on my own. I don't want the state's

County names community health deputy

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara has named a new deputy director of health and community services.

Patricia Kukula will oversee community health programs including veterans affairs, the Wayne County library, cooperative extension, patient care management services, medical examiner's office and senior citizens services.

"Patti brings enthusiasm and new ideas to the job," McNamara said. "I know she's up to the challenge."

Kukula once served as director of physical rehabilitation for five years at the Westland Medical Center, directed Wayne County's Alternative Work Force program and served as a representative to Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. She is a member of the Grosse Pointe Woods City Council, a member of St. John Hospital's Urban and Community Health Community Advisory Council, and a graduate of Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce Leadership Detroit program.

For a $5 registration fee, older adults can arm themselves against senior-targeted crime by attending "Scams, Schemes and Swindles: A Consumer Conference for Senior Adults and Those Working with Older Adults."

The conference, sponsored by Schoolcraft College and the Michigan Sheriffs Association, will be held 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 27, at the Embassy Suites Hotel in Livonia. Esther Shapiro, former director of consumer affairs for the city of Detroit, is the keynote speaker. Topics will include telemarketing scams, door-to-door and home repair schemes, financial exploitation and working with law enforcement agencies.

A recent American Association of Retired Persons survey showed that the majority of older telemarketing fraud victims regularly contact friends and family, remain in the workforce and participate in various social activities. In other words, they are intelligent people who made an unwise decision. While they may have experienced a recent trauma in their lives, they are not socially isolated nor mentally impaired. This conference will offer senior adults invaluable tools for avoiding becoming victims of fraud.

The $5 fee includes a continental breakfast, lunch and a free canvas tote bag with resource materials. Preregistration is required and must be completed by Tuesday, Oct. 20.

THEATER

AT THE MORAL EDGE

BY FRANK PROVENZANO
STAFF WRITER
fprovenzano@oe.homedcomm.net

In the span of minutes, Evelyn Orbach runs through a gamut of roles that would stretch even the most diverse ensemble.

After sitting through a play-review committee meeting, Orbach passes through the scent of sawdust in the intimate space at the Jewish Ensemble Theatre. She critically eyes the progress on the construction of the new set for the season-opening play, "The Last Night of Ballyhoo," which premiered Wednesday.

Then, before rehearsal is to begin, she joins two of JET's most frequent faces — director Nick Calanni and actor/production assistant John Michael Manfredi — to talk about the last 10 years at the "little theater that could."

While finances and audiences may have been difficult to secure over the first decade, the irrepressible Orbach's energy and vision are hardly in short supply.

"You want to know my vision, I envision a whole lot of stuff," said Orbach with a broad, coy smile.

And in one long, uninterrupted breath, Orbach spells out a vision for JET to one day extend beyond its West Bloomfield location, and to become a touring ensemble that someday has a space to call its own, either inside or outside of its present site at the Jewish Community Center.

That's hardly a modest goal. Ten years ago, when Calanni directed JET's opening play, "Man in the Glass Booth," the objective was to merely mount plays and put together a season.

Since 1988, JET has been recognized for dozens of plays, including "The Prince," "Torch Song Trilogy," "The Diary of Anne Frank," and "Taking Sides."

In addition, JET produces an impressive range of children's plays that are seen by as many as 20,000 students at 110 schools each year. About 90 percent of those audiences, according to Orbach, are non-Jewish.

Spotlight on issues

Over the last decade, JET has been one of the few local theaters to consistently challenge audiences with plays that pose moral and ethical dilemmas dealing with the Holocaust, racism and cultural identity.

"Theater is more than an opportunity to get on stage," said Orbach. "It's an important tool in society. It's a chance to put a spotlight on issues."

Dauntless: For the last 10 years, Evelyn Orbach (above), artistic director at the Jewish Ensemble Theatre, has challenged, entertained and charmed audiences.

At the time JET was established in 1988, Orbach recalled that many critics wondered if the theater's mission was too narrow. JET's mission, after all, is to produce plays with a Jewish theme.

Both Calanni and Manfredi, whose collaboration with Orbach began at the Attie Theatre in Detroit, contend that JET plays have a universal theme. Neither Calanni nor Manfredi are Jewish.

"The Holocaust is not a Jewish issue, but a human issue," said Manfredi, who noted that several "talk back" sessions after some of the controversial plays grew into

Travis Tritt has reason to celebrate

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER
cfuoco@oe.homedcomm.net

Travis Tritt is surprisingly jovial. The Atlanta native — and diehard Braves fan — spent the previous evening witnessing his team lose to the San Diego Padres.

At the Oct. 8 game, national television showed Tritt shaking hands with Braves owner Ted Turner. When asked if Turner offered any secrets on how he might turn around the series, Tritt lost his breath laughing and said no.

"My whole life I've spent following the Braves. It was disappointing to see them lose. But there's a chance for them to come back. I have a lot of faith in our pitching staff and in our ball club," Tritt said.

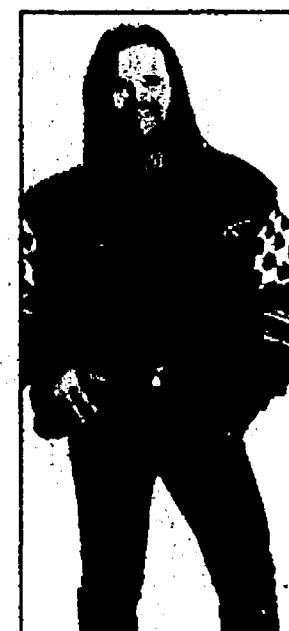

Upon hearing that, hey, Detroit residents are perennially disappointed with the Detroit Tigers, he once again let out a hearty laugh. "It's a tough thing to watch your ballclub not have a successful season year after year after year. I am very sympathetic to people who are going through that. You just have to get in there and constantly back your team."

Despite the Braves being down, Tritt still has reason to celebrate. On Tuesday, Oct. 13, he released his eighth album for Warner Bros., "No More Looking Over My Shoulder."

"I'm excited about it because this album is a throwback to what I did in the very beginning of my career. The early albums I did for Warner Bros. were a combination of all my influences which are pretty diverse — everything from real straight-ahead country like George Jones, Merle Haggard, to the real rockin' side of what I do — Lynyrd Skynyrd, The Allman Bros., ZZ Top, Aerosmith, and the Marshall Tucker Band," Tritt explained.

"Then there's the ballad side of what I do. All of those things combined are involved in the new album. This is exactly a throwback to all those

Winfrey brings 'Beloved' story to life

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER
kwygolik@oe.homedcomm.net

Oprah Winfrey's "Beloved," based on the Pulitzer Prize-winning novel by Toni Morrison, is a "strong, stately film, that requires your attention."

Opening Friday at metro Detroit movie theaters, "Beloved," directed by Jonathan Demme, is Winfrey's labor of love. She fell in love with the story after reading Morrison's book and was determined to bring it to the big screen.

Frightening and disturbing, you won't recognize Winfrey who plays the part of Sethe, a runaway slave haunted by her past and by "Beloved," the baby she killed when Schoolteacher came to reclaim his property, which included Sethe, Beloved and her three other children. After experiencing 28 days of freedom as a runaway, Sethe is determined not to go back to Sweet Home, plantation, or let her children.

"At least I stopped them," she says with the knife still in her hand. "She died soft as cream, being alive was the hardship."

But "Beloved" (Thandie Newton) comes back, disrupting the life Sethe has begun to build after the Civil War with Paul D. (Danny Glover), the "last of the Sweet Home men," a man with "something blessed in his manner," and her daughter, Denver (Kimberly Elise). Her sons run away.

"You need to be prepared," said Winfrey who met with reporters at the Ritz Carlton in Dearborn. "It takes awhile for people to settle into it. This is a movie that requires your attention, just as art does. There's not a leaf that falls that doesn't mean something."

"Beloved," Winfrey says, is about the past — "it will sit in your house, it will bleed you if you don't heal."

Unlike Winfrey, who was "born with hope," Sethe was not. "This is an experience," says Winfrey about the film. "It takes you in, it pulls you in. Bring an open mind. Don't try to predict it. Nobody can predict it, that's what I loved about the book and movie."

"Beloved," explains Winfrey, is about what slavery did to people. It's about how it drove people mad, forced people to make choices no human being should have to make, and what happens as a result of making those choices.

"It's the psychological and spiritual knowledge that you don't own yourself," said Winfrey. "One of my favorite lines is when Sethe says 'wake up in the morning and decide in the morning what I want to do with the day.'"

Sethe lives at 124 Bluestone Road in rural Ohio. The house takes on its own things." "No More Looking Over My Shoulder" captures all of that including his penchant for ballads, like the first single "If I Lost You."

"That's a staple of my career. It was nice to have that kind of thing come together again. I think that's what they've come to expect from a Travis Tritt record."

His album also includes a cover of Jude Cole's rocker "Start the Car," one which the author plays guitar.

"Jude Cole did a couple of albums a few years ago that I thought were just spectacular. He's a tremendous guitar player, a great songwriter and very contemporary. In the past, the rock 'n' roll songs I've done on my albums — and I've loved doing that kind of music — have, for the most part, had a Southern rock flair. ... But this one was just rock 'n' roll."

Tritt also takes on Bruce Springsteen's "Tougher Than the Rest."

"I'm a big Springsteen fan, but I had never heard him do this song. But I had heard it quite a few years ago on an Emmylou Harris album. Billy Joe (Walker, co-producer) gave me Bruce's version, and we used it like our demo tape," he explained.

"I'm fortunate to have a fairly equal mixture of males and females in my audience. I thought this was a song that spoke really well to both."

Tritt explained that he retreated to his earlier style simply because he hadn't done an album like that in awhile.

"The last studio album that I did, 'The Restless Kind,' was the first album after the greatest hits album. That was about as traditional an album as I would ever feel comfortable doing. It was well received but obviously I think it's very important to find out what your audience expects from you. I found out at a very early point in my career that audiences have come to expect all those different influences."

Among those influences is Detroit rocker Bob Seger.

"There was never anything pretty about Bob Seger records. The ballads had a really raw feel about them. That's one of the elements I try to bring into my music."

But the Motor City has had a bigger effect on him. He considers the town one of his favorite spots.

"The time that I remember more than anything else was the Downtown Hoedown. We played that two years in a row. I just remember that as one of the first times I walked up on stage and saw people as far as I could see in every direction. There were thousands and thousands and tens of thousands of people in every direction."

"We did our normal set and then I went back out for an encore and I did 'Night Moves,' which is a Bob Seger song. Of course the crowd there went berserk. That endeared me to the audience from the very beginning. I've got a rock 'n' roll heart and I'm not afraid to show it. It latched me into the folks there in Detroit."

Tritt is returning to the area on Friday, Oct. 16, to co-headline a show with Sawyer Brown at The Palace of Auburn Hills.

"It's gonna be uptempo. I'm going to walk out there and give 200 percent. I want people to walk away from our show feeling that they really got their money's worth. There's a really wide gamut that we try to do. We try to cross everything from really heavy duty rocking stuff to some really intimate moments with the audience where I just come out with an acoustic guitar."

"So be prepared to have a little bit of fun," he said. Even if the Braves don't advance.

heated discussions. But Orbach, who concedes she'd like to one day produce a Chekov play, said any limitations at JET are a case of financial constraints, rather than artistic.

"Our mission has provided a platform to discuss social issues," she said. "We've talked about (dramatic) plays with Jews and Arabs. But for the most part, audiences want comedies."

One of JET's most popular plays, "A Rose By Any Other Name" produced in 1989, came with a hitch. Anyone with Rosen in their name, said Orbach, was given a discounted ticket. The play was performed to sold-out audiences.

Unfortunately, JET's lack of finances and tight schedule allows little time for positive word of mouth to spread about a play.

And, since many of the plays run for four weeks, there isn't flexibility for a popular play to be extended.

"Each year our mission has been to deal with plays about humanity, and to present a platform for new voices," said Orbach.

"And each year, we struggle to attain that goal."

Orbach, Calanni and Manfredi are kindred spirits on stage and off. They not only share years of experience, but a tenacity and commitment.

"We've had disappointments, but we've also learned that if you put yourself behind (JET), then things will happen."

Universal theme

In the lobby outside the theater, the cast of "The Last Night of Ballyhoo" arrives for rehearsal. Orbach plays one of the central roles in the play written by Alfred Uhry, who also wrote "Driving Miss Daisy."

In short order, a southern squire begins to permeate Orbach's speech. It's a thespian's calisthenics before the complete transformation into a role commences.

"The Last Night of Ballyhoo" is set in late 1930s Atlanta, a segregated city of privilege and depravity. While the protagonist is a Jew trying to assimilate into upper-class society, it has a universal theme.

Arguable, the play presents the age-old American paradox: does assimilation into the broader melting pot come at the expense of losing one's cultural roots?

"This is a very funny play that has a lot to say," said Calanni. "That's an ideal play."

At rehearsal — as surely as yet another wardrobe change — Orbach runs through a scene from the play. Her recitation is a hit-and-miss. She's reminded that the playwright wrote the script to be performed "as is," not embellished nor abridged.

"They're tough on me," said Orbach with a deep sigh.

"But not too tough," said Calanni. "She is the boss."

character it shakes and glows with an eerie red light when "Beloved" is there. Sethe has flashbacks to her life at Sweet Home. You witness her beating, the hanging of her mother, and other painful events.

The film isn't without joy. Glover is compassionate and loving. Elise's Denver, born during Sethe's escape, offers hope for the future. Baby Suggs (Beah Richards), Sethe's mother-in-law, is the "self-made holy woman" after slave life has broken her body but not her "great big heart."

"We measure our history against a yardstick of other people," said Winfrey. "We didn't start with measuring sticks being equal. What black people have accomplished is nothing short of miraculous. I'm a descendant of slaves and have a voice that speaks to the world — a voice for people who didn't."

Newton, like Winfrey, feels connected to "Beloved." Born in London, Newton said a friend gave her Morrison's book to read about six years ago because her name "Thandiwe is Zulu for Beloved."

At first, Newton was confused, she stayed with the project believing that her "life brought me to this role, it was meant to be."

Beloved comes back to Sethe as a "strange, childlike young woman with soft, new/unlined skin, and eyes so big and black there seems to be no expression at all."

Her voice is also chilling. "Beloved is the you, you don't think about," said Newton. "It's the essence of who we are as a person, our gut instincts. Beloved acts out of instinct. She's unruly, enchanting, ferocious, but vulnerable. She's the spirit who finds a host, a spirit of a 20-year-old violated woman, but her recollections are of a 2-year-old."

Beloved wants her mother.

She speaks like a child, in a voice full of rage. "She has a breathy voice, her lower throat muscles were never used, it's painful to speak, like a tomb door opening, her voice has not been used in 18 years."

In the movie, you see Beloved learn to eat, walk, and talk. "It's freaky, yet unsettling," said Newton. "I found I could do this weird voice."

"Beloved" is also a beautiful film, but Winfrey doesn't want the audience to dwell on that part. She wants people to be moved, shaken, and to think about how their past haunts them, and to take another look at slavery — to try to bring some sense of humanity to these people's lives.

"Transforming," is one way Oprah describes the film. Ultimately, it's about self acceptance. "She's my best thing," Sethe says about Beloved. But Paul D. corrects her, "You your best thing."

Plowshares entices younger audience

Plowshares Theatre Company presents its first children's play written especially for younger audiences, "Sala Cinderella" by Karen Jones Meadows. Performances will be held Oct. 16-26 at the Charles H. Wright Museum of African American History.

Performance times are 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 16, 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Saturdays, Oct. 17 and 24, 10 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Tuesday-Friday, Oct. 20-23, and 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 25.

Tickets are $10, $5 for children age 12 and under, and available by calling (313) 872-0279.

Directed by Plowshares education director Addell Austin Anderson, the play is the beginning of a new venture for Plowshares to produce children's theater. The play is a funny and festive African-Centered adaptation of the Cinderella folk tale. Sala is a very, very good girl. She never talks back and never disobeys. In spite of the uncaring nature of her stepmother, Njeri, and stepisters, Yaa and Tyi, Sala will begin a journey to celebrate her gift of imagination. She learns from animals and nature to find wisdom along the way. The production includes music, dance, and opportunities for children to be actively involved with the production.

Meadows is best known for her play, "Harriet's Return" based on the life of Harriet Tubman.

"A story well calculated to keep you in suspense," introduced the popular "Suspense" series on radio and TV from the 1940s through the 1960s. It's a perfect description of SRO Productions' current show, "Death-trap" at The Burgh in Southfield.

Ira Levin's classic mystery-thriller is the longest running play of its type in the history of Broadway. Unfortunately, SRO's "Deathtrap" is scheduled to run only through Sunday, Oct. 25. It deserves more. It's a first-rate production.

The performers create riveting characters. Director, Ralph Rosati begins slowly, deliciously shaping a story of murder and intrigue, then building it to a dramatic ending. The excellent setting includes a spectacular collection of lethal antique weapons (battle axes, crossbows, daggers, knives, swords and guns) – which you just know are going to be used.

Atmospherics are terrific. Splendid lightening and thunder provide just the right accept to a dark and stormy night. Mood music is eerie, scary stuff by film composer, Bernard Herrmann ("Psycho," "Vertigo," "North by Northwest," "Journey to the Center of the Earth," and others).

wright, Sidney Bruhl, is suffering through a dry spell and embarrassing flops. His wife's fortune is about spent, when a writing protégé sends him a script for review, Sidney recognizes it as the perfect thriller.

The play has more twists and turns than an agitated boa constrictor, and takes you on a roller-coaster ride of emotions. Sidney appears to con (not true as it turns out) the young man into allowing him to collaborate on the certain hit (called of course, "Deathtrap"). Deception and jealousy ensue - and before the evening is over, we have at least three dead bodies (one more than once) and perhaps two more possibilities. And there are only five people in the cast!

Joel Grossman scores big time as the scheming Sidney. This urbane man of wit and charm goes from joking about murder for fame and fortune — to actually planning one. Is it just an act? Linda Bodnar is very good as Myra Bruhl, the confused wife who almost has a heart attack when her husband toys with the idea of murder. What would it take for her to have the Big One?

Keith Prusak gives a sterling performance as Clifford Anderson, the aspiring writer. At first, an innocent collaborator on a play, we learn he has a more sinister side. Does it include murder? Toby Booker effectively portrays Sidney's mild-mannered attorney, until he realizes he can get rich writing a play about the evening's events.

Judie Hill as the eccentric Dutch psychic, Helga Van Dorp, steals every scene she's in. The heavily accented clairvoyant warns of impending murders and fake murders to bring about real murders.

BY MARY JANE DOERR
SPECIAL WRITER

In Chinese folklore, to know a man's name is to possess him. In Puccini's Chinese opera spectacular "Turandot," to sing above an orchestra and chorus of hundreds with powerful high Cs is to possess the role.

Soprano Alessandra Marc claimed this role as her signature piece again Saturday evening for Michigan Opera Theatre's glorious season opener at the Detroit Opera House. Her performance is a vocal feat that sets her apart from others in that rare breed of dramatic sopranos. It is not the mere size of her incredible voice and the way she sustains the high notes over two grueling acts, but in the seven years since she last appeared here, her delivery has become more precise.

Her command of the stage is equaled by the formidable tenor

Richard Margison as Calaf, the Unknown Prince. The international press has daringly compared this Canadian to the young Pavarotti. No wonder! He sang the audience's favorite "Nessun dorma" (Pavarotti's usual encore) with a clear and natural ease, even after being on stage for two previous spectacular acts.

"Turandot" is a gory tale of a beautiful ice princess. She reigns in terror by enticing her would-be suitors with three unanswerable riddles about hope and blood. Get the answers right, the suitors become husband and king.

All of them get the answers wrong and lose their heads like WJBK-FOX 2's Lee Thomas who played the ill-fated Prince of Persia. With all the heads on sticks, the scene might be the French Revolution.

This savagery take place at the Forbidden City in Peking, represented in a contemporarily plain set from the Washington Opera. Traditional in its lines (with the classic stairway to the dropped-down throne out of the ceiling and flanking sides), the scenery did give Yugoslavian director Dejan Miladinovic a fabulous opportunity to feature his colorfully clad cast with dramatic lighting. The Ping. Pang. Pong.

scene (Frank Hernandez, Cesar Ulloa, and Jerold Siena) was nicely accentuated. Most effective was the chorus movements perfectly in synch with conductor Steven Mercurio's leadership in the orchestra pit.

"Turandot" is Puccini's masterpiece with its crashing brass chords and imperial melodies, but he died in 1924 after completing slave Liu's death scene, sung by the exquisite Norah Amsellem (in odd make-up which is anything but Chinese). The young soprano has already mastered the art of enlisting the audience's sympathy. The touching scene, followed by the resplendent Hao Jiang Tian as Timur, was so effective, it was difficult to adjust to the abrupt change that followed when the royal blue curtain descended on the two lovers, Turandot and Calaf, for their final duet.

That duet and the grand finale is a new ending composed by Mercurio using Alfano's 1924 ending and Puccini's notes. The results are satisfying. With that ending, the impressive impressionistic sun rose over the stage shining on Suzanne Acton's well-trained chorus finishing the powerful strains of Puccini's imperial hymn as Michigan Opera Theatre embarks upon a new realm of world class opera.

Eddie Murphy restrains himself in 'nice' 'Holy Man'

BY JON KATZ
SPECIAL WRITER

Where have you gone, Reggie Hammond and Axel Foley? Eddie Murphy's loose cannon characters from "48 Hours" and "Beverly Hills Cop" figuratively strain beneath the sheets of his guru's garb to save "Holy Man" from terminal niceness. They don't make it out, and therein is the film's failing.

To describe "Holy Man" is to first rattle off the films from which it blatantly steals. You've got the enigmatic fish out of water whose naïveté is misinterpreted by the capitalists ("Being There"). You've got the commercial parodies ("Kentucky Fried Movie"). You've got the wise-cracking TV control room guys ("Tootsie"). You've got the fast rise and faster fall of the cult icon ("Tommy"). And you've got the misguided network executive's on-camera reformation ("Scrooged"). Which proves once again that on the big screen, the whole is often less than the sum of its parts.

Eddie plays "G," a man of no possessions and no hair, whose personal pilgrimage somehow leads him onto the MacArthur Causeway linking Miami and Miami Beach. There he comes to the aid of stranded motorists Jeff Goldblum and Kelly Preston — two execs with the Good Buy Shopping Network — and before you can say Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, he's camped out on the floor of Goldblum's South Beach apartment.

Something is different about G. He looks at Goldblum's car and it stops just short of hitting him. He performs magic tricks that are maybe more than magic. And most of all, he has a hypnotic effect on everyone he talks to, making him the perfect pitchman to save the network's ratings and Goldblum's job.

So into America's living rooms he comes, a prophet for profit starting in his own home shopping show, "The G Spot." Goldblum coaches him just before airtime: "In that camera is your one special friend ... who needs mixing bowls." Instead, G strays from the script to sell peace and love: "We acquire, we consume and we waste. That's not the plan."

And that's not the Eddie Murphy we love to love. His calmness is killing. He's like the large dog a boy brings home and begs mom to keep in their tiny apartment. We wait and wait for the revealing moment, confident that there's something more to G than what meets the camera's eye.

There are a few hopeful and satisfying signs along the way. He's a practical joker, allowing some hit-or-miss gags with Morgan Fairchild, Betty White, Florence Henderson, Soupy Sales, James Brown and Willard Scott. He deftly puts down the young Turk who would clean house at the network. And there's always Murphy's trademark grin. But the big moment never comes. There's no "new sheriff in town," as Murphy's convict Hammond announced in "48 Hours." What you see is all of G, and it's not enough.

Goldblum ad libs much of his "I'm dying here" ravings, and it becomes a broken record real fast. Preston is one of a hundred thirty-something actresses who could fill the bill as the media analyst who comes under G's spell. Tough guy Robert Loggia, however, is a treat as the Ted Turner/Sumner Redstone network owner who chants his own mantra ("It's about making people feel they have to have it when they don't want it").

"Holy Man" is a couple of rungs below Eddie Murphy's greatest hits, but let's be clear that when he's on a roll, Murphy's mediocre is better than the best of his pretenders. He just doesn't roll very far in this one.

Open since Friday, the new 20-screen AMC theatre megaplex in Livonia wants to entertain you, and make your visit as comfortable as possible.

The AMC Livonia 20 raises AMC's screen count to 101 in the metro Detroit Area. AMC Laurel Park will continue operating, with renovations including refurbished seats, and new carpeting scheduled for the next year. Construction is under way on a second megaplex, AMC Forum 30 megaplex in Sterling Heights scheduled to open in fall 1999.

The megaplex features wall-to-wall screens, stadium-style seating in comfortable high-backed LoveSeats with retractable armrests and cupholders. Stadium-style seating on 18-inch risers allows for unobstructed viewing no matter where you sit, or who is sitting in front of you.

Price also includes use of conference room for one hour, and roped off seating in the auditorium where the chosen movie is playing. The birthday child receives a special birthday bag filled with movie items such as buttons and mini posters. For more information, call (734) 542-3191, Ext. 110.

Pricing: Twi-Lite shows for movies starting between 4 p.m. and 6 p.m., $3.75; students and senior citizens age 55 and older $4.75 for adults and matinees; evening $6.75 evenings, $4.75 matinees.

AMC Livonia: The new theater features 20 screens.

With 46 inches of row space, six more inches than the industry standard, and 40 inch wide seats, four inches wider than the industry standard, are just two ways AMC is making its customers a little more comfortable.

All 20 theaters are handicapped-accessible on the main floor, and an elevator provides handicap access to upper levels.

There are eight auditoriums on each wing with four in the middle. Large signs point the way, and the low ceilings help create a homey atmosphere. Other amenities include four men and four women's restrooms, three concession stands with 36 selling stations, box office with 10 selling stations, and two Will Call stations for advance ticket pick up. Automated box offices will also be installed.

In addition to candy and popcorn, the concession offers icy drinks, nachos, and hot dogs. "No matter what amenities we provide, everyone comes to see movies," said Joe Bombicino, East Division market manager. And AMC aims to please.

"The audience at an AMC megaplex is totally enveloped in the enhanced sight and sound presentation," said Rick King, senior vice president for AMC's East Division. AMC's High Impact Theatre System consists of the Torus compound-curved screen and a uniquely configured sound system. Sony Dynamic Digital Sound envelops the audience helping create a multimensional cinematic sound environment.

To help create a festival atmosphere, local entertainers including theater groups, school bands and choir will perform at the theater before shows. For example, clowns will perform in the lobby area 2-4 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, Oct. 17-18.

Trinity House Theatre, Livonia Redford Theatre Guild and Plymouth Theatre Guild were among the groups who performed at the theater opening weekend.

"The groups were thrilled, and it adds to the overall experience, it's fun," said Tina Voccia, marketing coordinator AMC Livonia 20. "We like to give back to the community," said Byron Kraynak, managing director of AMC Livonia 20.

Performing at the theater gives groups a chance to increase their exposure. "It gives them an opportunity to get noticed and showcase their talents. It's a great opportunity for people coming to see a movie," said Voccia. During the holidays local groups will be invited to sing Christmas carols at the theater. Groups interested in performing at the AMC Livonia 20 can contact the theater.

Other customer service amenities include a three-day advance ticket purchase system; option for moviegoers to join MovieWatcher, and AMC's frequent movie-goer program that offers special discounts and free prizes.

STREET SCENE

New Orleans' Galactic takes its party on the road

CHRISTINA FUOCO

The New Orleans acid jazz/funk band Galactic has one goal in mind—to have fun. “When I was younger, I heard one of those jazz records where you could hear everyone yelling in the band. Everything was burnin’, smokin’, you know. I just really dug that. Everybody’s having so much fun. It wasn’t really one of those stuck-up straight-ahead jazz records,” said bass player Robert Mercurio. “I started buying more and more of that stuff. Then I got into some of the stuck-up straight-ahead stuff. But with Galactic, we’re just up here playing. We’re all saying it’s not a concert, it’s a party. We’re trying to create this mobile party. Sometimes, it’s a little too fun.”

Its latest injection of fun is “Crazyhorse Mongoose,” its debut for Mercury-affiliated Capricorn Records.

“Crazyhorse Mongoose,” Mercurio explained, is an amalgamation of the sounds of New Orleans—the Meters, Neville Brothers, Chocolate Milk and Alain Toussaint—and ’90s-style pop.

“I’ve always been around bands and music in New Orleans,” explained singer Theryl de Clouet. “I knew Professor Longhair; Tuts Washington taught my mother how to play piano. But you never can plan. I didn’t expect to hook up with these guys, but now I see that my twentysomething years in the business were spent trying to get to be the Houseman. It has to happen, you can’t force it.”

Washington, D.C., natives Mercurio and guitarist Jeff Raines formed the band soon after moving to New Orleans about nine years ago. Mercurio’s official reason for moving to New Orleans was to attend Tulane University, but really it was “more for the music.”

“That’s how I was picking, where I was going to go to school. Instantly, I totally fell into the music scene and loved it. But I spent way too many nights checking out music than I should have been.”

At Tulane, he studied the odd combination of psychology and glass blowing.

“Tulane has a big glass blowing program. When I graduated, I did it professionally for two years. But I don’t have enough time to do anything like that. It’s kind of sad. I see artwork around my house and I wish I could still do that kind of stuff.”

To duo met “Houseman” at Benny’s, a now-defunct after-hours club in New Orleans. They have since added keyboardist Rich Vogel, who plays Hammond B-3, Wuritzer and Moog; drummer Stanton Moore; and saxophonist Ben Ellman, who also leads the New Orleans Klezmer All-Stars.

As a sign of its future success, the record label Windham Hill asked the band to contribute to its upcoming compilation “The Masters of B-3.”

“They’re getting new tracks from people like Lonnie Smith and all these old cats. One from Medeski, Martin and Wood. We took it as an opportunity to record all our new tunes.”

“It was the first time we got to produce our own stuff. We just wrote in the studio. It was like spontaneous composition where we just picked a key and the drummer clicks his drumstick and we all just play. We got this really cool tune.”

The band dubbed it “Good for the Smokin’.”

In the meantime, Galactic is supporting “Crazyhorse Mongoose.”

“It’s been two years since our first one came out. We really wanted it to come out on a major label. There’s a point where, though, you say, oh God, you just need a new record. But it’s nice that it’s out on a bigger label. It’s in all the stores,” he said with a slight giggle.

Galactic performs twice locally—Tuesday, Oct. 20, at the Blind Pig, 206-208 S. First St., Ann Arbor. Doors open at 9:30 p.m. for the 19 and older show. Tickets are $10 in advance. For more information, call (734) 996-8555 or visit <http://www.99music.com>; and Thursday, Oct. 22, at the Magic Bag, 22920 Woodward Ave., Ferndale. Tickets are $8 in advance for the 18 and older show. Doors open at 8 p.m. For more information, call (248) 544-3030 or visit <http://www.themagicbag.com>.

Pike Street now specializing in California cuisine

BY ELEANOR HEALD
SPECIAL WRITER

Pontiac's Pike Street restaurant, housed in a National Register of Historic Places building dating from 1893, is both preserving history and making new tracks with trendy California-style cuisine.

After extensive remodeling, Pontiac's Pike Street Restaurant reopened at the end of September, taking on both a new food style and an updated open look.

The dining room has been painted in California scenes by Mike McGrath. Art, including works by Dale Chihuly, John Glick and Gerhardt Knodel, is prominent in the new decor.

As exciting as the new look is the menu now being orchestrated by a tri-chef concept including Chefs Jackie Williams, Steve Hubbell and Randy Garver. All three experienced chefs continue a California-fresh style of cooking introduced to Pike Street by former executive chef Kathleen Daelemans.

To augment a seasonally-fresh daily-dated menu, the chefs are buying organic produce from Michigan growers including Golden Toad Farms in Pontiac and Maple Creek Farm, Yale. Organic artisan breads are baked daily by Detroit's Avalon International Breads. Tied in with the California thrust are plans for rustic foods. To enhance this concept, a wood-burning grill has been added to Pike Street's kitchen.

Much of what Pike Street has become over the years is due to owner Jim Fitzpatrick, former controller for the Pontiac division of General Motors. After owning Pike Street for 15 years, he sold it in December 1997. He formed a company California LLC which bought it back in August 1998. The company name is fueling the California style from the new sign to landscaping, interior design and food emphasis.

"I've just come back from a trip to San Francisco where I ate at Zuni and Chez Panisse among others specializing in California style cuisine," Fitzpatrick said. "It's exciting for me to bring this food concept to Michigan."

Here's more of what's new on the metro Detroit dining scene:

Howe's Bayou

Tom Brandel's Oyster Bar reputation has spread from his original restaurant in Grosse Pointe Park to several Oakland County sites. Brandel, Corporate Chef Michael Houlihan and Director of Operations Ray Hanson have given hints of a new interest in "Nawlin's" dishes at every charity event where they've participated.

At the end of August, they opened Howe's Bayou on the east side of Woodward Avenue in Ferndale, north of Nine Mile Road. Real eatin' with specialties such as Opelousas Etouffe, Jambalaya, Atchafalaya Chicken or Bayou Crawdad Boil are reasonably priced under $10.

Has Brandel abandoned the Tom's Oyster Bar concept? Not on your life. Opening plans are incomplete, but one's in the works for Northville.

East Side Mario's

Recognizing that banquet space is at a premium in the metro-Detroit area, East Side Mario's has added a banquet room to its Southfield Restaurant, 29267 Southfield Road, (between 12 Mile and 13 Mile Roads) in the Southfield Commons Shopping Center, with seating for up to 150 guests, call (248) 569-9454 for information.

Through the month of October, East Side Mario's is offering all wines for $5 above cost. Guests can enjoy rich reds or crisp white wines while dining at any of the three Metro Detroit restaurants.

The three East Side Mario's locations in Metro Detroit are:

Rochester - 2273 Crooks Road at the northeast corner of M-59, (248) 853-9622.

Livonia - 31630 Plymouth Road (just west of Merriman), (734) 513-8803. And Southfield, address/phone listed above.

East Side Mario's restaurants and lounges are open Monday-Saturday 11 a.m. to 1 a.m. and Sunday 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.

The Lark

Gourmet magazine's top ranking was given again this year to Jim and Mary Lark's The Lark restaurant in West Bloomfield. A readers' poll conducted by the magazine not only put it at the top of the Detroit Metro area dining scene, but considered it best in five of 11 categories including service, presentation, food, special occasion dining and wine list.

"We treasure our ranking in Gourmet magazine more than any other rating," Jim Lark said. "I'm a firm believer in readers' polls because they offer more than one person's opinion. There are only two publications, Gourmet, that polls readers and the Zagat Survey, which tallies the opinions of numbers of people. A one person opinion is often a crapshoot. Thousands of people (Gourmet polled 26,300 readers randomly) is far more reliable to diners and rewarding to a restaurateur."

Following in order behind The Lark in the top 20 are: Tribute, Farmington Hills; Opus One, Detroit; Ritz-Carlton Grill, Dearborn; the Whitney, Detroit; Moveable Feast, Ann Arbor; Golden Mushroom, Southfield; Five Lakes Grill, Milford; Cousins Heritage Inn, Dexter; Rattlesnake Club, Detroit; Too Chez, Novi; Pike Street, Pontiac; Common Grill, Chelsea; MacKinnon's, Northville; Zingerman's Delicatessen, Ann Arbor; Cafe Bon Homme, Plymouth; Charley's Crab, Troy; the Earle, Ann Arbor; Andiamo Italia, Warren; and the Capital Grille, Troy.

The Lark is hosting a Gourmet Celebration Dinner to celebrate its Gourmet's Top Table Award 7 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 26 and 27. The cost is $85 per person, call the restaurant for details.

Little Daddy's

Royal Oak's Oakland Grill (32832 Woodward Ave.) closed Sept. 20. Its partners sold their lease to Jimmy Zazadinos, Tommy Peristeris and Rick Rogow, partners in Big Daddy's Parthenon. They plan to open a Little Daddy's Parthenon & Coney Island in the former Oakland Grill location by the end of October.

"This Little Daddy's location will be a bit more upscale than the Little Daddy's in Applegate Square (Southfield)," Peristeris said. "We'll add ribs, barbecue chicken, lamb and pasta to the regular Little Daddy's menu. We'll be open for lunch, dinner and takeout service."

Over the last several years, the location has seen a number of restaurants come and go.

"We will be successful because we will have people in and out, particularly at lunch, in 25 minutes," Peristeris added. "We've been successful everywhere we've opened in the Detroit metro area."
