Ravine Street options studied

Parents on Ravine, a dirt-and-gravel street stretching a half-mile south from Joy Road, have partly blamed poor drainage for their decision to drive their children to a bus stop. Improvements are being studied.

One proposal to alleviate drainage problems near a controversial Westland school bus stop would cost an estimated $108,000, a city official said. An alternative plan would cost only $5,000 to $7,000, Public Services Director Richard Dittmar said, but questions loom about whether either proposal would satisfy residents' concerns.

Parents on Ravine, a dirt-and-gravel street stretching a half-mile south from Joy Road, have partly blamed poor drainage for their decision to drive their children to a Livonia school district bus stop at the end of their street.

Some parents have said they don't want their children dodging potholes and splashing through mud on their way to catch the bus. Parents also said they like to see their young children make it safely onto the bus.

But a heated dispute erupted earlier this year when the city put up no-parking signs near the end of Ravine to keep parents from causing a traffic bottleneck.

The city also wanted to protect corner homeowners Larry and Peggy Sullivan, whose property was being damaged by the cars and who said they sometimes couldn't even get out of their driveway.

To study ways of alleviating drainage problems, the city hired the consulting firm of Jarrett, Mills & Schron to study the issue. In a memo to Westland City Council members, Dittmar said JMS has recommended placing a storm sewer from Joy Road to a Ravine area creek and installing catch basins at the Joy intersection.

"Their estimated cost to install this sewer is $108,000," Dittmar wrote. "This cost could be paid by the city, or a special assessment could be placed on

Sharing THE SEASON

Editor's note: Every year, many folks in our community decide to share their holidays with others. While we couldn't tell each and every tale, we decided to share the stories of a few of the people who help make this holiday season a special one. Enjoy!

In the basket: Cleveland Elementary students Ryan Niemi, 10, (left to right), Chris Letwinski, 6, Jesse Kasenow, 11, Jamie Vernon, 10, and Brian Morris, 6, enjoy themselves shopping at Meijer in Westland for five families the school adopted through the Salvation Army.

Holiday giving takes on all shapes and sizes

With just three days to go to meet a 25,000-can goal in the school's canned food drive, panic set in among student leaders at Churchill High in Livonia. On Tuesday, just 5,000 canned goods had been brought in, and Friday was the cut-off date.

"Reaching 25,000 seemed improbable," said Bill Halvangis, student activity coordinator.

So Halvangis and fellow teacher Jack Schneider, senior class sponsor, brainstormed and came up with an idea. We'll both shave all the hair off our heads at a school assembly, they told the school's 2,000 students, if you will meet the 25,000 goal.

That did it. By Friday, a mountain of canned goods had literally rolled into the school.

"The kids got their paychecks and bought their canned goods in carts," Halvangis said. "Some carts had 100-200 cans."

Paul Perez, chairman of the drive said two factors — the promised hair clips and "sheer panic at the end" — pushed the drive way over its goal, to 33,123 cans, or 16 tons of food.

"We were so nervous, and then we started seeing them come in," Perez said.

Prosecutors to look at appeal in traffic death case

BY DARRELL CLEM

Wayne County prosecutors will review for possible appeal a judge's decision to clear a teenager of wrongdoing in the Westland traffic death of a pregnant woman.

Assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Wade McCann said it is too early to say whether his office will seek to renew charges against Farmington Hills teenager Joseph Norman Novell.

His office's appellate department will review a Dec. 11 ruling by Wayne County Circuit Judge George Crockett III, who dismissed a negligent homicide charge against Novell.

Novell — 1998 valedictorian of Clarenceville High School — was charged following an Aug. 1, two-car collision at Middlebelt Road and Ann Arbor Trail. The crash killed 18-year-old Julia Margaret Serda in her seventh month of pregnancy, but her baby girl survived.

"Our appellate department will review the judge's ruling to make a determination on whether there will be an appeal," McCann said.

The accident occurred when Novell, in a 1990 Chevrolet Beretta, turned from eastbound Ann Arbor Trail to northbound Middlebelt in front of Serda's friend Margaret Louise Bargowski. Serda was a front-seat passenger in Bargowski's westbound Ford Tempo.

Westland police have said both drivers entered the intersection on an amber, or yellow, traffic light, and Novell was charged amid accusations that

79-year-old pedestrian killed crossing Merriman

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER
dclem@oe.hometown.com

A 79-year-old man using a cane to make his way across Merriman was killed Wednesday evening when he was hit by a car, police said.

Westland police still hadn't released the man's name Friday, saying his relatives hadn't been reached.

The incident occurred at 6:56 p.m. Wednesday after the man left a McDonald's restaurant on Merriman Road about a quarter-mile north of Van Born, police officer Mark Cholak said.

The man was trying to cross Merriman to return to his residence in a nearby assisted-living facility, Cholak said.

"He was walking with a cane and just didn't make it across the road in time," the officer said.

The victim was struck as a 36-year-old Westland man was driving north on Merriman Road and apparently didn't see him, Cholak said.

The victim wasn't crossing the road in a designated area. Cholak said the closest crosswalks are at Annapolis Road to the north and Van Born to the south.

"This man frequented McDonald's quite a bit and was on his way home on the day he was hit," Cholak said.

Part of the problem may have been that the man was crossing Merriman in the dark, in an area where street lights were off, he said.

"The only lights were from the McDonald's," the officer said, adding that several street lights on the west side of Merriman "weren't functioning."

The investigation is continuing, but Cholak said the driver wasn't using alcohol or drugs.

"Speed also doesn't seem to be a factor," he said. The victim was taken to Oakwood Hospital/Annapolis Center-Wayne, where he died from what Cholak described as "massive lung trauma to the left side of his chest."

One witness e-mailed the Observer to say that the man appeared to become disoriented just before the accident and that he "stood motionless in the street in the seconds before his death."

The same witness also voiced concerns about street lights not working in the area.

"If the street were better lit, or even lit as much as was apparently planned and intended, the accident may have been avoided," he wrote.

the residents in the affected area."

Moreover, Dittmar noted that the storm sewer will be required if Ravine ever becomes a paved street.

Dittmar and James Zoumbaris, city water-sewer superintendent, reviewed plans and suggested an alternate plan for building a sewer from an existing manhole near Joy and installing two catch basins - at a much cheaper cost of $5,000 to $7,000.

Council members are expected to discuss the two plans early next year.

Parent Virginia Klein said the latest developments prove that Ravine residents shouldn't be blamed for road and drainage problems.

"It has nothing to do with the parents," she said. "It actually has to do with the road. It is not being properly maintained."

Complaints about parents causing problems at Ravine and Joy have largely subsided lately.

"Most parents are driving their kids to school because they're really disgusted with the situation and the way it was handled," Klein said.

Other parents simply park away from the no-parking signs on Ravine until their children catch the bus.

"Basically we're in a holding pattern. Our neighbors feel that no matter what now, they're going to lose," Klein said. "They are disheartened by the government process."

Klein said it has been difficult for some parents to get answers from city officials. Others have received conflicting information from the city, she said.

"It's a communication problem," she said. "No one wants to communicate."

Klein said she has "compassion" for the city's decision-making process, and she said the Ravine problem has mushroomed beyond a school bus stop controversy.

At issue, she said, is an important question: When is it the government's responsibility to step in and help a neighborhood?

"It's about how government deals with residents," she said.

he should have yielded.

However, defense attorney Stephen Boak argued that Novell was trying to complete his left turn and that Bargowski should have yielded. A backseat passenger in Bargowski's car indicated that she sped up as she approached Middlebelt.

Police said both drivers had good driving records free of previous offenses.

The incident stirred some strong opinions in the community. Some readers contacted the Observer to voice outrage that Novell was charged with negligent homicide.

Had he been convicted, he could have faced a two-year jail term. He is now enrolled at Wayne State University, where he's studying chemistry on a full scholarship, Boak said.

The accident occurred on a clear, sunny day as Novell and a friend were going to a concert. Bargowski and Serda were taking a friend to his Livonia residence before going to work at the Ford-Tel theater in Dearborn Heights.

Dorsey party

Kids enjoy Christmas cheer

Imagine pizza, Santa, dogs, candy and gifts in one place.

What more could a child want from a Christmas party?

Children got that and more Wednesday afternoon during a two-hour party at the Dorsey Community Center in Westland.

"The kids really enjoyed it," James Gilbert, Westland community development director, said.

His office, based at the Dorsey Center, has organized the party each year for nearly a decade in the city's Norway neighborhood.

Children ages 5 to 12 visited with Santa, who somehow reminded some older observers of Dorsey Center staff member Bob Patterson.

Go figure.

Altogether, 110 children participated in the party.

Among the highlights:

■ They received gifts, candy, pizza and pop.

■ They met Westland police dog Zeke and his owner, Officer Grant Allen, who demonstrated how Zeke sniffs out drugs and helps catch crime suspects. Police dog Taz and Officer Thaddeus Nelson also visited briefly.

■ They sang Christmas songs led by musicians Scott Veldhuis, Westland's economic development director, and Margaret Martin, the city's therapeutic recreation supervisor.

Helping with the program were Lutheran High School Westland's Junior ROTC program and the Western Wayne County's YWCA Young Friends program, which sent counselors and mentors, Gilbert said.

Money for the party and $2,000 in gifts came from several sources, including Target, the Westland Fire Department's Public Awareness Committee, the Men's Club at St. Constantine & Helen Greek Church and the Westland Police Officers Association.

The cans were shipped to Livonia Fire Department's station at Farmington and Five Mile. There, volunteers from Livonia Goodfellows sorted and packed them into boxes that will go to needy families in the Livonia-Westland area.

"Two-to-three boxes go to each family, along with perishables bought by Goodfellows from their fund-raisers," said Jerry Wolfe, Goodfellows spokesman. "Every year, Churchill is the biggest contributor to our canned goods drive."

Families wishing to receive a holiday food basket can call the Goodfellows at (313) 438-0256 and leave a message. Last year, Wolfe said Goodfellows donated food to 127 families, including 328 children. Goodfellows last year spent $25,000 on clothing, $3,700 on toys and books and $5,390 on food baskets for the local needy families.

No Christmas alone

For 20 years, Mary and John Shurge of Garden City have spent a portion of their Christmas Day surrounded by strangers.

Willingly, they join with 30 other volunteers to spend Christmas Day afternoon at St. Dunstan Catholic Church in Garden City feeding and being "family" to up to 200 guests who come to the church for a free holiday turkey dinner.

"We eat family style, all together," Mary Shurge said. "No questions are asked of the people who come. It's like sitting down and becoming one big family. The people who come are mostly adults who are alone on Christmas Day. They use to have families, but not now. They feel they are among friends."

While the Shurges are members of St. Dunstan Church, some volunteers aren't. And while some of the dinner guests live in Garden City, others live in other communities, some as far away as Pontiac, Brownstown Township and Monroe.

In the church's community room, decorated to be at-home cozy, the volunteers all perform different tasks. Some set up tables. Some meet, greet and escort the visitors to their table. Some stand behind the buffet table, serving up the turkey and dressing. Some work behind the scenes in the kitchen. Some clean up. And even before dinner starts, some act as drivers, picking up guests at their homes and bringing them to church.

Dinner starts at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 25 with grace given by the Rev. Don Demmer.

St. Dunstan has held the Christmas dinner annually for 25 years. Previously, church members held craft shows to raise money for the dinner. Now, local businesses foot the bill through donations. For Christmas dinner reservations, call Mary Shurge at 425-3282.

The Shurges celebrate their family's Christmas on Christmas Eve. "We enjoy doing this," she said. "It has been part of our Christmas for so long."

Shopping spree

At 8:30 a.m. one recent day Sally Wittenberg and Francine Iannetta of Westland started out on a mission.

With $700 tucked into their purses and accompanied by aide Carolyn Merucci, the two residents of Four Chaplains' Nursing Care Center in Westland spent the whole day on a pre-Christmas shopping spree.

However, the gifts they bought that day weren't for family members. They were gift shopping for two families they didn't even know.

In their hands they held the "Christmas wish list" for the two anonymous families, a single mother with three children, and a senior citizen who lives alone.

The nursing care center had gotten the names of the two needy families from Family Resource Place of Southgate through its holiday assistance program. The center matches needy families with volunteers who wish to help them. Last year, through the program, 123 donors helped 1,790 persons in Wayne County, said Ruth Sebaly, spokeswoman for the non-profit program.

"We spent the whole day shopping," Wittenberg said. "We went from Target to Mervyn's to Toys R Us to T.J. Maxx. We crossed things off as we went. It was a lot of fun."

The $700 the two women spent on clothes and toys for the two families was raised through two months of fund-raisers held by the 110 residents of Four Chaplains. Fund-raisers included bake sales, a 50/50 raffle and a salad sale.

"Every year we take on a project," said Pam Cohen, activity director. "This year we decided to adopt two families."

County commission shelves smoking ordinance

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER
kabramczyk@oe.homecomm.net

Wayne County commissioners won't ban smoking in businesses within the county anytime soon.

They effectively snuffed out the issue Thursday by referring a proposed "smoke-free workplace" ordinance and a resolution encouraging state lawmakers to study the issue to a commission committee next year.

But the ordinance's author — Commissioner Bernard Parker, D-Detroit — believes the move kills the ordinance since committee chairs must gather enough votes to send the measure back to the full commission.

It appears that, for now, the ordinance doesn't have enough support from commissioners.

"Technically, it can be brought back, but practically, it's dead," Parker said. "I would like to revisit this issue once there is a ruling in the Marquette case. If it is upheld, I would like to bring this back."

Parker's original ordinance had called for a ban on smoking in Wayne County businesses, including restaurants and bars.

The commission's Committee on Health and Human Services, which Parker chairs, amended the proposal on Dec. 10 to soften the ban and restrict smoking in restaurants and bars to 25 percent of their seating areas by March 1, 2000. That revised ordinance then was sent back to commissioners.

Marquette County has passed a similar ban of smoking in its restaurants, which is being challenged in court by the Michigan Restaurant Association.

The committee referral move came two days after commissioners conducted a public hearing on the ordinance where they heard comments from restaurateurs, bar owners and casino officials who opposed a ban and any restrictions, and supporters who liked the concept.

Harry Klingeman, representing the Michigan Hotel, Motel and Restaurant Association, said he believed the ordinance was illegal and pre-empted by state law. "I believe the state is the only one to regulate smoking," Klingeman said. "You should wait for the Marquette decision before you act."

He referred to a lawsuit filed by the Michigan Restaurant Association on a smoking ban in

Year-end planning can help trim '98 tax bill

BY GARY KLOTT
SPECIAL WRITER

Plotting year-end ways to shrink your 1998 income tax bill may not be anyone's idea of holiday season merriment.

But between now and New Year's Eve, there are many things individuals can do to ensure they qualify for the new tax breaks, pick up hundreds or thousands of dollars in extra deductions, defer taxable income, minimize the tax bite on investment sales and position themselves to take maximum advantage of any tax cuts

Congress might enact next year.

In many cases, the tax savings will be enough to finance holiday shopping and keep Dom Perignon flowing New Year's Eve.

Indeed, there is much at stake for millions of taxpayers just as a result of the new tax breaks created by the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997. New this year is a family tax credit of up to $400 per child under age 17; a $1,500 Hope Scholarship credit for the first two years of college; a $1,000 Lifetime Learning credit; and a deduction for up to $1,000 in student loan interest. The new Roth IRA offers the potential for many thousands of dollars in tax savings.

For many middle- and upper-income taxpayers, how much, if any, of the new breaks they'll be able to claim could hinge on what actions they take in the remaining weeks of the year. Most of the new breaks are available only to taxpayers with incomes below specified levels.

General strategy

For most people, the best course is the traditional year-end strategy for minimizing tax bills - prepay some of next year's deductible expenses and defer income where possible until next year. The strategy could help many of those bordering on the income-eligibility limits for the new law breaks get below the cut-offs.

Some new breaks are already set to take effect at the stroke of midnight New Year's Eve as a result of the 1997 tax act and more recent legislation passed by the 105th Congress. Among them are more liberal eligibility requirements for home-office deductions and a bigger health insurance deduction for the self-employed. Making the most of the pending changes will require some special year-end strategies. For example, the home-office change will provide incentive for those affected to delay paying certain household expenses until next year when they're first able to make use of the home-office deduction.

For many middle and upper-middle income taxpayers, the focus of year-end tax planning will be to meet the income-eligibility requirements for the new law breaks that became available this year.

The new breaks have varying income requirements. For instance, the tuition credits are reduced for couples with "adjusted gross incomes" above $80,000 on a joint return and are completely unavailable for couples with adjusted incomes above $100,000. For single filers, the credits are phased out for incomes between $40,000 and $50,000.

The student loan deduction begins to phase out for incomes above $60,000 on a joint return ($40,000 for singles). The family tax credit starts to phase out for joint incomes above $110,000

Commission may take up countywide pest control

Wayne County commissioners may revisit an issue next year that one commissioner hopes to address in her district.

Commissioner Kathleen Husk, R-Redford, said this week that she expects the commission's Committee on Health and Human Services will discuss a county rodent control program next year.

The item had been scheduled for discussion on Dec. 10, but commissioners spent much of their time discussing the smoking ordinance and other items, so the program was passed for the day.

Commissioners expect to discuss costs of such a program at the committee meetings.

Marquette County. "Hotels and motels) are figuratively and literally these people's homes away from homes while they are traveling," Klingeman said.

He called the ban an "invasion of privacy."

"I also question how this ordinance could be enforced," Klingeman said.

Robert Gifford, executive director of the Michigan Restaurant Association, returned to the commission. "We believe it comes down to choices. We believe the ban would be bad for business."

Jack Barthwell, a representative of Detroit Entertainment Atwater/Circus Circus casino group, said it was that casino's intent to offer smoke-free areas. That business also would bring $130 million in new taxes to Wayne County, he said.

"It is a concern of ours if we aren't allowed to compete," he said. Asian and Middle Eastern gamblers are smokers, he said. "They will not come here to gamble," he said. "We will be put at a severe competitive disadvantage."

But Parker's proposed ban also had its share of supporters.

Jeanne Knopf DeRoche of Plymouth distributed to Wayne County commissioners several studies, including the American Journal of Public Health, to drive home her point.

Smoking bans don't affect customer usage of restaurants and bars, according to studies in California, Massachusetts and North Carolina, she told commissioners at a public hearing Tuesday.

"Tobacco use is no longer socially acceptable," Knopf DeRoche said.

Mark Cooper, director of the Michigan Citizens for Smoke Free Restaurants, named the carcinogens found in cigarettes. "We wouldn't tolerate that whether it's in 25 percent of the food," he said drawing an analogy to the 25 percent seating area.

Megan White, senior area executive director for the American Cancer Society, supported smoke-free businesses. Many teens aged 15-19 work in food service, she said. "The teens can't legally smoke, but they are forced to breathe second hand smoke."

Parker was pleased the issue was brought to the forefront. "I'm glad we had a discussion on it, and we heard from people on this issue," he said.

Tax from page A7State House approves 4 new Indian casinos ($75,000 for singles).

Eligibility to contribute to Roth IRAs and the new education IRAs starts to phase out for joint incomes above $160,000 ($95,000 for singles). And whether you're married or single, the right to convert regular IRAs into the new Roth IRAs is available only if your adjusted income is under $100,000.

If you're bordering on the income limits for one of the tax breaks, there are some steps you can take between now and the end of the year that may help lower your income enough to make you partly or fully eligible for the tax benefit.

Employees can arrange with their employer to defer payment of year-end bonuses until after Dec. 31. Self-employed individuals can delay sending out bills so that customer payments won't arrive until next year.

Deductible expenses

Paying certain deductible expenses by Dec. 31 will also help.

There are several types of deductions that will reduce your adjusted gross income. They include business expenses incurred by self-employed individuals and rental property owners; job-related moving expenses; deductible retirement account contributions; alimony payments; and health insurance premiums paid by eligible self-employed individuals. The new student loan interest deduction will also reduce adjusted gross income, but not for purposes of determining eligibility for the student loan deduction itself.

Most other types of deductions, such as charitable contributions and other itemized deductions, won't affect your adjusted gross income - the figure that will largely determine your income-eligibility for the tax benefit. (Adjusted gross income is computed on tax forms before itemized deductions enter into the tax calculations.)

If your adjusted gross income is projected to be below the income-eligibility limits for a tax break, watch what financial moves you make between now and the end of the year to insure you don't inadvertently end up above the income limits.

If your income is expected to be well above the eligibility limits this year, see if there is anything you can do in the remaining weeks of the year to help you meet the income-eligibility requirements next year.

For example, consider accelerating income into this year, such as by selling an investment early.

College expenses

If you're eligible for one of the new breaks for college expenses, check to see if you'll be eligible for the maximum benefit.

For instance, up to $1,000 in student loan interest is deductible on 1998 returns. So if you're below the limit, pay amounts due on the loan by Dec. 31 to make the most of the new deduction.

The Hope Scholarship credit covers the first $2,000 in tuition and fees, while the Lifetime Learning credit covers the first $5,000. If you're below the limits, you may still have a chance to earn a bigger credit. When computing your 1998 credit, you're allowed to count prepayments of tuition for academic terms that begin in the first three months of 1999. So if by Dec. 31 you mail a check for $1,000 tuition for the winter semester that begins in February, you can use that $1,000 in figuring your 1998 credit.

Four new Indian gambling casinos may be built in Michigan after the House of Representatives grudgingly approved contracts negotiated by Gov. John Engler.

The late-evening Dec. 10 vote was 48-47, with 13 members absent. The measure, a resolution, required just a majority of those voting, not a 55-vote majority of those elected and serving. The Senate must also agree.

"We can't amend the compact. We concur or not," said Rep. Pat Gagliardi, D-Drummond, majority floor leader who sponsored the resolution. Casinos are planned for Battle Creek, New Buffalo, Manistee and Mackinaw City.

Engler and Gagliardi argued that if the Legislature fails to approve the compacts, with state regulations, the tribes could win a federal court suit, and the state would lose all control.

Opponents argued that host communities should have a voice in regulating casinos. A New Buffalo area lawmaker asked for an amendment giving the host township and contiguous townships the right to vote on whether to allow a casino. Gagliardi blocked the vote with a "clear the board" call as green (yes) lights went up.

"Enough is enough! We'll have more casinos than universities," said opponent Harold Voorhees, R-Wyoming. Michigan has 15 state universities; when three Detroit casinos and the four new Indian casinos are added, Michigan will have 21 casinos.

Engler sought to persuade Oakland lawmakers that the compact would actually protect them from a casino being located in Hazel Park. The governor spent literally hours cajoling Rep. Andrew Raczkowski, R-Farmington Hills, scheduled to get Gagliardi's job as majority floor leader next year.

"I will protect my constituents," Raczkowski told reporters in the corridor after his confrontation with Engler. But the freshman lawmaker took a walk during the final roll call vote.

Here is how local lawmakers voted on HCR 115:

YES - Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, Bob Brown, D-Dearborn Heights, Eileen DeHart, D-West-

NO - Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, Deborah Whyman, R-Canton.

ABSENT - Tom Kelly, D-Wayne, Andrew Raczkowski, R-Farmington Hills.

Engler was reportedly anxious to get a House vote this year so that both parties would have to put up supporting votes; Democrats still control the chamber, 56-52. Next year, Republicans will have 57-53 control, and the burden of support would fall to the GOP. HCR 115 was supported by 30 Democrats and 18 Republicans.

McCotter, Patterson leave 'em laughing

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER
kabracyk@oe.homecomm.net

Hey, who said the Republican commissioners from western Wayne County don't have a sense of humor?

First, Bruce Patterson thanked Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, for keeping him informed about "all the backroom deals" involving the commissioners.

A little later, Thaddeus McCotter thanked the commissioners for the chance to "cut my teeth on the Wayne County killing ground," namely the Democratic-controlled county commission.

"I will be better for it," McCotter said, amid chuckles and laughter from the other commissioners and the audience during Thursday's commission meeting.

It was the last county commission meeting for McCotter and Patterson, who are leaving the commission for Lansing as newly-elected state lawmakers.

Others leaving the commission were Bill Cockrell, D-Detroit, and Kim O'Neil, D-Allen Park, but it was clear the outgoing Republicans were the center of all the fun as the four commissioners received plaques from their colleagues.

McCotter leaves his commission seat to be the next state senator to represent the 9th District. As a commissioner, he represented part of Livonia and the cities and townships of Northville and Plymouth.

Patterson departs to become a state representative for the 21st District. He served on the commission for two terms, representing the townships of Canton, Huron, Sumpter and Van Buren, and the cities of Belleville, Romulus and Wayne.

As the two GOP politicians turned the pages of their county commission careers, the commission chairman Ricardo Solomon commended the pair for their service.

governing bids concerning small and minority-owned businesses for Wayne County contracts.

"That was something that was very near and dear to my heart," Solomon said. "I will never forget it."

McCotter received his plaque, then stated that he wanted to "thank whoever paid for this lovely thing." McCotter cited a quote from Franklin Delano Roosevelt in how commissioners would be remembered. History will ask whether they brought integrity, honesty, courage and consistency.

The state senator-elect wished his colleagues well, then concluded with a poke at the county executive.

"He wondered 'How do I get rid of these guys?'" McCotter said. "Well, he got his wish."

Even with the tribute and accolades in their final hours as commissioners, McCotter and Patterson weren't finished yet with their attempts to scale down Wayne County government.

They introduced an ordinance that would "maximally improve the quality of life of the residents of Wayne County throughout the 21st Century."

It read: "Wayne County government is hereby dissolved."

It was defeated, 13-2.

STATE CAPITOL CAPSULES

Senators assigned

They don't take office until Jan. 1, but Senate majority leader-elect Dan DeGrow has announced committee assignments for the next two years. Committees are where bills are polished, crafted and lobbied before heading for brief debate on the full Senate floor.

Here is how area senators fared:

Appropriations, the big one where all the budget bills are handled - John J.H. Schwarz, R-Battle Creek, moves up to vice chair, replacing the retiring Bob Geake of Northville. Loren Bennett, R-Canton, is added. Alma Smith, D-Salem, moves up to minority vice chair. Continuing as chair will be 78-year-old Harry Gast, R-St. Joseph.

Education - Loren Bennett, R-Canton, takes over as chair. Peters, D-Bloomfield Township, moves up to minority vice chair.

Farming, Agribusiness and Food Systems - Dianne Byrum, D-Onondaga, continues as minority vice chair. George Z. Hart, D-Dearborn, is added. The committee gets a name change, from Agriculture and Forestry. Continuing as chair is George McManus, R-Traverse City.

Human Resources, Labor, Senior Citizens and Veterans Affairs - Rogers of Brighton continues as chair. Freshman Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, becomes vice chair.

Judiciary - McCotter of Livonia comes in as vice chair. Bullard of Milford joins the panel. Rogers of Brighton continues as a member. Peters of Bloomfield Township moves up to minority vice chair. In his third term as chair will be William VanRegenmorter, R-Jenison.

Local, Urban and State Affairs - McCotter of Livonia starts his term chairing this panel, replacing Leon Stille, R-Spring Lake. Much "urban sprawl" legislation comes from this panel.

Transportation and Tourism - Bullard of Milford is chair; Bouchard of Birmingham becomes vice chair; Hart of Dearborn continues.

Roadwork

Michigan roads will get $57 million in federal money for "high priority projects," said Gov. John Engler. Michigan's two U.S. senators, Carl Levin and Spencer Abraham, let the Michigan Department of Transportation make the selections rather than making the selections themselves. Among the 10 projects, by county:

■ Livingston - M-59 from I-96 interchange to US-23, 1.2 miles, resurfacing, total cost $7 million, high priority funds $4.8 million, year 2000.

■ Oakland - I-96 interchanges at Beck and Wixom roads, reconstruction, total $71 million, high priority funds $5.4 million, year 2002.

■ Wayne - I-75 and I-96 mainline from south of Grand Boulevard to Conrail Bridge, reconstruction, total $109 million, high priority funds $10.7 million, year 2003.

LEGAL SENSE

By Mark Slavens, P.C.
Attorney at Law

WHAT IS YOUR CASE WORTH?

When lawyers estimate the worth of their clients' cases, they usually draw upon their experiences with similar cases, as well as review reports of what juries have awarded in similar cases. This is somewhat akin to the surveys real estate agents conduct of comparable homes in the neighborhood when setting the price of a home for sale. And, just as no two homes are exactly the same and therefore worth the same, no two cases are exactly alike. Such factors as the location of the accident and makeup of the jury come into play to make each case unique.

There are few things in law as subjective as a jury's assessment of the value of a human life in a wrongful death suite because one must factor in age, value to society and family, and the earning potential the deceased might have expected over the course of a lifetime.

COOKING CONQUESTS

CHEF RANDY SMITH

Include some surprises on your menu

Here it is, my favorite time of the year. The chill is in the air, the snow is on the ground (well almost), and I look forward to spending time with my family and friends. During the holidays, I eagerly anticipate the arrival of out of town guests as much as a child waiting for Santa Claus on Christmas Eve!

This year I volunteered to cook Christmas dinner, and visions of sugar plums are dancing in my head. While the main dishes of our holiday feast will remain the same, my relatives have asked me to prepare a few new special appetizers and rich desserts. The pre- and post-dinner offerings provide the perfect opportunity to try something a bit more adventurous.

Surprise your family with new recipes for a flavorful holiday season that is sure to impress. You might actually surprise yourself and have these become new holiday traditions.

BELGIAN CHOCOLATE JEWEL

Serves 8

For the ganache

- 5 1/4 ounces heavy cream
- 2 1/4 tablespoons unsalted butter
- 3 1/2 ounces Belgian Bittersweet Chocolate
- 1/2 tablespoon water
- 1 1/2 tablespoons Grand Marnier

Chop the chocolate into small pieces. Bring the cream to a boil. Place the butter and chocolate into a bowl and add in the cream. Whisk until you reach a smooth consistency. Add in the water and liquor. Pour the ganache into an ice tray and freeze until firm. When firm, remove from the ice tray and return to freezer until needed.

For the cake

- 1 1/4 tablespoons unsalted butter at room temperature
- 3 egg yolks
- 6 ounces Belgian bittersweet chocolate
- 4 tablespoons all purpose flour
- 4 tablespoons cornstarch
- 3 egg whites
- 4 1/4 tablespoons granulated sugar

Cream together yolks and butter in a mixer. Add in the melted chocolate and mix thoroughly. Add in corn starch and almond flour and mix until fully incorporated. Remove to a bowl. In a very clean and dry mixing bowl, whip egg whites to a soft peak adding in all sugar at the end. Fold meringue into cake mixture and let stand.

Cake Assembly

Place cake batter into pastry bag and pipe a bottom layer into a non-stick muffin pan. Place a frozen ganache jewel into the center and pipe more batter around and over the jewel enough to cover completely. Place muffin pan in freezer and let set. Preheat oven to 325° F. and place muffin pan on middle rack. Cook until the top begins to crack slightly. Let stand 5 minutes, remove from pan and serve with reserved ganache or ice cream.

ARTICHOKE AND SPINACH DIP

Serves 8

- 1 (10 ounce) can Artichoke Hearts, drained
- 2 cups fresh spinach, chopped
- 2 tablespoons seasoned bread crumbs
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 6 tablespoons Parmesan cheese, freshly grated
- 1 tablespoon chopped garlic
- Ground black pepper (to taste)
- 48 melba toast rounds

Thoroughly drain can of artichoke hearts and place in the bowl of a food processor fitted with a steel blade.

Christmas memories

OVER THE RIVER AND THROUGH THE WOODS...

BY RENÉE SKOGLUND
STAFF WRITER

OK, you've got your boots shined, the horse hitched, and the family waiting in the sleigh. It's 1880 in Wayne County and you're on your way to grandma's house for Christmas dinner. What will she serve?

It probably won't be venison, even though grandma lives in the country.

"A lot of the game had been driven away," said Jim Johnson, a food historian at Greenfield Village and a member of its special events team.

It may be a fresh cut of pork or beef. "They did butchering at this time of the year so you would have things to eat that you would not normally get," said Johnson. Most likely, grandma will cook a duck, goose or turkey. "We hear over and over again turkey being pushed for Christmas dinner."

■ By the late 1800s, the American melting pot was blending cultures, and people were striving toward a national style

By the late 1800s, the American melting pot was blending cultures, and people were striving toward a national style. Ethnic recipes were reserved for the holidays. If grandma is German, she may stuff that turkey with sauerkraut.

She'll also serve homemade bread and butter and lots of vegetables fresh from her root cellar, like turnips, parsnips and potatoes. Carrots are for dessert, in cakes or puddings.

Don't dare ask grandma to serve anything "medium rare" or "el dente." Cooks in the late 1800s feared undercooked food would make their guests sick. Only celery, which had its own special dish, was served raw.

By the 1850s, the hermetically sealed canning jar was perfected, said Johnson, so your Christmas dinner will include a variety of canned fruits, pickles and relishes. And if grandma hasn't been touched by the Temperance Movement, there'll be some spirits.

You may wish your family a Merry

- Take in the aroma of cooking demonstrations at the Edison Homestead where turn-of-the-century favorites like white fruitcake and lemon tarts will be prepared.
- Warm up at the Martha Mary Chapel and enjoy traditional holiday carols performed by a choir.
- Visitors will be greeted by a three-story holiday tree in the plaza of Henry Ford Museum. The Museum is also featuring a classic toy exhibit, and 720-square-foot gingerbread town with 32 gingerbread buildings and six toy trains pulling 75 cars over 500 feet of track.
- While touring the Museum, boys and girls will have a chance to whisper their Christmas list in Santa's ear.

Champagne makes holiday splash complete

For a number of years we've spotlighted a champagne house and domestic sparkling wines at this time of year. To qualify, the wines must be unique, have consistent quality and truly sparkling personality.

Getting top billing from France this year is Champagne Pommery. With Pommery there is not only the great history of a champagne house and Madame Pommery, but several delightful styles.

Pommery was founded in 1857 by Alexandre Louis Pommery. One year later, he died and his widow took over the business and made it a success. Until 1874, champagnes in general, had both high levels of sugar and alcohol, thought to be necessary to counterbalance champagne's natural acidity. The clever Madame Pommery knew from her contacts with the English that their tastes were evolving toward drier and lighter (lower alcohol) wine styles.

Therefore, Madame Pommery, together with her cellar master, took the financial risk of technical changes resulting in the creation of the first Brut, or dry-style champagne, most preferred today.

Pommery Brut Royal

Pommery styles

Four Pommery champagnes are readily available in our market: Brut Royal $36, Brut Royal Apanage $42, Brut Rose $44 and 1991 Brut Millesime (Vintage Brut) $44. They are all excellent and preference one over the other is a matter of personal taste or what will be served as food accompaniment. In award-winning packaging, Pommery champagnes are gift-wrapped for the holidays.

Each champagne house considers its non-vintage Brut as a house style. Pommery Brut Royal is no exception. To maintain its consistent style, it is made from 40 different top crus in the Champagne region and is a blend of traditional champagne grapes chardonnay, pinot noir and pinot meunier.

Pommery Brut Royal Apanage has singular charm and finesse. To achieve this consistency, only 12 Champagne crus are chosen for the wine that is 45 percent chardonnay. Aged in Pommery cellars longer than Brut Royal, Apanage is our personal preference as the perfect aperitif or champagne to be served with a fish course.

Pommery Brut Rose is fuller-bodied and more robust. It makes a perfect pairing with roasted quail, turkey or

SPARKLING PICKS

In addition to Pommery champagnes, Domaine Carneros Le Reve and Domaine Chandon Cuvee 2000, highlighted in the column, we recommend:

■ French Champagnes

NV Gosset Champagne $41, but shop around because we've seen it for $30; 1990 Bollinger Grande Annee $70; 1990 Champagne Deutz Cuvee William Deutz $85; NV Louis Roederer Brut Premier $42; and 1990 Moet et Chandon Cuvee Dom Perignon $110.

■ California Sparklers

J Wine Company 1994 J Brut $28. From Schramsberg 1994 Blanc de Blancs $25; 1992 Blanc de Noirs $25 (our favorite in this style from California); 1995 Brut Rose $25. From Iron Horse 1993 Russian Cuvee $26; 1993 Brut Rose $28; 1991 Blanc de Blancs $29 (very delicate); and 1993 Classic Vintage Brut $26. The best wines for Christmas dinner are very versatile, matching with ethnic specialties, poultry or red meat. We highly recommend: 1996 Kunde Syrah Sonoma Valley about $18 and 1996 Atlas Peak Reserve Sangiovese, Napa Valley $30.

Christmas over a glass of punch, eggnog, wine, ginger beer, ginger ale, or fermented cider. Or it may be over cordials. If you're lucky, grandpa will fix you a "shrub" while grandma's busy at the stove or fireplace. Shrubs are a lively concoction of fruit juice, maybe raspberry, vinegar and soda.

Time for dessert. Johnson said just about every culture in the area - English, Irish or German - made mincemeat pies. Everyone had an abundance of dried apples, raisins and nuts, the basic ingredients, along with suet, for a good mincemeat. If grandpa adds a little rum, you'll have a great mincemeat. Of course, the pie crust will be made with lard.

Grandma may have made a plum pudding, a dessert that crossed over all ethnic groups. She'll top it off with a brandy or rum hard sauce; a "fairy" sauce made from whipped butter and sugar; or a "foaming" sauce made with soda. (There may not be any plum in grandma's plum pudding. "Plum" refers to any kind of dried fruit, said Johnson, whose own family continues to make an English pudding with beef suet, brown sugar, butter-milk, flour, date and walnuts.)

You'll kiss grandma goodbye as you pull a cut-out cookie off the tree. Back in the sleigh and heading home, you'll snap those sleigh bells and say into the crisp night air: "That was a fine Christmas dinner, with a hearty taste and feel to it."

any game bird. Brut Millesime 1991 characterizes the vintage, but regardless of vintage, is always charming with a lengthy, creamy finish.

New from California

1992 Domaine Carneros Le Reve (the Dream) Brut $35 is the newest sparkler from Domaine Carneros, Champagne Taittinger's California venture. It is a Blanc de Blancs (all white grapes, principally chardonnay).

Luxury Blanc de Blancs are rare even in Champagne, but it has been owner Claude Taittinger's "dream" to make the ultimate in sparkling wine delicacy, a California sparkling wine with the elegance of Taittinger's Comtes de Champagne Blanc de Blancs. Winemaker Eileen Crane, fulfilled the dream by crafting Le Reve, now the prestige cuvee of Domaine Carneros.

Early this decade, California's Domaine Chandon began planning for new millennium celebrations - literally a once-in-a-lifetime event! When the excellent 1992 vintage came along, it provided the base wine for Domaine Chandon Brut Cuvee 2000 $25. Before its recent disgorging, it spent five years on the yeast developing complexity, richness, toasty notes and superbly creamy finish.

The name Cuvee 2000, bears not only special significance, but a warning. If you want top champagnes and sparkling wines for celebration Dec. 31, 1999, you need to be thinking about stocking up and securing your supply by no later than April 1999.

As an example, the 1992 Moet et Chandon Cuvee Dom Perignon will be released early next year. If you'd like magnums rather than 750mL bottles, you should purchase them as soon as possible; they're going fast! There will be a shortage of the best!

Champagne and Caviar

What's a great glass of bubbly without caviar? American and fresh water caviars are close in quality to imported, but much less costly. The best in the U.S. come from Carolyn Collins Caviar based in Chicago. Call (312) 228-0342 or fax (312) 226-2114 for complete list of caviars, truffle items and caviar butters. Clean and chop spinach leaves and add to the artichoke hearts. Combine remaining ingredients and pulse machine to a rough chop; do not puree.

Place a dip into an oven-proof gratin dish and bake at 350s until piping hot throughout (about 15 minutes).

Top dish with freshly grated parmesan cheese and place casserole in the center of a large plate with toasted melba rounds scattered around the outside of the plate for dipping.

MEAT PIE

Filling

- 3 cups chicken, cooked and cut up
- 1 onion, chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, chopped
- 2 parsnips, chopped
- 2 carrots, chopped
- 1 rutabaga, chopped
- 1/2 teaspoon marjoram

- 1/2 teaspoon parsley
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups milk or liquid from veg-
- etables combined with milk to make 2 cups

Preheat oven to 375°F.

Place onions, garlic, parsnips, and rutabaga in a medium pot and cover with water. Heat to boiling.

Reduce heat and cook until tender (about 20 minutes). Drain and mix with meat. Set aside. If using vegetable stewing liquid in sauce, combine with enough milk to make two cups.

Melt butter in saucepan. Stir in flour, salt and pepper. Cook until bubbly, stirring constantly.

Add milk and vegetable stewing liquid mixture slowly and continue to stir until boiling. Let it boil for 1 minute while you continue to stir. Mix with meat and vegetables.

Pour into pastry-lined baking dish. Top with marjoram and parsley. Cover and seal with pastry. Cut small slits into pastry to allow steam to escape. Bake for 45-60 minutes or until crust is golden.

PASTRY

- 1 cup shortening
- 2 cups flour
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1 pinch of salt

Combine shortening and flour. Add water and cut with two knives until well combined.

Divide dough in half. Roll each half on floured surface to form top and bottom crusts. Line pie pan or small baking dish with crust. Set the top aside. Yields: 6 servings.

Main Dish recipe from Daggett Farmhouse

CHRISTMAS STOLLEN

- Bread
- 1/4 cup warm water
- 1 package dry yeast
- 3/4 cup warm milk
- 1/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 4 tablespoons soft butter
- 2 eggs
- 3 cups white flour
- 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
- 1/2 cup chopped almonds
- 3/4 cup candied fruit

Dissolve yeast in 1/4 cup warm water. Let stand 5 minutes.

Mix milk, sugar, salt, butter, and egg in large bowl.

Add yeast and 1 1/2 cups flour. Beat until smooth. Cover and let stand 1 hour in a warm place. Add remaining flour so that the dough is easy to handle. Cover and put in a cool place for 30 minutes.

Preheat oven to 350°F and butter a cookie sheet.

Turn dough out onto floured board and knead in fruits, nuts and lemon rind.

Roll dough to a 1/4-inch thick oval. Fold in half lengthwise, not quite to the edge. Press down along the edge to secure.

Place dough on prepared cookie sheet and let rise until double in size. Bake for 25 minutes. Remove from oven and glaze while bread is still warm.

GLAZE

- 1 cup confectioner's sugar
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- Blend sugar and lemon juice. Glaze bread while warm and decorate with fruits and nuts.

Call (248) 477-6100.

Gifts for the health-conscious are easy to find

If you are struggling to find the perfect gift for folks interested in improving their health, don't fret. There are countless ideas that can make this Christmas great.

■ Gift certificates allow the user to redeem them at their convenience and you can get them from almost anywhere - for almost anything such as health spas, fitness centers, healthy cooking classes, health-oriented programming, skating/skiing/golf/tennis lessons.

■ Exercise shoes for running, walking, tennis, aerobics, etc.

■ Healthy cookbooks, magazines, recipe books.

■ Portable CD/cassette with headphones to use during exercise.

■ Journal/diary to document calorie counting, daily eating habits.

■ Reflective clothing for individuals who exercise at night.

■ Water bottle.

■ Water-proof watch.

■ Battery/solar powered device to monitor pulse and heart rate.

■ Bicycle, rollerblades, ice skates, skis, bowling ball, golf clubs, etc.

■ Sugar-free candies.

■ Exercise clothing.

■ Gardening plants or seeds for fruits and vegetables such as strawberries, tomatoes, cucumbers, lettuce, etc.

■ Bottled water service.

■ Exercise equipment (treadmill, stationary bicycle, stair climber, etc.)

HEALTHY HOLIDAY HINTS

Child-proof your home to safeguard little visitors

When the decorations come out, the grandchildren can't be far behind.

"Having little ones underfoot can be a lot of fun - especially when you know, at the end of a long visit, they'll be going home with their mom and dad," say Botsford General Hospital Emergency Department physician Sanford J. Vieder, D.O.,

"But child-proofing your home is serious business, and you have to approach it by imagining yourself as a totally fearless, 2-foot 6-inch tall, two-year-old in a potential minefield."

To insure your grandchildren's holiday are safe as well as fun, Vieder suggests:

■ Placing medications in a place far, far away from little hands.

"Older people often leave medications out - perhaps without child-proof caps - on a counter or table top where they're a visual reminder to take them at a certain time during the day. That's great if you're an adult, but young children are curious about everything. Put them on a high shelf or another place where they won't be a temptation."

■ Check the crib, playpen and booster seat.

"Often grandparents will use the same furniture that their own children used when the grandchildren come to visit," says Vieder.

"That's a very bad idea. For example, new safety standards require that cribs have no wider than 2 3/8" between slats and that mattresses fit tighter in the crib. Lead paint is another real threat with older furniture. When in doubt, I suggest grandparents either borrow or rent new furniture."

■ Bar the stairs and cupboards.

"If at all possible, make sure you have gates at both the top and bottom of stairs - and not the old, accordion-type gate which can be a real hazard," advises Vieder. "Buy the type that glides and locks into position; that's one purchase you'll never regret."

Also, essential are safety latches for cupboard doors - particularly in the kitchen and utility room where cleaning agents and other chemicals are often stored.

■ Get a car seat.

According to Michigan's Child Passenger Safety Law, all children under the age of one must be properly buckled in an approved safety seat. Under the age of four, they must be protected by an approved safety seat or safety belt.

"Children should never be placed in a rear-facing infant seat in the front passenger seat of a vehicle with an air bag," notes Vieder. "And grandparents, along with every other adult in a child's life, should always set a good example by wearing seat belts, too."

■ Watch the pet.

"If you're not sure how well your other 'family members' may feel around small relatives, either place them in another room or in a kennel. Otherwise, make sure you're keeping a watchful eye on both child and pet."

■ Make a clean sweep.

Lastly, Vieder suggests, making a thorough check of the house and remove any tantalizing items prior to the little ones' arrival. "Particularly during the holidays, 'edible' ornaments, holly berries and poinsettia plants should be placed out of reach, along with alcohol, perfumes and any other items that can be disastrous in small, curious hands."

The old adage, 'An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure' is worth remembering," he says. "The holidays should be a happy time when families come together to share old memories and make new ones - but not in an emergency waiting room."

Food-centered occasions need special attention

It's that time of year again and most of us will attend at least one holiday party. These special occasions are often centered around food and can make many of us lose control. Try to remember the following tips for a happier, healthier holiday season.

■ Don't arrive at any celebration hungry. Try to eat a piece of fruit or some yogurt before you go.

■ Make one trip around the food table before eating anything. Decide what you really want and then go back for it. Force yourself to make some choices without feeling the need to try everything.

■ Position yourself as far away from the food table as you can. If you have to cross the room every time you want something to eat, you may think twice before reaching for something you don't really want.

■ Eating slowly and savoring each taste is also a good way to stay in control. Try putting your fork down between bites, holding a glass of refreshing spring water, and engaging in conversation.

■ Plan for celebrations by fitting in some extra activity during the week.

■ Regular exercise during the busy holiday season will not only make you feel better, but it will reduce the stress that so often accompanies the holidays.

■ Don't keep candies and cookies within reach at home or at the office. Try to keep fruits and vegetables handy when you need a snack.

■ Remember that none of us is perfect. If you do overindulge at a celebration don't beat yourself up. Just pick yourself up, brush yourself off and start all over again. Two or three big meals won't make a difference in the long run. It's what you do the other 362 days of the year that really count.

■ Remember the "reason for the season." Although traditional holiday celebrations include lots of fattening foods, remember what the holidays mean to you and focus on that.

■ Establishing healthy patterns for life is the important thing. Small changes repeated over and over again will eventually become habits. Start developing healthy habits slowly. Start today.

Heart Smart® cookies make holidays healthier

Neighborhood cookie exchanges. Office parties. Gift canisters.

Cookies inevitably make their way into homes, workplaces and schools during the holiday season. And they are probably one of the reasons the average American gains five to seven pounds during the holidays.

"Many traditional cookies - rolled sugar cookies, nutballs, peanut butter blossoms - are loaded with fat. But you don't need to abandon your favorite family recipes," says registered dietitian Fay Fitzgerald, coordinator of the Heart Smart® program at the Henry Ford Heart and Vascular Institute.

"With a few simple modifications, it's possible to create healthier versions."

For example, traditional refrigerated cookie dough has about 5-6 grams of fat per serving (approximately two cookies). Box cookie mixes have up to 6-10 grams of fat per serving.

If you are baking cookies for gifts or parties, Fitzgerald recommends giving them a healthier twist. Some suggestions for modifying your recipes include:

■ Mix dried fruit such as raisins, prunes or apricots into cookie dough instead of high fat ingredients like nuts and chocolate chips; use smaller amounts of nuts (1/3 - 1/4 cup per recipe).

■ For a satisfying crunch, leave the nuts in larger chunks; replace half the fat in the recipe with an equal amount of pureed fruit such as ripe bananas, stewed prunes, apple sauce or canned pumpkin.

■ In addition, to reduce the overall fat, saturated fat and cholesterol content, try the following substitutions: instead of try -one cup butter, shortening, margarine, or lard use 2/3 cup vegetable oil.

Whole milk - skim milk
One egg - two egg whites or 1/4 cup egg substitute
Full serving of salt - half the amount

New Year's in cyberspace

PC TALK

MIKE WENDLAND

Visits with family and friends are how most folks will be spending Christmas Eve. And the Internet reflects that. December 24th is the slowest night of the year on the Net. You can actually dial your service provider and not get a busy signal. Except for a few sites, like the Santa Tracker (www.santatracker.com) Web site that lets families "track" Santa's Christmas Eve journey on a radar-style screen, the Net is a pretty lonely place.

Virtual celebration

A lot of people celebrate in cyberspace.

If you're looking for New Year's Eve online action, the Net is a virtual happening.

Let's start with the biggest and most familiar. Everybody watches Dick Clark ring in the new during his annual live broadcast. But the New York City Tourist Bureau "cybercasts" the dropping of the ball on the Internet. Their site is called New Year's Eve at Times Square (<http://www.nycystourist.com/newyears1.htm>). And besides a lot of pictures, it offers up a great collection stories dating back to 1908, when the tradition started.

Speaking of tradition, there's a site that tells the history of the holiday (<http://wiltstar.com/holidays/newyear.htm>). In case you ever wondered, the New Year has been celebrated since the Babylonians decided they needed another excuse for a good time some 4000 years ago.

One of our traditions is ... starting over. Everybody marks the New Year with a resolution or two. You know the old standbys ... lose weight, get more exercise, save more money, don't procrastinate. Well, to help you actually keep your resolutions, this site <http://guestworld.tripod.lycos.com/BeOurGuest/NewYears/nysign.dbm> lets you fill in an on-screen form, list your goals and then, every so often, it promises to nag you about it by sending you a reminder e-mail.

You can also see how your resolutions compare to others. My favorite was from a guy I found the other day who resolves to "pity the people who have to use an Internet source to get their lives in order."

If you really have no life, spend New Year's Eve at your computer, at the Virtual First Night Web site (<http://www.virtualfirstnight.org/>) which has links to more than 200 cities across the world that will be holding special online celebrations. You can enter the First Night chat room and exchange resolutions with other loners similarly dateless, as you eavesdrop on webcam coverage of those who do have dates and are out celebrating.

As popular as all these 1998 New Year's Eve sites may be, wait till next year. Already several dozen Web sites are online hyping New Year's Eve 1999... like the "Billennium" site (<http://www.billennium.com/home-frame.htm>), which links to the International Register of Millennium Eve parties.

When I checked the other day, there were several hundred listed. If you're having one, you can post it here, too.

Webcams: I've added a webcam on my PC Mike Web site (www.pcmike.com). Thanks to the folks at 2cu.com, I'll be "Net-casting" my WXYT Radio show.

Tune into the radio to hear the broadcast and log on to the Net to see what it looks like. This is in addition to the RealAudio update reports I "broadcast" on the site each weekday.

Mike Wendland covers the Internet for NBC-TV Newschannel stations across the country. His "PC Talk" radio show airs Saturday and Sunday afternoons on Detroit's WXYT-Radio AM1270. He is the author of a series of Internet books. You can reach him through his Web site at <http://www.pcmike.com>.

ARTISTIC EXPRESSIONS

LINDA ANN CHOMIN

Thanks for the memories

As the end of the year draws close, it's time to remember those whose courage and commitment have made all of us a little bit better. I'm lucky as an arts reporter to have met these people and brought their stories to the attention of our readers. Thanks for all the inspiration you've given us.

Potters for Peace

Kris Darby made it possible for all of us to learn about and understand the Nicaraguan culture when she brought clay artists Amanda Guzman and Paula Rodriguez to Plymouth for a workshop at the Village Potters Guild. An active member of Potters for Peace, Darby visited the two clay artists in January for a "how to" on marketing their work. In exchange, the Nicaraguan potters revealed secrets about creating their work to members of the Village Potters Guild. During their stay, Rodriguez and Guzman also relayed interesting facts about their culture.

The average monthly salary for a police officer or teacher is about $140 in Nicaragua. Yet on their trip to this country, they missed the tranquil lifestyle at home. Rodriguez told us, "we have time during the day to just sit and visit. There's a very close fraternity with our friends and neighbors." Maybe, we could learn something from this third world country.

Sharing culture

Artists and entrepreneurs of the Woodland Indians Trading Co. and Gallery showed courage in opening a space for Native Americans to sell their pottery, jewelry, and beaded items.

It's no easy road for new businesses. The Redford gallery began offering workshops on dreamcatchers and cornhusk dolls to attract customers.

Thanks for sharing your Native America culture. We've all learned that Indians living in the Great Lakes area are as talented as their South-west brothers.

"Walk this Way"

Thanks to Ron Bachman for the courage to film the story of how he not only survived everyday life in a world that's frequently cruel to people with disabilities, but developed a positive attitude doing it. Bachman's legs were amputated at age four.

The film "Walk this Way," which premiered at the Penn Theater in Plymouth in October, showed vintage footage taken at the Mary Freebed Rehabilitation Center in Grand Rapids after the surgery. Even back then, his courage to overcome the odds is an example for all of us to follow.

Bachman's proudest accomplishment, undoubtedly, was raising daughter Alicia, now a student at Michigan State University, by himself.

How does someone put a star on a Christmas tree when he can only walk on his hands? This was just one of the problem's Bachman solved when Alicia was 8.

Bachman's story proves attitude is everything. Where there's a will, there's a way. And he did it all with a sense of humor.

We live in a world of lists. To-do lists. Best-sellers' lists. Endless enumerations of popular opinions. All in all, a dizzying compilation of stuff.

Hopefully, the following list won't induce vertigo. And maybe, just maybe, it'll put some perspective on the people and events that distinguished the past year.

Here's hoping.

Indelible impressions

Best museum exhibits: "Monet at Vetheuil: The Turning Point" at the University of Michigan Museum of Art; "The Invisible Made Visible: Angels from the Vatican" at the DIA; "And I Still See Their Faces" at the Jewish Community Center; "Juke Joint" and "Detroit's Black Bottom" at the Charles H. Wright Museum of African American History.

Best gallery exhibits: "Martin A. Maddox: A Memorial Exhibit" at the Kidd Gallery; "Detachable Music for a Collapsible Culture" at the Detroit Artists Market; paintings of Lui Liu at Galerie Blu; "New Paintings by William Glen Crooks" at David Klein Gallery; "Street Scenes: New Paintings by Stephen Magsig" at Lemberg Gallery; "Book Works" by Donald Lipsky at Hill Gallery; and "Jeffrey Abbott: Paintings and Drawings" at the Cary Gallery.

Best new/expanded museum: Cranbrook's expansive Institute of Science, including new permanent exhibits.

Best art festivals: First annual "Arts, Beats & Eats" in downtown Pontiac; Ann Arbor Art Fairs; and "Art & Apples," presented by Paint Creek Center for the Arts.

Best invitational exhibit: Habatat Galleries' International Glass Exhibit featuring 65 leading artists.

Best expression of love in a gallery: Artist Terry Lee Dill's video testimonial of his eternal affection for his fiancée, Diane Roch Smith.

Best community dance production: Plymouth Canton Ballet Company's "Dracula."

Best fine arts competitions: BBAC's Michigan Fine Arts Competition; Canton Project Arts Fine Arts Competition, and Art in the Village sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission.

Best art exhibits for kids: "Beasty Delights" at the DIA; and, ongoing exhibits at Elizabeth Stone Gallery in Birmingham.

Best emerging art community: Plymouth's Old Village.

Best art created on site: Plymouth International Ice Sculpture Spectacular. The 17th annual event takes place Jan. 13-15.

Best art created for a corporate setting: The swirling stainless-steel sculpture, "Eco," by Joseph Wesner of Birmingham.

The sculpture stands inside the Delphi building in Troy.

Overdue recognition

Best contemporary arts museum that's not officially called a contemporary arts museum: Cranbrook Arts Museum.

It's time Director Gregory Wittkopp, and Assistant Curator Irene Hofmann got the credit they deserve for their gutsy pursuit of provocative contemporary art exhibits.

Best literary undertaking: Author/funeral director Thomas Lynch of Milford, whose recent book of poetry, "Still Life in Milford," reveals a literary artist in control of irony, metaphor and meter.

Best local literary journal: "Witness," edited by Peter Stine and published by Oakland Community College. A compendium of poems, essays and short stories by national writers inspired by social issues.

Best original composition by a local composer: "Tuskegee Airmen Suite" by Brian Belanger of Royal Oak, performed by the Birmingham Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra.

Pioneer Awards

Best conversation about the arts: (OK, OK, this might sound self-serving.) The quarterly roundtable discussions on the arts sponsored by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Best efforts to build dance scene: MOT's partnership with the American Ballet Theatre to make the Detroit Opera House the midwest home for the legendary ballet company.

Outstanding performances by the Eisenhower Dance Ensemble, and Detroit Dance Collective.

Best progress by an annual art fair: The West Bloomfield Art Festival, which featured 200 artists from around the U.S.

Trumpeter/actor returns home to play

Todd Curtis' life is like a soap opera. Just when he seemed headed for success in the 1970s and 1980s, Curtis' career as a soap star was nearly cut short by an auto accident that left the Livonia native with serious facial injuries.

Hepler, Ramo and Curtis

What: The trio performs a mix of Brazilian music, American standards, Spanish, French and Italian classics, and originals.

Where/When: 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., Thursday, Dec. 31 at (H Posto Ristorante), 29110 Franklin Road, Southfield, (248) 827-8070; 7-10 p.m., Wednesdays to Saturdays at Encore in the Quality Inn, 1801 S. Telegraph Road, Bloomfield Hills, (248) 335-3790; 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., Saturdays, at Vic's Market, 42875 Grand River Ave., Novi, (248) 305-7333; and 7:30-9:30 p.m., Sundays in January, at the Coffee Studio, 600 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, $3 cover, for reservations call (734) 416-9288.

At the time, Curtis was playing a rich playboy named Jordy Clegg on "Capitol." Undaunted, Curtis, and the producers, simply wrote the 1986 accident into the script after his release from the hospital.

Playing trumpet again wasn't as simple. Curtis was once a promising musician who'd perfected his skills at Boston University's Tanglewood Institute. The facial injuries Curtis sustained when he went through the windshield, more than likely, would prevent him from ever blowing a note again.

That was one of the hardest pills for Curtis to swallow. Before he'd won the part on "Capitol," Curtis played with the Westside Jazz Ensemble while taking acting classes in California. After the accident, "any thoughts of trumpet were put on the shelf," however the emotional pain was tempered by the fact that Curtis had resumed his acting career.

Curtis needn't have worried when "Capitol" was canceled after a five-year run. Before long, producers of the "Young and the Restless" hired him to play Skip Evans, a photographer. Parts in action films such as "American Tigers," "Night Eyes 3" and "Out for Blood" followed his five years on the "Young and the Restless."

It was while filming "Chain of Command" in Israel that Curtis decided to visit his sister Heidi Hepler, who had moved to Rome in the early 1990s. The trip triggered a renewed interest in trumpet. Hepler, a vocalist, is half of a duo with husband Michele (McKEL-ay) Ramo.

tis finally picked up the trumpet again last year but told no one, not even his sister.

"It was the scariest thing that ever happened, nothing came out," said Curtis, "but trumpet is a different form of expression and I missed it. The last time I played was on 'Capitol.' I wrote a fanfare for the show. It was really a lot of fun."

Curtis didn't give up on his playing though. Gradually, his technique came back with daily practice. In June of this year, Curtis sent Heidi a tape of his June's fair demonstrated the effectiveness of the chamber of commerce partnering with one of the area's biggest corporations, Henry Ford Medical Center, to promote the arts.

Best first year for arts centers: The Southfield Centre for the Arts completed its inaugural year, and established itself as a home for regional arts groups, and as a performing venue; and, the Southeast Michigan Arts Conservatory in Canton, which opened in September.

Best word to describe what art groups talk about when not discussing art: Marketing.

Team art award

Best father & son artists: Robert and Joseph Maniscalco of Orchard Lake.

The elder Maniscalco is one of the most accomplished portrait painters in the country. His son, Robert, who recently returned to the area, also has a deft touch with the portrait brush.

Best conceptual vibe: Innovative conceptual artist Jef Bourgeois of Rochester, and other local artists who've transformed the old buildings near downtown Pontiac into studios.

Pontiac may not be Soho, but so what? The fledgling scene is the best statement that artists not only find creative solutions but are good for the economy.

Best sidekicks: Andi Wolfe and Sylvia Gotlib, both of West Bloomfield, co-chairs of the annual Jewish Book Fair.

Wolfe and Gotlib personified the art of having a "good time" while working. Together they orchestrated a book fair featuring thousands of new titles.

Art for a cause

Best exhibits for a cause: "Survivors In Search of a Voice: The Art of Courage, a multimedia monument to women with breast cancer at Somerset Collection.

"Peace Through Humor: Visions of Peace from the Hands of Children" at the Janice Charach Epstein Museum Gallery.

"Empty Bowls," a fund-raiser for Gleaners Food Bank, held at Pewabic Pottery.

"She Be Me" presented by Canton Project Arts at Summit on the Park.

Best ongoing commitment: Very Special Arts of Michigan, which continues to showcase artists with disabilities.

Leadership

Best vision for culture: Cranbrook President Robert Gavin, and acting director of Cranbrook's Institute of Science

Elaine Gurian.

In a short period, both have broadened the perception of the Cranbrook Educational Community as a "destination point" to appreciate culture, rather than an exclusive enclave.

Best developer: Chuck Forbes of Troy, who moved and renovated The Gem Theatre in downtown Detroit, rather than have the historic building destroyed.

Best vision for theater: Evelyn Orbach, artistic director of the Jewish Ensemble Theatre.

The multi-talented Orbach continues to promote theater as a venue to entertain, educate and challenge audiences about contemporary issues.

Most enthusiastic new arts leader: Louis Spisto, DSO executive director, who took charge in January, has shown a relentless enthusiasm.

Ponderables

Best disappearing act: The Gateway sculpture project in downtown Birmingham.

The proposed public sculpture by renown artist Alice Aycock can't seem to gain enough support to be funded and erected.

When will supporters and opponents find common ground, and realize that, collectively, public sculptures should be as varied as the populace?

Best abdication of common sense: The Birmingham City Commission's attempt to hold up a permit for Common Ground's annual art fair in Shain Park.

The commission figured the nonprofit social service agency should share its revenue with other local nonprofits or else.

Thankfully - and wisely - the commission relented, and this past September's event was a well-attended success.

Best bill yet to become law: The proposed tri-county arts funding initiative that would earmark a property tax of .5 mill to go to fund operating budgets for cultural institutions and arts groups.

Best gossip: A metro area developer is planning to renovate several buildings in downtown Detroit in hopes of opening a contemporary arts museum.

Best hope: Arts education programs will become central to teaching curriculums. And celebrating the arts will be considered as a positive way to promote self-expression and social understanding.

DIA extends Holy Land glass exhibit

(PRNewswire) - Ancient Glass from the Holy Land, an exhibition on loan to the Detroit Institute of Arts from the Israel Antiquities Authority, featuring over 200 glass vessels, has been extended until Feb. 7. The majority of the objects in the exhibition in the Knight Gallery have never The Detroit Institute of Arts is at 5200 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Museum hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesdays-Fridays 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sundays. The museum is closed Mondays and Tuesdays.

On Thursday, Dec. 24, the museum will be open until 4 p.m. It will be closed Friday, Dec. 25. Special holiday hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 26 through Thursday, Dec. 31.

Admission to Ancient Glass from the Holy Land, and other programs, is free with museum admission; recommended is $4 adult; $1 children, students and seniors; DIA members free.

The objects in Ancient Glass from the Holy Land are exquisite examples of the glassmakers' art and were found during excavations in Israel. The material spans many centuries, from the mid-15th century B.C. to the 8th century A.D.

A catalogue with color photographs of pieces from the exhibition, a map showing the excavated sites, views of Israel, explanations of methods of glass manufacture and the techniques of excavation will be on sale in the Museum Shops.

The exhibition was co-organized by the Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco and the Israel Antiquities Authority.

Children are the future

The Southeast Michigan Arts Conservatory should be applauded for stepping in to fill the gap in education when Arnoldt Williams Music closed in Canton. Opened in September, the arts conservatory offers training in music and dance. Director Jeff Myers adds drama to the curriculum in January.

A conservatory for Southeast Michigan kids to learn the fine points of music, dance and drama is long overdue.

Thanks to the Verdi Opera Theatre of Michigan, Livonia

Symphony and Plymouth Symphony for their young artists competitions, and the Livonia Arts Commission for its visual and performing arts scholarship program. The competitions and scholarships encourage budding musicians, visual artists and drama students to secure a future for themselves in the arts.

Building an arts district

And finally, thanks to the artists who realized the potential for banding together in a historic location such as Plymouth's Old Village. The newest to move into the area is Village Music. Owned by Norma Atwood, the studio offers Kindermusic to the young, and voice and piano for adults.

If you're looking for blown glass, ceramics, ice sculptures, music or art lessons, or paintings, Old Village should be your first stop.

Plymouth may not be Greenwich Village, Soho, or even Pontiac or Hamtramck, but it's on its way.

If you have an interesting idea for a story involving the visual or performing arts, call arts reporter Linda Ann Chomin, (734) 953-2145 or send e-mail to lchomin@oe.homecomm.net music. She cried after hearing it. She'd long waited for the day when her "little brother" would return "to his roots in music." Shortly thereafter, Ramo called Curtis in Santa Monica with an invitation to play with the duo. Since arriving two months ago, Hepler, Ramo and Curtis have entertained audiences at Encore in Birmingham and the Coffee Studio in Plymouth. On New Year's Eve, the trio performs at Il Posto Ristorante in Southfield, and in March as part of the "Just for You" arts and entertainment series at Oakland Community College in Farmington Hills. Their music defies categorization but shows strong influences of Brazilian, American, Spanish, French, Italian, jazz and classical music.

"I saw the potential," said

Ramo. "The timing was there and the same thing happened to me. I didn't play guitar when I first came to this country, but at least I played violin. I know how hard it is to get back to something you haven't done for a while. Todd and I went to Hines Park to practice. I don't know the horn language, but I knew what I wanted to hear."

Born and raised in a small Sicilian village, Ramo began studying guitar at age 12 and violin at age 13. By age 15, he'd heard a recording by jazz violinist Stephan Grapelli and guitarist Joe Pass and decided that one day he would move to America.

At his father's insistence on obtaining a degree, Ramo went to Palermo to study violin at the Conservatory of Music. Although his passion at this point was for the guitar, the instrument was out because the conservatory didn't have a guitar certificate. By age 17, he was under contract as a violinist with the Orchestra Del Teatro Massimo in Palermo. He went on to earn a master's degree in violin at the Conservatory of Caltanissetta in Italy in 1985.

Two years later on the way to the U.S. at age 23, Ramo's guitar was stolen in Florence so he improvised. He worked as a strolling violinist in a restaurant near Belle Isle. Ramo now has five recordings to his credit and is grateful for the opportunities he found in this country. He became a U.S. citizen in July.

From the early years when Ramo wrote his first piece of music capturing the sounds of birds, honking horns and homeless dogs while practicing 12 to 15 hours a day on a shepherd's range in Italy, he evolved into a composer for orchestra. "Afro-Brazilian Concerto for Guitar and Orchestra" is set for debut in 1999 by the Munich Youth Orchestra.

Ramo releases a solo recording in January. Curtis plays on one cut, Hepler sings on another.

"We're all trained in the classical field and broke out of it," said Hepler. "There's an understanding of what we're doing with phrasing."

Growing up in Livonia, Hepler's and Curtis' parents sought to cultivate an interest in the arts in their children. All three pursued studies in music: Curtis on trumpet, Heidi on cello and younger sister Holly on piano. Talent seems to run in the family. Holly Hepler attended Interlochen Arts Center's summer camp and now works as an engineer for Fox 2-Detroit.

Hepler, from an early age, sang with the church choir. Later, she studied voice with Marjorie Gordon in Detroit; Seth Riggs, Los Angeles, and with the University of Michigan Opera Theatre at the Interlochen Arts Center. While in Rome she performed at the 1991 Rome Jazz Festival. Longing for home, Hepler returned to Michigan in 1994 and began singing with Ramo. They married in October 1994. Since then they've been busy touring Italy, Germany and The Netherlands as a duo.

"In our home, creativity was so encouraged," said Hepler. "And that's such an important thing. We used to put on productions like Rumpelstiltskin in the basement."

Music lovers will be able to enjoy the rare brand of music created by Hepler, Ramo and Curtis at least until January. Curtis' return to his home in California depends on potential movie deals and a series, currently in the negotiating stages. In the meantime, the trio will continue to be a family affair.

It's a small world according to Ramo. His sister is a big fan of "Capitol" now playing continuously in reruns in Italy. He never realized Curtis was such a big star in Italy until talking to his sister who still lives there.

Destiny tears brothers apart in 'Prince of Egypt'

BY KEELY WYGNONIK
STAFF WRITER
kwynonik@oe.homedcom.net

"The Prince of Egypt," is the story of two brothers, Moses and Aaron, brought together by forces they could not control, and later separated. Moses is the older brother who always gets blamed for the mischief caused by his younger brother, Aaron.

While true to its biblical roots — the Old Testament story of Exodus — "The Prince of Egypt" is entertaining and inspiring with fantastic special effects. This isn't a story about an evil Pharaoh and tortured Moses who leads his people out of slavery in Egypt to the promised land. It's a story about two brothers, Moses and Aaron, who enjoy each other's company, and are heartbroken when destiny tears them apart.

Pharaoh Seti isn't portrayed as the evil emperor, but as a fatherly figure who loves both of his sons, and is hurt when they don't live up to his expectations.

The story unfolds against a richly detailed backdrop with music by Oscar winner Stephen Schwartz and Academy Award winner Hans Zimmer. Schwartz, known for his work on "Pocahontas," wrote six original songs for the film, and Zimmer created the score. Music is used as part of the narration, and to set the scene for action that unfolds. Over 350 artists, animators and technicians from 35 countries, including Kent Colotta who grew up in Plymouth, worked four years bringing "The Prince of Egypt" to the screen.

"Deliver us to the promised land" — Baby Moses, the son of Hebrew parents, enslaved in Egypt, and sentenced to die by Pharaoh Seti's decree, is placed in a basket on the Nile River by his mother who prays "there is nothing I can give you except this chance that you will live — deliver us to the promised land."

Discovered by Pharaoh's Queen who delights in her discovery, Moses is raised with Rameses who will grow up to replace his father as Pharaoh.

Flashback to the present — Moses and Rameses race each other on a wild chariot ride. They get in trouble for the damage they cause to the temples being built by the Hebrews.

Pharaoh explains one weak link can break the chain of a mighty dynasty, and Rameses, filled with grief, vows to change, setting into a motion a series of events that will forever separate the brothers.

Moses discovers the truth about his father, who decreed the death of all the first-born male Hebrew babies because "the Hebrews grew too numerous, they may have risen against us," he explains to the distraught Moses. "Sometimes for the greater good sacrifices must be made — after all they were only slaves."

Moses, recovered from the shock of learning his true identity from his sister Miriam, a slave, asks, "why did you choose me?" "We didn't," Pharaoh replies, "the gods did. When the gods send you a blessing, you don't ask why it was sent."

Wandering in the desert, Moses learns his purpose — "How can you say what your life is about? Look at your life through Heaven's eye...The answers will come to he who tries to look at his life through heaven's eye."

This Moses falls in love, and marries, Tziporah, a Midianite shepherdess who stands by him as he fulfills his mission — leading his people out of Egypt to the promised land.

Rameses doesn't want to let the Hebrews go. "I do not know your god," he says. "Neither will I let your people go."

As the Egyptians endure God's wrath, you'll find yourself rooting for Moses, but feeling a little sorry for Rameses who still wants "things to be the way they were before."

"The Prince of Egypt," is a movie you'll want to see with your family, it's the perfect holiday outing. Little children might be frightened by the Egyptian soldiers whipping Hebrews who are laboring at work on the temples, and Pharaoh's death sentence on baby Hebrew boys.

As the filmmakers explain, animation doesn't define this film, the story of two brothers — Moses and Rameses does. It's very story driven.

An all star cast brings the animated characters to life including Val Kilmer as Moses; Ralph Fiennes, Rameses; Michelle Pfeiffer, Tziporah; Sandra Bullock, Miriam; Jeff Goldblum, Aaron; Danny Glover, Jethro; Patrick Stewart, Pharaoh Seti; Helen Mirren, The Queen; Steven Martin, Hotep; and Martin Short, Hoy.

"The Prince of Egypt" is about a serious subject, but there are lighthearted moments you'll laugh at. You'll be entertained, moved, even to tears, it's an adventure meant to be shared, and talked about.

Art Beat features various happenings in the suburban art world. Send Wayne County arts news leads to Art Beat, Observer Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150, or fax them to (313) 591-7279.

CONCERT TODAY

The Livonia Civic Chorus presents "Forever Christmas" along with the Stevenson High School Village Singers 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 20 in the Clarenceville High School auditorium on Middlebelt, south of Eight Mile, Livonia. Admission is free.

CALL FOR ART

Very Special Arts Michigan is looking for original art works by people with disabilities to exhibit in its 1999 Emerging Artists Touring Exhibition. Deadline for entry is Jan. 8. For details, call (248) 423-1080.

The 1998 Touring Art Exhibition, which showcases 43 two- and three-dimensional art works, has been exhibited in galleries, art centers, universities, festivals, and conferences in Escanaba, Mount Pleasant, Kalamazoo, Macomb, Grand Rapids, Novi, Hamtramck, White Cloud, Lansing, Livonia, Birmingham, Pontiac, and Franklin.

Very Special Arts Michigan is a state affiliate of Very Special Arts, an international organization that provides learning opportunities through the arts for people with disabilities. Founded in 1974 by Jean Kennedy Smith as an affiliate of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C., VSA provides programs in creative writing, dance, drama, music, and visual arts in 15,000 communities in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and more than 85 countries.

Founded in 1978, Very Special Arts Michigan provides a variety of arts programs in schools, hospitals, nursing homes, and arts and community centers throughout the state.

ART CLASSES

The Plymouth Community Arts Council begins classes and workshops for all ages in sculpture, watercolor, dance, decorative painting, pottery, film appreciation, drawing and sketching, children's theater, paper art, creative writing, life drawing, and batik the week of Jan. 18 at the Joanne Winkelman Hulce Center for the Arts, 774 North Sheldon, at Junction.

To register or for information, call (734) 416-4ART.

"THE WINTER'S TALE"

Carolyn Klein, a Livonia native, recently appeared in Shakespeare's "The Winter's Tale" at Indiana University where she is a second-year student in the MFA acting program. Klein received her BFA from Western Michigan University. Before attending Indiana University she was in New York City auditioning for parts, taking classes at Weist Baron Studios and Sande Shurin Studio, and working as an extra in Polish Wedding with Claire Danes and Gabriel Byrne. Her professional experience includes one summer at Enchanted Hills, two summers at Tibbits Opera House, and industrial films in Detroit.

AWARD WINNER

Grace DeGrave won the Grumbacher Medallion Arts Award for Outstanding Achievement at a Livonia Artists Club show this fall.

DeGrave's acrylic painting, "Woods," depicts a shady roadway leading to a brightly lit turn in the road.

Beauty knows no shortcuts

I just completed my first week of makeovers at the beautiful Hotel Baronette in Novi, and each woman I made up had the same question every woman has had since I started in the business 125 years ago, "How long will this take me?"

Let me tell you something... you, the woman who says to me, "I need an easy hairstyle because I am busy." If you were adept at hair, you would take the time. If you were adept at makeup, you would take the time. No one is so busy they cannot take the time for proper grooming. Yes, grooming. That's all makeup and skin care are. Just like brushing your teeth. You take the time for that, don't you? (Please God.)

In this day of e-mail, microwaves and faxes, it seems that everyone is looking for shortcuts. Stop it! Let's get our priorities straight. How you look should be your number one priority, since how you look directly affects how you feel.

Several wives tales regarding skin care proliferate from the words, "instant," and, my personal favorite, "anti-aging." Nothing is instant. Botox, which scares me to death, and could literally maim you for life, is something any sane person would not attempt. "Anti-aging"...what? Nothing and no one can get rid of a line or a wrinkle. Soften them, certainly. But get rid of them? Never. If you try that, as per a plastic surgeon's knife, you will look like you could star in Mr. Tennessee Williams's classic, The Night of the Iguana, and you'd play the iguana!

So, all of you Michiganders, how should you take care of your skin this holiday season? Two years ago I spent two months in the Ann Arbor area, starring in Neil Simon's "Plaza Suite." If you remember, that winter you had 10 straight days of 48 degrees below zero with the wind-chill factor. I thought I was in Hell and I have good skin!

My skin care regimen is for all of my readers, male and female. Clinique really said it best with its ad, "Clean, Clarify and Tone." At night I use an aloe-based cleanser on my face, rinsing with warm water. Freshener (which is astringent without alcohol) follows, and then I hydrate with my aloe creme with collagen and biotin (my 24 hour cream). Next, I apply night creme followed by eye creme. Sound intricate? Not really. When I have the cleanser on, I brush my teeth. That takes three minutes. The whole shebang takes a total of four!

In the morning, I wash my face with a mild cleanser that does not contain alkaline or lanolin, rinse off, apply freshener, and then my aloe creme. That's it! Women would then add moisturizer if they are wearing makeup that day. In the cold winter weather, be sure to wear additional moisturizer, preferably one that does not have a heavy water content. Water...cold wind on your skin, freezing, not a pretty picture.

To complete your skin care regimen, if you are truly ambitious, you should perform a facial on yourself. Twice a week for normal to dry skin, three times weekly for normal to oily. It's really quite easy. First use an exfoliate (a product that sluffs off dead cuticle from the surface layer of the skin.) Rinse off and use a drawing masque. This will not only remove any blackheads/sebum buildup, but will also tighten your pores. The total process takes 20 minutes each time. Not a big deal! And well worth the time when you see the beautiful results.

Many of you have asked about the private makeover appointments at the Baronette in Novi. December and January are completely sold out (sorry again!) February has an added five days. For more information, please call 1-800-944-6588. You can also e-mail me at jwbb@worldnet.att.net, or visit our Web site, jeffreybrucecosmetics.com. The minimum purchase of $125 goes toward any Jeffrey Bruce aloe-based products used on you that day. You are one of four women for a two and one-half hour session (repetition breeds knowledge) and a great time is had by all. What a great holiday gift! ME!!! Of course, gift certificates are available.

I hope all of you have a beautiful and healthy New Year. See you in 1999!

Shapes of the season

Shop windows are filled with faceless forms, their curvy torsos draped in holiday finery and warm winter woollens. In anticipation of snowflakes, mannequins are bundled in scarves and sweaters, mittens and fur cuffs. Others model holiday attire, including beaded sweaters and sexy white lingerie. Whether you're yearning for the ski slopes or a cozy night in front of the fire, area retailers and their window sculptures show the fashions that fuel your fantasies.

Where can I find?

This feature is dedicated to helping readers locate sources for hard-to-find merchandise. If you've seen any of the items in your retail travels (or basement) please call Where Can I Find? (248) 901-2555. Slowly and clearly, leave your name, number and message. You should see your input in a few weeks. Due to the overwhelming response to this column, we only publish the requested item two or three times. If you have not seen a response or heard from us, we were unable to locate the item. Thank You.

WHAT WE FOUND:

To donate old bowling and golf trophies, call Greg Gilbert, Oxford Township supervisor, (248) 969-9479.

Colored light wheels for aluminum Christmas trees can be found at English Gardens on Coolidge Road in Royal Oak, and through the Hammacher Schlemmer catalog. 1-800-543-3377.

Hard-to-find scents can be found through Fragrances Unlimited from Gary Droz, manager. You can write to Droz at 4836 Washtenaw, Apt. 7, A7, Ann Arbor, MI. 48108, or call him at (734) 434-0629, 8 a.m.-8 p.m. daily.

To reach the company that makes custom made lipstick, call 1-800-MAKEUP4U.

Linda called to say that, as of December, Nestle's Hazelnut Coffee is back on store shelves, unfortunately only at Jewell Supermarkets in Wisconsin and Illinois.

Found a Combi stroller. Found the words to "Johnny Roebeck" for Mary Beth. Found the "Parodies for Charity" CD.

WE'RE STILL LOOKING FOR:

Salada Tea 100 count regular tea bags (not decaffeinated).

Delores wants Revlon Moon Drops lipstick in Million Dollar Red (it came in a green tube).

Deb is looking for the Lustre Rose china pattern by Amcrest (sold through grocery stores).

Still looking for a Drowsy doll.

Anna is looking for the book, Temptations, by Otis Williams from 1989 (a large paperback).

Sonya is looking for a 100% men's wool Shaker sweater.

Lorraine wants a Power Ranger poster.

Bob is looking for a completely disassembled Harley Davidson motorcycle to reassemble (reasonably in contact) for a winter project.

Eleanore of Warren is looking for Zoya nail polish #0192, color Coretta.

Doris is looking for the children's book (hardcover) Little Wiener.

Noreen wants a 1998 Farmington High School yearbook, new/used.

Pat wants children's metal dishes from the 1950s with an Oriental theme and individual packets of gardenia scented bubble bath from the '50s.

A Fisher Price alligator flashlight from two years ago for Pat.

Doris is looking for Clinique Cheek Base in Peach Soft.

Lisa wants a man's back pocket wallet made from eel skin.

The game of Flinch, for Barbara.

Darryl is looking for New Era Potato Chips, NeHi Creme Soda and Apple Easy Dessert (in a box, like apple cobbler).

Jerry is looking for four colognes: Faberge's Aphrodisiac, Woodhue, Nine Flags by Colton Company, and Russian Leather.

Compiled by Sandi Jarackas

FRESH FACE

Jennifer Koshorek of Berkley has been selected as the "Face of Ms. J" Birmingham in the second annual Jacobson's Ms. J model search for its Midwest stores. Koshorek, 17, will be featured in visual displays and signage throughout the Birmingham Ms. J department. She also receives a Ms. J merchandise certificate for $100.

Koshorek is one of 13 Midwest store winners. The Ms. J department features fashion-forward apparel catering to the 16 to 30-year-old shopper who's smart, hip and knowing.

WESTLAND'S WANT LIST

Westland Shopping Center's picks for the hottest merchandise trends this season include:

- Furby, the newest animatronic pet, Blues Clues, Rugrats and Teletubbies (KayBee Toys, Hudson's, Kohls, BDalton)
- Wide-wale corduroy pants, track pants, bell-bottom denim, wide-legged denim, cotton fleece, hula girl dresses, cardigan sweater twin sets with velvet ribbon trim, messenger

RETAIL DETAILS

bags, Adidas fisherman hats, fatigues (Size 5-7-9, Rave, County Seat, Kohls, JCPenney, Sears, Hudson's)

• Handmade soaps and Bath Bombs (The Bath & Body Shop, Merle Norman, Perfumania, Victoria's Secret)

• Special Editions Barbie, Beanie Babies, Hallmark Ornaments (Beanie Baby Kiosk and Fischer Hallmark)

• Reproduction jewelry, including Titanic-inspired jewels and vintage chokers (Corey's, The Loop, Claire's)

For more gift ideas or holiday event information, call Westland Center Customer Service (734) 421-0291.

CYBER SHOPPING

According to a report from Dataquest, Internet holiday retailing will reach $2.35 billion worldwide (more than double 1997 totals of $1 billion). Roughly 10 percent of U.S. consumers polled made an Internet purchase during the week after Thanksgiving, according to Marketing Corp. of America. Says Josh Linker, president of GlobalLink New Media, this is due to a number of factors:

- Consumers have overcome their security fears and show it by using credit cards online.
- Time management. People can do in 10 minutes, what would take them an hour at the mall.
- Online access is growing. According to a Marketing Corp. of America study, half of U.S. adults have Internet access.
- Simplicity. Instead of driving from store to store, consumers have an incredible resource of information at their fingertips.

GlobalLink New Media is an Internet development company in Bloomfield Hills.

OF THE MOMENT

Metals In Time, a new sterling silver and watch store in Royal Oak, offers an unparalleled stock of watches, from the affordable Swatch to ceramic RADOs and a prestigious line of Maurice Lacroix. Until Christmas, all silver jewelry is 20 percent off. 416 S. Washington. (248) 582-9344.

EVENT HOTLINE

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce has launched a 24-hour hotline to give the inside scoop into all of Plymouth's great events. If you would like to know what's going on in town this weekend or even next month, simply call (734) 453-1540. ## ELITE FASHION

Elite, the newest fashion retailer at Fairlane Town Center, delivers just what its name promises: high-style women's fashions and accessories that guarantee a one-of-a-kind look.

A local brother and sister business team opened the boutique that carries a broad size range, from 2-26. The new store began last April as a single Fairlane Town Center kiosk, selling accessories only. Before long, Elite amassed such a following, it simultaneously ran four different kiosks in the mall.

The shop's selection spans casual through evening fashions, including coats. Also find handbags, scarves, sunglasses and shoes.

ISLAND APPAREL

If you plan to visit a balmy tropical island in the next few weeks, you might be shopping around for resortwear instead of warm woolens. Roz & Sherm's Annie Frank suggests the following hot designers for cruise or resort attire:

• Tommy Bahama: Classy safari looks in khaki and pastel blue, including comfortable two-piece silks.

• Harari and Hino & Malee: Not found in your local retail mall, these two designers provide a vast assortment of simple, yet elegant, day into nighttime wear.

Any fashionable cruise outfit should have a pair of classy pumps to accompany it, says Frank. Roz & Sherm shoe manager and buyer Paula Becker says lucite, high platform bottoms and strappy pumps are top sellers.

Tie the whole resort outfit together with sterling silver jewelry by three new designers - M&J Savitt, Vaubel and Lazaro.

Party perfect: Little girls make holiday debuts in a jewel-tone flocked velvet dress from Jacobson's.

FOR THE CHILDREN, FROM SANTA

Santa will be at Somerset North every day 'til closing. And for each child who visits, he has a special gift. A velvet pouch for three golden coins from Santa's treasure chest.

Children can use the coins for purchases at participating stores
Or tuck them away as mementos.

While you're waiting to visit Santa, the characters from "The Giving Season" will be on hand for rollicking entertainment, amusement and storytelling. If you wish, you can even join them for Saturday breakfast. (Reservations can be made at the castle.)

And for your entertainment, we've arranged daily performances at Somerset North. A special 5 pm of "A Most Unusual Gift," a musical staged by The Children's Theatre of Michigan.

The Holidays at the Somerset Collection. Something for everyone.

It's time to make plans to greet the new year

It's time to answer the question - "What are you doing New Year's Eve?" If you haven't made plans yet, here are some options.

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra's "Christmas Festival" concludes with a New Year's Gala, conducted by Music Director Neeme Jarvi at Orchestra Hall in Detroit 9 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 31.

In the last few hours of 1998, the DSO and guest violinist Alexander Markov, will perform a concert that includes violin sonatas, whirling waltzes, a powerful polka and titillating tangos.

Ballroom and tango dancers Glenn Clark and Cindy Gerlands, and Michael Finegan and Pamela Preczewski of the Stardust Ballroom will join Jarvi and the DSO, as will Peter Soave on the banoneon (a member of the accordion family of instruments).

In addition to the music of the Joseph and Johann Strauss dynasty, this year's Gala will include a tribute to the tangos of Astor Piazzola. The concert will be followed by an elegant, Matt Prentice catered gourmet light supper with festive desserts and dancing on-stage to the sounds of the Keith Saxton Orchestra. A complimentary champagne toast will accompany a count-down to 1999.

Admission to this concert includes a Matt Prentice-catered dinner at serving stations throughout Orchestra Hall. Dinner includes appetizers such as smoked salmon on brioche canape with mustard sauce and fresh dill; whitefish pate on English cucumber rounds; and wild mushroom strudel.

Carving stations will provide marinated turkey breast with mustard thyme butter and apple cider sauce, as well as tenderloin beef with a choice of Bearnaise sauce, morel sauce or demi glaze. Cash bar stations also available.

The Keith Saxton Orchestra will perform hits from swing to Motown for those who wish to kick up their heels. Dancing will continue to 1:30 a.m. Tickets range from $50 to $75, a limited number of box seats are available for $100, call (313) 576-5111.

MORE REASON TO DRINK MILK

Dental researchers have found that getting adequate amounts of calcium from milk and other sources helps us keep our teeth. This conclusion, reached after reviewing data from the National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey, is based on the observation that adults who consume little calcium are one and a half times more likely to suffer the ill effects of periodontal disease than those who get sufficient calcium. Aside from building strong bones elsewhere in the body, calcium is essential for building a strong jaw. This is important because, if left untreated, gum disease may eventually eat away at the bony sockets in the jaw that anchor teeth. If the bone is weak, tooth loss may result.

Be sure that your diet always includes sufficient amounts of calcium. At LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL ASSOCIATES, preventive dentistry is our goal for every patient. We're located at 19171 Merriman Road, where preventive dentistry may not be where we start with every patient, but it's where we like to finish. It involves daily care, good nutrition, and periodic check-ups and cleanings that maintain good dental health already achieved. Please call 478-2110 to schedule an appointment. We take pride in our ability to provide quality dental care in a relaxed and comfortable environment. Smiles are our business.

TRAVEL

Toronto celebrates new year with 'First Night' program

BY LESLIE SALOMON
SPECIAL WRITER

Yipes! New Years is almost here and your family has no plans. Here's an idea:

Spend it in Toronto at the "First Night Toronto '99." It's an alcohol-free family fun and entertainment with a celebration of the arts with over 400 performers, 55 shows and 14 different stages both inside and outside around Harbourfront Centre.

It runs a full 12 hours from noon on Dec. 31 till midnight. It's the biggest New Year's Eve celebration in the city featuring music, theater, dancers, film, storytellers, comedy, puppetry, clowns, visual arts, ice sculptures, jugglers, drummers, fire eaters, human statues, mimes and magicians.

Some of the headliners for the adults are Gowan, one of Canada's favorite pop/rock singer/songwriters, and Albert Schultz, who croons songs by Gershwin and Danny Kaye. There is also Salome Bey, known to many as "Canada's First Lady of the Blues," and the "Yuk Yuk Comedy On Tour," featuring two of Canada's funniest standup comics, Chuck Byrn and Terry McGurrian.

For the kids (and adults too), the "Imagination Market" is where you can have your face painted, craft a musical instrument, create a head-dress, or a costume.

And with your costume, you want to be sure to show it off at the "People's Parade," led by the First Night's Marching Band. If you have never been in a parade, this is your chance.

After the parade, don't have your kids poop out early. Keep them up till 8:30 p.m. for the "Mini-midnight." There is music with Doug Barr and the Big Boy Band and a splashing fireworks display.

And because there are many events outside, be sure to dress for the weather. A pair of warm boots or shoes and a good hat and scarf and gloves if the weather is cold.

Cold or warm, you can dress as formal as you like - a tuxedo - or as informal - a snow suit - if you want to go ice-skating.

Whether it's ice-skating, parading, or listening to some great music it's an evening your entire family can delight in, with something for everyone.

If you want to go:

Before Dec. 24 tickets called "Buttons" are discounted: $8 each or $28 (Canadian, incl. GST - Goods and Service Tax) for a family of 4.

After Dec. 24, all "buttons" are $10 (Canadian, incl. GST). Children 5 and under admitted free.

To avoid standing in line and to be assured of a seat for a particular performance, for $2 (Canadian) you can reserve a seat in advance (Call (416)-973-4000) before December 30th or while quantities last. Just arrive 15 minutes prior to show time to take your reserved general admission seat.

For information call Harbourfront Centre Information Line: (416)-973-3000, Box Office: (416)-973-4000. Or visit their Web site at: www.firstnighttoronto.com

Leslie Salomon lives in Southfield.

SNOWMOBILING

Snowmobilers and skiers can get daily updates on trail and slope conditions in the Traverse City area now through March by calling 1-800-72-SKI-TC (1-800-727-5482). A service of the Traverse City Convention & Visitors Bureau, the toll-free number offers fresh updates each week detailing snow and trail conditions for the popular northwest lower Michigan winter destination and also provides a current weather forecast. The daily updates allow callers to select information about conditions specific to their winter sport of interest, whether downhill skiing, cross-country or snowmobiling.

BAHAMAS CONNECTION

HMHF Fun Vacations will be the only company offering flights directly to the Bahamas from Detroit this winter, with nonstop flights to Nassau on Paradise Island. HMHF flights will depart from Detroit Metro Airport Feb. 4 through April 22 on Thursdays and Sundays. Air-only prices start at $229.95 round trip.

Travelers to Nassau can stay for 3, 4 or 7 nights. The nonstop flights are via Spirit Airlines DC-9, departing Detroit at 9 a.m. and departing from Nassau at 1:10 p.m.

Air/hotel vacations start at $539.95. For travelers desiring food, water sports and more included will pay rates starting at $739.95. All prices do not include various taxes totaling $50. The HMHF air/hotel packages include round-trip transfers in Nassau, hotel taxes, special activities as included by hotels and the service of a local host during stay (available to air-only travelers, too).

NEW YEARS ON MACKINAC

Mackinac Island's Mission Point Resort will host a New Year's Eve Celebration on Thursday, Dec. 31. Mission Point is offering a New Year's Eve holiday package starting at $199 per person. Upgrades to hot tub suites are available. The package includes a two-night stay, based on double occupancy, a European continental breakfast for two and tickets to the New Year's Eve Celebration.

The New Year's Eve Celebration, hosted at the resort, is from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. The party is complete with entertainment, hearty hors d'oeuvres, drinks and a champagne toast at midnight. To purchase tickets, call (800)833-7711. The cost is $75 per person.

CEDAR POINT CAMP

Cedar Point Amusement Park will introduce Camp Snoopy, a major multimillion dollar family playland based on the Charles Schulz's "Peanuts" characters for its 1999 season. Capital expenditures at Cedar Point in 1999 will top $25 million, the largest investment in the park's 128-year history. Camp Snoopy will showcase eight new rides geared toward young families, with the centerpiece attraction being a 31-foot-tall family roller coaster, the park's 13th "scream machine."

Northwest beauty overcomes vacation's setbacks

BY RON PICARD
SPECIAL WRITER

I can't remember a vacation where so many things went wrong, at least at the beginning. We met my brother's family in Seattle for two weeks in the Pacific Northwest. We had planned to spend a few days in Olympic National Park before taking a driving tour through the Cascade Mountain Range.

Between our two families we had: your stereotypical screaming baby on the airplane (complete with a mom who didn't think to bring food or toys), a rental car agency that was not only not in the airport, but wasn't listed in the telephone directory, another rental car agency that charged for the most expensive insurance option available after we requested a waiver for the insurance, a rental car that was filthy, and a restaurant that didn't serve my lunch until the bill came for everyone else.

Not a good first day. It's not a good way to lead off a travel article either, but what can I say? If the trip hadn't gotten better I wouldn't be writing about it.

The first morning my wife, Rebecca, son, Andy, and I followed my brother's family (Tom, Betty, Katy and Adam) north where we boarded a ferry to the Olympic Peninsula. On our way across the Puget Sound we got our first view of Mt. Rainier with Seattle's skyline in the foreground. Had we known that was going to be our best view of Washington's most impressive peak, I probably would have taken a few more pictures. Oops, sorry. I slipped back into that negativity again. The trip really did get better!

Olympic National Park

We decided to spend more time at Olympic than at anywhere else, mainly because of its diversity. There are three separate areas of the park and they've each got their own attractions. Mount Olympus, the highest peak in the Olympic mountain range dominates the interior of the park, while the Pacific coastal areas offer visitors a completely different aspect, with the Hoh rain forest is situated in between.

There are a number of trails that run throughout the park. We decided hike along Hurricane Ridge and were rewarded with wonderful views of the Olympic mountains, the Straits of Juan de Fuca and blooming wildflowers all along the trail. There are a number of waterfalls that are created from the mountain run off. We also hiked to Marymere falls, one that Katy and Adam had seen in a travel video.

We explored two of the park's beaches, Rialto Beach and Ruby Beach. We arrived at both just before low tide, which allowed us to wade out into the lowest sections of the tide pool. At Rialto Beach we were able to tag along on a ranger led-hike. She took us out to where hundreds of starfish and anemones attached themselves to the rocks.

At the Hoh Rain Forest we hiked the two major trails, the Spruce Nature Trail and the Hall of Mosses Trail. Since it was the end of the summer they had received little rain the previous three weeks. The forest wasn't as green or wet as we expected. There was an extraordinary number of ferns growing on the ground and on nurse logs, old dead trees that as they decay become home to new trees.

Our hike through the Hall of Mosses trail (not to be confused with the Hall of Mosses trail, which ends at the Red Sea...) was also led by a ranger, and no, she didn't provide that joke for us. We've found that when we explore new areas it's often beneficial to tag along with a ranger. They can provide local history and are able to point out things that we would miss on our own.

The Cascades

After leaving Olympic we headed south, following the Cascade mountain range. We stopped at Mt. Rainier, Mt. St. Helens and made it as far south as Crater Lake in southern Oregon.

At Mount Rainier National Park we began by hiking to both Carter and Madcap Falls. There's no shortage of waterfalls to hike to so we stopped at the visitor center to get some recommendations from some of the rangers.

We headed up to Sunshine Point early the next morning. We went on a ranger hike to Crater Lake: Rob, Rebecca and Andy Picard on Wizard Island in Crater Lake.

Emmons Glacier before opting for a lower elevation and warmer temperatures. We spent the rest of the day hiking to Sunrise and Clover Lake, where some of the local birds decided to try and steal our sandwiches. The kids thought it was pretty funny, but if the birds were that aggressive we didn't want to stick around to see what else was living there.

On the hike back we saw a half dozen deer, including a couple spotted fawn. It seems the entire animal population of the park is accustomed to people.

Our next destination was Mount St. Helens. We drove to Windy Ridge where we hiked to Spirit Lake. As you approach the park, the first glimpse of the devastation is quite impressive. We came away with quite a few science fair ideas.

The entrance on the west side of the park takes you to Johnson Ridge Observatory where you can look directly into the ridge of what used to be the mountain. The new lava dome is visible complete with steam rising from fissures around the dome. We hiked a trail that went through a pumas field where there was little growth, almost 20 years later. Overall this was one of my favorite parts of the trip.

From there our next stop was Crater Lake. Roughly 6600 years ago Mount Mazama erupted before collapsing in on itself. The resulting crater began filling with rain and snow and is now the deepest lake in the United States. There's not as much to do here as there is at the more famous parks in Washington, but we did hike to The Watchman, an old lookout tower that provided a panoramic view of the lake.

There are a lot of other attractions other than the volcano range, and we did take time to stop at a few. Fort Clatsop, where Lewis and Clark spent the winter of 1805-6, was on Tom's list of places to see, and Andy studied the Oregon Trail last year in school so we stopped at a couple of Oregon Trail museums.

At Newberry National Volcanic we hiked through a mile long lava tube cave. Parts of the cave were 20 feet high and you can see small stalactites forming on the ceiling. We also hiked to the Big Obsidian Flow, an enormous area of black volcanic glass. Like most things on this vacation the vastness of the formation is quite impressive.

On a whim we decided to visit the Historic Columbia River Highway. We were surprised at the beauty of the road. It was opened in 1915 and was based on European roads that incorporated the sights along the way instead of avoiding them. 600 foot waterfalls emptied into pools that were a few dozen feet from the road. By far this road was our most pleasant surprise of the trip and we'll make sure we spend more time in the area on our next trip.

Overall I would have liked to spend more time just about every place we visited. Since it was our first trip to this part of the country we took the "let's see it all" route. Next time we'll chose two or three spots and spend more of our time on the trails and less time in the car.

Collegiate note

•Charleston Southern (S.C.) sophomore Michelle Roy (Livonia Ladywood) was recently named to the first-team All-Big South Conference in women's soccer.

Roy, who played club soccer for the Michigan Hawks, has also been elected captain next season for the Lady Buccaneers.

Girls AAU hoop tryouts

Tryouts for the Livonia Lightning AAU girls basketball team will be from 4-6 p.m. (14- and 15-and-under) and 6-8 p.m. (16- and 17-and-under) at Ladywood High School, located at Newburgh and Five Mile roads.

Age determination is based on Dec. 31, 1998.

For more information, call Lightning director Patrick Cannon at (248) 353-2530 (work) or (734) 953-0854.

SHSHL leaders

Livonia Stevenson's two goalies, Kevin Marlowe and Chris McComb, ranked 1-2 in the Suburban High School Hockey League goals-against standings, based on games through Dec. 17.

Marlowe hadn't allowed a goal in three games while McComb had been scored on twice in three outings.

Dwaine Jones of Churchill stood third with a 1.33 average. Teammate Matt Williams was fifth with a 2.00 goals-against mark.

John May of Stevenson was the leading scorer with 18 points on 11 goals and seven assists. Tony Saia of Franklin was second with 13 points (nine goals and four assists) while Brent Hoinicki of Dearborn stood third with 12 points.

The Spartans' Tim Allen (6-4), Dave Sellin (6-4) of Redford Unified and Joey Virga (3-7) of Dearborn all had 10 points to tie for fourth in the scoring derby. Dan Cieslak of Stevenson was seventh with nine points, on seven goals and two assists.

At eight points each were Joel Halliday (6-2) of Redford, Dan Cook (5-3) of Churchill and Mark Nebus (1-7) of Stevenson.

Whalers on TV

The Plymouth Whalers can be seen locally on cable television, with some games broadcast live and many others as replays.

Live telecasts by MediaOne begin at 7:10 p.m. with the pre-game show, featuring play-by-play announcer Eric Peasley and John Bower. Games on Dec. 29, Jan. 16, Jan. 30, Feb. 6, Feb. 20 and March 13 have been selected to be televised live by MediaOne on channel 25 in Plymouth, Canton and Northville.

Replays of other Whaler games can be seen on channel 25 at 6:30 p.m. Sundays and 7 p.m. Wednesdays, following live telecasts. Other communities to receive this service include Westland.

College news

•Madonna senior guard Katie Cushman ranks first in the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference in assists (5.7 per game) and steals (2.7). Teammate Chris Dietrich, is seventh in the WHAC in scoring (14.0 points per game) and assists (3.1).

•Madonna's 2-10 men's basketball team has struggled to find wins but not statistical leaders. Mike Massey ranks fourth in the WHAC in scoring (17.4 points per game) and Mike Maryanski is eighth (14.0); Maryanski is also seventh in rebounding (6.6).

Nick Hurley, a sophomore from Plymouth Canton HS, is fourth in the WHAC in both assists (4.3 per game) and steals (2.6).

Churchill wins tri-meet

Livonia Churchill beat Westland John Glenn, 15-7, 15-5, and Wayne Memorial 16-4, 15-4, in a volleyball tri-meet on Wednesday.

Against Glenn, Fernanda Leite had five kills and Luba Steca and Lauren Ruprecht four each. Leite served eight points and Marsi Phillips and Megan Sheehan seven apiece.

Against Wayne, Ruprecht and Leite had five kills each. Steca served seven points.

Penalty killers deadly for Spartans

Livonia Stevenson won short-handed — on the ice and on the bench.

Injury depleted Stevenson got a pair of power play goals and two short-handed scores Friday night to defeat rapidly improving Livonia Churchill, 5-2.

The victory kept the Spartans (6-1) perfect after six Suburban High School Hockey League games. The Chargers (3-3-2) are 2-2-1 in SHSHL play.

"Stevenson really established themselves as the team to beat in our league," said Coach Jeff Hatley, whose team was two days removed from its first victory ever over state power Trenton. "You really have to be impressed by their league record."

"They seem to find a way to dominate our league. Not just this year, but every year."

"Churchill has a nice team," Coach Mike Harris of Stevenson said. "They're playing hard. They were coming off a big win over Trenton. They played us extremely tough."

"It's too bad we can't combine these two programs. There's so many united teams out there. If we combined our two teams and Franklin, we'd be a force to be reckoned with for sure."

Goalie Kevin Marlowe stood out for the Spartans as usual and made a key trapper save late in the third period with the Chargers on a power play to preserve Stevenson's 3-2 lead.

Then came the killer, as far as Churchill was concerned.

The power play was still going on when Stevenson's Joe Suchara stole the puck and passed to Mark Nebus as the two broke in on goal. Nebus buried the shot on the breakaway with 5:42 to play to make it a two-goal lead.

Churchill retained its man advantage but turned the puck over. John May notched the unassisted short-handed goal, deking the goalie and drilling the puck into the vacated spot, to make it 5-2 and seal the verdict.

"They did a nice job of executing their special teams, the power play and penalty killing," Hatley said.

Churchill held a 26-24 edge in shots on goal. Ryan McBroom was in goal for the Chargers.

Stevenson was missing four players due to assorted injuries.

Orchard Lake St. Mary's scored 11 of the last 14 points in the second quarter to trail only 27-26 at halftime Friday against Detroit Catholic Central.

Problem for St. Mary's was it didn't have Moore in reserve.

CC senior guard Nick Moore scored 12 of his game-high 20 points in the third quarter and the Shamrocks held off the Eaglets, 59-56, in a packed and stuffy CC gym.

The Catholic League crossover win gave the Shamrocks a 3-0 record. St. Mary's fell to 1-2.

St. Mary's took its first lead of the game on a basket by Grant Mason early in the third quarter but a three-point shot by CC's Matt Loidas and five straight points by Moore gave the Shamrocks a 35-30 lead.

St. Mary's later cut the deficit to one with a 7-0 run but CC took a 47-41 lead into the fourth quarter with a seven-point run of its own. Moore started the spurt with a triple followed by consecutive baskets by Loidas and Dave Lusky.

Rob Sparks' only triple started the scoring in the fourth quarter and Lusky's basket off a sweet pass by Moore gave the Shamrocks a 52-41 lead with 6:48 left.

Moore made all four of his shot attempts in the third quarter, including three from three-point range.

The Shamrocks had 11 first-half turnovers to only seven in the second half. St. Mary's, which loves to press and fast break, committed just 11 turnovers.

Loidas joined Moore in double figures with 12 points, including 10 in the second half. Senior guard Dan Jess scored nine points in the first half, all on triples, and bruising center Anthony Tomey had a season-high six, all in the first half.

Even Tomey was surprised with his output. He scored the Shamrocks' first four points and maybe it was contagious. Before the end of the quarter, senior guard Dan Jess made two long range triples to give the Shamrocks a 16-9 lead heading into the second.

Larry Batiste led St. Mary's with 16 points and teammate Maurice Searight added 14. Mason had eight and Jonte Jones seven.

With a quicker lineup, St. Mary's game plan was simple.

"We had to transition the ball and push it and,

Tim Newman should think about taking a technical foul more often. Or should he?

Livonia Stevenson rattled off the first 17 points of the game Thursday night and cruised on to an easy 78-52 victory over Livonia Churchill.

This despite head coach Newman of Stevenson sitting out a mandatory one-game suspension for getting tagged with two technical fouls in his previous game.

"The kids played hard," said acting coach Scot Shaw. "Things go well when you play that hard."

They didn't go well for Churchill, 2-2 after the Western Lakes Activities Association crossover game. Stevenson is also 2-2, which is two wins better than it was last year.

The Chargers relied on a one-move, one shot offense the first part of the game and it cost them. The Spartans also slipped their press rather easily.

"We broke it and we were patient," Shaw said. "We hit the open cutter and didn't panic. We made a lot of shots off the press break."

"Tim did a good job with this. He pretty much told me what to do. He put it in, we made it happen."

Stevenson was ahead, 21-6, after one quarter, 34-19 at the half and 58-31 after three periods. Eight Chargers scored, in part because the deep end of the bench got a lot of opportunities.

"Give Stevenson credit," Coach Rick Austin of Churchill said. "They played very hard. They played with confidence. That's a pretty good basketball team."

"They got very good guard play. We couldn't handle their quickness."

Austin pulled his scoreless starters with 3:47 left in the first quarter and the next five notched Churchill's first points on a bucket by Brad Bescoe with 2:30 showing on the clock.

The Chargers' starters couldn't get much closer through the first half of the second quarter, when it was 32-18, and got only one more point the rest of the half to muff their last chance to make it a contest.

Nine Spartans scored, five reaching double figures. Harland Beverly led the way with 15, most from the left wing or

Too many people killed during firearm deer season

BILL PARKER

The 1998 firearms deer season was safer than last year, but also more deadly.

The number of hunting accidents dropped from 27 in 1997 to 21 during the recently completed 16-day season.

Unfortunately, four of those accidents resulted in the death of a fellow hunter, compared to just two fatalities last year.

While 21 accidents statistically makes hunting a safe form of recreation, with an accident rate of less than three per 100,000, that's still 21 accidents too many.

Hunting is a recreational activity. Death and serious injury should not be a part of it.

As responsible hunters, we should all strive to reduce these numbers even further. Most every hunting accident can be traced back to a reckless or thoughtless act. That's why we must make safety a priority above everything else.

If every hunter used common sense and followed a few safety rules there's no reason we couldn't have an injury-free hunting season.

Unfortunately, in our quest for success, hunters sometimes throw caution to the wind and take shots without making sure their field is clear, or make reckless mistakes that result in accidental discharge.

There has been a drastic reduction of better than 60 percent in the number of hunting accidents since a couple of laws were enacted in the 1970s.

In 1971 the DNR implemented mandatory hunter safety classes for first-time hunters born since Jan. 1, 1960.

In 1977 a law was passed that requires hunters to wear a hat, cap, vest, jacket or rain gear of highly visible color commonly referred to as hunter orange.

There are still a lot of hunting opportunities before the seasons of 1998 come to a close.

Be safe and be sure you're hunting with others who stress safety before success.

A majority of hunting accidents occur between members of the same hunting party. If you have a reckless hunter in your party let him know how dangerous he is and that his actions will not be tolerated.

Don't be shy. Let the individual know you won't stand for jeopardizing your safety. If his recklessness continues refuse to hunt with him — for your own safety.

"With an accident rate of fewer than three accidents per 100,000 hunters, hunting continues to be one of the safest forms of recreation," said Herb Burns, DNR law enforcement chief. "But by obeying all hunting regulations and using common sense while handling firearms we can keep Michigan as the safest state east of the Mississippi."

Success reports from area

hunters continue to roll in. Remember, if you, a friend or family member tagged a deer this fall let me know, then look for details in an upcoming issue of the Observer & Eccentric! Newspaper.

My address, phone number and e-mail address are listed at the bottom of this column.

Sixteen-year-old Justin Kosik had a tremendous 1998. The Plymouth resident and junior at Salem High School bagged a gobbler during the spring turkey season while hunting in Hillsdale County. Kosik returned to Hillsdale County for opening day of the firearms deer season and shot his first buck, a dandy 6-point.

A first-year bow hunter, Kosik also shot a doe during the early archery season.

"The outdoors give us a great chance to spend many hours together," said Justin's father, Dick. "We go fishing or hunting together on almost every weekend."

Dan Piergentili shot a 4-point buck on Nov. 28. The Redford resident was hunting along the edge of a corn field in Hillsdale County when the buck walked out into the middle of the cut cornfield.

Shopping for trees

NATURE NOTES

TIM NOWICKI

When my children and I went to cut down our Christmas tree the other day, the tree farm we went to had five different coniferous trees on display as we entered the gate.

There were white pine, scotch pine, white spruce, blue spruce and Douglas fir. They all make fine looking Christmas trees.

White pine is our state tree and has five needles in a bundle as they grow on the twigs.

It is the only coniferous tree in the eastern U.S. that has five needles in a bundle. The five needles can also represent the five letters in the word "white."

Uncultivated white pines often grow with large spaces between branches, but cultivated trees that are pruned can be nicely full.

Some trees get so full, or dense, that it's hard to hang ornaments on them.

Speaking of hanging ornaments, white pine needles are very soft and do not prick your hands while you decorate.

Scotch pine is an introduced species to Michigan. It has adapted very well to our climate and soils.

The medium length needles, two per cluster, are very sharp. Their needles do hold ornaments very well and give a nice full appearance.

White spruce have short needles that can be picky, but because they are short you can avoid them better when decorating.

Each needle is less than an inch long and squarish in shape if you cut it perpendicular to its length. An attractive feature of the white spruce is the presence of cones on the branches, a natural ornament.

They also, like some other coniferous trees, have a very pleasant pine fragrance.

White spruce are native to Michigan. They look similar to black spruce, but the cones of white spruce are more elongated and have a smooth edge to each scale.

Black spruce prefers wetter conditions and has a ragged edge to the scales of the cone. Today white spruce is frequently used for pulp, which is used in the manufacturing of paper.

Years ago native American used the pliable rootlets to sew bark pieces together.

Blue spruce are prized for their color. Tree farms like them because they are able to grow in the dry sandy soils of Michigan.

Though a non-native spruce, people plant them regularly because they have adapted well to our climate.

Like other spruce trees the cones hang down from the branches. On the Douglas fir the cones stand upright on the branches.

Douglas fir along the west coast can be over 300 feet tall, but Rocky Mountain firs are much shorter and more drought resistant.

They make a great Christmas tree because of their color, density and because their needles persist longer than many trees.

Tree farms provide habitat for various birds and other animals. They may have trees in rows, but it's more attractive than concrete and strip malls.

Based on the number of people cutting down trees, it looks like we'll have tree farms for a long time.

Happy Holidays.

hopefully, we'd get quality shots — but we didn't," St. Mary's coach George Porritt said. "I thought our defense was good. Some of (CC's triples) were long bombs, great shots."

CC might need more of the offense Moore provided in the third quarter when it opens a tournament at U-D Jesuit against Cincinnati Hughes after Christmas.

•WAYNE 54, YPSILANTI 45: The Braves left Shane Nowak alone to shoot three Thursday night. Big mistake.

Nowak buried the ball five times from three-point land to lead Wayne Memorial to its first victory of the season.

The Zebras made a total of eight three-pointers in the Michigan Mega Conference Red Division game and might well be expected to become more and more proficient at long-range shooting since Coach Chuck Henry doesn't have a lot of size to work with.

It won't hurt Wayne to keep making free throws, either, since the majority of teams don't make more than about 60 percent these days.

Wayne, 1-2 overall and 1-0 in the Mega Red, was 10-for-11 from the free throw line and went 9-for-10 in the final period to protect its lead.

Nowak wound up with a game-best 23 points and Taron Smith scored 12. Kevin Harris paced Ypsilanti with 18 points and Anthony Ofili contributed 13. The Braves are now 1-3 following their first Mega Red contest.

"We didn't get much out of our press," Henry said. "We went to a delay in the last three minutes of the game and they were forced to foul. That's where we got our free throws."

Wayne took the lead from the start and opened up a 15-8 bulge at the end of the first period, extending it to 33-22 at the half.

The third period was only 7-3, however, as the Zebras held the Braves without a field goal. Unfortunately, Wayne went 3-for-14 from the floor itself.

•LUTH WESTLAND 68, LUTH EAST 67: A twisting, driving layup by Charlie Hoeft with 24 seconds to play stood up for the Warriors.

After Hoeft's shot, host Harper Woods Lutheran East was out of timeouts and was unable to set up a last shot.

Lutheran East came down and got off several shots, but they weren't good ones. All were contested by Lutheran Westland defenders or off-balance attempts.

Senior forward Tom Habitz led Lutheran Westland players with 24 points, junior guard Hoeft added 13 and senior forward Ryan Ollinger had 12.

Guard Dorian Crawford led all scorers with 33 points for Lutheran East, 17 of them coming in the fourth quarter.

A 22-17 fourth period nearly let Lutheran East pull out the first Metro Conference game of the season for both teams. Lutheran East is now 0-2 overall and Lutheran Westland 2-1.

Lutheran Westland trailed, 17-14, after one quarter and 31-24 at the half. But a 27-14 third period, in which Habitz scored 14 of his points, put the Warriors in control.

"Must have been a good halftime speech," quipped Coach Dan Ramthun of Lutheran Westland. "Actually, we had some good shots in the first half, we just weren't hitting."

Lousy free throw shooting nearly cost the Warriors the game. They made 13-of-29 in the game but were just 6-for-14 in the final eight minutes. Lutheran East, on the other hand, helped itself in the fourth period by making all but two of its 10 foul shots.

"We said at halftime it was going to have to be our defense that did it," Ramthun said. "And it was."

on drives, Brett Koch scored 13, Marty Kennedy and Paul Bowers had 11 each and Dave Stando scored 10, all in the second half.

Mike Lenardon had eight, Keshay McChristian and John Van Buren four each while Maher Salah scored two.

"It was a big help having Harland hitting those shots off the press break," Shaw said.

Stevenson moved the ball well and played very well defensively.

It only glaring deficiencies were to occasionally take an ill-advised shot (that went in) or not drain the final 60 seconds of a period.

The Spartans denied the passing lanes to the Chargers early in the game and played tight man-to-man the rest of the way.

"They outrebounded us down low," Austin said. "There was one time when I think they had five shots in a row at the basket because we didn't box out."

"They kept everything we did to the perimeter. Which is a credit to Stevenson."

Churchill got 17 points from John Bennett, who made three triples but must have tried 15, and 14 from Randall Boboige, who made two threes.

It was a very good night for Shaw, who coached the Stevenson junior varsity team to a big win over Churchill, too.

"Two-and-oh," he said, "pretty good for a night's work."

Chargers top Trojans

This high school hockey score should raise a few eyebrows around state — Livonia Churchill 4, Trenton 3.

The Chargers overcame a 3-2 second-period deficit with a pair of third-period goals Wednesday to upend the defending state Class A champions in a non-leader at Edgar Arena.

Trenton, winners of eight state titles and five runner-up finishes since the post-season tourney began, came in ranked fourth in Class A.

Unranked Churchill improved to 3-2-2 overall with the win. The Trojans fall to 5-2.

"One game doesn't make a season and we made some mistakes, but we finally got the monkey off our back," Churchill coach Jeff Hatley said. "We've been close on a number of occasions, but I don't think we've ever beaten them in 22 years."

Goaltender Ryan McBroom was the defensive and offensive hero for Churchill.

Besides coming up big in the nets, McBroom's clearing pass set up teammate Nathan Jakubowski for the game-winner with 1:45 left in the game.

"Anything can happen with this team," Hatley said. "We can get outshot, outshot and outskated, but Ryan is always going to be our X-factor."

Jakubowski's power-play goal from Adam Krug and Ed Rosset to with 7:51 remaining tied the game at 3-3.

Brad Zancanaro scored all three Trenton goals, including one at 7:53 of the first period after Churchill's Chuck Leight opening the scoring at 1:03 from Krug and Justin Charnock.

Krug then made it 2-1 at 1:01 of the second period, but Trenton forged ahead on two more Zancanaro goals at 3:27 and 6:26 (power play).

"In the second period we took some bad penalties," Hatley said. "You can't put Trenton on the power-play or they'll kill you."

"But I'm proud of the kids. They showed maturity and were able to pull together, come back and win the third period."

CATHOLIC CENTRAL 5, GP NORTH 2: The battle of unbeaten was almost over before it started.

Redford Catholic Central reeled off the first four goals of Wednesday night's game and never looked back in upping its record to 8-0. Host Grosse Pointe North dropped to 9-1.

Keith Rowe had a goal and three assists to lead the Shamrocks in scoring while Brandon Kaleniecki had two goals plus an assist.

Twice the Shamrocks scored at the 20-second mark of the first two periods.

Kaleniecki opened the game with a goal before it was a minute old, assisted by Brad Holland and Rowe. The second period wasn't 20 seconds old when Rowe scored, assisted by Chris Morelli and Kaleniecki, to make it 3-0.

David Moss, assisted by Matt Van Heest, scored for Catholic Central at 4:29 of the first period. Kaleniecki padded the lead to 4-0 at 14:27 of the second period with his second goal, assisted by Brian Yost and Rowe.

"I think they're learning the game pretty well," CC Coach Gordie St. John said. "Obviously you're happy to win, but you want to win doing things the right way. We still have a lot of stuff to work on."

Grosse Pointe North narrowed the margin to 4-1 but Derek Genrich expanded it again at 9:22 of the final period. Rowe and Holland drew the assists.

The Norsemen notched the game's final goal at the 13-minute mark of the final period.

Ben Dunne worked the first two periods in goal for CC with Matt Modelski picking up the action in the third. CC had a 27-23 edge in shots on goal.

Catholic Central will obviously retain the No. 1 ranking it has held this season.

"It's hard to stay there all season," St. John said. "You're bound to have some bumps along the way. We'll take it one game at a time, and let the rest take care of itself."

"Our kids are gamers. But it's early in the season. You don't want to take anything for granted. Everybody's shooting for us."

That's how it is when you're No. 1.

RU 7, FRANKLIN 5: Andy Dorfried's goal with 5:56 to play Thursday night broke a 5-5 tie and sparked Redford Unified to its seventh win in nine games this season.

Redford Unified with (Coach) Pete Mazzoni are doing great," Coach Terry Jobbitt of Livonia Franklin said after his team's second game in as many nights. "They're a good team."

J.J. Price and Jason Moul assisted on the game-winner and Moul sealed it with an empty net goal with 52 seconds to play, his second goal to go with two assists in the game.

Joel Halliday scored two goals for Redford, as did Dave Sellin, who also had an assist. Price assisted on two goals while Mike Karath, Cody Bartlett and Derrick Danielson each recorded one assist.

"We played a bad first period and scrambled the whole time," Jobbitt said. "Redford came out strong and just dominated us, getting 15 shots to our five."

"The second period was a different story. Franklin played great systems and neutralized RU, plus we scored two power play goals."

Tony Saia had a hat trick in the second period for Franklin, including the power play tallies. He also assisted on a first-period goal by Frank Geluso. Andy Garbutt scored the other Patriots' goal.

Adam Sexton had a pair of assists for Franklin, with single assists going to Geluso, John Nichol, Ryan Tracy, Josh Garbutt and Brandon McCullough.

"In the third period we lost Josh Garbutt to an injury and we ran out of gas," Jobbitt said. "But my boys never quit. This young Franklin team is my pride and joy. They should be proud."

Chris Garbutt went the distance in goal for Franklin, 5-3 overall and 3-2 in the Suburban High School Hockey League. Joe Roe was in goal for Redford during the first two periods with Eric Page finishing up. Redford is 7-1-1 overall and 5-1 in the SHSHL.

FRANKLIN 3, WL CENTRAL 2: Brandon McCullough's third period goal gave the Patriots a 3-1 cushion and they skated it home from there.

Trevor Skocen, assisted by McCullough, got Livonia Franklin off to a 1-0 start after a scoreless first period Wednesday night and Josh Garbutt made it 2-0 off assists by Tony Saia and Frank Geluso.

The Vikings narrowed the margin on Matt Friess' unassisted goal but Saia and Andy Garbutt set up McCullough for the game-winner.

Chris Haven closed the scoring for Walled Lake Central, assisted by Joe Torosian.

"We had a lot of shots on net," Coach Terry Jobbitt of Franklin said, "but not many quality shots."

The Patriots held a 41-21 edge in shots, with Rob Williams earning the win. Mike Vittore was excellent in net for the Vikings.

"This young Franklin team is one of the hardest working I've had in my career," Jobbitt said. "But we still have a lot to learn."

Mike Nebus won't be back until early in 1999 due to a knee injury. John Katulski went down in practice Wednesday with a bad right wrist sprain and was unable to hold a stick at game time.

Dennis Queener missed the game because of a badly twisted ankle and Danny Wilson went off during his second shift of the game with a suspected jaw fracture.

"The character of the kids is just incredible," Harris said. "We have so many key players out with injuries. Guys are playing out of position to fill the holes. That's why we're willing to do that to keep the team strong is a credit to them."

"The stamina and determination the remaining guys showed is incredible. They wanted to win. They played with a lot of emotion, a lot of intensity. We were fortunate to capitalize on some Churchill mistakes."

The score wasn't an accurate reflection of the Chargers' play. Having a one-goal deficit turn into a three-goal loss because of two short-handed tallies means you're just a bounce, a hit or a break away from victory.

"We don't pay too much attention to the league standings," Churchill's Hatley said. "We're just out to improve our team a little bit at a time."

Stevenson got off to a 1-0 start just 20 seconds into the game.

May made a pass back to the point on a 3-on-2 break and Ryan Sinks slapped the puck into the corner of the net. Chris Williams also drew an assist on the goal.

Churchill battled back to tie with at the 3:50 mark as Dan Cook picked off a pass, skated in and beat the goalie unassisted.

The Chargers took a 2-1 lead with 3:14 left in the period as Justin Charnock deflected a point shot from Cook.

Adam Krug passed to Cook on the power play and Charnock redirected his shot into the net.

The Spartans tied the score at 2 with 1:52 left in the opening period. Sinks walked out from the corner, deked the goalie down and lifted the puck into the upper corner of the net. Mark Nebus drew the assist.

The second period's lone goal belonged to Stevenson.

Danny Cieslak, assisted by Sinks and Williams, scooted in on a power play breakaway and found the five hole 4:13 into the period to give the Spartans a 3-2 lead.

"The Cieslak goal was a key goal," Harris said. "Then getting two short-handed goals is a feather in our cap."

"This was a great game and a big win for us. We're excited to enjoy the holidays and have time to heal our injuries."

RECREATION AND BOWLING

Need a gift idea?

Here's a buying guide for sportspeople

Dressing right: Heading out into our 'winter wonderland' means dressing right, from boots to waders to the proper vest for your fishing gear and a hat to keep your head warm.

By JEFF COUNTS
STAFF WRITER
JCOUNTS@OE.HOMECOMM.NET

If on Christmas, you have visions of trout instead of sugar plums dancing in your head and the only line you can remember from a holiday song is the one about the partridge in a pear tree, and it's hunting season, then chances are you're a sportsman or woman.

Each year you endure the bad ties from your mother-in-law, when you're secretly lusting for a new battery for your bass boat or a new tree stand for deer hunting.

Well, it's not too late to drop a few hints about what you really want. Here's a list of some serious and not so serious outdoor gifts.

Winter is coming. That means ice fishing, snowmobiling, snowboarding, skiing and snowshoeing. It sure doesn't look like it now, but weather forecasters are calling for a colder winter with more snow than last year in the Great Lakes.

In fact, The Weather Channel is predicting above average amounts in the Ohio Valley and the eastern Great Lakes.

Keeping warm

There's nothing that can ruin a winter outing quicker than cold feet. For anglers and duck hunters who spend a lot of time in wet places, a pair of neoprene socks are just the thing. They're water resistant and lightweight. The cost is under $15. They're available at most area sporting goods stores and through catalogs such as Cabela's.

The idea of crossing a leather boot and rubber boots has been around for most of the century. They have various names, depending on the maker. One of the first was developed by L.L. Bean in 1912 in an effort to help hunters keep their feet dry and comfortable.

It was a wonderful combination. Leather uppers allow the boots to dry, and the rubber bottoms keep out the water.

The boots come in various styles from shoe-like affairs to calf length. Some are lined with Gore-Tex and others are unlined. The lining makes them warmer for the colder months.

The boots, sometimes called pac-boots, are available at area sporting goods stores and via catalogue. The prices range widely. Discount stores often sell them for $20, but retailers like L.L. Bean sell them for up to $125.

The secret here is deciding what they will be used for. A sportsman or woman is going to put plenty of miles on them. Buying a good pair is worth it.

Winter walking

Even a walk in a familiar park is a different experience on a pair of snowshoes. The sport is experiencing a resurgence. Unlike cross-country or downhill skiing, men, women and children can master walking on them in a few hours. One tip from experts is to add a pair of cross country ski poles to your outfit. They're a help during a winter walk.

While sporting goods stores like the Benchmark in Farmington offer snowshoes, there's actually a factory in Michigan that produces traditional wooden ones. Iverson Snowshoe Co. is located in Shingleton in the eastern Upper Peninsula and offers various styles of shoes, plus furniture. The firm sells its wares at its factory. Just driving to the Upper Peninsula in the winter would make a great trip.

For information, contact the factory at: P.O. Box 85 FB - Maple St., Shingleton, MI 49884. The telephone number is (905) 452-6370, fax, (906) 452-6480.

'If you have to ask...'

There's an old saying that usually applies to yachts. We all know the answer: "You probably can't afford it."

But that also can apply to shotguns. Most shooters will recognize the names, Holland & Holland and Beretta. Both are makers of fine shotguns, some of which can fetch $5,000 to $10,000. If you want to get a glimpse of these wonders, the Internet can provide a view. The address is www.beretta.it

Reading material

We've all seen them. Outdoors magazines that tell us how to bag that big buck or catch the big fish. And we've seen the other ones that try to sell us every conceivable piece of equipment pushed by manufacturers.

For a refreshing view of the outdoors, pick up a copy of Gray's Sporting Journal. It's pricey, about $36 a year. However, its photo layouts and stories bring the outdoors alive in an old-fashioned, dignified manner. The stories focus on people, places and game, not just equipment. It's refreshing. Also, it publishes outdoors art and poetry. It's worth a read.

Staying dry

There's all kinds of pricy rain gear around that can cost $200 and more. It's all great stuff. But so are plastic trash bags. You can turn them into a rain parka with a few slits, and they can serve as a sleeping bag in a pinch. The cost is cheap.

Just for women

While much sporting gear can be used by either men or women, there are some items that have been redesigned for use by women. L.L. Bean has produced a catalog just for women who like to spend their time in the outdoors. Bean has used female designers and product testers to produce the gear. Bean has produced such staple gear for women as boots, backpacks and sleeping bags.

When it comes to fly fishing, the firm has also come up with waders and wading shoes that actually fit women.

Bean's toll free number is (800) 221-4221.

Web sites take all the challenge out of finding adequate gear

The information age has certainly changed the world for outdoors men and women.

With a click, you can find out about the newest type of disc brake for a mountain bike, check on the price of a snowboard or the latest fancy shotgun from Beretta. There's also a Web site for classic fly rods that can fetch up to more than $1,000.

Also, you can check on resorts, weather conditions, fishing spots, and obtain maps for hiking, backpacking or mountain biking.

To get all this information, all you have to do is press your finger on the computer, spell the word halfway right and there's a Web site.

But all new technical advances come with a dark side. When it comes to engaging in outdoor pursuits, that side is the loss of mystery.

Finding fly fishing equipment in the early 1970s was difficult. One shop I frequented was in a guy's garage, you had to call his house ahead of time to make sure he was home and would be around when you showed up.

Once there, you were ushered into the backyard, there the old guy would unlock the shed, and you could pick through the flies and other gear he had for sale. The price of the flies was worth it. He'd ask which river you were heading to and he'd set out a selection for you.

There were the inevitable conversations about the weather, fishing conditions, which flies worked best in certain conditions and access sites to rivers. Over the years, you built up a relationship with him.

Directions to fishing places were vague and often quirky. "Go down the two track till you get to the CCC pines, and make a right near the pine that was struck by lightning a couple of years ago."

That sort of thing.

One fishing companion regularly marks his spots with cigar butts. We have to get out of the truck and look for them. It begs the question: "How long does a cigar butt last on the ground in the woods?"

It's such mysterious questions that are being lost as the Internet demystifies every inch of ground and river in North America.

The Internet has even invaded the Ozark Mountains, a place in our country that's long been seen as a backwater of technical change, a place where the locals are afraid of outsiders and where good fishing places are found only through hard work.

Last spring I was doing some research on an upcoming fishing trip to the White and Red Rivers in the Arkansas Ozarks. I was just looking for the basics, the price of a fishing license, when the season started and where could I get some sort of map.

While clicking around, up popped the picture of an Ozark fishing guide, with his obligatory beard. He had his own Web site.

Fishing guides tend to be remote and often legendary figures. Getting a hold of them often involves calling a tavern some time after 10 p.m. Now here in the Ozarks is one with his own Web site.

Not only have some activities lost their mystery, but others have become bogged down with gear. Websites are usually maintained by businesses which have a commercial interest in an activity — in other words, they're trying to sell you stuff. And in many cases it's stuff you don't need.

These days it seems you need a degree in engineering to ride a bicycle in the woods, $5,000 in gear to go backpacking for a couple of days and a $10,000 boat to catch a few bass.

These ideas are being driven by corporations and delivered by Web sites. What's being lost is the knowledge obtained by experience. While we're up to our waders in data about equipment, we're losing the reason we bought the stuff in the first place, to get outside and do something.

John Muir, the 19th and early 20th century conservationist, went into the woods for days and weeks with a tea cup and loaf of bread tied to his belt and a wool blanket around his shoulders. He came back with astute observations that helped us preserve some of our natural resources.

That's the model we should have when it comes to outdoors activities. That isn't to say we can't enjoy a good, solid mountain bike, a finely made shotgun or a nice boat or canoe. All those items can help us enjoy the outdoors.

We need to remember that those things are tools we use for an outdoors experience. We're not out there just to use the stuff.

BOWLING

Prep bowling off and rolling

Tip of the Week: David Mahaz, Cloverlanes

David Mahaz is the owner of David's Right Line Pro Shop located inside Cloverlanes in Livonia.

Mahaz has competed on the Pro Bowlers Tour with most of his action on the regional basis, however he has had some success on the National PBA tour as well.

His best year on tour was 1991 when he had his first win. He got started bowling a bit late, but made up for lost time with talent and determination.

Q: When Joe Norrie was in town recently, he mentioned the lane conditions as the major factor in bowling today. How should bowlers learn to play the lane conditions?

My advice to the more serious bowler is to learn all you can about lane conditioning, subscribe to Bowling This Month magazine, talk to the local pro shop about how they oil the lanes at places that you usually bowl. The pro shop in that house could tell you more, like how often they oil, when they strip, and how much do they use from 10 to 10, the middle part of the lane. There is still a lot of guesswork when it comes to the oil. Talk to some of the better players in the league and find out where they are playing.

Q: If you watch the other bowlers and see which ones are throwing more strikes, will this tip you off as to how to make your shot?

What is more important in bowling is learning where the proper break point is. If someone is rolling good, whether a big bender or a straighter shot, it is good to know where the break point is, usually about 40 feet down the lane. This will allow you the most margin of error. In most houses, you can find the line that will get you to the break point whether it's over the second arrow or elsewhere.

Q: In the System of Bowling, they are supposed to use a light oil pattern for the first 10 boards, then double that in the middle boards all across to the other side tenth board. Do most houses do this?

Most houses try to follow that pattern for league bowling, but there are more variables, as to when they oil, and how often they strip the lanes. The condition of the wood can cause even more variances. They may usually put heavier oil on the heads to protect the wood. The ball hits at this spot and the wood has to be protected. The early oil helps provide a skid-roll-hook reaction of the ball. There is a tendency to use more oil on the outside, making it best to use the track shot.

Q: Is it good to find the oil line to make a better shot?

It is true that there is an oil line in most houses, the more you move inside, the more oil you catch, so you could typically call that an oil line. That could allow you a little more margin of error, as the ball will skid further before it breaks.

Q: As a pro shop operator, what do you recommend for the type of ball needed in today's conditions.

Most of that depends upon the individual bowler, how serious they are about the game. Most recreational bowlers would only need one or two balls, one shiny and one with a dull finish. That would handle the strike shot and spare shooting as well. The higher average bowler in the 180 to 210 range may want to have four balls for various lane conditions and a tournament bowler needs at least eight bowling balls and must understand the characteristics of each. At least one ball should have a dull finish for oilier conditions, that is the most important factor next to the weight block. Once you understand these variables you can pretty much conquer any lane conditions.

Q: In a nutshell, what is the best way to play the lanes?

Generally, you want to play the shot that you are most comfortable with. For most bowlers, that's the second arrow down-and-in shot. Some houses may require more swing from the fourth arrow to the second arrow. In today's conditions for the last two years, the straighter shot is more effective than the big hook. The people with a simple down and in game are doing the most scoring and taking home the jackpots.

TEN PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

The Western Division opened play last week at Cherry Hill Lanes and the Northern Conference started two weeks ago at Auburn Hills Lanes in Auburn Hills.

The Western Division consists of Westland John Glenn, the Dearborn area schools of St. Alphonsus High, Crestwood High, Dearborn High, Edsel Ford High and Divine Child and Detroit Mackenzie and Northwestern.

Auburn Hills Avondale, Bloomfield Hills Lahser, Milford Lakeland, Waterford Mott, Clarkston, Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes and Waterford Kettering occupy the Northern Division.

The Eastern A Division is comprised of east side schools.

The Northern Division teams began their season on December 5th. The Mott High girls team has the early lead in a 30 point scoring system with a 57-3 record.

There have been some efforts in the past to get the high schools organized for bowling as an interscholastic sport.

However, this time the Single Delivery System, Strike Ten and the combined forces are behind this movement on a nationwide level.

It is well planned and coordinated with the right people running the show. The teams are basically bowling clubs. The kids are getting well qualified coaching and will still be able to compete in other sports.

The SDS has the combined resources of ABC, WIBC, YABA and the BPAA. Their idea that kids can compete in a non contact high school sport has wide appeal to a lot of parents who look for the youth activities which will help develop sportsmanship and competitive spirit without losing their teeth.

This has been the way that bowling has been able to self-perpetuate over the years — developing youth bowlers to take over when the older bowlers move on. Now with the high schools involved, there will be more future growth as these youngsters learn the game and become more proficient at it.

As the Western Division opened at Cherry Hill Lanes last week, the Westland John Glenn team showed their skills at a higher level than the others. The John Glenn boys are Tom Howard, Ryan Hilden, Darrin Turner, Brian Stewart and David Zmiky and the girls team consists of Nicole Neal, Heather Kellogg, Becky Boysen and Brandi Howard.

The Boys team is leading the pack after the first two sessions. High scores were rolled by Howard with 246/649, Mason Brantley (Detroit Northwestern) 246/648 and Stewart 236/639. The second session had Greg Guntow of At. Alphonsus roll 268/679 and Brantley 237/603.

We are looking at the beginning of something that will have a profound effect on the bowling scene in years to come. I will be receiving regular reports from the division secretaries and will keep the readers up to date on the progress of high school bowling.
